10 They of Persia and of Lud and of *Phut were in thine army, thy men of war: they hanged the shield and helmet in thee; they set forth thy comeliness.

11 The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadims were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about; they have made 'thy beauty perfect.

12 *Tarshish was thy merchant by reason of the multitude of all kind of riches: with silver, iron, tin, and lead, they traded in thy fairs.

13 *Javan, Tubal, and Meshech, they were thy merchants: they traded 'the persons of men and vessels of brass in thy 'market.

14 They of the house of *Togarmah traded in thy fairs with horses and horsemen and mules.

15 The men of 'Dedan were thy merchants; many isles were the merchandise of thine hand: they brought thee for a present horns of ivory and ebony.

16 Syria was thy merchant by reason of the multitude of "the wares of thy making: they occupied in thy fairs with emeralds, purple, and broidered work, and fine linen, and coral, and *agate.

17 Judah, and the land of Israel, they were thy merchants: they traded in thy market 'wheat of *Minnith, and Pannag, and honey, and oil, and *balm.'

18 Damascus was thy merchant in the multitude of the wares of thy making, for the multitude of all riches: in the wine of Helbon, and white wool.

19 Dan also and Javan 'going to and fro occupied in thy fairs: bright iron, cassia, and calamus, were in thy market.

20 'Dedan was thy merchant in *precious clothes for chariots.

21 Arabia, and all the princes of *Kedar, "they occupied with thee in lambs, and rams, and goats: in these were thy merchants.

22 The merchants of *Sheba and Raamah, they were thy merchants: they occupied in thy fairs with chief of all spices, and with all precious stones, and gold.

23 'Haran, and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of *Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad, were thy merchants.

24 These were thy merchants in "all sorts of things, in blue "clothes, and broidered work, and in chests of rich apparel bound with cords, and made of cedar, among thy merchandise.

25 "The ships of Tarshish did sing of thee in thy market: and thou wast replenished, and made very glorious "in the midst of the seas.

26 Thy rowers have brought thee into great

*Or, purple and scarlet.—b 1 Kings v. 18. Ps. lxxxiii. 7.—c Or, stoppers of chinks.—d Heb. strengtheners.—e Jer. xlv. 9. Ch. xxx. 6. xxxviii. 5.—f Ver. 8.—g Gen. x. 4. 2 Chron. xx. 38.—h Gen. x. 2.—i Rev. xviii. 13.—j Or, merchandise.—k Gen. x. 3. Ch. xxxviii. 6.—l Gen. x. 7.—m Heb. thy works.—n Heb. chrysopease.—o 1 Kings v. 9, 11. Ezra iii. 7. Acts xii. 20.—p Judg. xi. 33.—q Jer. viii. 22.—r Or, bairn translates this: "Thy deck they made ivory (i.e. they inlaid with ivory), with boxes from Cyprus."

Isles of (Chittim.) The Italian islands; the islands of Greece; Cyprus.

Verse 7. Fine linen] Cotton cloth. In this sense the word is generally to be understood.

To be thy sail] Probably the flag—ensign or pennant, is meant.

Blue and purple from the Isles of Elishah] Elis, a part of the Peloponnesus.

Verse 8. Zidon and Arvad] Or Arad. Two powerful cities on the Phœnician coast, in the neighbourhood of Tyre, from which Tyre had her sailors; and the best instructed of her own inhabitants were her pilots or steersmen.

Verse 9. The ancients of Gebal] This was a city of Phœnicia, near mount Libanus, Josh. xiii. 5.

Thy calkers] Those who repaired their vessels; paying, as it is termed, pitched hemp into the seams, to prevent the water from oozing through.

To occupy thy merchandise.] That is, to be thy agents or factors.

Verse 10. They of Persia] Lud, the Lydians; Phut, a people of Africa, see Gen. x. 6.

Verse 11. The Gammadims were in thy towers] Some think these were a people of Phœnicia; others, that tutelary images are meant; others, that the word expresses strong men, who acted as guards. Probably a people inhabiting the promontories of Phœnicia are here intended; and their hanging their shields upon the walls is a proof that soldiers are meant, and persons of skill and prowess too.

Verse 12. Tarshish was thy merchant] By Tarshish some understand the Carthaginians; some think Tartessus, near the straits of Gibraltar, is meant; others, Tharsis in Cilicia. The place was famous for all the useful metals, silver, iron, tin, and lead.

Verse 13. Javan, Tubal, and Meshech] The Ionians, the Tybæriani, and the Cappadocians, or Muscovites.

rosin.—a Or, Meuzai.—b Gen. xxv. 3.—c Heb. clothes of freedom.—d Gen. xxv. 13. Isa. lx. 7.—e Heb. they were the merchants of thy hand.—f Gen. x. 7. 1 Kings x. 1, 2. Ps. lxxii. 10, 15. Isa. lx. 6.—g Gen. xl. 31. 2 Kings xix. 12.—h Gen. xxv. 3.—i Or, excellent things.—j Heb. foldings.—k Ps. xlviii. 7. Isa. ii. 18. xxxiii. 14.—l Ver. 4.

They traded the persons of men] That is, they trafficked in slaves.

Verse 14. Togarmah] The Sarmatians. Some think Cappadocia. [Armenia.]

Verse 15. The men of Dedan] Dedan was one of the descendants of Abraham by Keturah, and dwelt in Arabia, Gen. xxv. 3. Ivory and ebony might come from that quarter. By way of distinction ivory is called in Hebrew the TOOTH, as that beautiful substance is the tooth of the elephant.

Verse 16. Syria] These were always a mercantile people. For the precious stones mentioned here see the notes on Exod. xxviii. 17.

Verse 17. Judah, and the land of Israel—traded in thy market wheat] The words have been understood as articles of merchandise, not names of places. So the Jews traded with the Tyrians in wheat, stacte, balsam, honey, oil, and resin. [There was an Ammonite city called Minnith, Judges xi. 33.]

Verse 18. Damascus—wine of Helbon] Now called by the Turks Haleb, and by us Aleppo. [Helbon is not Aleppo, but a district near Damascus, still bearing its ancient name.]

White wool.] Very fine wool: wool of a fine quality. Verse 19. Dan also and Javan] It is probable that both these words mean some of the Grecian islands.

Going to and fro] They both took and brought—imported and exported: but meuzai, from usal, may be a proper name.

Verse 20. Dedan] Possibly the descendants of Dedan, son of Raamah, see Gen. x. 7.

In precious clothes for chariots.] Either fine carpets, or rich housings for horses, camels, &c., used for riding.

Verse 21. Arabia, and all the princes of Kedar] Arabia Deserta, on the confines of the Dead Sea. The Kedarenes inhabited the same country.

Verse 22. Sheba and Raamah] Inhabitants of Arabia Felix, at the entrance of the Persian Gulf, who were famous for their riches and spices.

waters: 'the east wind hath broken thee in the 'midst of the seas.

27 Thy 'riches, and thy fairs, thy merchandise, thy mariners, and thy pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandise, and all thy men of war, that are in thee, 'and in all thy company which is in the midst of thee, shall fall into the 'midst of the seas in the day of thy ruin.

28 The 'suburbs 'shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

29 And 'all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall come down from their ships, they shall stand upon the land;

30 And shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall 'cast up dust upon their heads, they 'shall wallow themselves in the ashes:

31 And they shall 'make themselves utterly bald for thee, and gird them with sackcloth, and

* Ps. xlviii. 7.—^b Heb. heart.—^c Prov. xi. 4. Ver. 34. Rev. xviii. 9, &c.—^d Or, even with all.—^e Heb. heart.—^f Or, waves.—^g Ch. xxvi. 15, 18.—^h Rev. xviii. 17, &c.—ⁱ Job ii. 12. Rev. xviii. 19.—^j Esth. iv. 1, 3. Jer. vi. 26.—^k Jer. xvi. 6. xlvii. 5. Mic. i. 16.—

Verse 23. Haran] In Mesopotamia; well known in Scripture.

Canneh] It is supposed to be a cape or port of Arabia Felix, on the Indian Sea.

Eden] Equally famous: supposed to have been situated near the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates.

Sheba] Different from that in ver. 22. This was probably near the country of the Edomites.

Ashur] Perhaps the Assyrians.

Chilmad] Possibly Cholmadora, on the Euphrates. Ptol. lib. v., cap. 15. [This is very doubtful.]

Verse 25. The ships of Tarshish] The ships of Tharsis, in Cilicia, were the chief of those which traded with thee.

they shall weep for thee with bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.

32 And in their wailing they shall 'take up a lamentation for thee, and lament over thee, saying, 'What city is like Tyrus, like the destroyed in the midst of the sea.

33 'When thy wares went forth out of the seas, thou filledst many people; thou didst enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise.

34 In the time when 'thou shalt be broken by the seas in the depths of the waters, 'thy merchandise and all thy company in the midst of thee shall fall.

35 'All the inhabitants of the isles shall be astonished at thee, and their kings shall be sore afraid, they shall be troubled in their countenance.

36 The merchants among the people 'shall hiss at thee; 'thou shalt be 'a terror, and 'never shalt be any more.

¹ Ch. xxvi. 17. Ver. 2.—² Rev. xviii. 18.—³ Rev. xviii. 19.—⁴ Ch. xxvi. 19.—⁵ Ver. 27.—⁶ Ch. xxvi. 15, 16.—⁷ Jer. xviii. 16.—⁸ Ch. xxvi. 21.—⁹ Heb. terrors.—¹⁰ Heb. shalt not be for ever.

Verse 26. Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters] Tyre is still considered under the allegory of a ship; and all the vessels of different nations trading with her are represented as towing her into deep waters—bringing her into great affluence.

Verse 27. Thy riches] This vast ship, laden with all kinds of valuable wares, and manned in the best manner, being wrecked, all her valuables, sailors, officers, &c. went to the bottom.

Verse 32. What city is like Tyrus] This, to the end of the chapter, is the lamentation.

Verse 36. Shall hiss at thee] Shareku, shall shriek for thee.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The first part of this chapter relates to a king of Tyre, probably the same who is called in the Phœnician annals Ithobalus. He seems to have been a vain man, who affected divine honours. The prophet treats his foolish pretensions with severe irony, and predicts his doom, 1-10. He then takes up a funeral dirge and lamentation over him, in which his former pomp and splendour are finely contrasted with his fall, in terms that seem frequently to allude to the fall of Lucifer from heaven (Isa. xiv.), 11-19. The overthrow of Sidon, the mother city of Tyre, is next announced, 20-23; and the chapter concludes with a promise to the Jews of deliverance from all their enemies, and particularly of their restoration from the Babylonish captivity, 24-26.

THE word of the LORD came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, say unto the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord Gon; Because thine heart is lifted up, and 'thou hast said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God, 'in the 'midst of the seas; 'yet thou art a man, and not God, though thou set thine heart as the heart of God:

3 Behold, 'thou art wiser than Daniel; there is no secret that they can hide from thee:

4 With thy wisdom and with thine understanding

* Ver. 9.—¹ Ch. xxvii. 3, 4.—² Heb. heart.—³ Isa. xxxi. 3.—⁴ Zech. ix. 2.

Verse 2. Say unto the prince of Tyrus] But who was this prince of Tyrus? Some think Hiram; some, Sin; some, the devil; others, Ithobaal, with whom the chronology and circumstances best agree.

I am a god] That is, I am absolute, independent, and accountable to none.

Verse 3. Thou art wiser than Daniel] Daniel was at this thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures:

5 'By 'thy great wisdom and by thy traffic hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches:

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord Gon; Because thou hast set thine heart as the heart of God;

7 Behold, therefore I will bring strangers upon thee, 'the terrible of the nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightness.

Heb. By the greatness of thy wisdom.—¹ Ps. lxxii. 10. Zech. ix. 3.—² Ch. xxx. 11 xxxi. 12. xxxii. 12.

time living, and was reputable for his great wisdom. This is said ironically. See chap. xiv. 14, xxvi. 1.

Verse 5. By thy great wisdom] As he got all by himself, so he believed he could keep all by himself, and had no need of any foreign help.

Verse 7. I will bring strangers upon thee] The Chal. deaus.

8 They shall bring thee down to the pit, and thou shalt die the deaths of them that are slain in the midst of the seas.

9 Wilt thou yet say before him that slayeth thee, I am God; but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hand of him that slayeth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the deaths of the uncircumcised by the hand of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

12 Son of man, Take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyrus, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God; Thou sealest up the sum, full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty.

13 Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God; every precious stone was thy covering, the sardius, topaz, and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle, and gold: the workmanship of thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art the anointed cherub that covereth: and I have set thee so: thou wast upon the holy mountain of God; thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise they have filled the midst of thee with violence, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as profane out of the mountain of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

^a Ver. 2.—^b Or, woundeth.—^c Ch. xxxi. 18, xxxii. 19, 21, 25, 27.—^d Ch. xxvii. 2.—^e Ch. xxvii. 3. Ver. 3.—^f Ch. xxxi. 8, 9.—^g Or, ruby.—^h Or, chrysolite.—ⁱ Or, chrysoprase.—^j Ch. xxvi. 13.—^k See Exod. xxv. 20. Ver. 18.—^l Ch. xx. 40.—^m Ver. 14.—ⁿ Ver. 2, 5.—^o Ch. xxvi. 21, xxvii. 38.—^p Heb. terrors.—^q Ch. vi. 2, xxv. 2, xxx. 2.—^r Isa. xxiii. 4, 12. Jer. xxv. 22, xxvii. 3. Ch. xxxii. 80.—^s Exod.

Verse 10. The deaths of the uncircumcised] Two deaths, temporal and eternal. Ithobaal was taken and killed by Nebuchadnezzar. [This note does not explain the use of the word "death."]

Verse 12. Thou sealest up] "Thou formest a portrait of thyself; and hast represented thyself the perfection of wisdom and beauty." [Literally, "Thou art the one sealing exactness."]

Verse 13. Thou hast been in Eden] This also is a strong irony.

Verse 14. Thou art the anointed cherub that covereth] The irony is continued; and here he is likened to the CHERUB that guarded the gates of Paradise, and kept the way of the tree of life; or to one of the cherubs whose wings, spread out, covered the mercy-seat.

Thou wast upon the holy mountain of God] The irony is still continued; and now he is compared to Moses, and afterwards to one of the chief angels, who has walked up and down among the stones of fire; that is, thy floors have been paved with precious stones, that shone and sparkled like fire.

Verse 16. I will cast thee as profane] Thou shalt be cast down from thine eminence.

From the midst of the stones of fire.] Some, supposing that stones of fire means the stars, have thought that the 18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctuaries by the multitude of thine iniquities, by the iniquity of thy traffick; therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, it shall devour thee, and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that know thee among the people shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt thou be any more.

20 Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesy against it.

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, O Zidon; and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall have executed judgments in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, and blood into her streets; and the wounded shall be judged in the midst of her by the sword upon her on every side; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

24 And there shall be no more a pricking brier unto the house of Israel, nor any grieving thorn of all that are round about them, that despised them; and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God; When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people among whom they are scattered, and shall be sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in their land that I have given to my servant Jacob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, and shall build houses, and plant vineyards; yea, they shall dwell with confidence, when I have executed judgments upon all those that despise them round about them; and they shall know that I am the LORD their God.

xiv. 4, 17. Ch. xxxix. 13.—¹ Ps. ix. 16.—² Ch. xx. 41, xxxvi. 23. Ver. 25.—³ Ch. xxxviii. 23.—⁴ Num. xxxiii. 55. Josh. xiii. 13.—⁵ Isa. xi. 12. Ch. xi. 17, xx. 41, xxxiv. 13, xxxvii. 21.—⁶ Ver. 22.—⁷ Jer. xliii. 6. Ch. xxxvi. 23.—⁸ Or, with confidence.—⁹ Isa. lxx. 21. Amos ix. 14.—¹⁰ Jer. xxxi. 5.—¹¹ Or, spoil.

whole refers to the fall of Satan. This is most unlikely.

Verse 19. Thou shalt be a terror] Instead of being an object of adoration thou shalt be a subject of horror, and at last be destroyed with thy city, so that nothing but thy name shall remain.

Verse 22. I am against thee, O Zidon] Sidon for a long time had possessed the empire of the sea and of all Phœnicia, and Tyre was one of its colonies; but, in process of time, the daughter became greater than the mother.

Verse 23. And the wounded] Chabal, the soldiery. All its supports shall be taken away, and its defenders destroyed. [There is no authority for this rendering of chabal.]

Verse 24. There shall be no more a pricking brier] Nothing to excite Israel to idolatry when restored from their captivity.

Verse 25. When I shall have gathered the house of Israel] In their long captivity, God had been preparing the land for them so as to make it a safe dwelling; and hence he executed judgments on all the heathen nations round about by means of the Chaldeans. Judgment first began at his own house, then proceeded to the heathen nations; and when they were brought down, then he visited and redeemed his people. Thus God's ways are proved to be all equal; partialities and caprices belong not to him.

CHAPTER XXIX.

This and the three following chapters foretell the conquest of Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar, which he accomplished in the twenty-seventh year of Jehoiachin's captivity. The same event is foretold by Jeremiah, chap. xli. 13, &c. The prophecy opens with God's charging the king of Egypt (Pharaoh-hophra) with the same extravagant pride and profanity which were in the preceding chapter laid to the charge of the prince of Tyre. He appears, like him, to have affected divine honours; and boasted so much of the strength of his kingdom, that, as an ancient historian (Herodotus) tells us, he impiously declared that God himself could not dispossess him. Wherefore the prophet, with great majesty, addresses him under the image of one of those crocodiles or monsters which inhabited that river, of whose riches and revenue he vaunted; and assures him that, with as much ease as a fisherman drags the fish he has hooked, God would drag him and his people into captivity, and that their carcasses should fall a prey to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of heaven, 1-7. The figure is then dropped; and God is introduced denouncing, in plain terms the most awful judgments against him and his nation, and declaring that the Egyptians should be subjected to the Babylonians till the fall of the Chaldean empire, 8-12. The prophet then foretells that Egypt, which was about to be devastated by the Babylonians, and many of the people carried into captivity, should again become a kingdom; but that it should never regain its ancient political importance; for, in the lapse of time, it should be even the BASEST of the kingdoms, a circumstance in the prophecy most literally fulfilled, especially under the Christian dispensation, in its government by the Mameluke slaves, 13-16. The prophecy, beginning at the seventeenth verse, is connected with the foregoing, as it relates to the same subject, though delivered about seventeen years later. Nebuchadnezzar and his army, after the long siege of Tyre, which made every head bald by constantly wearing their helmets, and wore the skin off every shoulder by carrying burdens to raise the fortifications, were disappointed of the spoil which they expected, by the retiring of the inhabitants to Carthage. God, therefore, promises him Egypt for his reward, 17-20. The chapter concludes with a prediction of the return of the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, 21.

IN the tenth year, in the tenth month, in the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, * set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and * against all Egypt:

3 Speak, and say, Thus saith the Lord God; * Behold, I am against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great * dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, * which hath said, My river is mine own, and I have made it for myself.

4 But * I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will bring thee up out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

5 And I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness, thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the * open fields; * thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: * I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field and to the fowls of the heaven.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know

* Ch. xxviii. 21.—¹ Isa. xix. 1. Jer. xxv. 19. xli. 2, 25.—² Jer. xli. 20. Ch. xxviii. 22. Ver. 10.—³ Ps. lxxiv. 13, 14. Isa. xxvii. 1. li. 9. Ch. xxiii. 2.—⁴ See ch. xxviii. 2.—⁵ Isa. xxvii. 29. Ch. xxxviii. 4.—⁶ Heb. face of the field.—⁷ Jer. viii. 2. xvi. 4. xlv. 33.—⁸ Jer. vii. 33. xxxiv. 20.—⁹ 2 Kings xviii. 21. Isa. xxxvi. 6.—¹⁰ Jer.

Verse 1. In the tenth year] Of Zedekiah; and tenth of the captivity of Jeconiah.

Verse 2. Set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt] This was Pharaoh-hophra or Pharaoh-apries, whom we have so frequently met with in the prophecies of Jeremiah, and much of whose history has been given in the notes.

Verse 3. The great dragon] Hattannim should here be translated crocodile. The original signifies any large animal.

The midst of his rivers] This refers to the several branches of the Nile, by which this river empties itself into the Mediterranean. The crocodile was the emblem of Egypt.

Verse 4. I will put hooks in thy jaws] Amasis, one of this king's generals, being proclaimed king by an insurrection of the people, dethroned Apries, and seized upon the kingdom; and Apries was obliged to flee to Upper Egypt for safety.

that I am the LORD, because they have been a * staff of reed to the house of Israel.

7 * When they took hold of thee by thy hand, thou didst break, and rend all their shoulder: and when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest, and madest all their loins to be at a stand.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will bring * a sword upon thee, and cut off man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate and waste; and they shall know that I am the LORD: because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore I am against thee, and against thy rivers, * and I will make the land of Egypt * utterly waste and desolate, * from * the tower of * Syene even unto the border of Ethiopia.

11 * No foot of man shall pass through it, nor foot of beast shall pass through it, neither shall it be inhabited forty years.

12 * And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities among the cities that are laid waste, shall xxxvii. 5, 7, 11. Ch. xvii. 17.—¹ Ch. xiv. 17. xxxii. 11, 12, 13.—² Ch. xxx. 12.—³ Heb. wastes of waste.—⁴ Or, from Migdol to Syene. Exod. xiv. 2. Jer. xli. 1.—⁵ Ch. xxx. 6.—⁶ Heb. Seveme.—⁷ Ch. xxxii. 13.—⁸ Ch. xxx. 7, 26.

I will cause the fish—to stick unto thy scales] The allusion seems to be to this: Pharaoh was the crocodile; the fish, the common people; and the sticking to his scales, the insurrection by which he was wasted and despoiled of his kingdom.

Verse 5. I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness] Referring to his being obliged to take refuge in Upper Egypt. But he was afterwards taken prisoner, and strangled by Amasis.

Verse 6. They have been a staff of reed] An inefficient and faithless ally.

Verse 10. From the tower of Syene] "From Migdol to Syene." Syene, now called Assuan, was the last city in Egypt, going towards Ethiopia.

Verse 14. Into the land of Pathros] Supposed to mean the Delta, a country included between the branches of the be desolate forty years: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 Yet thus saith the Lord God; At the *and of forty years will I gather the Egyptians from the people whither they were scattered:

14 And I will bring again the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation; and they shall be there a *base *kingdom.

15 It shall be the basest of the kingdoms; neither shall it exalt itself any more above the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule over the nations.

16 And it shall be no more *the confidence of the house of Israel, which bringeth their iniquity to remembrance, when they shall look after them: but they shall know that I am the Lord God.

17 And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year, in the first month, in the first day of the

* Isa. xix. 23. Jer. xlv. 28.—^b Or, birth.—^c Heb. low.—^d Ch. xvii. 8, 14.—^e Isa. xxx. 2, 3. xxxvi. 4, 6.—^f Jer. xxvii. 6. Ch. xxvi.

Nile; called delta, from its being in the form of the Greek letter of that name. It may mean the Pathrusim, in Upper Egypt, near to the Thebaid.

[Shall be there a base kingdom.] That is, it shall continue to be tributary. It is upwards of two thousand years since this prophecy was delivered, and it has been uninterruptedly fulfilling to the present hour.

Verse 17. The seven and twentieth year] The preceding prophecy was delivered one year before the taking of Jerusalem; this, sixteen years after; and it is supposed to be the last which this prophet wrote.

Verse 18. Caused his army to serve a great service against month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, 'Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon caused his army to serve a great service against Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every shoulder was peeled; yet had he no wages, nor his army, for Tyrus, for the service that he had served against it:

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will give the land of Egypt unto Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and he shall take her multitude, and *take her spoil, and take her prey; and it shall be the wages for his army.

20 I have given him the land of Egypt *for his labour wherewith he *served against it, because they wrought for me, saith the Lord God.

21 In that day *I will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to bud forth, and I will give thee *the opening of the mouth in the midst of them; and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7, 8.—^a Heb. spoil her spoil, and prey her prey.—^b Or, for his hire.—^c Jer. xxv. 9.—^d Ps. cxxxii. 17.—^e Ch. xxiv. 27.

Tyrus] He was thirteen years employed in the siege. In this siege his soldiers endured great hardships.

[Yet had he no wages, nor his army] The Tyrians, finding it at last impossible to defend their city, put all their wealth aboard their vessels, sailed out of the port, and escaped for Carthage; and thus Nebuchadnezzar lost all the spoil of one of the richest cities in the world.

Verse 20. I have given him the land of Egypt for his labour] Because he fulfilled the designs of God against Tyre, God promises to reward him with the spoil of Egypt.

Verse 21. Will I cause the horn of the house of Israel to bud] This may refer generally to the restoration.

CHAPTER XXX.

This chapter describes, with great force and elegance, the ruin of Egypt and all her allies by the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar, 1-11; with an amplification of the distress of the principal cities of Egypt on that occasion, 12-19. The remaining verses are a short prophecy relating to the same event, and therefore annexed to the longer one preceding, although this was predicted sooner, 20-26.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord God; *Howl ye, Woe worth the day!

3 For *the day is near, even the day of the Lord is near, a cloudy day; it shall be the time of the heathen.

4 And the sword shall come upon Egypt, and great *pain shall be in Ethiopia, when the slain shall fall in Egypt, and they *shall take away her multitude, and *her foundations shall be broken down.

5 Ethiopia, and *Libya, and Lydia, and *all the

* Isa. xlii. 6.—^b Ch. vii. 7, 12. Joel ii. 1. Zeph. i. 7.—^c Or, fear.—^d Ch. xxix. 19.—^e Jer. i. 15.—^f Heb. Phul. Ch. xxvii. 10.

Verse 2. Howl ye, Woe worth the day!] The expressions signify that a most dreadful calamity was about to fall on Egypt and the neighbouring countries, called here the "time of the heathen," or of the nations; the day of calamity to them.

Verse 5. Libya] This place is not well known. The Ludim were contiguous to Egypt, Gen. xi. 18.

Chub] The Cubians, placed by Ptolemy, in the Marcotis.

mingled people, and Chub, and the *men of the land that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the Lord; They also that uphold Egypt shall fall; and the pride of her power shall come down: *from *the tower of Syene shall they fall in it by the sword, saith the Lord God.

7 *And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shall be *destroyed.

* Jer. xxv. 20, 24.—^a Heb. children.—^b Or, from Migdol to Syene.—^c Ch. xxix. 10.—^d Ch. xxix. 12.—^e Heb. broken.

But probably instead of vechub, "and Chub," we should read vechol, "and ALL the men of the land," &c.

Verse 9. Messengers go forth from me in ships] Ships can ascend the Nile up to Syene or Essuan, by the cataracts; and when Nebuchadnezzar's vessels went up, they struck terror into the Ethiopians.

Verse 12. I will make the rivers dry] As the overflowing of the Nile was the grand cause of fertility to Egypt, the 9 In that *day shall messengers go forth from me in ships to make the careless Ethiopians afraid, and great pain shall come upon them, as in the day of Egypt: for, lo, it cometh.

10 Thus saith the Lord GOD: *I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.

11 He and his people with him, * the terrible of the nations, shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slain.

12 And *I will make the rivers * dry, and 'sell the land into the hand of the wicked: and I will make the land waste, and *all that is therein, by the hand of strangers: I the LORD have spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will also *destroy the idols, and I will cause their images to cease out of Noph; *and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt: *and I will put a fear in the land of Egypt.

14 And I will make *Pathros desolate, and will set fire in 'Zoan, *and will execute judgments in No.

15 And I will pour my fury upon *Sin, the strength off Egypt; *and I will cut off the multitude of No.

16 And I will *set fire in Egypt: Sin shall have great pain, and No shall be rent asunder, and Noph shall have distresses daily.

17 The young men of *Aven and of *Pibeseth shall fall by the sword: and these cities shall go into captivity.

18 *At Tahaphnehes also the day shall be *darkened, when I shall break there the yokes of Egypt: and the pomp of her strength shall cease in her: as for her, a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity.

19 Thus will I execute judgments in Egypt: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

20 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the first month, in the seventh day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, I have *broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and lo, *it shall not be bound up to be healed, to put a roller to bind it, to make it strong to hold the sword.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will *break his arms, the strong, and that which was broken; and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23 *And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

24 And I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and put my sword in his hand: but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he shall groan before him with the groanings of a deadly wounded man.

25 But I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down; and *they shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 *And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countries; and they shall know that I am the LORD.

* Isa. xviii. 1, 2.—* Ch. xxix. 19.—* Ch. xxviii. 7.—* Isa. xix. 5, 6.—* Heb. drought.—* Isa. xix. 4.—* Heb. the fulness thereof.—* Isa. xix. 1. Jer. xlii. 12. xli. 25. Zech. xiii. 2.—* Zech. x. 11.—* Isa. xix. 16.—* Ch. xxix. 14.—* Ps. lxxviii. 12, 43.—* Or, Tanis.—* Nah.

drying it up, or preventing that annual inundation, must be the cause of dearth, famine, &c. By rivers, we may understand the various canals cut from the Nile to carry water into the different parts of the land.

Verse 18. Their images to cease out of Noph] Afterwards Memphis, and now Cairo or Kahira. This was the seat of Egyptian idolatry; the place where Apis was particularly worshipped.

Zoan] Tanis, the ancient capital of Egypt.

Verse 14. No.] Diospolis or Thebes, the city of Jupiter.

Verse 15. My fury upon Sin] Pelusium, a strong city of Egypt, on the coast of the Mediterranean Sea.

Verse 17. Aven] Or On, the famous Heliopolis, or city of the sun.

Pibeseth] Bubastum or Bubaste, by a slight alteration of the letters. It is situated on the eastern branch of the Nile towards Arabia.

Verse 18. Tahaphnehes] Tahapanes, Jer. ii. 16. This is the Pelusian Daphne.

Break there the yokes] The sceptres. Nebuchadnezzar broke the sceptre of Egypt when he confirmed the kingdom to Amasis, who had rebelled against Apries.

Verse 21. I have broken the arm of Pharaoh] Perhaps this may refer to his defeat by Nebuchadnezzar, when he was coming with the Egyptian army to succour Jerusalem.

Verse 22. I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.] When the arm is broken, the sword will naturally fall.

Verse 26. I will scatter the Egyptians] Several fled with Apries to Upper Egypt; and when Nebuchadnezzar wasted the country, he carried many of them to Babylon.

iii. 8, 9, 10.—* Or, Pelusium.—* Jer. xli. 25.—* Ver. 8.—* Or, Heliopolis.—* Or, Pubas'um.—* Jer. ii. 16.—* Or, restrained.—* Jer. xlii. 25.—* Jer. xli. 11.—* Ps. xxxvii. 17.—* Ver. 26. Ch. xxix. 12.—* Ps. ix. 16.—* Ver. 23. Ch. xxix. 12.

CHAPTER XXXI.

This very beautiful chapter relates also to Egypt. The prophet describes to Pharaoh the fall of the king of Nineveh (see the books of Nahum, Jonah, and Zephaniah), under the image of a fair cedar of Lebanon, once exceedingly tall, flourishing, and majestic, but now cut down and withered, with its broken branches strewed around, 1-17. He then concludes with bringing the matter home to the king of Egypt, by telling him that this was a picture of his approaching fate, 18. The beautiful cedar of Lebanon, remarkable for its loftiness, and in the most flourishing condition, but afterwards cut down and deserted, gives a very lively painting of the great glory and dreadful catastrophe of both the Assyrian and Egyptian monarchies. The manner in which the prophet has embellished his subject is deeply interesting; the colouring is of that kind which the mind will always contemplate with pleasure.

AND it came to pass in the eleventh year, in the third month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude; * Whom art thou like in thy greatness?

3 Behold, the Assyrian was a cedar in Lebanon * with fair branches, and with a shadowing shroud, and of an high stature; and his top was among the thick boughs.

4 The waters * made him great, the deep * set him up on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and sent out her * little rivers unto all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore * his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches became long, because of the multitude of waters * when he shot forth.

6 All the * fowls of heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all great nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatness, in the length of his branches: for his root was by great waters.

8 The cedars in the * garden of God could not hide him: the fir trees were not like his boughs, and the chesnut trees were not like his branches; nor any tree in the garden of God was like unto him in his beauty.

9 I have made him fair by the multitude of his branches; so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Because thou hast lifted up thyself in height, and he hath shot up his top among the thick boughs, and * his heart is lifted up in his height;

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hand of the mighty one of the heathen; * he shall surely deal with him: I have driven him out for his wickedness.

* Ver. 18.—^a Dan. iv. 10.—^b Heb. fair of branches.—^c Jer. li. 36.—^d Or, nourished.—^e Or, brought him up.—^f Or, conduits.—^g Dan. iv. 11.—^h Or, when it sent them forth.—ⁱ Ch. xvii. 23. Dan. iv. 12.—^j Gen. ii. 8. xiii. 10. Ch. xxviii. 13.—^k Dan. v. 20.—^l Heb. in doing he hath do unto him.—^m Ch. xxviii. 7.—ⁿ Ch. xxxii. 5. xxxv. 8.—

Verse 3. Behold, the Assyrian was a cedar] Why the Assyrian introduced here, when the whole chapter concerns Egypt? [With the exception of the last verse the whole chapter has respect only to Assyria.]

Verse 4. The waters made him great] Waters often mean peoples. By means of the different nations under the Egyptians, that government became very opulent. These nations are represented as fowls and beasts, taking shelter under the protection of this great political Egyptian tree, ver. 6.

Verse 8. The cedars in the garden of God] Egypt was one of the most eminent and affluent of all the neighbouring nations.

Verse 11. The mighty one of the heathen] Nebuchadnezzar, who in the first year of his reign, rendered himself 12 And strangers, * the terrible of the nations, have cut him off, and have left him: * upon the mountains and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are broken by all the rivers of the land; and all the people of the earth are gone down from his shadow, and have left him.

13 Upon his ruin shall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches:

14 To the end that none of all the trees by the waters exalt themselves for their height, neither shoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither their trees * stand up in their height, all that drink water; for * they are all delivered unto death, * to the nether parts of the earth, in the midst of the children of men, with them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God; In the day when he went down to the grave I caused a mourning: I covered the deep for him, and I restrained the floods thereof, and the great waters were stayed: and I caused Lebanon * to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted for him.

16 I made the nations to * shake at the sound of his fall, when I * cast him down to hell with them that descend into the pit: and * all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, * shall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They also went down into hell with him unto them that be slain with the sword; and they that were his arm, that * dwelt under his shadow in the midst of the heathen.

18 * To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden? yet shalt thou be brought down with the trees of Eden unto the nether parts of the earth: * thou shalt lie in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

* Isa. xviii. 6. Ch. xxxii. 4.—^a Or, stand upon themselves for their height.—^b Ps. lxxxii. 7.—^c Ch. xxxii. 18.—^d Heb. to be black.—^e Ch. xvi. 16.—^f Isa. xiv. 15.—^g Isa. xiv. 8.—^h Ch. xxxii. 31.—ⁱ Lam. iv. 20.—^j Ver. 2. Ch. xxxii. 19.—^k Ch. xxviii. 10. xxxii. 19, 21, 24, &c.

master of Nineveh, the capital of the Assyrian empire.

Verse 14. To the end that none of all the trees] Pride and arrogance, either in states or individuals, have the peculiar abhorrence of God. Pride does not suit the sons of men; it made devils of angels, and makes fiends of men.

Verse 15. I caused Lebanon to mourn for him] All the confederates of Pharaoh are represented as deploring his fall, ver. 16, 17.

Verse 17. They also went down into hell with him] Into remediless destruction.

Verse 18. This is Pharaoh] All that I have spoken in this allegory of the lofty cedar refers to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, his princes, confederates, and people. [See additional note on ver. 3.]

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Prophet goes on to predict the fall of the king of Egypt, under the figure of an animal of prey, such as a lion or crocodile, caught, slain, and his carcase left a prey to the fowls and wild beasts, 1-6. The figure is then changed; and the greatness of his fall (described by the darkening of the sun, moon, and stars) strikes terror into all the surrounding nations, 7-10. The prophet adds, that the overthrow of the then reigning Egyptian dynasty was to be effected by the instrumentality of the king of Babylon, who should leave Egypt so desolate that its waters (alluding to the metaphor used in the second verse) should run as pure and smooth as oil, without the foot of a man or the hoof of a beast to disturb them, 11-16. A beautiful, nervous, and concise description of a land ruined and left utterly desolate. In the remaining part of the chapter the same event is portrayed by one of the boldest figures ever attempted in any composition, and which at the same time is executed with astonishing perspicuity and force. God is introduced ordering a place in the lower regions for the king of Egypt and his host, 17, 18. The prophet delivers his message, pronounces their fate, and commands those who buried the slain to drag him and his multitudes to the subterraneous mansions, 19, 20. At the tumult and commotion which this mighty work occasions, the infernal shades are represented as roused from their couches to learn the cause. They see and congratulate the king of Egypt on his arrival among them, 21. Pharaoh being now introduced into this immense subterraneous cavern (see the fourteenth chapter of Isaiah, where a similar imagery is employed), the prophet leads him all around the sides of the pit; shows him the gloomy mansions of former tyrants; tells their names as he goes along; beautifully contrasts their former pomp and destructive ambition, when they were a terror to the surrounding states, with their present most abject and helpless condition; declares that all these oppressors of mankind have not only been cut off out of the land of the living, but have gone down into the grave uncircumcised, that is, they have died in their sins, and therefore shall have no resurrection to eternal life; and concludes with showing Pharaoh the place destined for him in the midst of the uncircumcised, and of them that have been slain by the sword, 22-32. This prophetic ode may be considered as a finished model in that species of writing which is appropriated to the exciting of terror. The imagery throughout is sublime and terrible; and no reader of sensibility and taste can accompany the prophet in this funeral procession, and visit the mansions of Hades, without being impressed with a degree of awe nearly approaching to horror.

AND it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, * take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say unto him, * Thou art like a young lion of the nations, * and thou art as a * whale in the seas: and thou camest forth with thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and * foulestst their rivers:

3 Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will therefore spread out my net over thee with a company of many people; and they shall bring thee up in my net.

4 Then * will I leave thee upon the land, I will cast thee forth upon the open field, and * will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill the beasts of the whole earth with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh * upon the mountains, and fill the valleys with thy height.

6 I will also water with thy blood * the land wherein thou swimmest, even to the mountains; and the rivers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall * put thee out, * I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light.

8 All the * bright lights of heaven will I make * dark over thee, and set darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord GOD.

* Ch. xxvii. 2. Ver. 16.—* Ch. xix. 3, 6. xxviii. 13.—* Ch. xxix. 8.—* Or, dragon.—* Ch. xxix. 18.—* Ch. xii. 13. xvii. 20. Hos. vii. 12.—* Ch. xxix. 5.—* Ch. xxxi. 13.—* Ch. xxxi. 12.—* Or, the land of thy swimming.—* Or, extinguish.—1 Isa. xlii. 10. Joel ii. 31. iii. 15. Amos viii. 9. Rev. vi. 12, 13. Matt. xxiv. 29.—* Heb. light of the Verse 2. Thou art like a young lion—and thou art as a whale in the seas] Thou mayest be likened to two of the fiercest animals in the creation; to a lion, the fiercest on the land; to a crocodile, tannim (see chap. xxix. 3), the fiercest in the waters.

Verse 5. And fill the valleys with thy height.] Some translate, with the worms, which should proceed from the putrefaction of his flesh. ["With thy hugeness."]

Verse 6. The land wherein thou swimmest] Egypt; so called, because intersected with canals, and overflowed annually by the Nile.

Verse 7. I will cover the heaven] Destroy the empire. Make the stars thereof dark] Overwhelm all the dependent states.

9 I will also * vex the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, into the countries which thou hast not known.

10 Yea, I will make many people * amazed at thee, and their king shall be horribly afraid for thee, when I shall brandish my sword before them; and * they shall tremble at every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of thy fall.

11 * For thus saith the Lord GOD; The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mighty will I cause thy multitude to fall, * the terrible of the nations, all of them: and * they shall spoil the pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be destroyed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from beside the great waters; * neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make their waters deep, and cause their rivers to run like oil, saith the Lord GOD.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate, and the country shall be * destitute of that whereof it was full, when I shall smite all them that dwell therein, * then shall they know that I am the LORD.

16 This is the * lamentation wherewith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for her, even for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord GOD.

light in heaven.—* Heb. them dark.—* Heb. provoke to anger, or grief.—* Ch. xxvii. 26.—* Ch. xxvi. 16.—* Jer. xli. 26. Ch. xxx. 4.—* Ch. xxviii. 7.—* Ch. xxix. 19.—* Ch. xxix. 11.—* Heb. desolate from the fulness thereof.—* Exod. vii. 6. xiv. 4, 18. 1's. ix. 18. Ch. vi. 7.—* Ver. 2. 2 Sam. i. 17. 2 Chron. xxxv. 25. Ch. xxvi. 17.—

I will cover the sun] The king himself. And the moon shall not give her light.] The queen may be meant, or some state less than the kingdom.

Verse 8. And set darkness upon thy land] I will involve thee, and thy house, and thy people, and the whole land, in desolation and woe.

Verse 9. I will also vex the hearts] Even the remote nations, who had no connexion with thee, shall be amazed at the judgments which have fallen upon thee.

Verse 14. Cause their rivers to run like oil] Bring the whole state into quietness.

Verse 15. Shall be destitute of that whereof it was full] Of corn, and all other necessities of life.

17 It came to pass also in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

18 Son of man, wail for the multitude of Egypt, and * cast them down, even her, and the daughters of the famous nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 ^b Whom dost thou pass in beauty? * go down, and be thou laid with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the midst of them that are slain by the sword: * she is delivered to the sword: draw her and all her multitudes.

21 * The strong among the mighty shall speak to him out of the midst of hell with them that help him: they are 'gone down, they lie uncircumcised, slain by the sword.

22 * Asshur is there and all her company: his graves are about him: all of them slain, fallen by the sword:

23 * Whose graves are set in the sides of the pit, and her company is round about her grave: all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which 'caused 'terror in the land of the living.

24 There is * Elam and all her multitude round about her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, which are 'gone down uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth, * which caused their terror in the land of the living; yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit.

25 They have set her a bed in the midst of the slain with all her multitude: her graves are round about him: all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword: though their terror was caused in the land of the living, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit: he is put in the midst of them that be slain.

26 There is * Meshech, Tubal, and all her multitude: her graves are round about him: all of them * uncircumcised, slain by the sword, though they caused their terror in the land of the living.

27 * And they shall not lie with the mighty that are fallen of the uncircumcised, which are gone down to hell * with their weapons of war: and they have laid their swords under their heads, but their iniquities shall be upon their bones, though they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised, and shalt lie with them that are slain with the sword.

29 There is * Edom, her kings, and all her princes, which with their might are * laid by them that were slain by the sword: they shall lie with the uncircumcised, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 * There be the princes of the north, all of them, and all the * Zidonians which are gone down with the slain; with their terror they are ashamed of their might; and they lie uncircumcised with them that be slain by the sword, and bear their shame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and shall be * comforted over all his multitude, even Pharaoh and all his army slain by the sword, saith the Lord God.

32 For I have caused my terror in the land of the living: and he shall be laid in the midst of the uncircumcised with them that are slain with the sword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

* Ch. xxvi. 20. xxxi. 14. — Ch. xxxi. 2, 18. — Ver. 21, 24, &c. Ch. xxviii. 10. — ^d Or, the sword is laid. — ^e Isa. i. 31. xiv. 9, 10. Ver. 27. — Ver. 19, 25, &c. — Ver. 24, 26, 29, 30. — ^b Isa. xiv. 15. — Ch. xxvi. 17, 20. Ver. 24, 25, 26, 27, 32. — ^c Or, dismayed. — Jer. xlix. 34, Verse 18. Cast them down] Show them that they shall be cast down.

Verse 21. Out of the midst of hell] Sheol, the catacombs, the place of burial.

Verse 22. Asshur is there] The mightiest conquerors of the earth have gone down to the grave before thee; there they and their soldiers lie together, all slain by the sword.

Verse 23. Whose graves are set in the sides of the pit] Alluding to the niches in the sides of the subterranean caves or burying-places, where the bodies are laid. [Or the extremities of the pit, its lowest graves.]

Verse 24. There is Elam] The Elamites, not far from the Assyrians; others think that Persia is meant. ^h was invaded by the joint forces of Cyaxares and Nebuchadnezzar.

Verse 27. Gone down to hell with their weapons of war]

&c. — ⁱ Ver. 21. — Ver. 23. — Gen. x. 2. Ch. xxvii. 13. xxxviii. 2. — * Ver. 19, 20, &c. — Ver. 21. Isa. xiv. 18, 19. — ^a Heb. with weapons of their war. — Ch. xxv. 12. &c. — ^a Heb. given, or put. — Ch. xxxviii. 6, 15. xxxix. 2. — Ch. xxviii. 21. — Ch. xxxi. 16.

Are buried in their armour, and with their weapons lying by their sides.

Verse 29. There is Edom] All the glory and pomp of the Idumean kings, who also helped to oppress the Israelites, are gone down into the grave.

Verse 30. There be the princes of the north] The kings of Media and Assyria, and all the Zidonians—the kings of Tyre, Sidon, and Damascus.

Verse 31. Pharaoh shall see them] Pharaoh also, who said he was a god, shall be found among the vulgar dead.

And shall be comforted] Shall console himself, on finding that all other proud boasters are in the same circumstances with himself.

Verse 32. I have caused my terror in the land of the living] I have spread dismay through Judea, the land of the living God, where the living oracles were delivered, and where the upright live by faith.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The prophet, after having addressed several other nations, returns now to his own; previously to which he is told, as on a former occasion, the duty of a watchman, the salvation or ruin of whose soul depends on the manner in which he discharges it. An awful passage indeed; full of important instruction both to such as speak, and to such as hear, the word of God, 1-9. The prophet is then directed what answer to make to the cavils of infidelity and impiety; and to vindicate the equity of the divine government by declaring the general terms of acceptance with God to be (as told before, chap. xviii.) without respect of persons; so that the ruin of the finally impenitent must be entirely owing to themselves, 10-20. The prophet receives the news of the destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans, about a year and four months after it happened, according to the opinion of some, who have been led to this conjecture by the date given to this prophecy in the twenty-first verse, as it stands in our common Version: but some of the manuscripts of this prophet consulted by Dr. Kennicott have in this place the ELEVENTH year, which is probably the genuine reading. To check the vain confidence of those who expected to hold out by possessing themselves of its other fastnesses, the utter desolation of all Judea is foretold, 21-29. Ezekiel is informed that among those that attended his instructions were a great number of hypocrites, against whom he delivers a most awful message. When the Lord is destroying these hypocrites, then shall they know that there hath been a prophet among them, 30-33.

Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, speak ^ato the children of thy people, and say unto them, ^bWhen ^cI bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man of their coasts, and set him for their ^dwatchman:

3 If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warn the people;

4 Then ^ewhosoever heareth the sound of the trumpet and taketh not warning, if the sword come, and take him away, ^fhis blood shall be upon his own head.

5 He heard the sound of the trumpet, and took not warning; his blood shall be upon him. But he that taketh warning shall deliver his soul.

6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take ^gany person from among them, ^hhe is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 ⁱSo thou, O son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth, and warn them from me.

8 When I say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt surely die; if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he do not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Therefore, O thou son of man, speak unto the house of Israel; Thus ye speak, saying, If our transgressions and our sins be upon us, and we ^jpine away in them, ^khow should we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, ^lI have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for ^mwhy will ye die, O house of Israel?

12 Therefore, thou son of man, say unto the children of thy people, ⁿThe righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression: as for the wickedness of the wicked, ^ohe shall not fall thereby in the day that he turneth from his wickedness; neither shall the righteous be able to live for his ^prighteousness in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say to the righteous, that he shall surely live; ^qif he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousnesses shall not be remembered; but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for it.

14 Again, ^rwhen I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; if he turn from his sin, and do ^sthat which is lawful and right;

15 If the wicked ^trestore the pledge, ^ugive again that he had robbed, walk in ^vthe statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die.

16 ^wNone of his sins that he hath committed shall be mentioned unto him: he hath done that which is lawful and right; he shall surely live.

17 ^xYet the children of thy people say, The way of the LORD is not equal: but as for them, their way is not equal.

18 ^yWhen the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

20 Yet ye say, ^zThe way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.

21 And it came to pass in the twelfth year ^{aa}of our captivity, in the tenth month, in the fifth day of the month, ^{ab}that one that had escaped out of Jerusalem came unto me, saying, ^{ac}The city is smitten.

22 Now ^{ad}the hand of the LORD was upon me in the evening, afore he that was escaped came; and had opened my mouth, until he came to me in the morning; ^{ae}and my mouth was opened, and I was no more dumb.

23 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, ^{af}they that inhabit those ^{ag}wastes of the land of Israel speak, saying, ^{ah}"Abraham was one, and he inherited the land: ^{ai}"but we are many; the land is given us for inheritance.

25 Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord

^{aj}Ch. xviii. 7.—^{ak}Exod. xxii. 1, 4. Lev. vi. 2, 4, 5. Num. v. 6, 7. Luke xix. 8.—^{al}Lev. xviii. 5. Ch. xx. 11, 13, 24.—^{am}Ch. xviii. 22.—^{an}Ver. 20. Ch. xviii. 25, 29.—^{ao}Ch. xviii. 26, 27.—^{ap}Ver. 17. Ch. i. xviii. 25, 29.—^{aq}Ch. i. 2.—^{ar}Ch. xxiv. 26.—^{as}2 Kings xxv. 4.—^{at}Ch. i. 3.—^{au}Ch. xxiv. 2.—^{av}Ch. xxiv. 2.—^{aw}Ver. 27. Ch. xxxvi. 4.—^{ax}Isa. li. 2. Acts vii. 6.—^{ay}See Mic. iii. 11. Matt. iii. 9. John viii. 33.

Came unto me, saying, THE CITY IS SMITTEN.] This very message God had promised to the prophet, chap. xxiv. 26.

Verse 22. My mouth was opened.] They had now the fullest evidence that I had spoken from the Lord. I therefore spoke freely and fully what God delivered to me, chap. xxiv. 27.

Verse 24. Abraham was ^{ba}one.] If he was called to inherit the land when he was alone, and had the whole to himself, why may we not expect to be established here, who are his posterity, and are many?

Verse 25. Ye eat with the blood.] Eating of blood, in any way dressed, or of flesh from which the blood had not been extracted, was, and is in the sight of God, abominable. All

^aCh. iii. 11.—^bCh. xiv. 17.—^cHeb. A land when I bring a sword upon her.—^d2 Sam. xviii. 24, 25. 2 Kings ix. 17. Ver. 7. Hos. ix. 8.—^eHeb. he that hearing heareth.—^fCh. xviii. 13.—^gVer. 8.—^hCh. iii. 17, &c.—ⁱCh. xxiv. 23.—^jSo Isa. xlix. 14. Ch. xxxvii. 11.—^k2 Sam. xiv. 14. Ch. xviii. 23, 32. 2 Pet. iii. 9.—^lCh. xviii. 31.—^mCh. iii. 20. xviii. 24, 26, 27.—ⁿ2 Chron. vii. 14.—^oCh. iii. 20. xviii. 24.—^pCh. iii. 18, 19. xviii. 27.—^qHeb. judgment and justice.—

Verse 2. Son of man—if the people of the land take a man.] The first ten verses of this chapter are the same with chap. iii. 17-22; and to what is said there on this most important and awful subject I must refer the reader. Here the PEOPLE choose the watchman; there, the Lord appoints him. When God chooses, the people should approve.

Verse 10. If our transgressions and our sins be upon us.] They are upon us, as a grievous burden, too weighty for us to bear: how then can we live under such a load?

Verse 19. He shall live thereby.] "The wages of sin is death," the "gift of God is eternal life."

Verse 21. One that had escaped out of Jerusalem.] After it had been taken by the Chaldeans.

God; *Ye eat with the blood, and ^blift up your eyes towards your idols, and ^cshed blood: and shall ye possess the land?

26 *Ye stand upon your sword, ye work abomination, and ye ^cdefile every one his neighbour's wife: and shall ye possess the land?

27 Say thou thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; As I live, surely ^cthey that are in the wastes shall fall by the sword, and him that is in the open field ^cwill I give to the beasts ^bto be devoured, and they that be in the forts and ^cin the caves shall die of the pestilence.

28 ^cFor I will lay the land ^bmost desolate, and the ^cpomp of her strength shall cease; and the ^cmountains of Israel shall be desolate, that none shall pass through.

29 Then shall they know that I am the LORD, when I have laid the land most desolate because of all their abominations which they have committed.

*Gen. ix. 4. Lev. iii. 17. vii. 26. xvii. 10. xix. 26. Deut. xii. 16.—Ch. xviii. 6.—Ch. xxii. 6, 9.—Wisd. ii. 11.—Ch. xviii. 6. xxii. 11.—Ver. 24.—Ch. xxxix. 4.—^bHeb. to devour him.—Judg. vi. 2. 1 Sam. xiii. 6.—Jer. xlv. 2, 6, 22. Ch. xxxvi. 34, 35.—^cHeb. desolation and desolation.—Ch. vii. 24. xxiv. 21. xxx. 8, 7.

such practices he has absolutely and for ever forbidden. Verse 26. Ye stand upon your sword] Ye live by plunder rapine, and murder. Ye are every way impure; and shall ye possess the land? No.

Verse 27. They that are in the wastes] He seems to speak of those Jews who had fled to rocks, caves, and fortresses, in the mountains; whose death he predicts, partly by the sword, partly by wild beasts, and partly by famine.

Verse 30. The people still are talking against thee] Each should be rather translated, "concerning thee," than 30 Also, thou son of man, the children of thy people still are talking ^cagainst thee by the walls and in the doors of the houses, and ^cspeak one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh forth from the LORD.

31 And ^cthey come unto thee ^cas the people cometh, and ^cthey ^csit before thee as my people, and they hear thy words, but they will not do them: for ^cwith their mouth ^cthey show much love, but ^ctheir heart goeth after their covetousness.

32 And, lo, thou art unto them as ^ca very lovely song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can play well on an instrument: for they hear thy words, but they do them not.

33 *And when this cometh to pass, (lo, it will come,) then ^cshall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

—^cCh. vi. 2, 3, 6.—^bOr, of thee.—^cIsa. xxix. 13.—^cCh. xiv. 1. xx. 1, &c.—^bHeb. according to the coming of the people.—^cOr, my people set before thee.—^cCh. viii. 1.—^cIsa. lxxviii. 86, 87. Isa. xxix. 13.—^cHeb. they make loves, or jests.—^cMatt. xli. 22.—^cHeb. a song of joes.—^c1 Sam. iii. 20.—^cCh. ii. 5.

"against thee;" for the following verses show that the prophet was much respected.

Verse 31. As the people cometh] As they are accustomed to come on public days, sabbaths, &c.

With their mouth they show much love] They respected the prophet, but would not bond themselves to follow his precepts.

Verse 32. As a very lovely song] They admired the fine voice and correct delivery of the prophet; this was their religion, and this is the whole of the religion of thousands.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The prophet is commanded to declare the dreadful judgments of God against the covetous shepherds of Israel who feed themselves, and not their flocks; by which emblem the priests and Levites are intended, who in Ezekiel's time were very corrupt, and the chief cause of Israel's apostacy and ruin, 1-10. From this gloomy subject the prophet passes to the blessedness of the true Israel of God under the reign of DAVID, the Great Shepherd of the sheep, our Lord Jesus Christ being named after this prince by a figure exceedingly frequent in the sacred oracles, of putting the type for the antitype, 11-31.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesy against the ^cshepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, ^bWoe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks?

3 *Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, ^cye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock.

*Ch. xxxiii. 24.—Jer. xxiii. 1. Zech. xi. 17.—Isa. lvi. 11. Zech. xi. 16.—Ch. xxxiii. 25, 26. Mic. iii. 1, 2, 3. Zech. xi. 6.—^cVer. 16. Zech. xi. 16.—^cLuke xv. 4.—^c1 Pet. v. 3.—^cCh. xxxiii.

Verse 2. Prophesy against the shepherds of Israel] The shepherds include, first, the priests and Levites; secondly, the kings, princes, and magistrates. The flock means the whole of the people. The fat and the wool, the tithes and offerings, the taxes and imposts.

Verse 3. Ye eat the fat] I think hacheleb should be translated the milk; and so most of the Versions understand it.

Verse 4. The diseased have ye not strengthened] No person is fit for the office of a shepherd, who does not well understand the diseases to which sheep are incident, and 4 *The diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed that which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye ^csought that which was lost; but with ^cforce and with cruelty have ye ruled them.

5 ^bAnd they were ^cscattered, ^cbecause there is no shepherd: ^cand they became meat to all the beasts of the field, when they were scattered.

6 My sheep wandered through all the mountains,

21, 28.—^c1 Kings xxii. 17. Matt. ix. 36.—^cOr, without a shepherd, And so ver. 8.—^cIsa. lvi. 9. Jer. xii. 9. Ver. 8.

the mode of cure. And is any man fit for the pastoral office, who is not well acquainted with the disease of sin in all its varieties, and the remedy for this disease, and the proper mode of administering it in those various cases?

Neither have ye brought again] A proper shepherd loves his sheep: he feels interested for their welfare; he acquaints himself with them all, so that he knows and can distinguish each. He knows also their number, and frequently counts to see that none is missing; if one be lost or strayed, he goes immediately and seeks it; and as he is constantly on the and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them.

7 Therefore, ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD;

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock became a prey, and my flock became meat to every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, neither did my shepherds search for my flock, but the shepherds fed themselves, and fed not my flock;

9 Therefore, O ye shepherds, hear the word of the LORD;

10 Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against the shepherds; and I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock; neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more: for I will deliver my flock from their mouth, that they may not be meat for them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out.

12 As a shepherd seeketh out his flock in the day that he is among his sheep that are scattered: so will I seek out my sheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Israel by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel.

15 I will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, saith the Lord God.

* Ver. 5, 6.—* Ver. 2, 10.—* Ch. iii. 18. Heb. xlii. 17.—* Ver. 2, 8.—* Heb. According to the seeking.—* Ch. xxx. 3. Joel ii. 2.—* Isa. lxi. 10. Jer. xlii. 8. Ch. xxviii. 26. xxxvi. 24. xxxvii. 21, 22.—* Ps. xxiii. 2.—* Jer. xxxiii. 12.—* See ver. 4. Isa. xl. 11. Mic. iv. 6. Matt. xviii. 11. Mark ii. 17. Luke v. 82.—* Isa. x. 16. Amos iv. 1.—* Jer. x. 24.—* Ch. xx. 37, 38. Ver. 20, 22. Zech. x. 8. Matt. xxv. 32, 33.—* Heb. small cattle of lambs and kids.—* Heb.

watch, it cannot have strayed far before he is apprised of its absence from the flock; and the less it has strayed, the sooner it is found and brought back to the fold.

But with force and with cruelty] Exacting tithes and dues by the strong arm of the law, with the most ungodly feelings; and with a cruelty of disposition that proved it was the fat and the wool they sought, and not the safety or comfort of the flock.

Verse 5. And they were scattered] There was no discipline kept up; and the flock—the church—became disorganized and separated from each other, both in affection and fellowship.

Verse 6. My sheep wandered through all the mountains] They all became idolaters, and lost the knowledge of the true God. And could it be otherwise while they had such pastors?

Verse 18. I will—feed them upon the mountains] This, and some of the following promises, belong to the Christian Church, as we shall find below.

Verse 16. I will destroy the fat and the strong] I will destroy those cruel and imperious shepherds who abuse their authority, and tyrannise over the flock.

Verse 17. And as for you, O my flock] After having spoken to the shepherds, he now addresses the flock.

I judge between cattle and cattle] Between false and true professors; between them that have only the form, and them that have the power of godliness; between the backslider in heart and the upright man.

Verse 18. Have eaten up the good pasture] Arrogate to 16 I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will strengthen that which was sick: but I will destroy the fat and the strong; I will feed them with judgment.

17 And as for you, O my flock, thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I judge between cattle and cattle, between the rams and the he-goats.

18 Seemeth it a small thing unto you to have eaten up the good pasture, but ye must tread down with your feet the residue of your pastures? and to have drunk of the deep waters, but ye must foul the residue with your feet?

19 And as for my flock, they eat that which ye have trodden with your feet; and they drink that which ye have fouled with your feet.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God unto them; Behold, I, even I, will judge between the fat cattle and between the lean cattle.

21 Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the diseased with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad;

22 Therefore will I save my flock, and they shall no more be a prey; and I will judge between cattle and cattle.

23 And I will set up one Shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, even my servant David; he shall feed them, and he shall be their Shepherd.

24 And I the LORD will be their God, and my servant David a Prince among them; I the LORD have spoken it.

25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and I will cause the evil beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall dwell safely in the wilderness, and sleep in the woods.

26 And I will make them and the places round about my hill a blessing: and I will cause the shower to come down in his season: there shall be showers of blessing.

great he goats.—* Ver. 17.—* Ver. 17.—* Isa. xl. 11. Jer. xlii. 4, 5. John x. 11. Heb. xlii. 20. 1 Pet. ii. 25. v. 4.—* Jer. xxx. 9. Ch. xxxvii. 24, 25. Hos. iii. 5.—* Ver. 30. Exod. xxix. 45. Ch. xxxvii. 27.—* Ch. xxxvii. 22. Luke i. 82, 83.—* Ch. xxxvii. 28.—* Lev. xvi. 6. Isa. xl. 6-9. xxxv. 9. Hos. ii. 18.—* Ver. 28. Jer. xlii. 6.—* Isa. lvi. 7. Ch. xx. 40.—* Gen. xii. 2. Isa. xix. 24. Zech. viii. 13.—* Lev. xxvi. 4.—* Ps. lxxviii. 9. Mal. iii. 10.

yourselves all the promises of God, and will hardly permit the simple believer to claim or possess any token of God's favour.

Ye must foul the residue with your feet? Ye abuse God's mercies; you consume much upon yourselves, and ye spoil more, on which the poor would have been glad to feed.

Verse 20. I will judge between the fat cattle and between the lean cattle.] Between the rich and the poor; those who fare sumptuously every day and those who have not the necessities of life.

Verse 23. I will set up one Shepherd—my servant David] DAVID, king of Israel, had been dead upwards of four hundred years; and from that time till now there never was a ruler of any kind, either in the Jewish church or state, of the name of David. This, then, must be some typical person; we understand that Jesus Christ alone is meant, as both Old and New Testaments agree in this. And from this one Shepherd all Christian ministers must derive their authority to teach, and their grace to teach effectually.

Verse 24. I the Lord will be their God, and my servant David a Prince] Here we find God and his Christ are all in all in his church, and Jesus is still PRINCE among them; and to him the call and qualifications of all genuine pastors belong, and from him they must be derived. And he has blotted out what is called uninterrupted succession, that every Christian minister may seek and receive credentials from himself.

Verse 25. I will make with them a covenant of peace]

27 And ^athe tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase, and they shall be safe in their land, and shall know that I am the LORD, when I have ^bbroken the bands of their yoke, and delivered them out of the hand of those that ^cserved themselves of them.

28 And they shall no more ^abe a prey to the heathen, neither shall the beast of the land devour them; but ^athey shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

^a Lev. xxvi. 4. Ps. lxxxv. 12. Isa. lv. 2.—^b Lev. xxvi. 13. Jer. ii. 20.—^c Jer. xxv. 14.—^d See ver. 8. Ch. xxxvi. 4.—^e Ver. 25. Jer. xxx. 10. xlii. 27.—^f Isa. xi. 1. Jer. xxiii. 5.—^g Or, for renown.—

"And I will cut with them the peace covenant;" that is, a covenant sacrifice, procuring and establishing peace between God and man, and between man and his fellows.

And will cause the evil beasts to cease] These false and ravenous pastors. Christ purges them out of his church, and destroys that power by which they lorded it over God's heritage.

Verse 26. The shower to come down] The Holy Spirit's influence.

There shall be showers of blessing.] Light, life, joy, peace, and power shall be manifest in all the assemblies of Christ's people.

Verse 29. I will raise up—a plant of renown] Matta

29 And I will raise up for them a 'plant of 'renown, and they shall be no more ^bconsumed with hunger in the land, ^cneither bear the shame of the heathen any more.

30 Thus shall they know that 'I the LORD their God am with them, and that they, even the house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord God.

31 And ye my ^bflock, the flock of my pasture, are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord God.

^a Heb. taken away.—^b Ch. xxxvi. 3, 6, 15.—^c Ver. 24. Ch. xxxvii. 27.—^d Ps. c. 3. John x. 11.

leshem, "a plantation to the name;" to the name of CHRIST. A Christian church composed of men who are Christians, who have the spirit of Christ in them, and do not bear his name in vain. I believe the words might be applied to the Christian church; but that Christ may be called a plant or plantation here—as he is elsewhere called a branch and a rod, Isa. iv. 2, xi. 1; so Jer. xxiii. 5, xxxv. 15—is most probable. [Or "a plantation for a name," a flourishing and prosperous condition.]

They shall be no more consumed with hunger] For this glorious plant of name is the Bread of life; and that is broken in all the assemblies of his people where his name is properly proclaimed.

CHAPTER XXXV.

The prophet having formerly predicted the ruin of Edom, the same with Seir (chap. xxv. 12), now resumes and pursues the subject at greater length, intimating, as did also Isaiah (chap. xxi. 11, 12), that though other nations should recover their liberty after the fall of the Babylonian monarchy, the Edomites should continue in bondage for their very despiteful behaviour towards the children of Israel in the day of their calamity, 1-15.

MOREOVER the word of the LORD come unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, ^aset thy face against Mount Seir, and ^cprophesy against it.

3 And say unto it, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, O Mount Seir, I am against thee, and ^aI will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee ^cmost desolate.

4 'I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

5 'Because thou hast had a ^bperpetual hatred, and hast ^bshed the blood of the children of Israel, by the ^bforce of the sword in the time of their calamity, ^bin the time that their iniquity had an end:

6 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: ^bsith thou hast not hated blood, even blood shall pursue thee.

7 Thus will I make Mount Seir ^cmost desolate, and cut off from it ^chim that passeth out and him that returneth.

8 'And I will fill his mountains with his slain men: in thy hills, and in thy valleys, and in all thy rivers, shall they fall that are slain with the sword.

9 'I will make thee perpetual desolations, and thy cities shall not return: ^cand ye shall know that I am the LORD.

10 Because thou hast said, These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will ^cpossess it; ^cwhereas 'the LORD was there:

11 Therefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, I

^a Ch. vi. 2.—^b Deut. ii. 5.—^c Jer. xlix. 7, 8. Ch. xxv. 12. Amos i. 11. Obad. 10, &c.—^d Ch. vi. 14.—^e Heb. desolation and desolation. So ver. 7.—^f Ver. 9.—^g Ch. xxv. 12. Obad. 10.—^h Or, hatred of old. Ch. xxv. 15.—ⁱ Heb. poured out the children.—^j Heb. hands.—^k Ps. cxxxvii. 7. Ch. xxi. 25, 29. Dan. ix. 24. Obad. 11.—^l Ps. cix. 17.

Verse 2. Set thy face against Mount Seir] That is, against the Edomites. This prophecy was probably delivered about the time of the preceding, and before the destruction of Idumea by Nebuchadnezzar, which took place about five years after.

Verse 3. Most desolate.] Literally, "A desolation and a wilderness."

Verse 5. A perpetual hatred] The Edomites were the descendants of Esau; the Israelites, the descendants of Jacob. Both these were brothers; and between them there was contention even in the womb, and they lived generally in a state of enmity. Their descendants kept up the ancient —^a Heb. desolation and desolation. Ver. 3.—^b Judg. v. 6. Ch. xxix. 11.—^c Ch. xxxi. 12. xxxii. 5.—^d Jer. xlix. 17, 18. Ver. 4. Ch. xxv. 13. Mal. i. 3, 4.—^e Ch. vi. 7, vii. 4, 9. xxxvi. 11.—^f Ps. lxxxiii. 4, 12. Ch. xxxvi. 5. Obad. 13.—^g Or, though the LORD was there.—^h Ps. xlviii. 1, 3. cxxxii. 13, 14. Ch. xlviii. 35.

feud: but the Edomites were implacable; they had not only a rooted but perpetual enmity to the Israelites, harassing and distressing them by all possible means; and they seized the opportunity, when the Israelites were most harassed by other enemies, to make inroads upon them, and cut them off wherever they found them.

Verse 6. Blood shall pursue thee] Thou lovest blood, and thou shalt have blood. [The passage is very obscure: the authorised version fails to convey its meaning.]

Verse 9. Perpetual desolations] Thou shalt have perpetual desolation for thy perpetual hatred.

Verse 10. These two nations] Israel and Judah.

will even do, *according to thine anger, and according to thine envy which thou hast used out of thy hatred against them; and I will make myself known among them, when I have judged thee.

12 ^b And thou shalt know that I am the LORD, and that I have heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, They are laid desolate, they are given us *to consume.

13 Thus ^d with your mouth ye have *boasted

*Matt. vii. 2. James ii. 18.—^bCh. vi. 7. Ps. ix. 16.—^cHeb. to devour.

Verse 12. They are laid desolate, they are given us to consume. They exulted in seeing Judea overrun; and they rejoiced in the prospect of completing the ruin, when the Chaldeans had withdrawn from the land.

Verse 14. When the whole earth rejoiceth] When the against me, and have multiplied your words against me: I have heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord God; 'When the whole earth rejoiceth, I will make thee desolate.

15 ^c As thou didst rejoice at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee: ^d thou shalt be desolate, O Mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

^d 1 Sam. ii. 8. Rev. xiii. 6.—^cHeb. magnified.—^eIsa. lxx. 18, 14.—^fObad. xii. 15.—^hVer. 8, 4.

whole land shall rejoice in the restoration of the Jews, I will make thee desolate.

Verse 15. So will I do unto thee] Others shall rejoice in thy downfall as thou hast rejoiced at their downfall.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The Edomites or Idumeans, during the Babylonish captivity, took possession of the mountainous parts of Judea, and the fortresses which command the country, intending to exclude the Jews if ever they should return from their captivity. The prophet therefore, by a beautiful personification, addresses the mountains of Israel; and, ascribing to them passions and emotions similar to those of his own breast, consoles them with the prospect of being soon rid of those usurping foes; of being freed from the dishonour of idols under which they groaned; and of flourishing again in their ancient glory under their rightful owners, 1-15. The idolatry and other sins of the Jews are then declared to be the cause of their captivity and dispersion, 16-20; from which however they are promised a deliverance in terms of great force and beauty, 21-38. This chapter contains also, under the type of the happy condition of the Israelites after their restoration from the Babylonish captivity, a glorious prophecy of the rich blessings of the gospel dispensation.

ALSO, thou son of man, prophesy unto the mountains of Israel, and say, Ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD:

2 Thus saith the Lord God; Because ^b the enemy hath said against you, Ah, ^c even the ancient high places ^d are ours in possession:

3 Therefore prophesy and say, Thus saith the Lord God; *Because they have made you desolate, and swallowed you up on every side, that ye might be a possession unto the residue of the heathen, ^e and ^f ye are taken up in the lips of talkers, and are an infamy of the people:

4 Therefore, ye mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God; Thus saith the Lord God to the mountains, and to the hills, to the ^h rivers, and to the valleys, to the desolate wastes, and to the cities that are forsaken, which ⁱ became a prey and ^j derision to the residue of the heathen that are round about:

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; ^k Surely in the fire of my jealousy have I spoken against the

^a Ch. vi. 2, 3.—^b Ch. xxv. 8. xxvi. 2.—^c Deut. xxxii. 13.—^d Ch. xxxv. 10.—^e Heb. Because for because.—^f Deut. xxviii. 37. 1 Kings ix. 7. Lam. ii. 15. Dan. ix. 16.—^g Or, ye are made to come upon the tip of the tongue.—^h Or, bottoms, or dales.—ⁱ Ch. xxiv. 28.—^j Ps.

Verse 1. Prophesy unto the mountains of Israel] This is a part of the preceding prophecy, though it chiefly concerns the Jews. In it they are encouraged to expect a glorious restoration; and that none of the evil wishes of their adversaries should take place against them.

Verse 4. Therefore—thus saith the Lord God to the mountains, &c.] They shall neither possess mountain nor valley, hill nor dale, fountain nor river; for though in my justice I made you desolate, yet they shall not profit by your disasters. See ver. 5, 6, and 7.

residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, ^l which have appointed my land into their possession with the joy of all their heart, with despiteful minds, to cast it out for a prey.

6 Prophesy therefore concerning the land of Israel, and say unto the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers, and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I have spoken in my jealousy and in my fury, because ye have ^m borne the shame of the heathen:

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; I have ⁿ lifted up mine hand, Surely the heathen that are about you, they shall bear their shame.

8 But ye, O mountains of Israel, ye shall shoot forth your branches, and yield your fruit to my people, of Israel; for they are at hand to come.

9 For, behold, I am for you, and I will turn unto you, and ye shall be tilled and sown:

10 And I will multiply men upon you, all the house of Israel, even all of it: and the cities shall be inhabited, and ^o the wastes shall be builded:

11 And ^p I will multiply upon you man and beast:

lxxix. 4.—^q Deut. iv. 24. Ch. xxxviii. 19.—^r Ch. xxxv. 10. 12.—^s Ps. cxlii. 3, 4. Ch. xxxiv. 29. Ver. 15.—^t Ch. xx. 5.—^u Ver. 33. Isa. lviii. 12. lxi. 4. Amos ix. 14.—^v Jer. xxxi. 27. xxxiii. 12.—

Verse 8. For they are at hand to come.] The restoration of the Jews is so absolutely determined that you may rest assured it will take place; and be as confident relative to it, as if you saw the different families entering into the Israelitish borders.

Verse 9. Ye shall be tilled and sown] The land shall be cultivated as it formerly was.

Verse 11. I will multiply upon you man and beast] The agriculturist and the beast of burden.

And will do better unto you than at your beginnings] and they shall increase and bring fruit: and I will settle you after your old estates, and will do better unto you than at your beginnings: *and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walk upon you, even my people Israel; *and they shall possess thee, and thou shalt be their inheritance, and thou shalt no more henceforth bereave them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord God; Because they say unto you, *Thou land devourest up men, and hast bereaved thy nations;

14 Therefore thou shalt devour men no more, neither *bereave thy nations any more, saith the Lord God.

15 *Neither will I cause men to hear in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither shalt thou cause thy nations to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

16 Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

17 Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, *they defiled it by their own way and by their doings: their way was before me as *the uncleanness of a removed woman.

18 Wherefore I poured my fury upon them *for the blood that they had shed upon the land, and for their idols wherewith they had polluted it:

19 And I *scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed through the countries: *according to their way and according to their doings I judged them.

20 And when they entered unto the heathen, whither they went, they *profaned my holy name, when they said to them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone forth out of his land.

21 But I had pity *for mine holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus

*Ch. xxxv. 9. xxxvii. 6, 13.—*Obad. 17, &c.—*See Jer. xv. 7. 4 Num. xii. 32.—*Or, cause to fall.—*Ch. xxxiv. 29.—*Lev. xviii. 25, 27, 28. Jer. ii. 7.—*Lev. xv. 19, &c.—*Ch. xvi. 36, 37. xlii. 37.—*Ch. xlii. 15.—*Ch. vii. 8. xviii. 30. xxix. 24.—*Isa. lii. 5. Rom. ii. 24.—*Ch. xx. 9, 14.—*Pa. cvi. 8.—*Ch. x. 41. xlviii. 22.—*Or, your.—*Ch. xxxiv. 13. xxxvii. 21.—*Isa. lii. 15. Heb. x.

This falls in better with Gospel than with Jewish times.

Verse 23. I will sanctify my great name] By changing your hearts and your conduct, I shall show my hatred to vice, and my love to holiness: but it is not for your sakes, but for my holy name's sake, that I shall do you good in your latter days.

Verse 24. I will take you from among the heathen] This does not relate to the restoration from Babylon merely. The Jews are at this day scattered in all Heathen, Mohammedan, and Christian countries. From these they are to be gathered, and brought to repossess their own land.

Verse 25. Then—at the time of this great restoration—I will I sprinkle clean water upon you—the truly cleansing water; the influences of the HOLY SPIRIT purified by water, whose property it is to cleanse, whiten, purify, refresh, render healthy and fruitful.

From all your filthiness] From every sort of external and internal abomination and pollution.

And from all your idols] False gods, false worship, false opinions, and false hopes.

Verse 26. A new heart also will I give you] I will change the whole of your infected nature; and give you new appetites, new passions; or, at least, the old ones purified and refined.

And a new spirit will I put within you] I will renew your minds, also enlighten your understanding, correct your judgment, and refine your will; so that you shall have a new spirit to actuate your new heart.

I will take away the stony heart] That heart that is hard, saith the Lord God; I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, *but for mine holy name's sake, which ye have profaned among the heathen, whither ye went.

23 And I will sanctify my great name, which was profaned among the heathen, which ye have profaned in the midst of them; and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shall be *sanctified in you before *their eyes.

24 For *I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countries, and will bring you into your own land.

25 *Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: *from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you.

26 A *new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my *Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them.

28 *And ye shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; *and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will also *save you from all your uncleanness: and *I will call for the corn, and will increase it, and *lay no famine upon you.

30 *And I will multiply the fruit of the tree, and the increase of the field, that ye shall receive no more reproach of famine among the heathen.

31 Then *shall ye remember your own evil ways, and your doings that were not good, and *shall loathe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations.

32 *Not for your sakes do I this, saith the Lord God, be it known unto you: be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel.

33 Thus saith the Lord God; in the day that I shall have cleansed you from all your iniquities I impenetrable and cold; the affections and passions that are unyielding, frozen to good, unaffected by heavenly things; that are slow to credit the words of God.

22.—*Jer. xxxiii. 8.—*Jer. xxxii. 39. Ch. xi. 19.—*Ch. xi. 19. xxxvii. 14.—*Ch. xxxvii. 25. xxxvii. 25.—*Jer. xxx. 22. Ch. xi. 20. xxxvii. 27.—*Matt. i. 21. Rom. xi. 26.—*See Pa. cv. 16.—*Ch. xxxiv. 29.—*Ch. xxxiv. 27.—*Ch. xvi. 61, 63.—*Lev. xvi. 39. Ch. vi. 9. xx. 43.—*Deut. ix. 5. Ver. 22.

And I will give you an heart of flesh.] One that can feel, and that can enjoy; that can feel love to God and to all men, and be a proper habitation for the living God.

Verse 27. And I will put my spirit within you] I will put my Spirit, the great principle of light, life, and love, within you, to actuate the new spirit, and to influence the new affections and passions; that the animal spirit may not become brutish, that the mental powers become not foolish.

And the cause shall be evidenced by the effects; for I will cause you to walk in my statutes—not only to believe and reverence my appointments relative to what I command you to perform; but ye shall walk in them, your conduct shall be regulated by them.

Verse 28. Ye shall be my people] Wholly given up to me in body, soul, and spirit.

And I will be your God.] To fill you with love, joy, peace, meekness, gentleness, long-suffering, fidelity, and goodness, to occupy your whole soul, and gratify your every desire.

Verse 30. Ye shall receive no more reproach of famine] Ye shall be daily and hourly fed with the bread that endures unto eternal life.

Verse 31. Then shall ye remember your own evil ways] Ye shall never forget that ye were once slaves of sin, and sold under sin; children of the wicked one; heirs to all God's curses, with no hope beyond hell.

will also cause you to dwell in the cities, and the wastes shall be builded.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay desolate in the sight of all that passed by.

35 And they shall say, This land that was desolate is become like the garden of Eden; and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are become fenced, and are inhabited.

36 Then the heathen that are left round about you shall know that I the LORD build the ruined

* Ver. 10.—^b Isa. li. 8. Ch. xxviii. 13. Joel ii. 3.—^c Ch. xvii. 24. xxii. 14. xxxvii. 14.

Verse 35. This land that was desolate by sin, is become like the garden of Eden by righteousness. Satan's blast is removed; God's blessing has taken place.

Verse 36. Then the heathen.] They shall see how powerful Jehovah is, and how fully he saves those who come unto and worship him.

Verse 37. Thus saith the Lord God.] In answer to the question, "Who shall have such blessings?" we say, they that pray, that seek earnestly, that strive to enter in at the strait gate.

places, and plant that that was desolate: "I the LORD have spoken it, and I will do it.

37 Thus saith the Lord God; "I will yet for this be inquired of by the house of Israel, to do it for them; I will increase them with men like a flock.

38 As the holy flock, as the flock of Jerusalem in her solemn feasts; so shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of men: and they shall know that I am the LORD.

* See ch. xiv. 3. xx. 3, 31.—^a Ver. 10.—^f Heb. flock of holy things.

Verse 38. As the holy flock.] The church of Christ, without spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing.

The flock of Jerusalem.] The Jerusalem that is from above, the city of the living God, the place where his Majesty dwells. As they came in ancient times to the solemn national feasts, so shall they come when they have fully returned unto the Lord, and received his salvation by Christ Jesus.

There is no period of the Jewish history from that time until now, to which this prophecy can be applied. It must belong to the gospel dispensation.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

This chapter treats of the same subject with the preceding, in a beautiful and significant vision. Under the emblem of the open valley being thickly strewn with very dry bones is represented the hopeless state of the Jews when dispersed throughout the provinces of the Chaldean empire. But God, contrary to every human probability, restores these bones to life, thereby prefiguring the restoration of that people from the Babylonish captivity, and their resettlement in the land of their forefathers, 1-14. The prophet then makes an easy and elegant transition to the blessedness of the people of God under the gospel dispensation, in the plenitude of its manifestation; when the genuine converts to Christianity, the spiritual Israel, shall be no longer under the domination of heathen and anti-christian rulers, but shall be collected together into one visible kingdom, and constitute but one flock under one Shepherd, 15-28. The vision of the dry bones reviving is considered by some as having a remote view to the general resurrection.

THE hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out in the spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones.

2 And caused me to pass by them round about: and, behold, there were very many in the open valley; and, lo, they were very dry.

3 And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Again he said unto me, Prophecy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the LORD.

5 Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones; Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live:

* Ch. i. 3.—^b Ch. iii. 14. viii. 3. xi. 24. Luke iv. 1.—^c Or, campaign.—^d Deut. xxxii. 36. 1 Sam. ii. 6. John v. 21. Rom. iv. 17.

Verse 1. The hand of the Lord was upon me.] The prophetic influence was communicated.

And carried me out in the spirit.] A spiritual vision, in which all these things were doubtless transacted.

Verse 3. Can these bones live?] Is it possible that the persons whose bones these are can return to life?

Verse 4. Prophecy upon these bones.] Declare to your miserable countrymen the gracious designs of the Lord;

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

7 So I prophesied as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh came up upon them, and the skin covered them above: but there was no breath in them.

9 Then said he unto me, Prophecy unto the wind, prophesy, son of man, and say to the wind, Thus saith the Lord God; "Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live.

2 Cor. i. 9.—^a Ps. civ. 80. Ver. 9.—^f Ch. vi. 7. xxxv. 12. Joel ii. 27. iii. 17.—^g Or, breath.—^h Ps. civ. Ver. 5.

show them that their state, however deplorable, is not hopeless.

Verse 5. Behold, I will cause breath.] Ruach signifies both soul, breath, and wind; and sometimes the Spirit of God. Soul is its proper meaning in this vision, where it refers to the bones: "I will cause the soul to enter into you."

Verse 9. Prophecy unto the wind.] Ruach. Address thy-

10 So I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: behold, they say, ^b Our bones are dried, and our hope is lost: we are cut off for our parts.

12 Therefore prophesy and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, ^c O my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your graves, and ^d bring you into the land of Israel.

13 And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your graves, 14 And ^e shall put my Spirit in you, and ye shall live, and I shall place you in your own land: then shall ye know that I the Lord have spoken it, and performed it, saith the Lord.

15 The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

16 Moreover, thou son of man, take thee one stick, and write upon it, For Judah, and for ^f the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it, For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel his companions:

17 And ^g join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people shall speak unto thee, saying, Wilt thou not show us what thou meanest by these?

19 I say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will take ^h the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the stick of Judah, and make them one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand.

^a Rev. xi. 11.—^b Ps. cxli. 7. Isa. xlix. 14.—^c Isa. xxvi. 19. Hos. xiii. 14.—^d Ch. xxxvi. 24. Ver. 25.—^e Ch. xxxvi. 27.—^f Sec Num. xvii. 2.—^g 2 Chron. i. 12, 13. 16. xv. 9. xxx. 11, 18.—^h See ver. 22, 24.—ⁱ Ch. xii. 9. xxiv. 19.—^j Zech. x. 6.—^k Ver. 16, 17.—^l Ch. xii. 3.—^m Ch. xxxvi. 24.—ⁿ Isa. xi. 13. Jer. iii. 18. i. 4. Hos. i. 11.—^o Ch. xxxiv. 23, 24. John x. 16.—^p Ch. xxxvi. 25.—^q Ch. xxxvi. 28, 29.—^r Isa. xl. 11. Jer. xxiii. 5. xxx. 9. Ch. xxxiv. 23, 24. Hos.

self to the soul, and command it to enter into these well-organized bodies, that they may live.

[Come from the four winds] The four winds signify all parts—in every direction. Literally it is, "Soul, come from the four souls;" "Breath, come from the four breaths;" or, "Wind, come from the four winds." But here ruach has both of its most general meanings, wind or breath, and soul.

Verse 11. These bones are the whole house of Israel] That is, their state is represented by these bones; and their restoration to their own land is represented by the revivification of these bones.

Verse 12. I will open your graves] Here is a pointed allusion to the general resurrection; a doctrine properly credited and understood by the Jews, and to which our Lord refers, John v. 25, 28, 29.

And cause you to come up out of your graves] I am determined that ye shall be restored; so that were ye even in your graves, as mankind at the general resurrection, yet my all-powerful voice shall call you forth.

Verse 13. When I have opened your graves] When I shall have done for you what was beyond your hope, and deemed impossible, then shall ye know that I am Jehovah.

Verse 14. And shall put my Spirit] Here ruach is taken for the Holy Ghost. They were living souls, animal and intellectual beings, when they had received their souls, as mentioned above: but they could only become spiritual, holy, and obedient creatures by the Spirit of God actuating their spirits.

Verse 16. Son of man, take thee one stick] The kingdom of Judah was composed of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, 20 And the sticks whereon thou writest shall be in thine hand ¹ before their eyes.

21 And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, ^m I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land:

22 And I ⁿ will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and ^o one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all:

23 ^p Neither shall they defile themselves any more with their idols, nor with their detestable things, nor with any of their transgressions: but ^q I will save them out of all their dwelling-places, wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they be my people, and I will be their God.

24 And ^r David my servant shall be king over them; and ^s they all shall have one shepherd: ^t they shall also walk in my judgments, and observe my statutes, and do them.

25 ^u And they shall dwell in the land that I have given unto Jacob my servant, wherein your fathers have dwelt: and they shall dwell therein, even they, and their children, and their children's children ^v for ever: and ^w my servant David shall be their prince for ever.

26 Moreover I will make a ^x covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them: and I will place them, and ^y multiply them, and will set my ^z sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore.

27 ^{aa} My tabernacle also shall be with them: yea, I will be ^{bb} their God, and they shall be my people.

28 ^{cc} And the heathen shall know that I the Lord do ^{dd} sanctify Israel, when my sanctuary shall be in the midst of them for evermore.

iii. 5. Luke i. 32.—^e Ver. 22. John x. 16.—^f Ch. xxxvi. 27.—^g Ch. xxxvi. 28.—^h Isa. li. 21. Joel iii. 20. Amos ix. 15.—ⁱ Ver. 24. John xii. 34.—^j Ps. lxxxix. 3. i. n. lv. 3. Jer. xxxii. 40. Ch. xxxiv. 25.—^k Ch. xxxvi. 10, 37.—^l 2 Cor. vi. 16.—^m Lev. xxvi. 11, 12. Ch. xliii. 7. John i. 14.—ⁿ Ch. xi. 20. xiv. 11. xxxvi. 28.—^o Ch. xxxvi. 23.—^{pp} Ch. xx. 12.

with the Levites; all the rest went off in the schism with Jeroboam, and forced the kingdom of Israel. Though some out of those tribes did rejoin themselves to Judah, yet no whole tribe ever returned to that kingdom. Common sufferings in their captivity became the means of reviving a kinder feeling; and to encourage this, God promises that he will reunite them, and restore them to their own land; and that there shall no more be any divisions or feuds among them.

Verse 19. The stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim] Jeroboam, the first king of the ten tribes, was an Ephraimite. Joseph represents the ten tribes in general: they were in the hand of Ephraim, that is, under the government of Jeroboam.

Verse 22. I will make them one nation] There was no distinction after the return from Babylon.

And one king shall be king to them all] Politically speaking, they never had a king from that day to this; and the grand junction and government spoken of here must refer to another time—to that in which they shall be brought into the Christian church with the fulness of the Gentiles; when Jesus, the King of kings and Lord of lords, shall rule over all.

Verse 24. And David my servant shall be king] That this refers to Jesus Christ, see proved chap. xxiv. 23.

Verse 25. The land that I have given unto Jacob my servant] Jacob means here the twelve tribes; and the land given to them was the whole land of Palestine; consequently, the promise states that, when they return, they are to possess the whole of the Promised Land.

Verse 27. My tabernacle] Jesus Christ, the true tabernacle, in whom dwelt all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

The sublime prophecy contained in this and the following chapter relates to Israel's victory over Gog, and is very obscure. It begins with representing a prodigious armament of many nations combined together, under the conduct of Gog, with the intention of overwhelming the Jews after having for some time resettled in their land subsequent to their return from the Babylonish captivity, 1-9. These enemies are further represented as making themselves sure of the spoil, 10, 13. But in this critical conjuncture, when Israel, to all human appearance, was about to be swallowed up by her enemies, God most graciously appears, to execute by terrible judgments, the vengeance threatened against these formidable adversaries of his people, 14-16. The prophet, in terms borrowed from human passions, describes, with awful emphasis, the fury of Jehovah as coming up to his face; and the effects of it so dreadful, as to make all the animate and inanimate creation tremble, and even to convulse with terror the whole frame of nature, 17-23.

AND the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

2 * Son of man, ^b set thy face against * Gog, the land of Magog, ^d the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

4 And * I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine army, horses and horsemen, ^f all of them clothed with all sorts of armour, even a great company with bucklers and shields, all of them handling swords:

5 Persia, Ethiopia, and * Libya with them; all of them with shield and helmet:

6 ^b Gomer, and all his bands; the house of ¹ Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

7 ¹ Be thou prepared, and prepare for thyself, thou, and all thy company that are assembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them.

8 ^a After many ¹ days thou shalt be visited: in the latter years, thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, ^m and is gathered out of many people, against ⁿ the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall ^o dwell safely all of them.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come ^p like a storm, thou shalt be ^q like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10 Thus saith the Lord God; It shall also come

^a Ch. xxxix. 1. ^b Ch. xxxv. 2, 3. ^c Rev. xx. 8. ^d Or, prince of the chief. ^e Ch. xxxii. 26. ^f 2 Kings xix. 28. Ch. xxix. 4 xxxix. 2. ^g Ch. xxxiii. 12. ^h Or, Phut. Ch. xxxvii. 10. xxx. 5. ⁱ Gen. x. 2. ^j Ch. xxxvii. 14. Like Isa. viii. 9, 10. Jer. xli. 3, 4, 14, 11. 12. ^k Gen. xlix. 1. Deut. iv. 30. Ver. 16. ^l Isa. xxxix. 6. ^m Ver. 12. Ch. xxxiv. 18. ⁿ Ch. xxxvi. 1, 4, 8. ^o Jer. xxxii. 6. Ch. xxxviii. 28. xxxiv. 25, 28. Ver. 11. ^p Isa. xxxviii. 2. ^q Jer. iv. 13. Ver. 16. —

Verse 2. Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Magog] This is allowed to be the most difficult prophecy in the Old Testament.

There are but two opinions on this subject that appear to be at all probable: 1. That which makes Gog Cambyse, king of Persia; and 2. That which makes him ANTIOCHUS EPIPHANES, king of Syria.

I shall at present examine the text by this latter opinion. Chief prince of Meshech and Tubal] These probably mean the auxiliary forces, over whom Antiochus was supreme; they were the Muscovites and Cappadocians.

Verse 4. I will turn thee back] Thy enterprise shall fail. Verse 5. Persia] That a part of this country was tributary to Antiochus, see 1 Macc. iii. 81.

Ethiopia and Libya] That these were auxiliaries of Antiochus is evident from Dan. xi. 43: "The Libyans and Ethiopians shall be at his steps."

Verse 6. Gomer, and all his bands; the house of Togarmah to pass that at the same time shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt ^r think an evil thought:

11 And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land of unwall'd villages; I will ^s go to them that are at rest; ^t that dwell ^u safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates, 12 ^v To take a spoil, and to take a prey, to turn thine hand upon ^w the desolate places that are now inhabited, ^x and upon the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods, that dwell in the ^y midst of the land.

13 ^z Sheba, and ^{aa} Dedan, and the merchants ^{bb} of Tarshish, with all ^{cc} the young lions thereof, shall say unto thee, Art thou come to take a spoil? hast thou gathered thy company to take a prey? to carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to take a great spoil?

14 Therefore, son of man, prophesy and say unto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God; ^{dd} In that day when my people of Israel ^{ee} dwelleth safely, shalt thou not know it?

15 ^{ff} And thou shalt come from thy place out of the north parts, thou, ^{gg} and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company, and a mighty army:

16 ^{hh} And thou shalt come up against my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land; ⁱⁱ it shall be in the latter days, and I will bring thee against my land, ^{jj} that the heathen may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

17 Thus saith the Lord God; Art thou he of whom I have spoken in old time, ^{kk} by my servants

^r Or, conceive a mischievous purpose. ^s Or. xlix. 31. ^t Ver. 8. ^u Or, confidently. ^v Heb. To spoil the spoil, and to prey the prey. Ch. xxxix. 19. ^w Ch. xxxvi. 34, 36. ^x Ver. 8. ^y Heb. aavel. Judg. ix. 37. ^z Ch. xxxvii. 22, 23. ^{aa} Ch. xxxvii. 15, 20. ^{bb} Ch. xxxvii. 12. ^{cc} See ch. x. 3, 5. ^{dd} Isa. iv. 1. ^{ee} Ver. 8. ^{ff} Ch. xxxix. 2. ^{gg} Ver. 6. ^{hh} Ver. 9. ⁱⁱ Ver. 8. ^{jj} Exod. xiv. 4. Ch. xxxvi. 23. xxxix. 21. ^{kk} Heb. by the hands.

mah.] The Cimmerians and Turcomanians, and other northern nations.

Verse 9. Thou shalt ascend and come like a storm] It is observable that Antiochus is thus spoken of by Daniel, chap. xi. 40: The king of the north—Antiochus, shall come against him (the king of the south is the king of Egypt) like a whirlwind.

Verse 10. Shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt think an evil thought] Antiochus purposed to invade and destroy Egypt as well as Judea; see Dan. xi. 81, 82, 86.

Verse 12. To take a spoil—and a prey] When Antiochus took Jerusalem he gave the pillage of it to his soldiers, and spoiled the temple of its riches, which were immense.

Verse 13. Sheba, and Dedan] The Arabians, anciently great plunderers; and Tarshish, the inhabitants of the famous isle of Tartessus, the most noted merchants of the time.

Verse 16. When I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog] By the defeat of his troops under Lysias his general.

the prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days many years that I would bring thee against them?

18 And it shall come to pass at the same time when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, that my fury shall come up in my face.

19 For ^ain my jealousy ^band in the fire of my wrath have I spoken, ^cSurely in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel;

20 So that ^dthe fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall shake

^aCh. xxxiii. 5, 6. xxxix. 25.—^bPs. lxxxix. 46.—^cHag. ii. 6, 7. Rev. xvi. 18.—^dHos. iv. 3.—^eJer. iv. 24. Nah. i. 5, 6.—^fOr, towers, or stairs.—^gPs. cv. 16.—^hCh. xiv. 17.—ⁱJudg. vii. 22. 1 Sam.

[Verse 17. Art thou he of whom I have spoken in old time] This prophecy concerning Antiochus and the Jews was delivered about four hundred years before the events took place.

[Verse 21. I will call for a sword against him] Meaning Judas Maccabeus, who defeated his army under Lysias, making a horrible carnage.

[Verse 22. Great hailstones, fire, and brimstone.] These are probably figurative expressions, to signify that the whole at my presence, ^aand the mountains shall be thrown down, and the ^bsteep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 And I will ^ccall for ^da sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord GOD: ^eevery man's sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will ^fplead against him with ^gpestilence and with blood; and ^hI will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and ⁱgreat hailstones, fire, and brimstone.

23 Thus will I magnify myself, and ^asanctify myself; ^band I will be known in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

xiv. 20. 2 Chron. xx. 23.—^jIsa. lxxvi. 16. Jer. xxv. 31.—^kCh. v. 17.—^lPs. xi. 6. Isa. xlix. 6. xxx. 30.—^mCh. xiii. 11. Rev. xvi. 21.—ⁿCh. xxxvii. 23.—^oPs. ix. 16. Ch. xxxvii. 28. xxxix. 7. Ver. 10.

tide of the war should be against him, and that his defeat and slaughter should be great. Abp. Newcome supposes all the above prophecy remains yet to be fulfilled. Where such eminent scribes are divided, who shall decide! [More recent critics reject the literal interpretation, and regard the chapter as prophetic of the conflict between the forces of heathenism and the truth.]

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The prophet goes on to denounce the divine judgments against Gog and his army, 1-7; and describes their dreadful slaughter, 8-10, and burial, 11-16, in terms so very lofty and comprehensive, as must certainly denote some very extraordinary interposition of Providence in behalf of the Jews. And to amplify the matter still more, the prophet, with peculiar art and propriety, delays the summoning of all the birds and beasts of prey in nature to feast on the slain (in allusion to the custom of feasting on the remainder of sacrifices), till after the greater multitudes are buried; to intimate that even the remainder, and as it were the stragglers of such mighty hosts, would be more than sufficient to satisfy their utmost rapacity, 17-20. The remaining verses contain a prediction of the great blessedness of the people of God in gospel times, and of the stability of the kingdom of Christ, 21-29. It will be proper to remark that the great northern expedition against the natural Israel, described in this and the preceding chapter, is, from its striking resemblance in the main particulars, put by the writer of the Apocalypse (chap. xx. 7-10), for a much more formidable armament of a multitude of nations in the four quarters of the earth against the pure Christian church, the MYSTICAL Israel; an event still extremely remote, and which it is thought shall immediately precede the destruction of the world by fire, and the general judgment.

THEREFORE, ^athou son of man, prophesy against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal;

2 And I will turn thee back, and ^bleave but the sixth part of thee, ^cand will cause thee to come up from ^dthe north parts, and will bring thee upon the mountains of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand, and will cause thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

^aCh. xxxviii. 2, 3.—^bOr, strike thee with six plagues; or, draw thee back with a hook of six teeth, as ch. xxxviii. 4.—^cCh. xxxviii. 15.—^dHeb. the sides of the north.—^eCh. xxxviii. 21. Ver. 17.—^fCh.

[Verse 2. And leave but the sixth part of thee] The margin has strike thee with six plagues; or, draw thee back with a hook of six teeth.

[Verse 3. I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand] The bow is held by the left hand; the arrow is pulled and discharged by the right.

[Verse 6. I will send a fire on Magog] On Syria. I will destroy the Syrian troops.

4 ^aThou shalt fall upon the mountains of Israel, thou, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: ^bI will give thee unto the ravenous birds of every ^csort, and to the beasts of the field ^dto be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon ^ethe open field; for I have spoken it, saith the Lord GOD.

6 ^fAnd I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell ^gcarelessly in ^hthe isles: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 ⁱSo will I make my holy name known in the midst of my people Israel; and I will not let them xxxiii. 27.—^jHeb. wing.—^kHeb. to devour.—^lHeb. the face of the field.—^mCh. xxxvii. 22. Amos i. 4.—ⁿOr, confidently.—^oPs. lxxii. 10.—^pVer. 22.

[And among them that dwell carelessly in the isles] The auxiliary troops that came to Antiochus from the borders of the Euxine Sea.

[Verse 7. In the midst of my people Israel] This defeat of Gog is to be in Israel: and it was there, according to this prophecy, that the immense army of Antiochus was so completely defeated.

[Verse 9. And shall set on fire—the weapons] The Israel.

* pollute my holy name any more : ^b and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy One in Israel.

8 ^c Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God ; this is the day ^d whereof I have spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel shall forth, and shall set on fire and burn the weapons, both the shields and the bucklers, the bows and the arrows, and the ^e handstaves, and the spears, and they shall ^f burn them with fire seven years :

10 So that they shall take no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the forests ; for they shall burn the weapons with fire : ^g and they shall spoil those that spoiled them, and rob those that robbed them, saith the Lord God.

11 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will give unto Gog a place there of graves in Israel, the valley of the passengers on the east of the sea ; and it shall stop the ^h noses of the passengers : and there shall they bury Gog and all his multitude : and they shall call it ⁱ The valley of ^j Hamon-gog.

12 And seven months shall the house of Israel be burying of them, ^k that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them ; and it shall be to them a renown, the day that ^l I shall be glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shall sever out ^m men of continual employment, passing through the land to bury with the passengers those that remain upon the face of the earth, ⁿ to cleanse it : after the end of seven months shall they search.

15 And the passengers that pass through the land, when any seeth a man's bone, then shall he ^o set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-gog.

16 And also the name of the city shall be ^p Hamonah. Thus shall they ^q cleanse the land.

17 And, thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God ; ^r Speak ^s unto every feathered fowl, and to every beast of the field, ^t Assemble yourselves, and come ; gather yourselves on every side to my ^u sacrifice that I do sacrifice for you, even a great sacrifice ^v upon the mountains of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drink blood.

^a Lev. xviii. 21. Ch. xx. 39.—^b Ch. xxxviii. 16, 23.—^c Rev. xvi. 17. xxi. 6.—^d Ch. xxxviii. 17.—^e Or, javelins.—^f Or make a fire of them.—^g Isa. xiv. 2.—^h Or, mouths.—ⁱ That is, The multitude of Gog.—^j Deut. xxi. 23. Ver. 14, 16.—^k Ch. xviii. 22.—^l Heb. men of continuance.—^m Ver. 12.—ⁿ Heb. build.—^o That is, the multitude.—^p Ver. 12.—^q Rev. xix. 17.—^r Heb. to the fowl of every wing.—^s Isa. xviii. 6. xxxiv. 8. Jer. xii. 9. Zeph. i. 7.—^t Or, slaughter.—^u Ver. 4.—^v Rev. xix. 18.—^w Heb. great goats.—^x Deut.

ites shall make bonfires and fuel of the weapons, tents, &c., which the defeated Syrians shall leave behind them, as expressive of the joy which they shall feel for the destruction of their enemies ; and to keep up, in their culinary consumption, the memory of this great event.

They shall burn them with fire seven years] These may be figurative expressions, after the manner of the Asiatics, whose language abounds with such descriptions.

Verse 11. The valley of the passengers on the east of the sea] That is, of Gennesareth, according to the Targum. The valley near this lake or sea is called the Valley of the Pass-

^h the merchants traders from Syria and other eastern countries went into Egypt ; see Gen. xxxvii. 17, 25.

There shall they bury Gog and all his multitude] Not Gog, or Antiochus himself, for he was not in this battle ; but his generals, captains, and soldiers, by whom he was represented. As to Hamon-gog, we know no valley of this name but here.

Verse 12. And seven months] It shall require a long time to bury the dead. This is another figurative expression ; which, however, may admit of a good deal of literal meaning.

Verse 18. Ye shall—drink the blood of the princes of the 18 ^y Ye shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, of lambs, and of ^z goats, of bullocks, all of them ^a fatlings of Bashan.

19 And ye shall eat fat till ye be full, and drink blood till ye be drunken, of my sacrifice which I have sacrificed for you.

20 ^b Thus ye shall be filled at my table with horses and chariots, ^c with mighty men, and with all men of war, saith the Lord God.

21 ^d And I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my judgment that I have executed, and ^e my hand that I have laid upon them.

22 ^f So the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and forward.

23 ^g And the heathen shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity : because they trespassed against me, therefore ^h hid I my face from them, and ⁱ gave them into the hand of their enemies : so fell they all by the sword.

24 ^j According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore Thus saith the Lord God ; ^k Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have mercy upon the ^l whole house of Israel, and will be jealous for my holy name ;

26 ^m After that they have borne their shame, and all their trespasses whereby they have trespassed against me, when they ⁿ dwelt safely in their land, and none made them afraid.

27 ^o When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies' lands, and ^p am sanctified in them in the sight of many nations ;

28 ^q Then shall they know that I am the Lord their God, ^r which caused them to be led into captivity among the heathen : but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there.

29 ^s Neither will I hide my face any more from them : for I have ^t poured out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

xxxii. 14. Ps. xxii. 12.—^y Ps. lxxvi. 6. Ch. xxxviii. 4.—^z Rev. xix. 18.—^a Ch. xxxviii. 16, 23.—^b Exod. vii. 4.—^c Ver. 7, 28.—^d Ch. xxxvi. 18, 19, 20, 25.—^e Deut. xxxii. 17. Isa. lix. 2.—^f Lev. xxvi. 25.—^g Ch. xxxvi. 19.—^h Jer. xxx. 3, 18. Ch. xxxiv. 13. xxxvi. 21.—ⁱ Ch. xx. 40. Hos. i. 11.—^j Dan. ix. 16.—^k Lev. xxvi. 5, 6.—^l Ch. xxxiii. 25, 26.—^m Ch. xxxvi. 23, 24. xxxviii. 16.—ⁿ Ch. xxxi. 80. Ver. 22.—^o Heb. by my causing of them, &c.—^p Isa. liv. 8.—^q Joel ii. 28. Zech. xii. 10. Acts ii. 17.

earth] This is spoken of fowls and beasts here—rams, lambs, and goats.

Verse 19. And ye shall eat fat—and drink blood] It is the fowls and the beasts that God invites, ver. 17.

Verse 25. Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob] Both they and the heathen shall know that it was for their iniquity that I gave them into the hands of their enemies : and now I will redeem them from those hands in such a way as to prove that I am a merciful God, as well as a just God.

Verse 26. After that they have borne their shame] After they shall have borne the punishment due to a line of conduct which is their shame and reproach, viz., idolatry.

Verse 27. When I have—gathered them] Antiochus had before captured many of the Jews, and sold them for slaves ; see Dan. xi. 33.

Verse 28. And have left none of them any more there.] All that chose had liberty to return ; but many remained behind. This promise may therefore refer to a greater restoration, when not a Jew shall be left behind. This, the next verse intimates, will be in the gospel dispensation.

Verse 29. For I have poured out my Spirit] That is, I will pour out my Spirit ; see the notes on chap. xxxvi. 25–29, where this subject is largely considered.

CHAPTER XL.

The prophecy or vision, which begins here, continues to the end of the Book. The Temple of Jerusalem lying in ruins when Ezekiel had this vision (for its date is the fourteenth year after the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar), the Jews needed consolation. If they were not promised a restoration of the temple, they would not feel so great an interest in returning home. It is thought by some that no model of Solomon's Temple had remained. To direct them, therefore, in the dimensions, parts, order, and rules of their new temple might be one reason why Ezekiel is so particular in the description of the old; to which the new was conformable in figure and parts, though inferior in magnificence, on account of the poverty of the nation at the time. Whatever was august or illustrious in the prophetic figures, and not literally fulfilled in or near their own times, the ancient Jews properly considered as belonging to the time of the Messiah. Accordingly, upon finding that the latter temple fell short of the model of the temple here described by Ezekiel, they supposed the prophecy to refer, at least in part, to the period now mentioned. And we, who live under the Gospel dispensation, have apostolical authority for the assertion that the temple and temple-worship were emblematic of Christ's church, frequently represented in the New Testament under the metaphor of a temple, in allusion to the symmetry, beauty, and firmness of that of Solomon; to its orderly worship; and to the manifestations it had of the Divine Presence. This chapter commences with the time, manner, and end of the vision, 1-5. We have next a description of the east gate, 6-19, the north gate, 20-22, and the south gate, 24-31. A further description of the east gate, 32-34, and of the north gate, 35-38. Account of the eight tables, 39-43; of the chambers, 44-47; and of the porch of the temple, 48, 49.

IN the five and twentieth year of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten, in the selfsame day the hand of the LORD was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 In the visions of God brought he me into the land of Israel, and set me upon a very high mountain, by which was as the frame of a city on the south.

3 And he brought me thither, and, behold, there was a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of brass, with a line of flax in his hand, and a measuring reed; and he stood in the gate.

4 And the man said unto me, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee; for to the intent that I might show them unto thee art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel.

5 And behold a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits long by the cubit and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed; and the height, one reed.

* Ch. xxxiii. 21.—b Ch. i. 3.—c Ch. viii. 3.—d Rev. xxi. 10.—e Or, upon which.—f Ch. i. 7. Dan. x. 6.—g Ch. xlviii. 3.—h Rev. xi. 1. xxi.

The temple here described by Ezekiel is, in all probability, the same which he saw before his captivity, and which had been burned by the Chaldeans fourteen years before this vision. On comparing the Books of Kings and Chronicles with this Prophet, we shall find the same dimensions in the parts described by both; the inside ornaments of the temple are entirely the same; in both we see two courts; an inner one for the priests, and an outer one for the people. So that there is room to suppose that, in all the rest, the temple of Ezekiel resembled the old one; and that God's design in retracing these ideas in the prophet's memory was to preserve the remembrance of the plan, the dimensions, the ornaments, and whole structure of this divine edifice; and that at the return from captivity, the people might more easily repair it agreeably to this model.

Verse 2. Set me upon a very high mountain Mount Moriah, the mount on which Solomon's temple was built, 2 Chron. iii. 1.

Verse 3. A man, whose appearance was like—brass Like bright polished brass, which strongly reflected the rays of light. Probably he had what we would term a nimbus

6 Then came he unto the gate which looketh toward the east, and went up the stairs thereof, and measured the threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad; and the other threshold of the gate, which was one reed broad.

7 And every little chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad; and between the little chambers were five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate, eight cubits; and the posts thereof, two cubits; and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the little chambers of the gate eastward were three on this side, and three on that side; they three were of one measure: and the posts had one measure on this side and on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate, ten cubits; and the length of the gate, thirteen cubits.

12 The space also before the little chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side: and the little chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

15.—i Ch. xlv. 5.—j Ch. xlviii. 10.—k Ch. xlviii. 20.—l Heb. whose face was the way toward the east.—m Heb. limit, or bound.

or glory round his head. This was either an angel; or, as some think, a personal appearance of our blessed Lord.

Verse 4. Declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel. That they may know how to build the second temple, when they shall be restored from their captivity.

Verse 5. A measuring reed of six cubits long The Hebrew cubit is supposed to be about twenty and a half inches; and a palm, about three inches more; the length of the rod about ten feet six inches.

The breadth—one reed; and the height, one reed. As this wall was as broad as it was high, it must have been a kind of parapet, which was carried, of the same dimensions, all round the temple.

Verse 6. Went up the stairs thereof As the temple was built upon an eminence, there must have been steps on the outside, opposite to each door, to ascend by.

Verse 7. And every little chamber was one reed These were the chambers of the buildings which were within the inclosure of the temple round the court, and these chambers appear to have been numerous.

13 He measured then the gate from the roof of one little chamber to the roof of another: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door against door.

14 He made also posts of threescore cubits, even unto the post of the court round about the gate.

15 And from the face of the gate of the entrance unto the face of the porch of the inner gate were fifty cubits.

16 And there were ^anarrow ^bwindows to the little chambers, and to their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the ^carches: and windows were round about ^dinward: and upon each post were palm trees.

17 Then brought he me into ^ethe outward court, and, lo, there were ^fchambers, and a pavement made for the court round about; ^gthirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement by the side of the gates over against the length of the gates was the lower pavement.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate unto the forefront of the inner court ^hwithout, an hundred cubits eastward and northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court ⁱthat looked toward the north, he measured the length thereof, and the breadth thereof.

21 And the little chambers thereof were three on this side, and three on that side; and the posts thereof and the ^jarches thereof were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows, and their arches, and their palm trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the east: and they went up unto it by seven steps; and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court was over against the gate toward the north, and toward the east; and he measured from gate to gate an hundred cubits.

24 After that he brought me toward the south, and behold a gate toward the south: and he measured the posts thereof and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windows in it and in the arches thereof round about, like those windows: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm trees, one on this side, and another on that side, upon the posts thereof.

27 And there was a gate in the inner court toward the south: and he measured from gate to gate toward the south an hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me to the inner court by the south gate: and he measured the south gate according to these measures;

29 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures: and there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were ^kfive and twenty cubits long, and five cubits ^lbroad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the utter court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof: and the going up to it had eight steps.

32 And he brought me into the inner court toward the east: and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the little chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to these measures: and there were windows therein and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outward court; and palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

35 And he brought me to the north gate, and measured it according to these measures;

36 The little chambers thereof, the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, and the windows to it round about: the length was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the posts thereof were toward the utter court; and the palm trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side, and on that side: and the going up to it had eight steps.

38 And the chambers and the entries thereof were by the posts of the gates, where they washed the burnt-offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate were two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, to slay thereon the burnt-offering and ^mthe sin-offering and ⁿthe trespass-offering.

40 And at the side without, ^oas one goeth up to the entry of the north gate, were two tables; and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this side, and four tables on that side, by the side of the gate; eight tables, whereupon they slew their sacrifices.

42 And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt-offering, of a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt-offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were ^phooks, an hand broad, fastened round about: and upon the tables was the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate were the chambers of ^qthe singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the north gate; and their prospect was toward the south: one at the side of the east gate having the prospect toward the north.

45 And he said unto me, This chamber, whose prospect is toward the south, is for the priests, ^rthe keepers of the ^scharge of the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the north is for the priests, ^tthe keepers of the

^a 1 Kings vi. 4.—^b Heb. closed.—^c Or, galleries, or porches.—^d Or, within.—^e Rev. xi. 2.—^f 1 Kings vi. 5.—^g Ch. xiv. 5.—^h Or, from without.—ⁱ Heb. whose face was.—^j Or, galleries, or porches.—^k 1 Chron. vi. 21, 25, 33, 36.—^l Heb. breadth.—^m 1 Lev. iv. 2, 3.—ⁿ Lev. v. 6, vi.

Verse 21. Arches] Porch. The arch was not known at this period.

Verse 24. According to these measures.] The same measures that had been used at the eastern court.

Verse 30. And the arches round about were five and

6. vii. 1.—^o Or, at the step.—^p Or, endirons, or the two hearthstones.—^q 1 Chron. vi. 31.—^r Lev. viii. 35. Num. iii. 27, 28, 32, 38. xviii. 5. 1 Chron. ix. 23. 2 Chron. xiii. 11. Ps. cxxxiv. 1.—^s Or, ward, or ordinance. And, so ver. 46.—^t Num. xviii. 5. Ch. xiv. 15.

twenty cubits long] That the five cubits broad should be read twenty-five is evident from verses 21, 25, 29, 33, and 36.

Verse 39. The porch of the gate] The north gate of the court of the priests.

charge of the altar: these are the sons of ^a Zadok among the sons of Levi, which come near to the LORD to minister unto him.

47 So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, four-square; and the altar that was before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured each post of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

^a 1 Kings ii. 35. Ch. xliii. 19. xliiv. 15, 16.

Two tables] Some say of marble.

Verse 41. Four tables] These were in the porch of the north gate, in the court of the priests: on them they slew, flayed, and cut up the victims.

49 ^b The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits; and he brought me by the steps whereby they went up to it; and there were ^c pillars for the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

^b 1 Kings vi. 3.—^c 1 Kings vii. 21.

Verse 47. He measured the court] This was the court of the priests.

Verse 48. Breadth of the gate] It is evident that the gate was a bivalve, or had folding doors. The length of the porch was twenty cubits.

CHAPTER XLI.

In this chapter the prophet gives us a circumstantial account of the measures, parts, chambers, and ornaments of the temple, 1-26.

AFTERWARD he brought me to the temple, and measured the posts, six cubits broad on the one side, and six cubits broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the ^adoor was ten cubits; and the sides of the door were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side: and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits: and the breadth, ^b twenty cubits.

3 Then went he inward, and measured the post of the door, two cubits; and the door six cubits; and the breadth of the door, seven cubits.

4 So ^c he measured the length thereof, twenty cubits; and the breadth, twenty cubits, before the temple: and he said unto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After he measured the wall of the house, six cubits; and the breadth of every side chamber, four cubits, round about the house on every side.

6 ^d And the side chambers were three, ^e one over another, and ^f thirty in order; and they entered into the wall which was of the house for the side chambers round about, that they might ^g have hold, but they had not hold in the wall of the house.

7 And ^h there ⁱ was an enlarging, and a winding about still upward to the side chambers: for the winding about of the house went still upward round about the house: therefore the breadth of the house was still upward, and so increased from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst.

8 I saw also the height of the house round about:

^a Or, entrance.—^b 1 Kings vi. 2.—^c 1 Kings vi. 20. 2 Chron. iii. 8.—^d 1 Kings vi. 5, 6.—^e Heb. side chamber over side chamber.—^f Or, three and thirty times, or foot.—^g Heb. be holden.—^h Heb. it was made Verse 1. To the temple] He had first described the courts and the porch.

Verse 2. The breadth of the door] The measurements are exactly the same as those of Solomon's temple. See 1 Kings vi. 2, 17.

Verse 4. The length thereof, twenty cubits] This also was the exact measurement of Solomon's temple, see 1 Kings vi. 20.

Verse 6. Entered into the wall] The beams were admitted into the outer wall, but they rested on projections of the inner wall.

the foundations of the side chambers were ^a a full reed of six great cubits.

9 The thickness of the wall, which was for the side chamber without, was five cubits: and that which was left was the place of the side chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the doors of the side chambers were toward the place that was left, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south: and the breadth of the place that was left was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place at the end toward the west was seventy cubits broad; and the wall of the building was five cubits thick round about, and the length thereof ninety cubits.

13 So he measured the house, an hundred cubits long: and the separate place, and the building, with the walls thereof, an hundred cubits long;

14 Also the breadth of the face of the house, and of the separate place toward the east, an hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building over against the separate place which was behind it, and the ^b galleries thereof on the one side and on the other side, an hundred cubits, with the inner temple, and the porches of the court;

16 The door posts, and ^c the narrow window, and the galleries round about on their three stories, over broader, and went round.—^d 1 Kings vi. 8.—^e Ch. xl. 5.—^f Or, several walks, or walks with pillars.—^g Ch. xl. 18. Ver. 26.

Verse 7. An enlarging, and a winding about] Perhaps a winding staircase that widened upward as the inner wall decreased in thickness.

Verse 9. The place of the side chambers] A walk, or gallery of communication along the chambers, five cubits broad, ver. 11.

Verse 13. So he measured the house] The temple, taken from the wall which encompassed it from the western side to the vestibule, was one hundred and one cubits; free for the separate place, nine for the wall and the chambers attached to the temple, sixty for the sanctuary and the holy against the door, *cieled with wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were covered;

17 To that above the door, even unto the inner house, and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, by ^c measure.

18 And it was made ^d with cherubims and palm trees, so that a palm tree was between a cherub and a cherub; and every cherub had two faces;

19 * So that the face of a man was toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side: it was made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm trees made, and on the wall of the temple.

21 The ^f posts of the temple were squared, and the face of the sanctuary; the appearance of the one as the appearance of the other.

* Heb. ceiling of wood.—^b Or, and the ground unto the windows.—^c Heb. measures.—^d 1 Kings vi. 29.—^e See ch. i. 10.—^f Heb. post.—

place, ten for the vestibule, and twelve for the two great walls on the west and east of the temple; in all, one hundred and one cubits.

Verse 14. The breadth of the face of the house] That is, the front.

Verse 18. A palm tree was between a cherub and a cherub] That is, the palm trees and the cherubs were alternated; and each cherub had two faces, one of a lion, and the other of a man; one of which was turned to the palm tree on the right, the other to the palm tree on the left.

22 * The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits; and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof, were of wood: and he said unto me, This is ^b the table that is ^c before the LORD.

23 ^d And the temple and the sanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two leaves apiece, two turning leaves; two leaves for the one door, and two leaves for the other door.

25 And there were made on them, on the doors of the temple, cherubims and palm trees, like as were made upon the walls; and there were thick planks upon the face of the porch without.

26 And there were ^e narrow windows and palm trees on the one side and on the other side, on the sides of the porch, and upon the side chambers of the house, and thick planks.

* Exod. xxx. 1.—^b Ch. xiv. 18. Mal. i. 7, 12.—^c Exod. xxx. 8.—^d 1 Kings vi. 31-35.—^e Ch. xl. 16. Ver. 18.

Verse 20. From the ground unto above the door] The temple was thirty cubits high, 1 Kings vi. 2; the gate was fourteen cubits, chap. xl. 48.

Verse 22. The altar of wood] This was the altar of incense, and was covered with plates of gold.

Verse 25. There were thick planks] The wood, or planks, were thick and strong; for the cherubim and palm trees were carved in relief, out of their substance, and unless they had been of considerable thickness, this could not have been done.

CHAPTER XLII.

This chapter gives us a description of the priests' chambers and their use, with the dimensions of the holy mount on which the temple stood, 1-20.

THEN he brought me forth into the utter court, the way toward the north: and he brought me into ^a the chamber that was over against the ^b separate place, and which was before the building toward the north.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and the breadth was fifty cubits.

3 Over against the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement which was for the utter court, was ^c gallery against gallery in three stories.

4 And before the chambers was a walk of ten cubits' breadth inward, a way of one cubit; and their doors toward the north.

5 Now the upper chambers were shorter: for the galleries ^d were higher than these, ^e than the lower, and than the middlemost of the building.

6 For they were in three stories, but had not pillars as the pillars of the courts: therefore the building was straitened more than the lowest and the middlemost from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over against the

* Ch. xli. 12, 15.—^b Ch. xli. 12, 13, 14. xliii. 10, 18.—^c Ch. xli. 16.—^d Or, did eat of these.—^e Or, and the building consisted of the lower

Verse 1. He brought me forth into the utter court] He brought him out from the temple into the court of the priests. This, in reference to the temple, was called the outer court; but the court of the people was beyond this.

chambers, toward the utter court on the forepart of the chambers, the length thereof was fifty cubits.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the utter court was fifty cubits: and, lo, before the temple, were an hundred cubits.

9 And ^f from under these chambers was ^g the entry on the east side, ^h as one goeth into them from the utter court.

10 The chambers were in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east, over against the separate place, and over against the building.

11 And ⁱ the way before them was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their goings out were both according to their fashions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers that were toward the south was a door in the head of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the east, as one entereth into them.

13 Then said he unto me, The north chambers, and the south chambers, which are before the sepaand the middlemost.—^f Or, from the place.—^g Or, he that brought me.—^h Or, as he came.—ⁱ Ver. 4.

Verse 4. A walk of ten cubits' breadth inward] This seems to have been a sort of parapet.

Verse 14. They shall lay their garments wherein they minister] The priests were not permitted to wear their rate place, they be holy chambers, where the priests that approach unto the LORD ^ashall eat the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and ^bthe meat-offering, and the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering; for the place is holy.

14 ^cWhen the priests enter therein, then shall they not go out of the holy place into the utter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister; for they are holy; and shall put on other garments, and shall approach to those things which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the east, and measured it round about.

^a Lev. vi. 16, 28. xxiv. 9.—^b Lev. ii. 3, 10. vi. 14, 17, 25, 29. vii. 1. x. 13, 14. Num. xviii. 9, 10.

robes in the outer court. These vestments were to be used only when they ministered; and when they had done, they were to deposit them in one of the chambers mentioned in the thirteenth verse.

Verses 16-19. He measured the east—north—south—west side] Each of which was five hundred reeds: and, as the 16 He measured the east ^dside with the measuring reed, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

17 He measured the north side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed round about.

18 He measured the south side, five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

19 He turned about to the west side, and measured five hundred reeds, with the measuring reed.

20 He measured it by the four sides: ^eit had a wall round about, ^ffive hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make a separation between the sanctuary and the profane place.

^c Ch. xlv. 19.—^d Heb. wind.—^e Ch. xl. 5.—^f Ch. xlv. 2.

building was square, the area must have been nearly thirteen thousand paces.

Verse 20. It had a wall round about] The holy place was that which was consecrated to the Lord; into which no heathen, nor stranger, nor any in a state of impurity, might enter. The profane place was that to which men, women, Gentiles, pure or impure, might be admitted.

CHAPTER XLIII.

The glory of the Lord is represented as returning to the temple, 1-6; where God promises to fix his residence, if the people repent and forsake those sins which caused him to depart from them, 7-12. Then the measures of the altar, and the ordinances relating to it, are set down, 13-27.

AFTERWARD he brought me to the gate, even the gate ^athat looketh toward the east:

2 ^bAnd, behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east: and ^chis voice was like the noise of many waters: ^dand the earth shined with his glory.

3 And it was ^eaccording to the appearance of the vision which I saw, even according to the vision that I saw ^fwhen I came ^gto destroy the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw ^hby the river Chebar; and I fell upon my face.

4 ⁱAnd the glory of the LORD came into the house by the way of the gate whose prospect is toward the east.

^a Ch. x. 19. xlv. 1. xlv. 1.—^b Ch. xl. 28.—^c Ch. i. 24. Rev. i. 15. xiv. 2. xix. 1. 6.—^d Ch. x. 4. Rev. xviii. 1.—^e Ch. i. 4, 28. viii. 4.—^f Or, when I came to prophesy that the city should be destroyed. See ch. ix. 1, 5.—^g So Jer. i. 10.—^h Ch. i. 3. iii. 23.—ⁱ See ch. x. 19. xlv. 2.—^j Ch. iii. 12, 14. viii. 8.—^k 1 Kings vii. 10, 11. Ch. xlv. 4.—

Verse 2. The glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east] Is there not a mystery here? All knowledge, all religion, and all arts and sciences, have travelled, according to the course of the sun, FROM EAST TO WEST! From that quarter the divine glory at first came; and thence the rays of divine light continue to diffuse themselves over the face of the earth. From thence came the Bible, and through that the new covenant. From thence came the prophets, the apostles, and the first missionaries, that brought the knowledge of God to Europe, to the isles of the sea, and to the west first, and afterwards to these northern regions.

Verse 7. Son of man, the place of my throne] The throne refers to his majesty; the soles of his feet, to his condescension in dwelling among men.

Where I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel]

5 ^jSo the spirit took me up, and brought me into the inner court; and, behold, the ^kglory of the LORD filled the house.

6 And I heard him speaking unto me out of the house; and ^lthe man stood by me.

7 And he said unto me, Son of man, ^mthe place of my throne, and ⁿthe place of the soles of my feet, ^owhere I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel for ever, and my holy name shall the house of Israel ^pno more defile, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoredom, nor by the ^qcarcasses of their kings in their high places.

8 ^rIn their setting of their threshold by my thresholds, and their posts by my posts, ^sand the wall between me and them, they have even doffed

^j Ch. xl. 3.—^k Ps. xcix. 1.—^l 1 Chron. xxviii. 2. Ps. xcix. 5.—^m Exod. xxxix. 45. Ps. lxxviii. 16. cxxxii. 14. Joel iii. 17. John i. 14. 2 Cor. vi. 16.—ⁿ Ch. xxxix. 7.—^o Lev. xxvi. 80. Jer. xvi. 18.—^p See 2 Kings xvi. 14. xxi. 4, 5, 7. Ch. viii. 3. xxiii. 29. xlv. 7.—^q Or, for there was but a wall between me and them.

The tabernacle and temple were types of the incarnation of Jesus Christ: John ii. 19, 21. And in THAT TEMPLE "dwelt all the fulness of the Godhead bodily." Into this immaculate humanity did the glory of the Supreme God enter; and thus, "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself." And this Jesus is Immanuel, God with us.

Verse 8. In their setting of their threshold] They had even gone so far as to set up their idol altars by those of Jehovah; so that their abominable idols were found in the very house of God! therefore, "he consumed them in his ire."

Verse 9. Now let them put away their whoredom] Their idolatry.

And the carcasses of their kings] It appears that God was displeased with their bringing their kings so near his temple.

my holy name by their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in mine anger.

9 Now let them put away their whoredom, and * the carcasses of their kings, far from me, * and I will dwell in the midst of them for ever.

10 Thou son of man, * shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the * pattern.

11 And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the form of the house, and the fashion thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keep the whole form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

12 This is the law of the house; Upon * the top of the mountain the whole limit thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the house.

13 And these are the measures of the altar after the cubits: * The cubit is a cubit and an hand breadth; even the * bottom shall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit, and the border thereof by the * edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the higher place of the altar.

14 And from the bottom upon the ground, even to the lower settle, shall be two cubits, and the breadth one cubit; and from the lesser settle even to the greater settle shall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 So * the altar shall be four cubits; and from * the altar and upward shall be four horns.

16 And the altar shall be twelve cubits long, twelve broad, square in the four squares thereof.

17 And the settle shall be fourteen cubits long and fourteen broad in the four squares thereof; and the border about it shall be half a cubit; and the bottom thereof shall be a cubit about; and * his stairs shall look toward the east.

18 And he said unto me, Son of man, thus saith the Lord God; These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, and to * sprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt give to * the priests the Levites that be of the seed of Zadok, which approach unto me; to minister unto me, saith the Lord God, * a young bullock for a sin-offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the four horns of it, and on the four corners of the settle, and upon the border round about: thus shall thou cleanse and purge it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullock also of the sin-offering, and he * shall burn it in the appointed place of the house, * without the sanctuary.

22 And on the second day thou shalt offer a kid of the goats without blemish for a sin offering; and they shall cleanse the altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullock.

23 When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullock without blemish, and a ram out of the flock without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the Lord, * and the priests shall cast salt upon them, and they shall offer them up for a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

25 * Seven days shalt thou prepare every day a goat for a sin-offering: they shall also prepare a young bullock, and a ram out of the flock, without blemish.

26 Seven days shall they purge the altar and purify it; and they shall * consecrate themselves.

27 * And when these days are expired, it shall be, that upon the eighth day, and so forward, the priests shall make your burnt-offerings upon the altar, and your * peace-offerings; and I will * accept you, saith the Lord God.

* Ver. 7.—^b Ver. 7.—^c Ch. xl. 4.—^d Or, sum, or number.—^e Ch. xl. 2.—^f Ch. xl. 5. xli. 8.—^g Heb. bosom.—^h Heb. lip.—ⁱ Heb. Harel, that is, the mountain of God.—^j Heb. Ariel, that is, the lion of God. Isa. xxix. 1.—^k See Exod. xx. 26.—^l Lev. i. 5.—^m Ch. xlii. 15.—ⁿ Exod. xxix. 10, 12. Lev. viii. 14, 15. Ch. xlv. 18, 19.—^o Exod.

[The expression is not to be taken literally. "The carcasses of kings," are the rival monarchs, that is the idols, dead and not living.]

Verse 10. Let them measure the pattern.] Let them see the rule by which they should have walked, and let them measure themselves by this standard, and walk accordingly.

Verse 11. And if they be ashamed] If, in a spirit of true repentance, they acknowledge their past transgressions, and purpose in his help never more to offend their God, then teach them every thing that concerns my worship, and their profiting by it.

Verse 12. This is the law of the house] From the top of the mountain on which it stands, to the bottom, all round about, all shall be holy; no buildings shall be erected in any part, nor place nor spot be appropriated to a common use, all shall be considered as being most holy.

Verse 13. The cubit is a cubit and an hand breadth] It is the same cubit by which all the previous admeasurements were made, and was a handbreadth or four inches longer than the Babylonian cubit.

Verse 15. No the altar] Haharel, "the mount of God." And from the altar] Umihaariel, "and from the lion of God." Perhaps the first was a name given to the altar when elevated to the honour of God, and on which the victims were offered to him; and the second, the lion of God, may mean the hearth, which might have been thus called, because it devoured and consumed the burnt-offerings, as a lion does his prey. See on Isa. xxix. 1.

Verse 17. And the settle] The ledge on which the priests walked round the altar, see ver. 14.

Verse 19. The priests—that be of the seed of Zadok] It was this Zadok that was put in the place of Abiathar, by Solomon, 1 Kings ii. 35, in whose family the priesthood had continued ever since.

Verse 25. Seven days shalt thou prepare] These are, in general, ordinances of the Law; and may be seen by consulting the parallel passages.

CHAPTER XLIV.

This chapter gives an account of the glory of God having returned to the temple, 1-4. The Jews reproved for suffering idolatrous priests to pollute it with their ministrations, 5-8. Ordinances respecting the conduct of the priests, and the maintenance due to them, 9-31.

THEN he brought me back the way of the gate of the outward sanctuary * which looketh toward the east; and it was shut.

2 Then said the LORD unto me; This gate shall be shut, it shall not be opened, and no man shall enter in by it; ^b because the LORD, the God of Israel, hath entered in by it, therefore it shall be shut.

3 It is for the prince; the prince, he shall sit in it to ^c eat bread before the LORD; ^d he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall go out by the way of the same.

4 Then brought he me the way of the north gate before the house; and I looked, and, ^e behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD; ^f and I fell upon my face.

5 And the LORD said unto me, ^g Son of man, ^h mark well, and behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears all that I say unto thee concerning all the ordinances of the house of the LORD, and all the laws thereof; and mark well the entering in of the house, with every going forth of the sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the ⁱ rebellious, even to the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God; O ye house of Israel, ^j let it suffice you of all your abominations,

7 ^k In that ye have brought into my sanctuary ^l strangers, ^m "uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, to pollute it, even my house, when ye offer ⁿ my bread, ^o the fat and the blood, and they have broken my covenant because of all your abominations.

8 And ye have not ^p kept the charge of mine holy things; but ye have set keepers of my ^q charge in my sanctuary for yourselves.

9 Thus saith the Lord God; ^r No stranger, uncircumcised in heart, nor uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel.

10 ^s And the Levites that are gone away far from me, when Israel went astray, which went astray away from me after their idols; they shall even bear their iniquity.

11 Yet they shall be ministers in my sanctuary, ^t having charge at the gates of the house, and ministering to the house: ^u they shall slay ^v the burnt-offering and the sacrifice for the people, and ^w they shall stand before them to minister unto them.

12 Because they ministered unto them before their idols, and ^x caused ^y the house of Israel to fall into iniquity; therefore have I ^z lifted up mine hand against them, saith the Lord God, and they shall bear their iniquity.

13 ^{aa} And they shall not come near unto me, to do the office of a priest unto me, nor to come near to any of my holy things, in the most holy place: but they shall ^{bb} bear their shame, and their abominations which they have committed.

14 But I will make them ^{cc} keepers of the charge of the house, for all the service thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 ^{dd} But the priests the Levites, ^{ee} the sons of Zadok, that kept the charge of my sanctuary "when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come near to me to minister unto me, and they ^{ff} shall stand before me to offer unto me ^{gg} the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God:

16 They shall enter into my sanctuary, and they shall come near to ^{hh} my table, to minister unto me, and they shall keep my charge.

17 And it shall come to pass, that when they enter in at the gates of the inner court, ⁱⁱ they shall be clothed with linen garments; and no wool shall come upon them, whiles they minister in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 ^{kk} They shall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and shall have linen breeches upon their loins; they shall not gird themselves ^{ll} with ^{mm} any thing that causeth sweat.

19 And when they go forth into the utter court even into the utter court of the people, ⁿⁿ they shall put off their garments wherein they ministered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments; and they shall ^{oo} not sanctify the people with their garments.

20 ^{pp} Neither shall they shave their heads, nor suffer their locks to grow long; they shall only poll their heads.

21 ^{qq} Neither shall any priest drink wine, when they enter into the inner court.

22 Neither shall they take for their wives a ^{rr} widow, nor her that is ^{ss} put away: but they shall take maidens of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow ^{tt} that had a priest before.

23 And ^{uu} they shall teach my people the difference between the holy and profane, and cause them to discern between the unclean and the clean.

24 And ^{vv} in controversy they shall stand in judgment; and they shall judge it according to my judgments; and they shall keep my laws and my

^a Ch. xliii. 1.—^b Ch. xliii. 4.—^c Gen. xxxi. 54. 1 Cor. x. 18.—^d Ch. xli. 2, 8.—^e Ch. iii. 23. xliii. 5.—^f Ch. i. 28.—^g Ch. xl. 4.—^h Heb. set thine heart.—ⁱ Ch. ii. 5.—^j Ch. xlv. 9. 1 Pot. iv. 8.—^k Ch. xliii. 8. Ver. 9. Acts xxi. 28.—^l Heb. children of a stranger.—^m Lev. xlii. 25.—ⁿ Lev. xvi. 41. Deut. x. 16. Acts vii. 51.—^o Lev. xxi. 6, 8, 17, 21.—^p Lev. iii. 16. xvii. 11.—^q Lev. xxii. 2, &c.—^r Or, ward, or ordinance. And so ver. 14, 16. Ch. xl. 45.—^s Ver. 7.—^t See 2 Kings xxiii. 8, &c. 2 Chron. xxix. 4, 5. Ch. xlviii. 11.—^u 1 Chron. xxi. 1.—^v 2 Chron. xxix. 34.—^w Num. xvi. 9.—^x Isa. ix. 16. Mal. ii. 8.—^y Heb. were for a stumbling block of iniquity unto, &c. Ch.

xiv. 3, 4.—^z Ps. cvi. 26.—^{aa} 2 Kings xxiii. 9. Num. xviii. 3.—^{bb} Ch. xxiii. 30. xxxvii. 7.—^{cc} Num. xviii. 4. 1 Chron. xxiii. 28, 32.—^{dd} Ch. xl. 46, xliii. 19.—^{ee} 1 Sam. ii. 35.—^{ff} Ver. 10.—^{gg} Deut. x. 8.—^{hh} Ver. 7.—ⁱⁱ Ch. xli. 22.—^{jj} Exod. xxviii. 39, 40, 43. xxxix. 27, 28.—^{kk} Exod. xxviii. 40, 42. xxxix. 28.—^{ll} Or, in sweating places.—^{mm} Heb. in, or with sweat.—ⁿⁿ Ch. xlii. 14.—^{oo} Ch. xli. 20. See Exod. xxix. 37. xxx. 9. Lev. vi. 27. Matt. xxiii. 17, 19.—^{pp} Lev. xxi. 5.—^{qq} Lev. x. 9.—^{rr} Lev. xxi. 7, 13, 14.—^{ss} Heb. thrust forth.—^{tt} Heb. from a priest.—^{uu} Lev. x. 10, 11. Ch. xxii. 26. Mal. ii. 7.—^{vv} Deut. xvii. 8, &c. 2 Chron. xix. 8, 10.

Verse 1. The outward sanctuary] In opposition to the temple itself, which was the inner sanctuary.

Verse 2. This gate shall be shut] It was not to be opened on ordinary occasions, nor at the week days: but only on the sabbaths and the new moons.

Verse 5. Mark well, and behold] Take notice of every thing; register all so fully that thou shalt be able to give the most minute information to the children of Israel.

Verse 7. The fat and the blood] These never went into common use; they were wholly offered to God. The blood was poured out; the fat consumed.

Verse 10. And the Levites that are gone away far from me]

This refers to the schism of Jeroboam, who, when he set up a new worship, got as many of the priests and Levites to join him in his idolatry as he could.

Verse 16. Come near to my table] To place the shewbread there, and to burn incense on the golden altar in the holy of holies.

Verse 17. No wool shall come upon them] The reason is plain; wool is more apt than linen to contract dirt and breed insects; linen breeds none; besides, this is a vegetable, and the other an animal substance.

Verse 20. Neither shall they shave their heads] To let the hair grow long would have been improper; therefore statutes in all mine assemblies; * and they shall hallow my sabbaths.

25 And they shall come at no ^b dead person to defile themselves: but for father, or for mother, or for son, or for daughter, for brother, or for sister that hath had no husband, they may defile themselves.

26 And *after he is cleansed, they shall reckon unto him seven days.

27 And in the day that he goeth into the sanctuary, * unto the inner court, to minister in the sanctuary * he shall offer his sin-offering, saith the Lord God.

28 And it shall be unto them for an inheritance:

* See ch. xxii. 26. ^b Lev. xxi. 1, &c.—^c Num. vi. 10. xix. 11, &c.—^d Ver. 17.—^e Lev. iv. 3.—^f Num. xviii. 20. Dent. x. 9. xviii. 1, 2. Josh. xiii. 14, 33. —^g Lev. vi. 18, 29. vii. 6.—^h Lev. xxvii. 21, 28, compared with Numb. xviii. 14.—ⁱ Or, devoted.—^j Or, chief.—

the Lord commands them to poll—out the hair short, but not to shave.

Verse 22. Neither shall they take for their wives a widow] This was prohibited to the high-priest only, by Moses, 1 Lev. xvi. 18, 14.

* I am their inheritance: and ye shall give them no possession in Israel: I am their possession.

29 * They shall eat the meat-offering, and the sin-offering, and the trespass-offering; and * every ¹ dedicated thing in Israel shall be theirs.

30 And the ¹ first * of all the first-fruits of all things, and every oblation of all, of every sort of your oblations, shall be the priest's: ¹ ye shall also give unto the priest the first of your dough, * that he may cause the blessing to rest in thine house.

31 The priest shall not eat of any thing that is * dead of itself, or torn, whether it be fowl or beast.

* Exod. xlii. 2. xxii. 29, 30, xxiii. 19. Num. iii. 13. xviii. 12, 13.—¹ Num. xv. 20. Neh. x. 37.—² Prov. iii. 9, 10. Mal. iii. 10.—³ Exod. xxii. 31. Lev. xxi. 8.

Verse 25. And they shall come at no dead person to defile themselves] Touching the dead defiles a Hindoo now, as it formerly did a Jew; and they must bathe to become clean again.

CHAPTER XLV.

The several portions of land appointed for the sanctuary, 1-5, the city, 6, and the prince, 7, 8. Regulations concerning the weights and measures, 9-12; with ordinances respecting the provisions for the ordinary and extraordinary sacrifices, 13-25.

MOREOVER, * when ye shall ^b divide by lot the land for inheritance, ye shall * offer an oblation unto the LORD, * a holy portion of the land: the length shall be the length of five and twenty thousand reeds, and the breadth shall be ten thousand. This shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 Of this there shall be for the sanctuary * five hundred in length, with five hundred in breadth, square round about; and fifty cubits round about for the * suburbs thereof.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of five and twenty thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: * and in it shall be the sanctuary and the most holy place.

4 * The holy portion of the land shall be for the priests, the ministers of the sanctuary, which shall come near to minister unto the LORD: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the sanctuary.

5 * And the five and twenty thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth, shall also the Levites, the ministers of the house, have for themselves, for a possession for ¹ twenty chambers.

* Heb. when ye cause the land to fall.—^b Ch. xlvii. 22.—^c Ch. xlviii. 8.—^d Heb. holiness.—^e Ch. xliii. 20.—^f Or, void places.—^g Ch. xlviii. 10.—^h Ver. 1. Ch. xlviii. 10, &c.—ⁱ Ch. xlviii. 13.—^j See ch. xl. 17.

Verse 1. When ye shall divide by lot] The allotment mentioned and described here was merely for the service of the temple, the use of the priests, and the prince or governor of the people. A division of the whole land is not intended.

Verse 7. A portion shall be for the prince] Nasi, he who had the authority of chief magistrate; for there was neither king nor prince among the Jews after the Babylonish captivity.

Verse 8. My princes shall no more oppress my people] By exorbitant taxes to maintain profligate courts, or sul-

6 And * ye shall appoint the possession of the city five thousand broad, and five and twenty thousand long, over against the oblation of the holy portion; it shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 * And a portion shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the city, before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the city, from the west side westward, and from the east side eastward: and the length shall be over against one of the portions, from the west border unto the east border.

8 In the land shall be his possession in Israel: and * my princes shall no more oppress my people; and the rest of the land shall they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lord God; * Let it suffice you, O princes of Israel: * remove violence and spoil, and execute judgment and justice, take away your ¹ exactions from my people, saith the Lord God.

10 Ye shall have just * balances, and a just ephah, and a just bath.

11 The ephah and the bath shall be of one measure, that the bath may contain the tenth part of an other powers to help to keep up a system of tyranny in the earth.

—¹ Ch. xlviii. 15.—² Ch. xlviii. 21.—³ Ch. xli. 18. See Jer. xxii. 17. Ch. xxii. 27.—⁴ Ch. xlv. 6.—⁵ Jer. xxii. 8.—⁶ Heb. expulsions.—⁷ Lev. xix. 35, 36. Prov. xi. 1.

Verse 9. Take away your exactions from my people] This is the voice of God to all the rulers of the earth. Abolish all oppressive taxes.

Verse 10. Ye shall have just balances] This appreciation of weights, measures, and money was intended to show them that they must not introduce those to which they had been accustomed in the captivity, but those which God had prescribed to their forefathers.

homer, and the ephah the tenth part of an homer: the measure thereof shall be after the homer.

12 And the ^ashekel shall be twenty gerahs: twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, fifteen shekels, shall be your maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall offer: the sixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye shall give the sixth part of an ophah of an homer of barley:

14 Concerning the ordinance of oil, the bath of oil, ye shall offer the tenth part of a bath out of the cor, which is an homer of ten baths; for ten baths are an homer:

15 And one ^blamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the fat pastures of Israel; for a meat-offering, and for a burnt-offering, and for ^cpeace-offerings, ^dto make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land ^eshall give this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shall be the prince's part to give burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and drink-offerings, in the feasts, and in the new moons, and in the sabbaths, and all solemnities of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sin-offering, and the meat-offering, and the burnt-offering, and the ^fpeace-offerings, to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

18 Thus saith the Lord God: In the first month,

^a Exod. xxx. 13. Lev. xxvii. 25. Num. iii. 47. ^b Or, kid. ^c Or, thank-offerings. ^d Lev. i. 4. ^e Heb. shall be for. ^f Or, with. ^g Or, thank-offerings. ^h Lev. xvi. 16. ⁱ Ch. xliii. 20. ^j Lev. iv. 27. ^k Exod. xii. 18. Lev. xxiii. 5, 6. Num. ix. 2, 8. xxviii. 16, 17.

Verse 16. All—this oblation for the prince] A present or offering to the prince.

Verse 18. Thou shalt take a young bullock—and cleanse the sanctuary.] There is nothing of this in the Mosaic law; it seems to have been a new ceremony. An annual purification of the sanctuary may be intended.

in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and ^acleanse the sanctuary.

19 ^bAnd the priest shall take of the blood of the sin-offering, and put it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the settle of the altar, and upon the posts of the gate of the inner court.

20 And so thou shalt do the seventh day of the month ^cfor every one that erreth, and for him that is simple: so shall ye reconcile the house.

21 ^dIn the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten.

22 And upon that day shall the prince prepare for himself and for all the people of the land ^ea bullock for a sin-offering.

23 And ^fseven days of the feast he shall prepare a burnt-offering to the Lord, seven bullocks and seven rams without blemish daily the seven days; ^gand a kid of the goats daily for a sin-offering.

24 ^hAnd he shall prepare a meat-offering of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and an hin of oil for an ephah.

25 In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, shall he do the like in the ⁱfeast of the seven days, according to the sin-offering, according to the burnt-offering, and according to the meat-offering, and according to the oil.

Deut. xvi. 1, &c. ^a Lev. iv. 14. ^b Lev. xxiii. 8. ^c See Num. xxviii. 15, 22, 30. xxix. 5, 11, 16, 19, &c. ^d Ch. xli. 5, 7. ^e Lev. xxiii. 33. Num. xxix. 12. Deut. xvi. 13.

Verse 20. For him that is simple] That wants understanding to conduct himself properly.

Verse 25. In the seventh month] He shall do at the feast of tabernacles the same things that he was desired to do on the passover. The prince should offer the same number of victims, of the same quality, and with the same ceremonies, as during the above seven days.

CHAPTER XLVI.

Ordinances of worship prescribed for the prince and for the people, 1-15; and the gifts he may bestow on his sons and servants, 16-18. A description of the courts appointed for boiling or baking any part of the holy oblations, 19-24.

THUS saith the LORD GOD; The gate of the inner court that looketh toward the east shall be shut the six working days; but on the sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened.

2 ^aAnd the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the post of the gate, and the priest shall prepare his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: then he shall go forth: but the gate shall not be shut until the evening.

^a Ch. xli. 3. Ver. 8. ^b Ch. xlv. 17. ^c Ch. xlv. 29. Ver. 7, 11.

Verse 4. The burnt-offering that the prince shall offer] The chief magistrate was always obliged to attend the public worship of God, as well as the priest, to show that the civil and ecclesiastical states were both under the same government of the Lord; and that no one was capable of being 3 Likewise the people of the land shall worship at the door of this gate before the Lord in the sabbaths and in the new moons.

4 And the burnt-offering that ^bthe prince shall offer unto the Lord in the sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish.

5 ^cAnd the meat-offering shall be an ephah for a ram, and the meat-offering for the lambs ^das he shall be able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

6 And in the day of the new moon it shall be a young bullock without blemish, and six lambs, and a ram: they shall be without blemish.

^a Heb. the gift of his hand. Deut. xvi. 17.

prince or priest, who did not acknowledge God in all his ways.

Verse 7. According as his hand shall attain unto] According to his ability, to what the providence of God has put in his hand, i.e., his power.

7 And he shall prepare a meat-offering, an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs according as his hand shall attain unto, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

8 And when the prince shall enter, he shall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land ^b shall come before the LORD in the solemn feasts, he that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worship shall go out by the way of the south gate; and he that entereth by the way of the south gate shall go forth by the way of the north gate: he shall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but shall go forth over against it.

10 And the prince in the midst of them, when they go in, shall go in; and when they go forth, shall go forth.

11 And in the feasts and in the solemnities ^c the meat-offering shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs as he is able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

12 Now when the prince shall prepare a voluntary burnt-offering or peace-offerings voluntarily unto the LORD, ^d one shall then open him the gate that looketh toward the east, and he shall prepare his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings, as he did on the sabbath day: then he shall go forth; and after his going forth ^e one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daily prepare a burnt-offering unto the LORD of a lamb ^f of the first year with out blemish: thou shalt prepare it ^g every morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meat-offering for it every morning, the sixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to temper with the fine flour; a meat-offering continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the LORD.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lamb, and the meat-offering, and the oil, every morning for a continual burnt-offering.

16 Thus saith the LORD God; If the prince give a gift unto any of his sons, the inheritance thereof shall be his sons'; it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to ^h the year of liberty; after it shall return to the prince; but his inheritance shall be his sons' for them.

18 Moreover ⁱ the prince shall not take of the people's inheritance by oppression, to thrust them out of their possession; but he shall give his sons' inheritance out of his own possession; that my people be not scattered every man from his possession.

19 After he brought me through the entry, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the priests, which looked toward the north: and, behold, there was a place on the two sides westward.

20 Then said he unto me, This is the place where the priests shall ^j boil the trespass-offering and the sin-offering, where they shall ^k bake the meat-offering; that they bear them not out into the outer court, ^l to sanctify the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the utter court, and caused me to pass by the four corners of the court; and, behold, ^m in every corner of the court there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts ⁿ joined of forty cubits long and thirty broad: these four ^o corners were of one measure.

23 And there was a row of building round about in them, round about them four, and it was made with boiling places under the rows round about.

24 Then said he unto me, These are the places of them that boil, where the ministers of the house shall ^p boil the sacrifice of the people.

^a Ver. 2.—^b Exod. xxiii. 14-17. Dent. xvi. 16.—^c Ver. 5.—^d Ch. xlv. 3. Ver. 2.—^e Exod. xxix. 38. Num. xxviii. 8.—^f Heb. a son of his year. —^g Heb. morning by morning.—^h Lev. xxv. 10.—ⁱ Ch. xlv. 8.—^j 2 Chron. xxxv. 13.—^k Lev. ii. 4, 5, 7.—^l Ch. xlv. 19.—

Verse 9. He that entereth in by the way of the north, &c.] As the north and the south gates were opposite to each other, he that came in at the north must go out at the south; he that came in at the south must go out at the north.

Verse 10. And the prince in the midst of them.] The prince and the people were to begin and end their worship at the same time.

Verse 13. Thou shalt prepare it every morning.] The evening offering is entirely omitted, which makes an important difference between this and the old laws. See Exod. xxix. 31-46.

Verse 17. To the year of liberty.] That is, to the year of jubilee, called the year of liberty, because there was then a general release. All servants had their liberty, and all alienated estates returned to their former owners.

^m Heb. a court in a corner of a court, and a court in a corner of a court.—ⁿ Or, made with chimneys.—^o Heb. cornered.—^p See ver. 20. Lev. viii. 31. 1 Kings xix. 21. 2 Kings vi. 29.

Verse 20. The trespass-offering.] Part of this, and of the sin-offering, and the flour-offering, was the portion of the priests. See Num. xviii. 9, 10.

Verse 23. It was made with boiling places.] These were uncovered apartments, where they kept fires for dressing those parts of the peace-offerings, which were made in the temple by individuals through a principle of devotion. On these their families and their friends feasted; and portions were sent to the poor, the widows, and the orphans. And thus the spirit of devotion was the means of preserving the spirit of mercy, charity, and benevolence in the land.

CHAPTER XLVII.

The vision of the holy waters, issuing out of the temple, and their virtue; an emblem of the power of God's grace under the gospel, capable of healing all but the incorrigibly impenitent, represented by the marshy ground that cannot be healed, 1-12. Also a description of the several divisions of the Holy Land indiscriminately shared between Jews and proselytes; to denote that in after times the privileges now enjoyed by the Jews should be also extended to the Gentiles, 13-23.

AFTERWARD he brought me again unto the door of the house; and, behold, "waters issued out from under the ^bthreshold of the house eastward: for the fore front of the house stood toward the east, and the waters came down from under from the right side of the house, at the south side of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out of the way of the gate northward, and led me about the way without unto the utter gate by the way that looketh eastward; and, behold, there ran out waters on the right side.

3 And when "the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the "waters were to the ancles.

4 Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters; the waters were to the knees. Again he measured a thousand, and brought me through; the waters were to the loins.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand; and it was a river that I could not pass over: for the waters were risen, "waters to swim in, a river that could not be passed over.

6 And he said unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen this? Then he brought me, and caused me to return to the brink of the river.

7 Now when I had returned, behold, at the "bank

* Joel iii. 18. Zech. xiii. 1. xiv. 8. Rev. xxii. 1.—^b Ps. lxxxiv. 10, in the margin.—^c Ch. xl. 3.—^d Heb. waters of the ancles.—^e Heb. waters of swimming.—^f Heb. hip.—^g Ver. 12. Rev. xii. 2.—^h Or, plain. See Deut. iii. 17. iv. 49. Josh. iii. 18.—ⁱ Heb. two rivers.—

Verse 1. Behold, waters issued out from under the threshold] Literally, no such waters were ever in the temple; and because there were none, Solomon had what is called the brass sea made, which held water for the use of the temple. These waters, as well as those spoken of in Joel iii. 18, and in Zech. xiv. 8, are to be understood spiritually or typically; as the effusion of light and salvation by the out-pouring of the Spirit of God under the gospel dispensation, by which the knowledge of the true God was multiplied in the earth.

Verse 2. There ran out waters] They were at first so small that they came drop by drop; but they increased so, that they became a river in which one could swim.

Verse 3-5. He measured a thousand cubits,—the waters were to the ANCLES, &c.

I. This may be applied to the gradual discoveries of the plan of salvation—I. In the patriarchal ages. 2. In the giving of the law. 3. In the ministry of John the Baptist. And 4. In the full manifestation of Christ by the communication of the Holy Ghost.

II. This vision may be applied also to the growth of a believer in the grace and knowledge of God. There is—1. The seed of the kingdom. 2. The blade from that seed. 3. The ear out of that blade. And 4. The full corn in that ear.

III. It may be applied to the discoveries a penitent believer receives of the mercy of God in his salvation. He is—1. A little child, born of God, born from above, and begins to taste the bread of life, and live on the heavenly food. 2. He grows up and increases in stature and strength, and becomes a young man. 3. He becomes matured in the divine life, and has his spiritual senses exercised so as to become a father in Christ. In other words, the grace of God appears to come drop by drop; it is given as it can be used; it is a seed of light, and multiplies itself. 4. In thus following on to know the Lord he finds a continual increase of light and life, till at last he is carried by the streams of grace to the ocean of eternal mercy.

IV. These waters may be considered as a type of the progress which Christianity shall make in the world. 1. There were only a few poor fishermen. 2. Afterwards many Jews. 3. Then the Gentiles of Asia Minor and Greece. 4. The Continent and Isles of Europe. And 5. Now spreading through Africa, Asia, and America. At present these waters are no longer a river, but an immense sea; and the gospel of the river were very many "trees on the one side and on the other.

8 Then said he unto me, These waters issue out toward the east country, and go down into the "desert, and go into the sea: which being brought forth into the sea, the waters shall be healed.

9 And it shall come to pass, that every thing that liveth, which moveth, whithersoever the "rivers shall come, shall live: and there shall be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither: for they shall be healed; and every thing shall live whither the river cometh.

10 And it shall come to pass, that the fishers shall stand upon it from En-gedi even unto Englain; they shall be a place to spread forth nets; their fish shall be according to their kinds, as the fish "of the great sea, exceeding many.

11 But the miry places thereof and the marishes thereof "shall not be healed; they shall be given to salt.

12 And "by the river upon the bank thereof, on this side and on that side, "shall grow all trees for meat, "whose leaf shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof be consumed: it shall bring forth "new fruit according to his months, because their waters they issued out of the sanctuary: and the fruit thereof shall be for meat, and the leaf thereof "for "medicine.

] Num. xxxiv. 6. Josh. xxi. 4. Ch. xlviii. 28.—^a Or, and that which shall be healed.—^b Ver. 7.—^c Heb. shall come up.—^d Job viii. 18. Ps. i. 3. Jer. xvii. 8.—^e Or, principal.—^f Or, for bruises and sores.—^g Rev. xxii. 2.

fishers are daily bringing multitudes of souls to Christ. Verse 9. Every thing—whithersoever the rivers shall come, shall live] Life and salvation shall continually accompany the preaching of the gospel; the death of sin being removed, the life of righteousness shall be brought in.

There shall be a very great multitude of fish] On the above plan this must refer to genuine converts to the Christian faith; true believers, who have got life and salvation by the streams of God's grace. The apostles were fishers of men; converts were the fish caught. As the waters flow into the Dead Sea, where no fish, it is said, can live, its waters must be healed, that is, made capable of preserving life; and so its nature be thus far most surprisingly altered.

Verse 10. The fishers shall stand upon it] On the above plan of interpretation these must mean—1. The apostles of our Lord Jesus. 2. The preachers of the everlasting gospel. See Matt. iv. 19.

From En-gedi] At the southern extremity of the Dead Sea. Unto Englain] At the northern extremity of the same.

Their fish shall be according to their kinds] Every kind of fish, and the fish all excellent of their kinds. All nations, and kindreds, and people, shall be called by the gospel; it shall not be an excluding system like that of Judaism, for its Author tasted death for every man.

Verse 11. The miry places] "Point out," says Calmet, "the schismatics and heretics who do not live by the Spirit of Jesus Christ, but separate from his church: and the evil Christians who dishonour that church, of which they are corrupt members."

Verse 12. Shall grow all trees for meat, whose leaf shall not fade] A description that suits the righteous, who are still producing—1. The fruits of faith. 2. The fruits of the Spirit. 3. The fruits of love to God, obedience to his holy will, and love to all men. Benevolence, mercy, charity, kindness, &c.

The leaf thereof for medicine] See Rev. xxii. 1-5. Even the leaves, the holy profession of the righteous, is a spiritual medicine. Righteousness is thus encouraged in the world. The profession points out the salvation, as it shows the nature and sufficiency of that salvation; for a just creed contains all the articles of the Christian faith.

Verse 18. Joseph shall have two portions] That is, in Ephraim and Manasseh, his two sons, who each had a separate inheritance.

13 Thus saith the Lord GOD; This shall be the border, whereby ye shall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: * Joseph shall have two portions.

14 And ye shall inherit it, one as well as another: concerning the which I ^blifted up mine hand to give it unto your fathers: and this land shall ^afall unto you for inheritance.

15 And this shall be the border of the land toward the north side, from the great sea, ^athe way of Hethlon, as men go to ^cZedad;

16 ^aHamath, ^bBerothah, Sibraim, which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath; ^cHazar-hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the sea shall be ^dHazarenan, the border of Damascus, and the north northward, and the border of Hamath. And this is the north side.

18 And the east side ye shall measure ^efrom Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Jordan, from the border unto the east sea. And this is the east side.

* Gen. xlviii. 5. 1 Chron. v. 1. Ch. xlviii. 4, 5.—^b Or, scora.—^c Gen. xii. 7. xiii. 15. xv. 7. xvi. 8. xxvi. 3. xxviii. 13. Ch. xx. 5, 6, 28, 42.—^d Ch. xlviii. 29.—^e Ch. xlviii. 1.—^f Num. xxxiv. 8.—^g Num. xxxiv. 8.—^h 2 Sam. viii. 8.—ⁱ Or, the middle village.—^j Num. xxiv. 9. Ch. xlviii. 1.—^k Heb. from between.—^l Num. xx. 13.

Verse 15. The way of Hethlon, as men go to Zedad] Probably Hethlon is the same as Cuthlon, a city of Syria, between Antioch and Laodicea, according to Antoninus. Some of these places are not known; but see the same kind of division, Num. xxxiv. 7-12.

Verse 17. The border from the sea] The north border eastward is ascertained ver. 15, 16; here it is shown how far it extends itself northward.

19 And the south side southward, from Tamar even to ^athe waters of ^bstrife in Kadesh, the ^criver to the great sea. And this is the south side ^dsouthward.

20 The west side also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come over against ^eHamath. This is the west side.

21 So shall ye divide this land unto you according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And it shall come to pass, that ye shall divide it by lot for an inheritance unto you, ^aand to the strangers that sojourn among you, which shall beget children among you: ^band they shall be unto you as born in the country among the children of Israel; they shall have inheritance with you among the tribes of Israel.

23 And it shall come to pass, that in what tribe the stranger sojourneth, there shall ye give him his inheritance, saith the Lord GOD.

Deut. xxxii. 51. Ps. lxxxii. 7. Ch. xlviii. 28.—^a Or, Meribah.—^b Or, valley.—^c Or, toward Tamar.—^d Num. xiii. 21. xxxiv. 8. Josh. xiii. 5.—^e See Eph. iii. 6. Rev. vii. 9, 10.—^f Rom. x. 12. Gal. iii. 28. Col. iii. 11.

Verse 20. The Great Sea] The Mediterranean.

Verse 22. And to the strangers that sojourn] In former divisions of the land, no place was given to strangers; but in this division (which seems to have no other reference than to the gospel, for literally such a division never took place,) the strangers are to have an inheritance; intimating the calling of the Gentiles into the church of Christ, to an inheritance that is incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

This chapter contains a description of the several portions of the land belonging to each tribe, together with the portion allotted to the sanctuary, city, suburb, and prince, 1-29; as also the measures and gates of the new city, 30-35.

NOW these are the names of the tribes. ^aFrom the north end to the coast of the way of Hethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazarenan, the border of Damascus northward, to the coast of Hamath; for these are his sides east and west; ^ba portion for Dan.

2 And by the border of Dan, from the east side unto the west side, a portion for Asher.

3 And by the border of Asher, from the east side even unto the west side, a portion for Naphtali.

4 And by the border of Naphtali, from the east side unto the west side, a portion for Manasseh.

5 And by the border of Manasseh, from the east side unto the west side, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the east side even unto the west side, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the east side unto the west side, a portion for Judah.

* Ch. xlvii. 15, &c.—^b Heb. one portion.—^c Ch. xiv. 1-6.—^d Ch. xlv. 15.

Verse 1. Now these are the names of the tribes] See the division mentioned Num. xxxiv. 7-12, which casts much light upon this.

Verse 9. The oblation] This was a portion of land twenty-

8 And by the border of Judah, from the east side unto the west side, shall be ^athe offering which ye shall offer of five and twenty thousand reeds in breadth, and in length as one of the other parts, from the east side unto the west side: and the sanctuary shall be in the midst of it.

9 The oblation that ye shall offer unto the LORD shall be of five and twenty thousand in length, and of ten thousand in breadth.

10 And for them, even for the priests, shall be this holy oblation; toward the north five and twenty thousand in length, and toward the west ten thousand in breadth, and toward the east ten thousand in breadth, and toward the south five and twenty thousand in length: and the sanctuary of the LORD shall be in the midst thereof.

11 ^a*It shall be* for the priests that are sanctified of the sons of Zadok; which have kept my ^bcharge, five thousand cubits in length, by ten thousand broad; in the centre of which was the temple, which must be destined for the use of the priests, the Levites, and the prince.

* Or, The sanctified portions shall be for the priests.—^c Or, ward, or ordinance.

Verse 28. From Tamar—in Kadesh] The former was on which went not astray when the children of Israel went astray, *as the Levites went astray.

12 And this oblation of the land that is offered shall be unto them a thing most holy by the border of the Levites.

13 And over against the border of the priests the Levites shall have five and twenty thousand in length, and ten thousand in breadth: all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 ^b And they shall not sell of it, neither exchange nor alienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the LORD.

15, * And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over against the five and twenty thousand, shall be ^a a profane place for the city, for dwelling, and for suburbs: and the city shall be in the midst thereof.

16 And these shall be the measures thereof; the north side four thousand and five hundred, and the south side four thousand and five hundred, and on the east side four thousand and five hundred, and the west side four thousand and five hundred.

17 And the suburbs of the city shall be toward the north two hundred and fifty, and toward the south two hundred and fifty, and toward the east two hundred and fifty, and toward the west two hundred and fifty.

18 And the residue in length over against the oblation of the holy portion shall be ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward: and it shall be over against the oblation of the holy portion; and the increase thereof shall be for food unto them that serve the city.

19 * And they that serve the city shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand: ye shall offer the holy oblation foursquare, with the possession of the city.

21 ^a And the residue shall be for the prince, on the one side and on the other of the holy oblation, and of the possession of the city, over against the five and twenty thousand of the oblation toward the east border, and westward over against the five and twenty thousand toward the west border, over against the portions for the prince: and it shall be the holy oblation; * and the sanctuary of the house shall be in the midst thereof.

22 Moreover from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the city being in the midst of that which is the prince's, between the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin, shall be for the prince.

23 As for the rest of the tribes from the east side unto the west side, Benjamin shall have a ^b portion.

24 And by the border of Benjamin, from the east side unto the west side, Simeon shall have a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the east side unto the west side, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar, from the east side unto the west side, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun, from the east side unto the west side, Gad a portion.

28 And by the border of Gad, at the south side southward, the border shall be even from Tamar unto ¹ the waters of ¹ strife in Kadesh, and to the river toward the great sea.

29 ^k This is the land which ye shall divide by lot unto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, and these are their portions, saith the Lord God.

30 And these are the goings out of the city on the north side, four thousand and five hundred measures.

31 ¹ And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel: three gates northward; one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, one gate of Levi.

32 And at the east side four thousand and five hundred: and three gates; and one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, one gate of Dan.

33 And at the south side four thousand and five hundred measures: and three gates; one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, one gate of Zebulun.

34 At the west side four thousand and five hundred, with their three gates; one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was round about eighteen thousand measures: ^m and the name of the city from that day shall be, ⁿ The ^o LORD is there.

^a Ch. xlv. 10. — ^b Exod. xxii. 29. Lev. xxvii. 10, 28, 33. — ^c Ch. xlv. 6. — ^d Ch. xlii. 20. — ^e Ch. xlv. 6. — ^f Ch. xlv. 7. — ^g Jer. 8. 10. — ^h Heb. one portion. — ⁱ Ch. xlvii. 19. — ^j Heb. Meribah Kadesh. — ^k Ch. xlvii. 14, 21, 22. — ^l Rev. xxi. 12, &c. — ^m Jer. xxxiii. 16. — ⁿ Heb.

Jehovah-shammah. See Exod. xvii. 15. Judg. vi. 24. — ^o Ps. ii. 6. ix. 11. lxxvi. 2. Jer. iii. 17. Joel iii. 21. Zech. ii. 10. Rev. xxi. 8. xxii. 3.

the south of the Dead Sea; and the latter, or Kadesh-Barnea, was still farther south, and at the extremity of the portion of Gad, which was the most southern tribe, as Dan was the most northern.

Verse 30. These are the goings out] Each of the four sides of the city was four thousand five hundred cubits long. There were three gates on each side, as mentioned below; and the whole circumference of the city was eighteen thousand cubits.

Verse 35. The name of the city from that day shall be, The Lord is there.] It would have been better to have retained the original words:—

YEHOVAH SHAMMAH.

This is an allusion to the shekinah, or symbol of the Divine Presence, which was in the first, but most certainly was not in the second temple; but Ezekiel tells us that the Divine Presence should be in the city of which he speaks; and should be there so fully and so powerfully, that it should give name to the city itself; and that the very name, Yehovah shammah, should remind all men of the supremely glorious Being who had condescended to make this city his habitation.

Two points must be considered here:—1. That the prophet intended that, when they should be restored, they should build the temple, and divide the land as he here directs, if the thing could be found to be practicable. 2. That he had another temple, another holy city, another Promised Land, in view. The land of Immanuel, the city of the New Jerusalem: and his temple, the Christian Church, which is the house of the living God, 1 Tim. iii. 15, in which the presence of Christ shall ever be found; and all its inhabitants, all that believe on his name, shall be temples of the Holy Ghost. Nor can there be any reasonable doubt that the prophet here, by the Spirit of God, not only points out the return of the Israelites from the Babylonish captivity, and what was to befall them previously to the advent of Jesus Christ; but also the glorious spread of the Gospel in the earth, and the final conversion of the tribes of Israel by the preaching of that gospel.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

P R O P H E T D A N I E L.

DANIEL is said to have descended from the royal family of David; and he appears to have been carried into Babylon when very young, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim king of Judah, A. M. 3398, B. C. 602, or 606 before the vulgar era.

He appears to have been instructed in all the wisdom of the Chaldeans, which was at that time greatly superior to the learning of the ancient Egyptians; and he was soon distinguished in the Babylonish court, as well for his wisdom and strong understanding, as for his deep and steady piety.

His interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the variously compounded metallic image raised his credit so high at the court that he was established governor of the province of Babylon, and made chief of all the Magians, or wise men in that country. The chief facts and incidents of his history are so particularly woven throughout the book bearing his name, and undoubtedly written by himself, that they need not be detailed here.

The reputation of Daniel was so great, even in his lifetime, that it became a proverb. "Thou art wiser than Daniel," said Ezekiel ironically to the king of Tyre, chap. xxviii. 3; and by the same prophet God ranks him among the most holy and exemplary of men, when he declares, speaking relative to Jerusalem, which had been condemned to destruction, "Though these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they should deliver but their own lives by their righteousness," chap. xiv. 14, 20.

The rabbins have endeavoured to degrade Daniel, and have placed his prophecies among hagiographa, books which they consider to possess a minor degree of inspiration; and it is probable that he meets with this treatment from them because his prophecies are proofs too evident that Jesus Christ is the true Messiah, and that he came at the very time that Daniel said the Prince Messiah should come. But the testimony and sayings of such men are infinitely overpowered by the testimony of Ezekiel, which has been produced above; and the testimony of our LORD, who gives him the title of Prophet, Matt. xxiv. 15, without the slightest intimation that he was to wear this title with abatement.

It is very probable that Daniel did not return at the general restoration from the Babylonish captivity. At that time, if alive, he must have been an old man; and it is most likely that he finished his days in Babylon, though some Asiatic authors hold that he returned to Judea with Ezra, came back afterwards to Persia, and died in the city of Susa.

Daniel cannot be ranked among the Hebrew poets: his book is all in prose; and it is written partly in Hebrew, and partly in Chaldee. The Chaldee, or Syro-Chaldaic part, begins with, "O king, live for ever!" and continues to the end of the seventh chapter.

As a writer, this prophet is simple, yet pure and correct: and he is so conscientious that he relates the very words of those persons whom he introduces as speaking. He writes Hebrew where what he delivers is a bare narrative; but he relates in Chaldee the conversations which he had with the wise men and the kings; and in the same language he relates Nebuchadnezzar's edict, which he made after Daniel had interpreted his dream concerning the great metalline image. This is a proof of his great and conscientious accuracy; and exhibits this prophet in a most advantageous point of view. Daniel writes both Hebrew and Chaldee with great purity.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET DANIEL.

CHAPTER I.

This chapter begins with giving a short account of Nebuchadnezzar's conquest of Judea, when Jehoiakim became tributary to him; and consequently the seventy years' captivity and vassalage began, 1, 2. On this expedition (taking Egypt in his way) the king of Babylon set out towards the end of the third year of Jehoiakim, but did not take Jerusalem before the ninth month of the year following. Hence the seeming discrepancy between Daniel and Jeremiah (chap. xxv. 1), the one computing from the time of his setting out on the expedition, and the other from the time in which the purpose of it was accomplished. We have next an account of the manner in which Daniel and his companions were brought up at the king's court, 3-7. They reject the daily provision of meat granted by the king, lest they should be defiled, and are allowed to live on pulse, 8-16. Their great proficiency in the wisdom of that time, 17-20. Daniel flourishes till the reign of Cyrus the Persian, 21.

IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah ^acame Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the LORD gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with ^bpart of the vessels of the house of God: which he carried ^cinto the land of Shinar to the house of his god; ^dand he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god.

3 And the king spake unto Ashpenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, and of the king's seed, and of the princes;

^a 2 Kings xxiv. 1. 2 Chron. xxxvi. 6.—^b Jer. xxvii. 19, 20.—^c Gen. x. 10. xi. 2. Isa. xi. 11. Zech. v. 11.—^d 2 Chron. xxxvi. 7.—^e See

Verse 1. In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim] This king was raised to the throne of Judea in the place of his brother Jehoiachaz, by Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt, 2 Kings xxiii. 34-36, and continued tributary to him during the first three years of his reign; but in the fourth, which was the first of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. xxv. 1, Nebuchadnezzar completely defeated the Egyptian army near the Euphrates, Jer. xli. 2; and this victory put the neighbouring countries of Syria, among which Judea was the chief, under the Chaldean government. Thus Jehoiakim, who had first been tributary to Egypt, became now the vassal of the king of Babylon, 2 Kings xxiv. 1.

At the end of three years Jehoiakim rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar, who, then occupied with other wars, did not proceed against Jerusalem till three years after, which was the eleventh and last of Jehoiakim, 2 Kings xxiii. 36.

There are some difficulties in the chronology of this place.

Verse 2. Part of the vessels of the house of God] He took the richest and finest of them for the service of his god Bel, and left what were necessary for carrying on the public worship of Jehovah (for he did not attempt to alter the civil or religious constitution of Judea); for leaving Jehoiakim on the throne, he only laid the land under tribute. The Chaldeans carried these sacred vessels away at three different times. 1. In the war spoken of in this place. 2. In the 4 Children ^ein whom was no blemish, but well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge and understanding science, and such as had ability in them to stand in the king's palace, and ^fwhom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily provision of the king's meat, and of ^gthe wine which he drank: so nourishing them three years, that at the end thereof they might ^hstand before the king.

6 Now among these were of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah:

Lev. xiv. 19, 20.—^f Acts vii. 22.—^g Heb. the wine of his drink.—^h Ver. 19. Gen. xii. 46. 1 Kings x. 8.

taking of Jerusalem and Jeconiah a few months after, 2 Kings xxiv. 18. 3. Eleven years after, under the reign of Zedekiah, when the city and temple were totally destroyed, and the land ruined, 2 Kings xxv. 8-15.

The land of Shinar] This was the ancient name of Babylon. See Gen. xi. 2.

The treasure house of his god] This was Bel, who had a splendid temple in Babylon, and was the tutelary god of the city and empire.

Verse 3. Master of his eunuchs] This word eunuchs signifies officers about or in the palace, whether literally eunuchs or not.

Verse 4. Children] Yeladim, youths, young men; and so the word should be rendered throughout this book.

Skilful in all wisdom] Rather, persons capable of every kind of literary accomplishment, that they might be put under proper instruction.

Verse 5. A daily provision] Athenaus, lib. iv., c. 10, says: The kings of Persia (who succeeded the kings of Babylon, on whose empire they had seized) were accustomed to order the food left at their own tables to be delivered to their courtiers.

So nourishing them three years] This was deemed a sufficient time to acquire the Chaldean language, and the sciences peculiar to that people.

7 *Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names: ^b for he gave unto Daniel the name of Belteshazzar; and to Hananiah, of Shadrach; and to Mishael, of Meshach; and to Azariah, of Abed-nego.

8 But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself ^c with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he requested of the prince of the eunuchs, that he might not defile himself.

9 Now ^d God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the prince of the eunuchs.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said unto Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: for why should he see your faces ^e worse liking than the children which are of your ^f sort? then shall ye make me endanger my head to the king.

11 Then said Daniel to ^g Melzar, whom the prince of the ^h eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days; and let them give us ⁱ pulse ^j to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.

* Gen. xli. 45. 2 Kings xxiv. 17.—^b Ch. iv. 8. v. 12.—^c Deut. xxxii. 38. Ezek. iv. 13. Hos. ix. 3.—^d See Gen. xxxix. 21. 1st cvi. 40. Prov. xvi. 7.—^e Heb. sadder.—^f Or, term, or continuance.—^g Or, the steward.—^h 2 Kings ix. 32. xx. 18. 1st Sam. xxix. 7. Acts viii. 27.—ⁱ Heb. of pulse.—^j Heb. that we may eat, &c.—1 Kings iii. 12. James i. 5, 17.—^k Acts vii. 22.—^l Or, he made Daniel un-

Verse 6. Now among these] There were no doubt several noble youths from other provinces: but the four mentioned here were Jews, and are supposed to have all been of royal extraction.

Verse 7. Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names] It was customary for masters to impose new names upon their slaves; and rulers often, on their ascending the throne, assumed a name different from that which they had before.

DANIEL signifies "God is my Judge." This name they changed into BELTESHATTSAR; in Chaldee, "The treasure of Bel," or "The depository of the secrets (or treasure) of Bel." [Or, "The prince of Bel."]

HANANIAH signifies, "The Lord has been gracious to me;" or "He to whom the Lord is gracious." This name was changed into SHADRACH, Chaldee, which has been variously translated: "The inspiration of the sun;" "God, the author of evil, be propitious to us;" "Let God preserve us from evil." [All these are uncertain.]

MISHAEL signifies, "He who comes from God." Him they called MESHACH, which in Chaldee signifies, "He who belongs to the goddess Sheshach," a celebrated deity of the Babylonians, mentioned by Jeremiah, chap. xxv. 26.

AZARIAH, which signifies "The Lord is my Helper," they changed into ABED-NEGO which in Chaldee is, "the servant of Nego," who was one of their divinities; by which they meant either the sun, or the morning star; whether Jupiter or Venus. [Or rather the planet Mercury.]

Verse 8. But Daniel—would not defile himself] The chief reasons why Daniel would not eat meat from the royal table were probably these three:—1. Because they ate nuclear beasts, which were forbidden by the Jewish law. 2. Because they ate, as did the heathens in general, beasts which had 14 So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink; and gave them pulse.

17 As for these four children, ^k God gave them ^l knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom; and ^m Daniel had ⁿ understanding in all visions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days that the king had said he should bring them in, then the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them; and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore ^o stood they before the king.

20 ^p And in all matters of ^q wisdom and understanding that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm.

21 ^r And Daniel continued even unto the first year of king Cyrus.

derstood.—^u Num. xii. 6. 2 Chron. xxvi. 5. Ch. v. 11, 12, 14. x. 1.—^v Gen. xli. 48. Ver. 5.—^w 1 Kings x. 1.—^x Heb. wisdom of understanding.—^y Ch. vi. 25. x. 1. He lived to see that glorious time of the return of his people from the Babylonian captivity, though he did not die then. So till is used, Ps. cx. i. cxii. 8.

been strangled, or not properly blooded. 3. Because the animals that were eaten were first offered as victims to their gods.

Verse 11. Then said Daniel to Melzar] Melzar was an officer under Ashpenaz, whose office it was to attend to the food, clothing, &c. of these royal captives. Others think melzar the name of an office. [The margin is undoubtedly right.]

Verse 12. Give us pulse to eat] Hazzeraim, seeds or grain, such as barley, wheat, rye, and peas, &c. Though a vegetable diet might have produced that healthiness of the system in general, and of the countenance particularly, as mentioned here; yet we are to understand that there was an especial blessing of God in this, because this spare diet was taken on a religious account.

Verse 17. As for these four children] Young men or youths. In all visions and dreams.] That is, such as are divine; for as to dreams in general, they have as much signification as they have connexion, being the effects of the state of the body, of the mind, or of the circumstances of the dreamer.

Verse 18. Now at the end of the days] That is, at the end of three years, ver. 5.

Verse 19. And among them all] All the young noble captives from different nations.

Therefore stood they before the king.] It appears that only four were wanting.

Verse 20. Magicians and astrologers] Probably the same as philosophers and astronomers among us.

Verse 21. The first year of king Cyrus.] That is, to the end of the Chaldean empire. And we find Daniel alive in the third year of Cyrus, see chap. x. 1.

CHAPTER II.

Nebuchadnezzar, in the second year of his reign (or in the fourth, according to the Jewish account, which takes in the first two years in which he reigned conjointly with his father), had a dream which greatly troubled him;

but of which nothing remained in the morning but the uneasy impression. Hence, the diviners, when brought in before the king, could give no interpretation, as they were not in possession of the dream, 1-13. Daniel then, having obtained favour from God, is made acquainted with the dream, and its interpretation, 14-19; for which he blesses God in a lofty and beautiful ode, 20-23; and reveals both unto the king, telling him first the particulars of the dream, 24-35, and then interpreting it of the four great monarchies. The then existing Chaldean empire, represented by the head of gold, is the first; the next is the Medo-Persian; the third, the Macedonian or Grecian; the fourth, the Roman, which should break every other kingdom in pieces, but which, in its last stage, should be divided into ten kingdoms, represented by the ten toes of the image, as they are in another vision (chap. vii.) by the ten horns of the fourth beast. He likewise informs the king that in the time of this last monarchy, viz., the Roman, God would set up the kingdom of the Messiah; which, though small in its commencement, should ultimately be extended over the whole earth, 36-45. Daniel and his three friends, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah (named by the princes of the eunuchs, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego), are then promoted by the king to great honour, 46-49.

AND in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, ^a wherewith his spirit was troubled, and ^b his sleep brake from him.

2 ^c Then the king commanded to call the magicians, and the astrologers, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to shew the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriac, ^d O king live for ever: tell thy servants the dream, and we will shew thee the interpretation.

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me: if ye will not make known unto me the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be ^e cut ^f in pieces, and your houses shall be made a dunghill.

6 ^g But if ye shew the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and ^h rewards and great honour: therefore shew me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again and said, Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered and said, I know of certainty that ye would ⁱ gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not make known unto me the dream, ^j there is but one decree for you: for ye have prepared ^k lying and corrupt words to speak before me, till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, and ^l shall know that ye can show me the interpretation thereof.

10 The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth that can shew the king's matter: therefore there is no king, lord, nor ruler; that asked such things at any magician, or astrologer, or Chaldean.

11 And it is a rare thing that the king requiroth, and there is none other that can shew it before the king, except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and very furious, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon.

13 And the decree went forth that the wise men should be slain; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be slain.

14 Then Daniel ^m answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the ⁿ captain ^o of the king's guard, which was gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon:

15 He answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, Why is the decree so hasty from the king? Then Arioch made the thing known to Daniel.

16 Then Daniel went in, and desired of the king that he would give him time, and that he would shew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions:

18 ^p That they would desire mercies ^q of the God of heaven concerning this secret; ^r that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

19 Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel ^s in a night vision. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

^a Gen. xli. 8. Ch. iv. 5.—^b Esth. vi. 1. Ch. vi. 18.—^c Gen. xli. 8. Exod. vii. 11. Ch. v. 7.—^d 1 Kings i. 81. Ch. iii. 9. v. 10. vi. 6, 21.—^e Ezra. vi. 11. 2 Kings x. 27. Ch. iii. 29.—^f Chald. made pieces.—^g Ch. v. 16.—^h Or, see. Ch. v. 17. Ver. 48.—ⁱ Chald. buy. Eph. v. 16.—^j Esth. iii. 16. iv. 11. ix. 14.—^k Prov. vi. 17. xii. 19.

xxi. 6. xxvi. 28.—^l Ver. 28. Ch. v. 11.—^m Chald. returned.—ⁿ Or, chief marshal.—^o Chald. chief of the executioners, or slaughtermen. Gen. xxxvii. 36.—^p Matt. xviii. 12.—^q Chald. from before God.—^r Or, that they should not destroy Daniel, &c.—^s Num. xii. 6. Job xxxiii. 16, 17.

Verse 1. The second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar] That is, the second year of his reigning alone, for he was king two years before his father's death.

Verse 2. The magicians] See the note on Gen. xli. 8. The astrologers] Perhaps from nashaph, to breathe, because they laid claim to divine inspiration; but probably the persons in question were the philosophers and astronomers among the Babylonians.

The sorcerers] See the note on Deut. xviii. 10, and on Exod. xxii. 18, and Lev. xix. 81, where several of these arts are explained.

The Chaldeans] Who these were is difficult to be ascertained. They might be a college of learned men, where all arts and sciences were professed and taught.

Verse 4. Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriac] Aramith, the language of Aram or Syria. What has been generally called the Chaldees.

O king, live for ever] With these words the Chaldees part of Daniel commences; and continues to the end of the seventh chapter. These kinds of compliments are still in use in the East Indies.

Verse 10. There is not a man upon the earth] The thing is utterly impossible to man. This was their decision: and when Daniel gave the dream, with its interpretation, they knew that the spirit of the holy gods was in him.

Verse 14. Captain of the king's guard] Chief of the king's executioners or slaughter men.

Verse 16. That he would give him time] That is, that he might seek unto God for a revelation of the thing.

Verse 18. That they would desire mercies] For this Daniel had requested a little time; and doubtless both he and his three companions prayed incessantly till God gave the wished for revelation; but whether it was given that same night, we do not know.

20 Daniel answered and said, 'Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: 'b for wisdom and might are his:

21 And he changeth 'the times and the seasons: 'he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: 'he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding:

22 'He revealeth the deep and secret things: 'he knoweth what is in the darkness, and 'the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me now what we 'desired of thee: for thou hast now made known unto us the king's matter.

24 Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babylon: he went and said thus unto him; Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will shew unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, 'I have found a man of the 'captives of Judah, that will make known unto the king the interpretation.

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king;

28 'But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and 'maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar 'what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these:

29 As for thee, O king, thy thoughts 'came into thy mind upon thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: 'and he that revealeth secrets maketh known unto thee what shall come to pass.

30 'But as for me, this secret is not revealed to me for any wisdom that I have more than any living, 'but for their sakes that shall make known the interpretation to the king, 'and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thy heart.

* Ps. cxlii. 2. exv. 18.—^b Jer. xxxii. 19.—^c Esth. i. 13. 1 Chron. xxix. 8^b. Ch. vii. 25. xi. 6.—^d Job xii. 18. Ps. lxxv. 6, 7. Jer. xxvii. 5. Ch. iv. 17.—^e James i. 5.—^f Job xii. 22. Ps. xxv. 14. Ver. 28, 29.—^g Ps. cxxxix. 11, 12. Heb. iv. 13.—^h Ch. v. 11, 14. James i. 17.—ⁱ Jer. xix. 1.—^j Chald. That I have found.—^k Chald. children of the captivity of Judah.—^l Gen. xi. 8. xii. 16. Ver. 18, 47. Amos iv. 13.—^m Chald. hath made known.—ⁿ Gen. xlix. 1.—^o Chald. come up.—^p Ver. 22, 28.—^q So Gen. xii. 18. Acts iii. 13.—^r Or, but for the intent that the interpretation may be made known Verse 19. Then was the secret revealed—in a night vision. Daniel either dreamed it, or it was represented to his mind by an immediate inspiration.

Verse 21. He changeth the times Time, duration, succession are his, and under his dominion.

Verse 24. Destroy not the wise men The decree was suspended till it should be seen whether Daniel could tell the dream, and give its interpretation.

Verse 27. The soothsayers They are supposed to be persons who divined by numbers, amulets, &c.

Verse 28. There is a God in heaven To distinguish him from those idols, the works of men's hands; and from the false gods in which the Chaldeans trusted.

In the latter days. A phrase which, in the prophets, generally means the times of the Messiah. God is about to show what shall take place from this time to the latest ages of the world.

31 Thou, O king, 'sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible.

32 'This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his 'thighs of brass, 33 His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out 'without 'hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became 'like the chaff of the summer threshing-floors; and the wind carried them away, that 'no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image 'became a great mountain, 'b and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream: and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king.

37 'Thou, O king, art a king of kings: 'd for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory.

38 'And whosoever the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all. 'Thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise 'e another kingdom 'b inferior to thee and another third kingdom of brass, 'which shall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And 'the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise.

41 And whereas thou sawest 'f the feet and toes, part of potters' clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly 'broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave 'g one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

to the king.—^a Ver. 47.—^b Chald. wast seeing.—^c See ver. 38, &c.—^d Or, sides.—^e Or, which was not in hands: as ver. 45.—^f Ch. viii. 25. Zeoh. iv. 6. 2 Cor. v. 1. Heb. ix. 24.—^g Ps. i. 4. Hos. xiii. 3.—^h Ps. xxxvii. 10, 36.—ⁱ Isa. ii. 2, 8.—^j Ps. lxxx. 9.—^k Ezra vii. 12. Isa. xlvii. 5. Jer. xxvii. 6, 7. Esek. xxvi. 7. Hos. viii. 10.—^l Ezra i. 2.—^m Ch. iv. 21, 22. Jer. xxvii. 6.—ⁿ Ver. 32.—^o Ch. v. 28, 31.—^p Ver. 32.—^q 1 Mac. i. 3.—^r Ch. vii. 7, 23.—^s Ver. 38.—^t Or, brittle.—^u Chald. this with this Verse 31. A great image. Representing the four great monarchies.

Verse 32. Head was of fine gold The Babylonish empire, the first and greatest.

Breast and his arms of silver The Medo-Persian empire under Cyrus, &c.

His belly and his thighs of brass The Macedonian empire, under Alexander the Great, and his successors.

Verse 33. His legs of iron The Roman government.

His feet part of iron and part of clay. The same, mixed with the barbaric nations, and divided into ten kingdoms.

Verse 34. A stone was cut out The fifth monarchy; the spiritual kingdom of the Lord Jesus, which is to last for ever, and diffuse itself over the whole earth.

Verse 35. The stone—became a great mountain There is the kingdom even, of the stone, and the kingdom of the mountain.

44 And in 'the days of these kings 'shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, 'which shall never be destroyed: and the 'kingdom shall not be left to other people, 'but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

45 'Forasmuch as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain 'without hands, and that it break in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass 'hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure.

46 'Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that

* Chald. their days.—¹ Ver. 28.—² Ch. iv. 8, 34. vi. 26. vii. 14, 27. Mic. iv. 7. Luke i. 32, 33.—³ Chald. kingdom thereof.—⁴ Ps. ii. 9. Isa. lx. 12. 1 Cor. xv. 24.—⁵ Ver. 35. Isa. xxviii. 16.—⁶ Or, which Verse 37. The God of heaven] Not given by thy own gods, nor acquired by thy own skill and prowess, it is a divine gift.

Verse 44. A kingdom which shall never be destroyed] The extensive and extending empire of Christ.

Shall not be left to other people] All the preceding empires have swallowed up each other successively; but this shall remain to the end of the world.

Verse 46. The king—fell upon his face] Prostrated himself: this was the fullest act of adoration among the ancients.

Worshipped Daniel] Supposing him to be a god, or divine being. No doubt Daniel forbade him; for to receive this would have been gross idolatry.

Verse 47. Your God is a God of gods] He is greater than all others.

And a Lord of kings] He governs both in heaven and earth.

Verse 48. Made Daniel a great man] By, 1. Giving him many rich gifts. 2. By making him governor over the whole province of Babylon. And 3. By making him the chief or president over all the wise men.

Verse 49. Daniel requested of the king] He wished his three companions promoted, who had shared his anxieties, and helped him by their prayers.

Daniel sat in the gate of the king] That is, was the chief officer in the palace; and the greatest confidant and counsellor of the king. But whatever his influence and that of his friends was, it extended only over the province of Babylon; not through the empire.

This image, so circumstantially described from the thirty-eighth to the forty-fourth verse, was, as we learn from the prophet's general solution, intended to point out the rise and fall of four different empires and states; and the final prevalence and establishment of a fifth empire, that shall never have an end, and which shall commence in the last days, ver. 28; a phrase commonly used in the prophets to signify the times of the Messiah, and in the New Testament, his advent to judge the world.

I. HEAD OF GOLD. This was the first monarchy, begun by Nimrod, A. M. 1771, B. C. 2233, and ending with the death of Belshazzar, A. M. 3466, B. C. 538, after having lasted nearly seventeen hundred years. In the time of Nebuchadnezzar it extended over Chaldees, Assyria, Arabia, Syria, and Palestine. HE, Nebuchadnezzar, was the head of gold.

II. BREASTS AND ARMS OF SILVER. The Medo-Persian empire; which properly began under Darius the Mede, allowing him to be the same with Cyaxares, son of Astyages, and uncle to Cyrus the great, son of Cambyzes. He first fought under his uncle Cyaxares; defeated Nerigissar, king of the Assyrians, and Cræsus, king of the Lydians; and, by the capture of Babylon, B. C. 538, terminated the Chaldean empire. On the death of his father Cambyzes, and his uncle Cyaxares, B. C. 536, he became sole governor of the Medes and Persians, and thus established a potent empire on the ruins of that of the Chaldeans.

they should offer an oblation 'and sweet odours unto him.

47 The king answered unto Daniel, and said, Of a truth it is, that your God is a God of gods, and a Lord of kings, 'and a revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldst reveal this secret.

48 Then the king made Daniel a great man, 'and gave him many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and 'chief of the governors over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel requested of the king, 'and he set Shadrach, Meshech, and Abed-nego, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel 'sat in the gate of the king.

was not in hand.—¹ Chald. after this.—² See Acts x. 25. xiv. 13. xxviii. 6.—³ Ezra vi. 10.—⁴ Ps. ii. 28.—⁵ Ver. 6.—⁶ Ch. iv. 9. v. 11.—⁷ Ch. iii. 12.—⁸ Esth. ii. 19, 21. iii. 2.

III. BELLY AND THIGHS OF BRASS. The Macedonian or Greek empire, founded by Alexander the Great. He subdued Greece, penetrated into Asia, took Tyre, reduced Egypt, overthrew Darius Codomanus at Arbela, Oct. 2, A. M. 3673, B. C. 331, and thus terminated the Persian monarchy. He crossed the Caucasus, subdued Hyrcania, and penetrated India as far as the Ganges; and having conquered all the countries that lay between the Adriatic Sea and this river, the Ganges, he died A. M. 3681, B. C. 323; and after his death his empire became divided among his generals, Cassander, Lysimachus, Ptolemy, and Seleucus. CASSANDER had Macedon and Greece; LYSIMACHUS had Thrace, and those parts of Asia which lay on the Hellespont and Bosphorus; PTOLEMY had Egypt, Lybia, Arabia, Palestine, and Coelestria; SELEUCUS had Babylon, Media, Susiana, Persia, Assyria, Bactria, Hyrcania, and all other provinces, even to the Ganges. Thus this empire, founded on the ruin of that of the Persians, "had rule over all the earth."

IV. LEGS OF IRON, AND FEET AND TOES OF IRON AND CLAY. I think this means, in the first place, the kingdom of the LAGIDÆ, in Egypt; and the kingdom of the SELEUCIDÆ, in Syria. And, secondly, the ROMAN empire, which was properly composed of them. But the empire became weakened by its conquests; and although, by mingling themselves with the seed of men, that is, by strong leagues, and matrimonial alliances, they endeavoured to secure a perpetual sovereignty, yet they did not cleave to each other, and they also were swallowed up by the barbarous northern nations; and thus terminated those four most powerful monarchies.

V. "A stone cut out of the mountain without hands." Here Jesus Christ is represented under the notion of a stone projected from a catapult, or some military engine, which smote the image on its feet; that is, it smote the then existing government at its foundation, or principles of support; and by destroying these, brought the whole into ruin. There were at the time here referred to in the Roman empire, the splendour of the CHALDEANS, the riches of the PERSIANS, the discipline of the GREEKS, and the strength of the EGYPTIAN and SYRIAN governments, mingled with the incoherence and imbecility of those empires, kingdoms, and states which the Romans had subdued. The Roman government, partaking of all the characteristics of the preceding empires, was at its zenith of imperial splendour, military glory, legislative authority, and literary eminence. The stone began to strike the image, when the apostles went out into every part of the Roman empire, pulling down idolatry, and founding Christian churches. But the great blow was given to the heathen Roman empire by the conversion of Constantine, just at the time when it was an epitome of the four great monarchies, being under the government of FOUR EMPERORS at once, A. D. 308: CONSTANTINUS, who governed Gaul, Spain, and Britain; GALERIUS, who had Illyricum, Thrace, and Asia; SEVERUS, who had Italy and Africa; and MAXIMIN, who had the East and Egypt.

CHAPTER III.

Nebuchadnezzar, having erected an image, whose height (including probably a very high pedestal) was sixty cubits, and the breadth six, ordered a numerous assembly, which he had convened, to fall down and worship it; threatening, at the same time, that whosoever refused should be cast into a fiery furnace, 1-7; a punishment not uncommon in that country (see Jer. xxix. 22). Daniel's three companions, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who were present, being observed to refrain from this idolatrous worship, were accused before the king; who, in great wrath, commanded them to comply with his orders on pain of death, 8-15. But these holy men, with the greatest composure and serenity, expressed their firm resolution not to worship his gods or his images, whatever might be the consequence, 16-18. Upon which the king, unaccustomed to have his will opposed, in the height of his wrath, ordered the furnace to be made seven times hotter than usual, and these men to be cast into it, bound by the most mighty of his army, who were killed by the flame in the execution of this service, 19-23. On this occasion God literally performed his promise by Isaiah (chap. xliii. 2): "When thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee;" for an angel of God, appearing in the furnace, protected these young men, and counteracted the natural violence of the fire; which, only consuming the cords with which they were bound, left them to walk at liberty, and in perfect safety, in the midst of the furnace. The king, astonished at this prodigy, called to them to come out of the furnace, and blessed God for sending an angel to deliver his servants; and commanded all his subjects, upon pain of death, not to speak irreverently of the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who were promoted to great power and honour, 24-30. A striking example of the interposition of Providence in favour of true and inflexible piety.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king made ^aan image of gold, whose height was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the ^bprovince of Babylon.

2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather together the princes, the governors, and the captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellors, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

3 Then the princes, the governors, and captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellors, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, were gathered together unto the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

4 Then an herald cried aloud, To you ^dit is commanded, ^eO people, nations, and languages,

5 That at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, ^fdulcimer, ^gand all kinds of music, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up:

6 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth shall the same hour ^hbe cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

7 Therefore at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and all kinds of music, all the people, the

^a Ver. 5, 7, 10, 12, 14.—^b Ch. ii. 48.—^c Chald. with might.—^d Chald. they command.

Verse 1. Nebuchadnezzar 1

It is supposed that the history given here did not occur till the close, or near the end, of Nebuchadnezzar's reign. For it was after his insanity, as we see chap. iv. 33-36, and this happened near the close of his reign. The authorized version, which is followed in the margin, fixes the date of this event seventeen years earlier, and ten years before the king's insanity. It is not likely that this image was in human form; for what proportion is there between sixty cubits (ninety feet) in length, and six cubits (nine feet) in breadth? Nor is it likely that it was all of gold; for this would have required more of this precious metal than the whole province of Babylon could produce. It might have been a pillar on which an image of the god Bel was erected. The image itself might be of gold, or more probably gilt, that is, covered with thin plates of gold, and on this account it might be called the golden image; and most probably the height of the image may be confounded with the height of the pillar.

The plain of Dura] The situation of this place is not exactly known; there was a town or city called Dura, or Doura, in Mesopotamia, near the Tigris.

Verse 2. Sent to gather together the princes] It is not easy to show what these different officers were, as it is difficult to ascertain the meaning of the Chaldees words.

And all the rulers of the provinces] All other state or civil officers, not only to grace the solemnity, but to maintain order.

Verse 5. The sound of the CORNET] Karna, here translated cornet, is the common blowing horn, which makes a deep and hollow sound, as well as one shrill and piercing.

FLUTE] Mashrokitha, from sharak, to whistle, shriek. A wind instrument which made a strong and shrill noise, such as the hautboy or clarionet.

HARP] Kithros. Some kind of stringed instrument. It seems to be formed from the Greek word.

SACKBUT] Sabbecha. From sabach, to interweave; probably on account of the number of chords, for it seems to have been a species of harp.

PSALTERY] Pesanterim. A stringed instrument, struck with a plectrum; that called santeer in Egypt is probably the same.

DULCIMER] Bumponayah. Probably a kind of tambour, tambourine, or tomtom drum.

All kinds of music] The whole stock, or band, of music; the preceding being the chief, the most common, and the most sonorous.

Verse 6. Shall the same hour] This is the first place in the Old Testament where we find the division of time into hours. The Greeks say that Anaximander was the inventor. He had it probably from the Chaldeans, among whom this division was in use long before Anaximander was born.

Be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace] This was an ancient mode of punishment among the Chaldeans, if we may credit the tradition that Abram was cast into such a fire by the idolaters.

Verse 8. Accused the Jews] That is, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego. The other Jews were left unnoticed; and probably at this time Daniel was too high to be touched; but we may rest assured that he was not found among these idolaters, see ver. 12.

nations, and the languages, fell down and worshipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

8 Wherefore at that time certain Caldeans ^a came near, and accused the Jews.

9 They spake and said to the king Nebuchadnezzar, ^b O king, live for ever.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image.

11 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth, that he should be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

12 ^c There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego; these men, O king, ^d have not regarded thee: they serve not thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in his rage and fury commanded to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and ^e Abed-nego. Then they brought these men before the king.

14 Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them, Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, do not ye serve my gods, nor worship the golden image which I have set up?

15 Now if ye be ready that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of music, ye fall down and worship the image which I have made: ^f well: but if ye worship not, ye shall be cast the same hour into the midst of a burning fiery furnace: ^g and who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, answered and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, ^h we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

19 Then was Nebuchadnezzar ⁱ full of fury, and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego: therefore he spake, and commanded that they should heat the furnace one seven times more than it was wont to be heated.

20 And he commanded the ^k most mighty men

^a Ch. vi. 12.—^b Ch. ii. 4. v. 10. vi. 6, 21.—^c Ch. ii. 49.—^d Chald. have set no regard upon thee.—^e Or, of purpose, as Exod. xxi. 13.—^f As Exod. xxxii. 32. Luke xiii. 9.—^g Exod. v. 2. 2 Kings xviii. 85.—^h Matt. x. 19.—ⁱ 2 Mac. vii. 2.—^j Chald. filled.—^k Chald. mighty of strength.—^l Or, mantles.—^m Or, turbans.—ⁿ Chald. word.—^o Or, sparks.—^p Or, governors.—^q Isa. xlii. 2.—^r Chald. there is no hurt

Verse 16. We are not careful.] We have no need to put thee to any further trouble; we have made up our minds on this subject, and have our answer ready.

Verse 17. If it be so.] We serve a God who is able to deliver us. Should he not, we are equally determined; but we are satisfied that in some way or other he will deliver us out of thy hand.

Verse 19. Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury.] He had seen how God poured contempt upon his authority in the case of the three Hebrews, and yet he will try his strength once more!

Seven times more.] Seven expresses the great intensity of the heat.

Verse 20. The most mighty men.] The generals, or chief officers of his army; not strong men, there was no need of such.

Verse 21. Their hats.] This word sarbal, properly means an outer garment.

that were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace.

21 Then these men were bound in their ^l coats, their hosen, and their ^m hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

22 Therefore because the king's ⁿ commandment was urgent, and the furnace exceeding hot, the ^o flame of the fire slew those men that took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, fell down bound into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his ^p counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king.

25 He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, ^q walking in the midst of the fire, and ^r they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like ^s the Son of God.

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the ^t mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, came forth of the midst of the fire.

27 And the princes, governors, and captains, and the king's counsellors, being gathered together, saw these men, ^u upon whose bodies the fire had no power, nor was a hair of their head singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them.

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar spake, and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that ^v trusted in him, and have changed the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

29 ^w Therefore ^x I make a decree, That every people, nation, and language, which speak ^y any thing amiss against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, shall be ^z cut ^{aa} in pieces, and their houses shall be made a dunghill: ^{bb} because there is no other god that can deliver after this sort.

30 Then the king ^{cc} promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, in the province of Babylon.

in them.—¹ Job. i. 6. xxxviii. 7. Ps. xxxiv. 7. Ver. 28.—² Chald. door.—³ Heb. xl. 34.—⁴ Ps. xxxiv. 7, 8. Jer. xvii. 7. Ch. vi. 22, 23.—⁵ Ch. vi. 26.—⁶ Chald. a decree is made by me.—⁷ Chald. error.—⁸ Ch. ii. 6.—⁹ Chald. made pieces.—¹⁰ Ch. vi. 27.—¹¹ Chald. made to prosper.

Verse 23. And these three men—fell down bound.] There is a most evident want of connexion between this and the following verse. The Septuagint and Arabic read the twenty-fourth verse thus: "Then Nebuchadnezzar heard them singing praise, and was astonished."

Verse 25. Is like the Son of God.] A most improper translation. Bar elahin signifies a son of the gods, that is, a divine person or angel; and so the king calls him in ver. 28: "God hath sent his ANGEL, and delivered his servants." And though even from this some still contend that it was the Angel of the covenant, yet the Babylonish king knew just as much of the one as he did of the other.

Verse 28. Blessed be the God of Shadrach, &c.] Here is a noble testimony from a heathen. And what produced it? The intrepidly pious conduct of these three noble Jews. Had they been time-servers, the name of the true God had not been known in Babylon. What honour does the Lord put on them that are steadfast in the faith!

Verse 29. Speak any thing amiss] Though by the decree the king does not oblige the people to worship the true God, yet he obliges them to treat him with reverence.

Verse 30. Then the king promoted, &c.] He restored them to the offices which they held before the charge of disobedience and treason was brought against them.

CHAPTER IV.

Nebuchadnezzar, after having subdued all the neighbouring countries, and greatly enriched and adorned his own, became so intoxicated with his prosperity, as to draw down upon himself a very remarkable judgment, of which this chapter gives a particular account, in the very words of the edict or proclamation which the Babylonish monarch issued on his restoration to the throne. This state document begins with Nebuchadnezzar's acknowledging the hand of God in his late malady, 1-3. It then gives an account of the dream of Nebuchadnezzar, which portended the loss of his kingdom and reason for seven years, on account of his pride and arrogance, 4-18. So it was explained by Daniel, 19-27, and so it was verified by the event, 28-33. It then recites how, at the end of the period fixed by the God of heaven for the duration of his malady, the Chaldean monarch became sensible of his dependance on the Supreme being, and lifted up his eyes to heaven in devout acknowledgment of the sovereign majesty of the King of kings, the Ruler of the earth, whose dominion alone is universal, unchangeable, and everlasting, 34-37.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king, people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

2 ^b I thought it good to shew the signs and wonders that the high God hath wrought toward me.

3 ^a How great are his signs! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

4 I Nebuchadnezzar was at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace:

5 I saw a dream, which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed, and the visions of my head troubled me.

6 Therefore made I a decree to bring in all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might make known unto me the interpretation of the dream.

7 ^b Then came in the magicians, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers: and I told the dream before them; but they did not make known unto me the interpretation thereof.

8 But at the last Daniel came in before me, whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods: and before him I told the dream, saying,

9 O Belteshazzar, master of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dream that I have seen, and the interpretation thereof.

10 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed; I saw, and behold a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was great.

11 The tree grew, and was strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the end of all the earth:

12 The leaves thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: the beasts of the field had shadow under it, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh was fed of it.

13 I saw in the visions of my head upon my bed, and, behold, a watcher and an holy one came down from heaven;

14 He cried aloud, and said thus, Hew down the tree, and cut off his branches, shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit: let the beasts get away from under it, and the fowls from his branches.

15 Nevertheless leave the stump of his roots in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth:

16 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given unto him; and let seven times pass over him.

17 This matter is by the decree of the watchers,

^a Ch. iii. 4. vi. 25.—^b Chald. It was seemly before me.—^c Ch. iii. 26.—^d Ch. vi. 27.—^e Ver. 34. Ch. ii. 44. vi. 28.—^f Ch. ii. 28, 29.—^g Ch. ii. 1.—^h Ch. ii. 2.—ⁱ Ch. i. 7.—^j Isa. lxiii. 11. Ver. 18. Ch. ii. 11. v. 11, 14.—^k Ch. ii. 48. v. 11.—^l Chald. I was seeing.—^m Ezek.

xxxi. 3, &c. Ver. 20.—ⁿ Ezek. xvii. 23. xxxi. 6. See Lam. iv. 20.—^o Ps. ciii. 20. Ver. 17, 23.—^p Deut. xxxiii. 2. Ch. viii. 13. Zech. xiv. 5. Jude 14.—^q Chald. with might.—^r Matt. iii. 10.—^s Ezek. xxxi. 12.—^t Ch. xi. 13. xii. 7.

Verse 1. Nebuchadnezzar the king, unto all people] This is a regular decree, and is one of the most ancient on record; and no doubt was copied from the state papers of Babylon. Daniel has preserved it in the original language.

Verse 3. How great are his signs] These are very fine sentiments, and show how deeply his mind was impressed with the majesty of God.

Verse 4. I was at rest] I had returned to my palace in Babylon after having subdued Syria, Phoenicia, Judea, Egypt, and Arabia. It was probably these great conquests that puffed him up with pride, and brought that obstinacy upon him which he afterwards describes.

Verse 10. I saw—a tree] This vision Nebuchadnezzar says made him afraid. What a mercy it is that God has hidden futurity from us!

Great men and princes are often represented, in the language of the prophets, under the similitude of trees; see Ezek. xvii. 5, 6, xxxi. 8, &c.; Jer. xxi. 15; Ps. i. 3, xxxvii. 35.

Verse 13. A watcher and an holy one] These are both angels; but, according to the Chaldean oracles, of different orders. They appear, according to their opinions, to be a kind of judges of human actions who had the power of determining the lot of men; see ver. 17.

Verse 14. Hew down the tree] As the tree was to be cut down, the beasts are commanded to flee away from under his branches. His courtiers, officers, &c., all abandoned him as soon as his insanity appeared; but he soon fled from the society of men.

Verse 15. Leave the stump] Let him not be destroyed, nor his kingdom alienated.

Verse 16. Let his heart be changed] Let him conceive himself to be a beast, and act as such, herding among the beasts of the field.

Let seven times pass over him.] Let him continue in this state for seven years.

Verse 17. The Most High ruleth] He never leaves the and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent 'that the living may know' that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and setteth up over it the basest of men.

18 This dream I king Nebuchadnezzar have seen. Now thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof, 'forasmuch as all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known unto me the interpretation: but thou art able; 'for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

19 Then Daniel, 'whose name was Belteshazzar, was astonished for one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. The king spake, and said, Belteshazzar, let not the dream, or the interpretation thereof, trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, 'the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

20 'The tree that thou sawest, which grew, and was strong, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof to all the earth;

21 Whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all; under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation:

22 'It is thou, O king, that art grown and become strong: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, 'and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

23 'And whereas the king saw a watcher and an holy one coming down from heaven, and saying, Hew the tree down, and destroy it; yet leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, 'and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him;

24 This is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the Most High, which is come upon my lord the king:

25 That they shall 'drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, and they shall make thee 'to eat grass as oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over thee, 'till thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and 'giveth it to whomsoever he will.

26 And whereas they commanded to leave the stump of the tree roots; thy kingdom shall be sure unto thee, after that thou shalt have known that the heavens do rule.

27 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and 'break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by shewing mercy to the poor: 'if it may be 'a 'lengthening of thy tranquillity.

28 All this came upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

29 At the end of twelve months he walked 'in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon.

30 The king 'spake, and said, Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?

31 'While the word was in the king's mouth, there fell 'a voice from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken; The kingdom is departed from thee.

32 And 'they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eat grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

33 The same hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar; and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown like eagles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws.

34 And 'at the end of the days I Nebuchadnezzar lifted up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding returned unto me, and I blessed the Most High, and I praised and honoured him 'that liveth for ever, whose dominion is 'an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom is from generation to generation:

35 And 'all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and 'he doeth according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth: and 'none can stay his hand, or say unto him, 'What doest thou?

36 At the same time my reason returned unto me; 'and for the glory of my kingdom, mine honour and brightness returned unto me; and my counsellors and my lords sought unto me; and I was established in my kingdom, and excellent majesty was 'added unto me.

37 Now I Nebuchadnezzar praise and extol and honour the king of heaven, 'all whose works are truth, and his ways judgment: 'and those that walk in pride he is able to abase.

* Ps. ix. 10.—b Ch. ii. 21. v. 21. Ver. 25, 32.—c Gen. xli. 8, 15. h. v. 8, 15.—d Ver. 8.—e Ver. 8.—f See 2 Sam. xviii. 34. Jer. xxix. 7.—g Ver. 10, 11, 12.—h Ch. ii. 88.—i Jer. xxvii. 8, 7, 8.—j Ver. 13.—k Ch. v. 21.—l Ver. 32. Ch. v. 21, &c.—m Ps. cvl. 30.—n Ver. 17, 32. Ps. lxxviii. 18.—o Jer. xxvii. 5.—p Matt. xxi. 25.—q Luke xv. 16, 21.—r 1 Pet. iv. 8.—s Ps. xli. 1, &c.—t Or, a healing of things error.—u 1 Kings xxi. 29.—v Or upon.—w Prov. xvi. 18. Ch. v. 20.— government of the world to man, to second causes, or to fortuitous occurrences.

And setteth up—the basest of men.] The throne ennobles no man: to be properly filled, the man must be noble. Some of the greatest and some of the meanest of men have sat on the throne. Kings differ in education, seldom in intellect, from the common mass of men; the power and authority are from God. The king himself may be given either in mercy or in wrath.

Verse 19. Daniel—was astonished for one hour] He saw the design of the dream, and he felt the great delicacy of interpreting it.

Verse 26. Thy kingdom shall be sure unto thee] No new king was set up; Evil-merodach his son was regent during his father's insanity.

Verse 27. Break off thy sins by righteousness] Do justice.

* Ch. v. 5. Luke xii. 30.—b Ver. 24.—c Ver. 25.—d Ver. 26.—e Ch. xii. 7. Rev. iv. 10.—f Ps. x. 16. Ch. ii. 44. vii. 14. Mic. iv. 7. Luke i. 33.—g Isa. xl. 15, 17.—h Ps. cxi. 3. cxxxv. 5.—i Job xxxiv. 29.—j Job ix. 12. Isa. xlv. 9. Rom. ii. 20.—k Ver. 26.—l Job xlii. 12. Prov. xxii. 4. Matt. vi. 33.—m Ps. xxxiii. 4. Rev. xv. 3. xvi. 7.—n Exod. xviii. 11. Ch. v. 20.—

Thou hast been an oppressive man; show mercy to the poor, many of whom have been made such by thyself: witness the whole nation of the Jews.

Verse 30. Is not this great Babylon] Here his heart was inflated with pride; he attributed every thing to himself, and acknowledged God in nothing. The walls, hanging gardens, temple of Bel, and the royal palace, all built by Nebuchadnezzar, made it the greatest city in the world.

Verse 32. They shall make thee, &c.] Thou shalt be made to eat grass as oxen. The madness that fell upon him induced him to forsake society, and to run to the woods and deserts, where he lived like a wild beast, his hairs growing long and thick, so as to be a substitute for clothing; and his nails strong and hooked, that he might the better climb trees and grub up the ground, in order to get roots and earth-nuts. It was the mercy of God that thus clothed and accoutred him.

Verse 36. My reason returned] It is very likely that this unfortunate king had so concealed himself that the place of his retreat was not found out; and the providence of God had so watched over every thing, that, on his return to his palace, he found his counsellors and his lords, who received him gladly, and cleaved to and served him as they had for merly done.

Verse 37. Now I—praise and extol] It is very probable that Nebuchadnezzar was a true convert; that he relapsed no more into idolatry, and died in the faith of the God of Israel. It is supposed that he lived seventeen years after his restoration.

CHAPTER V.

In the commencement of this chapter we are informed how Belshazzar, the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar, when rioting in his palace, and profaning the sacred vessels of the temple, 1-4, was suddenly terrified with the appearance of the fingers of a man's hand, which wrote a few words on the wall before him, 5, 6. The wise men and astrologers were immediately called in to show the king the interpretation; but they could not so much as read the writing, because (as Houbigant and others have conjectured) though the words are in the Chaldee tongue, yet they were written in the Samaritan or ancient Hebrew characters, with which the wise men of Babylon were very probably unacquainted, as the Jews were at that time a despised people, and the knowledge of their language not a fashionable attainment, 7-9. Daniel, who had been so highly esteemed by Nebuchadnezzar for his superior wisdom, appears to have been altogether unknown to Belshazzar, till the queen (the same who had been the wife of Nebuchadnezzar according to the general opinion, or the queen consort according to others) had informed him, 10-12. Upon the queen's recommendation, Daniel is called in, 13-16; who boldly tells this despotic king that as he had not benefited by the judgments inflicted on his grandfather, but gave himself up to pride and profanity, and had added to his other sins an utter contempt for the God of the Jews by drinking wine out of the sacred vessels of Jehovah in honour of his idols, 17-23; the Supreme Being, the Ruler of heaven and earth, had written his condemnation in three words, MENE, TEKEL, PERES, 24, 25; the first of which is repeated in the copies containing the Chaldean original; but all the ancient versions, except the Syriac, are without this repetition. Daniel then gives the king and his lords the fearful import of the writing, viz., that the period allotted for the duration of the Chaldean empire was now completed (see Jer. xxv. 12-14), and that the kingdom was about to be transferred to the Medes and Persians, 26-28. However unwelcome such an interpretation must have been to Belshazzar, yet the monarch, overwhelmed with its clearness and certainty, commanded the prophet to be honoured, 29. And that very night the prediction was fulfilled, for the king was slain, 30, and the city taken by the Medes and Persians, 31. This great event was also predicted by Isaiah and Jeremiah; and the manner in which it was accomplished is recorded by Herodotus and Xenophon.

BELSHAZZAR the king ^a made a great feast to a thousand of his lords, and drank wine before the thousand.

2 Belshazzar, while he tasted the wine, commanded to bring the ^b golden and silver vessels ^c which his ^d father Nebuchadnezzar had ^e taken out of the temple which was in Jerusalem; that the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, might drink therein.

3 Then they brought the golden vessels that were taken out of the temple of the house of God which was at Jerusalem; and the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, drank in them.

^a Esth. i. 3.—^b 1 Chron. xxviii. 17. Ezra vi. 5. Ver. 3, 23.—^c Ch. i. 2. Jer. iii. 12.—^d Or, grandfather. As Jer. xxvii. 7. 2 Sam. ix. 7. 2 Chron. xv. 16. Ver. 11. 13.—^e Chald. brought forth.—

Verse 1. Belshazzar the king made a great feast] This chapter is out of its place, and should come in after the seventh and eighth. There are difficulties in the chronology. After the death of Nebuchadnezzar, Evil-merodach his son ascended the throne of Babylon. Having reigned about two years, he was slain by his brother-in-law, Neriglissar. He reigned four years, and was succeeded by his son Laborsarchod, who reigned only nine months. At his death Belshazzar, the son of Evil-merodach, was raised to the throne, and reigned seventeen years, and was slain, as we read here, by Cyrus, who surprised and took the city on the night of this festivity. This is the chronology on which Archbishop Usher, and other learned chronologists, agree; but the Scripture mentions only Nebuchadnezzar, Evil-merodach, and Belshazzar, by name; and Jeremiah, chap. xxvii. 7, expressly says, "All nations shall serve him (Nebuchadnezzar), and his son (Evil-merodach), and his son's son (Belshazzar), until the very time of his land come;" i.e. till 4 They drank wine, ^f and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

5 ^g In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace: and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's ^h countenance ⁱ was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the ^j joints ^k of his loins were loosed, and his ^l knees smote one against another.

7 ^m The king cried aloud to bring in the ⁿ astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. And the king spake, and said to the wise men of Babylon,

^f Rev. ix. 20.—^g Ch. iv. 31.—^h Chald. brightnesses. Ver. 9.—ⁱ Chald. changed it.—^j Or, girdles. Isa. v. 27.—^k Chald. bindings or knots.—^l Nah. ii. 10.—^m Ch. ii. 2. Iv. 6.—ⁿ Chald. with might.—^o Isa. xlvii. 13 the time in which the empire should be seized by Cyrus. Here there is no mention of Neriglissar nor Laborsarchod; but as they were usurpers, they might have been purposely passed by.

To a thousand of his lords] Perhaps this means lords or satraps, that were each over one thousand men. A thousand lords and their appropriate attendants would have been very inconvenient in a nocturnal assembly. The text, however, supports the common translation.

Verse 2. While he tasted the wine] He relished it, got heated by it, and when wine got fully in, he went wholly out; and in consequence he acted the profane part of which we immediately read.

Verse 4. And praised the gods of gold] They had gods of all sorts, and of all metals; with wooden gods and stone gods beside!

Verse 5. Fingers of a man's hand] The fingers were collected about the stile or pen as in the act of writing.

Whosoever shall read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with ^a scarlet, and have a chain of gold about his neck, ^b and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wise men: ^c but they could not read the writing, nor make known to the king the interpretation thereof.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly ^d troubled, and his ^e countenance was changed in him, and his lords were astounded.

10 Now the queen by reason of the words of the king and his lords came into the banquet house: and the queen spake and said, 'O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 ^f There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom ^g is the spirit of the holy gods; and in the days of thy ^h father light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him; whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy ⁱ father, the king, I say, thy father, made ^j master of the magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans, and soothsayers;

12 ^k Forasmuch as an excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, ^l interpreting of dreams, and shewing of hard sentences, and ^m dissolving of ⁿ doubts, were found in the same Daniel, ^o whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will shew the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought in before the king. And the king spake and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom the king my ^p father brought out of Jewry?

14 I have even heard of thee, that ^q the spirit of the gods ^r is in thee, and ^s that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee.

15 And now ^t the wise men, the astrologers, have been brought in before me, that they should read writing, and make known unto me the interpretation thereof; but they could not shew the interpretation of the thing:

16 And I have heard of thee, that thou canst ^u make interpretations, and dissolve doubts: ^v now if thou canst read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with scarlet, and have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 Then Daniel answered and said before the king, Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy ^w rewards to another; yet I will read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, ^x the most high God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and glory, and honour:

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, ^y all people, nations, and languages, trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew; and whom he would he kept alive; and whom he would he set up; and whom he would he put down.

20 ^z But when his heart was lifted up, and his mind hardened ^{aa} in pride, he was ^{ab} deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21 And he was ^{ac} driven from the sons of men; and ^{ad} his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling ^{ae} was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven; ^{af} till he knew that the most high God ruled in the kingdom of men, and ^{ag} that he appointeth over it whomsoever he will.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, ^{ah} hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all this;

23 ^{ai} But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, ^{aj} which see not, nor hear, nor know: and the God in whose hand thy breath ^{ak} is, ^{al} and whose ^{am} are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified;

24 Then was the part of the hand sent from him; and this writing was written.

25 And this ^{an} is the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This ^{ao} is the interpretation of the thing: MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it.

27 TEKEL; ^{ap} Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.

28 PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the ^{aq} Medes and ^{ar} Persians.

29 Then commanded Belshazzar, and they clothed Daniel with scarlet, and ^{as} put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, ^{at} that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 ^{au} In that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain.

31 ^{av} And Darius the Median took the kingdom, ^{aw} being ^{ax} about threescore and two years old.

^a Or, purple.—^b Ch. vi. 2.—^c Ch. ii. 27. iv. 7.—^d Ch. ii. 1.—^e Chald. brightnesses, Ver. 6.—^f Ch. ii. 4. iii. 9.—^g Ch. ii. 49. iv. 2, 9, 18.—^h Or, grandfather. Ver. 2.—ⁱ Or, grandfather. Ver. 2.—^j Ch. vi. 8.—^k Or, of an interpreter, &c.—^l Or, of a dissolver.—^m Chald. knots.—ⁿ Ch. i. 7.—^o Or, grandfather.—^p Ver. 11, 12.—^q Ver. 7, 8.—^r Chald. interpret.—^s Ver. 7.—^t Or, fee, as ch. ii. 8.—^u Ch. ii. 37, 38. iv. 17, 22, 25.—^v Jer. xxvii. 7.

Verse 6. The king's countenance was changed] Here is a very natural description of fear and terror.

Verse 7. Whosoever shall read this writing] He knew it must be some awful portent, and wished to know what.

Verse 8. They could not read the writing] Because it was in the pure Hebrew, not the Chaldean, character.

Verse 10. The queen—came] This is generally allowed to have been the widow of Nebuchadnezzar; if so, she was the queen Amiyi, daughter of Astyages, sister of Darius the Mede, and aunt of Cyrus, according to Polyhistor, cited by Cedrenus. Others think that Nitocris was the person who is said to have been queen when Cyrus took the city; and is stated to have been a lady of eminent wisdom and discretion, and to have had the chief direction of the public affairs. She was the mother of Labynthus; and, if this be the same as Belshazzar, she must be the person here introduced.

Verse 16. Dissolve doubts] Untie knots—unwind what is

Ch. iii. 4.—^z Ch. iv. 30, 37.—^{aa} Or, to deal proudly. Exod. xviii. 11.—^{ab} Chald. made to come down.—^{ac} Ch. iv. 32, &c.—^{ad} Or, he made his heart equal, &c.—^{ae} Ch. iv. 17, 25.—^{af} 2 Chron. xxxiii. 23. xxxvi. 12.—^{ag} Ver. 3, 4.—^{ah} Ps. cxv. 5, 6.—^{ai} Jer. x. 23.—^{aj} Job xxxi. 6. Ps. lxi. 9. Jer. vi. 30.—^{ak} Foretold Isa. xxi. 2. Ver. 31. Ch. ix. 1.—^{al} Ch. vi. 28.—^{am} Ver. 7.—^{an} Jer. li. 31, 39, 57.—^{ao} Ch. vi. 1, 6, 9, 25, 26, ix. 1, 2. xi. 1.—^{ap} Chald. he as the son of, &c.—^{aq} Or, now.

bound. An expression used in the East to signify a judge of eminent wisdom and skill.

Verse 17. Let thy gifts be to thyself] They could be of little use to any, as the city was in a few hours to be taken and pillaged.

Verse 18. Nebuchadnezzar thy father] Or grandfather, as the margin reads, ver. 2.

Verse 19. Whom he would he slew] The genuine character of a despot, whose will is the only rule of his conduct.

Verse 20. But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord] And the highest evidence of this rebellion was the profaning the sacred vessels of the Lord's house.

Verse 24. Then was the part of the hand sent] This was the filling up of the cup of thy iniquity; this last act made thee ripe for destruction.

Verse 26. And this is the writing] Had the words been written in the Chaldean character, every wise man there, every one that could read the alphabet of his own language could have read and interpreted them. It should be observed, that each word stands for a short sentence; mene signifies NUMERATION; tekél, WEIGHING; and peres, DIVISION.

Verse 29. Clothed Daniel with scarlet] More probably with purple. The gold chain about the neck was an emblem of magisterial authority.

Verse 30. In that night was Belshazzar—slain.] Xenophon says, he was dispatched by two lords, Gadatas and Gobrias, who went over to Cyrus, to avenge themselves of certain wrongs which Belshazzar had done them.

Verse 31. Darius the Median took the kingdom] This is supposed to be the same as Cyazares, son of Astyages and maternal uncle of Cyrus, to whom he gave the throne of Babylon, after himself had had the honour of taking the city.

Daniel speaks nothing of the war that raged between the Babylonians and the Medes; but Isaiah speaks particularly of it, chap. xiii., xiv., xlv., xlvii.; and so does Jeremiah chap. i., li.

CHAPTER VI.

Darius the Median, who succeeded Belshazzar in the kingdom of Babylon, having heard of Daniel's extraordinary wisdom and understanding, constitutes him the chief of the three presidents who were over the whole empire, and purposed also to make him prime minister or viceroy, 1-3. This great partiality of the king towards a stranger of Jewish extraction, and who had been carried captive into Chaldea, raised up a great many enemies to Daniel; and a scheme was even contrived by the president and princes to ruin him, 4-15; which succeeded so far that he was cast into a den of lions, but was miraculously delivered, 16-23. Darius, who was greatly displeased with himself for having been entrapped by the governors of the provinces to the prejudice of his faithful minister, is pleased and astonished at this deliverance; punished Daniel's enemies with the same kind of death which they had designed for the prophet; and made a decree that, throughout his dominions, the God of Daniel should be had in the greatest veneration, 24-28.

IT pleased Darius to set ^aover the kingdom an hundred and twenty princes, which should be over the whole kingdom;

2 And over these three presidents; of whom Daniel was first: that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

3 Then this Daniel was preferred above the presidents and princes, ^bbecause an excellent spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

4 ^cThen the presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find none occasion nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and princes ^dassembled together to the king, and said thus unto him, ^eKing Darius, live for ever:

^a Esth. i. 1.—^b Ch. v. 12.—^c Eccles. iv. 4.—^d Or, came tumultuously.—^e Neh. ii. 8. Ver. 21. Ch. ii. 4.—^f Or, interdict.—^g Esth. i. 19. viii. 6. Ver. 12, 15.—^h Chald. passeth not.—ⁱ 1 Kings viii. 44.

Verse 1. An hundred and twenty princes] A chief or satrap over every province which belonged to the Medo-Persian empire.

Verse 2. Three presidents] Each having forty of these presidents accountable to him for their administration.

Daniel was first] As being established over that part where was the seat of government. He was confirmed in his offices by Darius.

Verse 3. The king thought to set him over the whole realm.] This partiality of the king made Daniel the object of the envy of the other presidents, and the grandees of the kingdom.

Verse 4. Sought to find occasion against Daniel] But they found no blemish in his administration, for he was faithful to his king; this was a virtue. But he was also faithful to his God: this they hoped to construe into a crime, and make it the cause of his ruin.

Verse 7. Whosoever shall ask a petition] Probably to flatter the ambition of the king, they pretend to make him a god for thirty days; so that the whole empire should make prayer and supplication to him, and pay him divine honours! This was the bait; but their real object was to destroy Daniel.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors and the princes, the counsellors, and the captains, have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm ^adecree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, establish the decree, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the ^blaw of the Medes and Persians, which ^caltereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius signed the writing and the decree.

10 Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber ^dtoward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees ^ethree times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying and making supplication before his God.

12 ^fThen they came near, and spake before the 48. Ps. v. 7. Jonah ii. 4.—^g Ps. lv. 17. Acts ii. 1, 2, 15. iii. 1. x. 9.—^h Ch. iii. 8.

Verse 8. According to the law of the Medes and Persians] The laws were such among this people, that, when once passed with the usual formalities, the king could not change them at his own will. This is the utmost that can be meant by the law of the Medes and Persians that could not be changed.

Verse 10. His windows being open] When the Jews were in distant countries, in prayer they turned their faces towards Jerusalem; and when in Jerusalem, they turned their faces towards the temple. Solomon, in his prayer at the dedication of the temple, 1 Kings viii. 48, had entreated God to hear the prayers of those who might be in strange lands, or in captivity, when they should turn their faces towards their own land, which God gave unto their fathers; and towards the city which he had chosen, and the house which was dedicated to his name.

Verse 12. Shall be cast into the den of lions] Either this was the royal menagerie; or they were kept for the purpose of devouring certain criminals, which the laws might consign to that kind of death. This is most likely, from the case before us.

Verse 14. The king—was sore displeased with himself] king concerning the king's decree; Hast thou not signed a decree, that every man that shall ask a petition of any god or man within thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they and said before the king, That Daniel, which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast signed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the going down of the sun to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Know, O king, that the law of the Medes and the Persians is, That no decree nor statute which the king establisheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den; and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords; that the purpose might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went to his palace and passed the night fasting: neither were instruments of music brought before him: and his sleep went from him.

19 Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king spake and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel unto the king, O king, live for ever.

22 My God hath sent his angel, and hath shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him innocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king, have I done no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God.

24 And the king commanded, and they brought those men which had accused Daniel, and they cast them into the den of lions, them, their children, and their wives; and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces or ever they came at the bottom of the den.

25 Then king Darius wrote unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, That in every dominion of my kingdom men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: for he is the living God, and stedfast for ever, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed, and his dominion shall be even unto the end.

27 He delivereth and rescueth, and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

* Ver. 8.—^bCh. i. 6. v. 13.—^cCh. iii. 12.—^dSo Mark vi. 26.—^eVer. 8.—^fLam. iii. 63.—^gSo Matt. xxvii. 66.—^hOr, table.—ⁱCh. ii. 1.—^jCh. iii. 15.—^kCh. ii. 4.—^lCh. iii. 23.—^mHeb. xi. 33.—ⁿHeb. xi. 33.—^oDeut. xix. 19.—^pEeth. ix. 10. See Deut. xxiv. 16. 2 Kings

xiv. 6.—^aCh. iv. 1.—^bCh. iii. 29.—^cPs. xcix. 1.—^dCh. iv. 34.—^eCh. ii. 44. iv. 3, 34. vii. 14. 27. Luke i. 33.—^fCh. iv. 3.—^gHeb. hand.—^hCh. i. 21.—ⁱEzra i. 1, 2.

And well he might, when through his excessive folly he passed a law that, for its ostensible object, would have been a disgrace almost to an idiot.

And set his heart on Daniel] He strove by every means to get the law annulled.

Verse 16. Then the king commanded] With a heavy heart he was obliged to warrant this murderous conspiracy. Daniel had now the same kind of opportunity of showing his fidelity to God, as his three Hebrew companions before. The lions were not less terrible than the fiery furnace.

Verse 17. A stone was brought] All this precaution served the purposes of the Divine Providence. There could be no trick nor collusion here; if Daniel be preserved, it must be by the power of the Supreme God.

Verse 18. Passed the night fasting] All this points out his great sincerity; and when it is considered that Darius could not be less than sixty-two or sixty-three years of age at this time, it shows more fully the depth of his concern.

Verse 23. No manner of hurt was found upon him] And why? Because he believed in his God. How mighty is faith!

Verse 24. They brought those men] It was savage cruelty to destroy the women and children who had no part in the transgression.

Verse 25. Then king Darius wrote] And the substance of this decree, which was made by a heathen king, was to point out the perfections of the true God, and the fidelity of his devoted servant.

Verse 26. I make a decree that—men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel] As in the case of the three Hebrews, chap. iii. 29. The true God was known by his servants, and by the deliverances he wrought for them.

Verse 28. So this Daniel prospered] Few courtiers have had so long a reign, served so many masters without flattering any, been more successful in their management of public affairs, been so useful to the states where they were in office, or have been more owned of God, or have left such an example to posterity.

Where shall we find ministers like Samuel and Daniel? None so wise, so holy, so disinterested, so useful, have ever since appeared in the nations of the earth.

CHAPTER VII.

The prophet having, in the preceding chapters of this book, related some remarkable events concerning himself and his brethren in the captivity, and given proof of his being enabled, by divine assistance, to interpret the dreams of others, enters now into a detail of his own visions, returning to a period prior to the transactions recorded in the last chapter. The first in order of the prophet's visions is that of the four beasts, which arose out of a very tempestuous ocean, 1-9; and of one like the Son of Man who annihilated the dominion of the fourth beast, because of the proud and blasphemous words of one of its horns, 9-14. An angel deciphers the hieroglyphics contained in this chapter, declaring that the FOUR beasts, diverse one from another, represent the FOUR PARAMOUNT empires of the habitable globe, which should succeed each other; and are evidently the same which were shadowed forth to Nebuchadnezzar by another set of hieroglyphics (see the second chapter), 15-26. But for the consolation of the people of God, it is added that, at the time appointed in the counsel of Jehovah, "the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the saints of the Most High," and that this kingdom shall never be destroyed or transferred to another people, as all the preceding dominations have been, but shall itself stand for ever, 27, 28. It will be proper to remark that the period of a time, times, and a half, mentioned in the twenty-fifth verse as the duration of the dominion of the little horn that made war with the saints (generally supposed to be a symbolical representation of the papal power), had most probably its commencement in A. D. 755 or 756, when Pepin, king of France, invested the Pope with temporal power. This hypothesis will bring the conclusion of the period to about the year of Christ 2000, a time fixed by Jews and Christians for some remarkable revolution; when the world, as they suppose, will be renewed, the wicked cease from troubling the church, and the saints of the Most High have dominion over the whole habitable globe. But this is all hypothesis.

In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon Daniel had a dream and visions of his head upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and told the sum of the matters.

2 Daniel spake and said, I saw in my vision by night, and, behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts came up from the sea, diverse one from another.

4 The first was like a lion, and had eagle's

* Num. xii. 6. Amos iii. 7.—b Chald. saw.—c Ch. ii. 28.—d Or, words. Rev. xiii. 1.—e Deut. xviii. 49. 2 Sam. i. 23. Jer. iv. 7.

Verse 1. In the first year of Belshazzar] This is the same Belshazzar who was slain at the taking of Babylon, as we have seen at the conclusion of chap. v. That chapter should have followed both this and the succeeding. The reason why the fifth chapter was put in an improper place was, that all the historic parts might be together, and the prophetic be by themselves; and, accordingly, the former end with the preceding chapter, and the latter with this. The division therefore is not chronological, but merely artificial.

Verse 2. The four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.] The idea of strife is taken here from the effects that must be produced, were the east, the west, the north, and the south winds to rise tempestuously, and meet on the surface of the sea. By the great sea, the Mediterranean is meant. This dream is the same in meaning, under different emblems, as that of Nebuchadnezzar's metallic image; but in Daniel's dream several circumstances are added. [The "great sea" is representative of the troubled world.]

Verse 3. Four great beasts came up from the sea.] The term sea, in Hebrew yam, from hamah, to be tumultuous, agitated, &c., seems to be used here to point out the then known terraqueous globe, because of its generally agitated state; and the four winds striving point out those predatory wars that prevailed almost universally among men, from the days of Nimrod, the founder of the Assyrian or Babylonish monarchy, down to that time, and in the end gave birth to the four great monarchies which are the subject of this vision.

Verse 4. The first was like a lion, and had eagle's wings.] These four beasts are indeed monstrous productions; a lion with eagle's wings; a bear with three ribs in its mouth; a leopard with four wings, and four heads; and a beast with ten horns. But such emblems and hieroglyphics were usual among the eastern nations, as may be seen in the monuments of antiquity. The beast like a lion is the kingdom of the Babylonians; and the King of Babylon is compared to a lion, Jer. iv. 7, Isa. v. 29; and is said to fly as an eagle, Jer. xlviii. 40, Ezek. xvii. 3, 7. The lion is considered the king of the beasts, and the eagle the king of the birds; and therefore the kingdom of Babylon, which was signified by the golden head of the great image, was the first and noblest of all the kingdoms. The wings of the eagle denote the rapidity with which the lion—Nebuchadnezzar, made his conquests.

The wings thereof were plucked] Lydia, Media, and Persia, which had been Provinces of the Babylonish empire, cast off the yoke, and put themselves under kings of their own. Besides, the rapidity of its conquests was stopped by its wars with the Medes and Persians; by whom it was at last conquered, and divided between Darius the Mede and Cyrus the Persian.

wings: I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, and it was lifted up from the earth, and made stand upon the feet as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

5 And behold another beast, a second, like to a bear, and it raised up itself on one side, and it had three ribs in the mouth of it between the teeth of it: and they said thus unto it, Arise, devour much flesh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo another, like a

13. xlviii. 40. Ezek. xvii. 3. Hab. i. 8.—f Or, when such.—g Ch. iii. 39.—h Or, it raised up one dominion.

And it was lifted up from the earth] That is, the wings were plucked, rendered unfit for farther flight, by which it had before been lifted up from the earth; making its conquests almost with the rapidity of an eagle's flight. But on the death of Nebuchadnezzar the wings were plucked; and no farther extension of the empire took place under Evil-merodach or Belshazzar, till it was lost by the latter, and became divided as we have seen above.

And made stand upon the feet as a man] This I think refers to the taming of Nebuchadnezzar's pride. He had acted like a fierce and ravening lion. God struck him with insanity; he then lived the life of a beast, and had a beast's heart—disposition, and habits. At last God restored him.

And a man's heart was given to it.] He became humane, humble, and pious; and in this state he appears to have died.

Verse 5. Another beast—like to a bear.] This was the Medo-Persian empire, represented here under the symbol of the bear, as the largest species of these animals was found in Media, a mountainous, cold, and rough country, covered with woods.

Raised up itself on one side] Cyrus arose on the borders of Chaldea, and thus the bear appeared to put itself in the position to attack the lion.

It had three ribs in the mouth of it] As if it had just finished its repast on some animal that it had seized. Some think three tusks, curved like ribs, are meant; others three throats, illim, by which it (Cyrus) had absorbed the three empires of the Babylonians, Medes, and Persians; for these symbolic animals do not so much denote four empires, as four kings. See ver. 17. Others think rows of teeth are meant to denote the triple powers of the Medes, Persians, and Babylonians, conjoined. Or the east, north, and south, which were subdued by the Persians. But the ribs being between the teeth of the bear may show how Babylon, Lydia, and Egypt, were ground and oppressed by the bear—the Persians; though, as ribs strengthen the body, they were a powerful support to their conquerors.

Verse 6. Another, like a leopard—four wings—four heads.] This was the Macedonian or Greek empire; and Alexander the Great its king. Alexander and his subjects are fitly compared to a leopard. 1. The leopard is remarkable for its swiftness. Alexander and the Macedonians were very rapid in their conquests. 2. The leopard is a spotted animal; a proper emblem of the various nations, with their various customs and languages, which constituted the Macedonian empire. It may refer to the character of Alexander himself, sometimes mild, at others cruel; sober and drunken; continent and lecherous; having a great power of self-government, and at other times being a slave to his pas-leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl; the beast had also four heads; and dominion was given to it.

7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth; it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts that were before it; and it had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things.

9 I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire.

10 A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which the horn spake: I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.

12 As concerning the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away: yet their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

13 I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him, 14 And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him, his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

15 I Daniel was grieved in my spirit in the midst of my body, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I came near unto one of them that stood by

*Ch. viii. 8, 22.—b Ch. ii. 40. Ver. 19, 23.—c Ch. ii. 41. Rev. xii. 1.—d Ver. 20, 21, 24. Ch. viii. 9.—e Rev. ix. 7.—f Ps. xii. 3. Ver. 25. Rev. xii. 5.—g Rev. xx. 4.—h Ps. xc. 2. Ver. 13, 22.—i Rev. i. 14.—j Ezek. i. 15, 16.—k Ps. i. 3. xcviii. 3. Isa. xxx. 83. lxi. 15.—l 1 Kings xxii. 19. Ps. lxxviii. 17. Heb. xii. 22. Rev. 5. 11.—m Rev xx. 4, 12.—n Rev. xix. 20.—o Chald. a prolonging in life was sions. 3. The leopard, though small, is not afraid to attack the lion.

Four wings of a fowl] The Babylonian empire was represented with two wings; and they sufficiently marked the rapidity of Nebuchadnezzar's conquests; but the Macedonian has here four wings; for nothing, in the history of the world, was equal to the conquests of Alexander, who ran through all the countries from Illyricum and the Adriatic Sea to the Indian Ocean and the River Ganges; and in twelve years subdued part of Europe and all Asia.

The beast had also four heads] Signifying the empire after the death of Alexander, divided between his four generals. Cassander reigning over Macedon and Greece; Lysimachus, over Thrace and Bithynia; Ptolemy, over Egypt; and Seleucus, over Syria.

Dominion was given to it.] It was not owing to the skill, courage, or valour of Alexander and his troops, that he made those wondrous conquests; the nations were given to him. For had he not been assisted by the mighty power of God, how could he, with only thirty thousand men, have overcome Darius with six hundred thousand; and in so short a time have brought the countries from Greece as far as India into subjection?

Verse 7. I saw—a fourth beast—it had great iron teeth] This is allowed on all hands to be the Roman empire. It was dreadful, terrible, and exceeding strong: it devoured, and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue, that is, the remains of the former kingdoms, with its feet. It reduced Macedon into a Roman province about one hundred and sixty-eight years before Christ; the kingdom of Pergamos about one hundred and thirty-three years; Syria about sixty-five; and Egypt about thirty years before Christ. And, besides the remains of the Macedonian empire, it subdued many other provinces and kingdoms; so that it might, by a very useful figure, be said to devour the whole earth, to tread it down, and break it to pieces; and became in effect, what the Roman writers delight to call it, the empire of the whole world.

It had ten horns.] The ten kingdoms into which the Roman empire was afterwards divided. There are different opinions concerning these ten kings; or rather which they were that constituted this division of the Roman empire. They are reckoned thus:—1. The Roman senate. 2. The Greeks, in Ravenna. 3. The Lombards in Lombardy. 4. The Huns in Hungary. 5. The Alemans in Germany. 6. The Franks in France. 7. The Burgundians in Burgundy. 8. The Saracens in Africa, and a part of Spain. 9. The Goths, in other parts of Spain. 10. And the Saxons, in Britain.

given them.—p Ezek. iv. 26. Matt. xxiv. 30. xxvi. 64. Rev. i. 7, 13. xiv. 14.—q Ver. 9.—r Ps. ii. 6, 7, 8. viii. 6. cx. 1, 2. Matt. xi. 27. xxviii. 18. John iii. 85. 1 Cor. xv. 27. Eph. i. 22.—s Ch. iii. 4.—t Ps. cxiv. 13. Ch. ii. 44. Ver. 27. Mic. iv. 7. Luke i. 33. John xii. 34. Heb. xii. 28.—u Ver. 28.—v Chald. sheath.

Verse 8. Another little horn] Among Protestant writers this is considered to be the Popedom.

Before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up] These were probably, 1. The exarchate of Ravenna. 2. The kingdom of the Lombards. And, 3. The state of Rome. The first was given to the Pope, Stephen II., by Pepin, king of France, A.D. 755; and this constituted the Popes temporal princes. The second was given to St. Peter by Charlemagne, in 774. The third, the state of Rome, was vested in the Pope, both in spirituals and temporal, and confirmed to him by Lewis the pious.

Were eyes like the eyes of a man] Intimating cunning and superintendence; for the Pope calls himself the Overseer of overseers.

And a mouth speaking great things.] Full of boasting; pretending to unlimited jurisdiction; binding and loosing at pleasure; promising to absolve from all sins, present, past, and future; and threatening to send to everlasting destruction all kings, kingdoms, and individuals, who would dare to dispute his power and authority.

Verse 9. The thrones were cast down.] There is a reference here to preparations made for a general assize, or to the convocation of the sanhedrin, where the father of the consistency sat with his assessors on each side in the form of a semi-circle, and the people stood before them.

The Ancient of days] God Almighty; and this is the only place in the sacred writings where God the Father is represented in a human form.

Verse 10. A fiery stream issued] This is not spoken of the final judgment; but of that which he was to execute upon this fourth beast, the Roman empire; and the little boasting horn, which is a part of the fourth beast, and must fall when the other falls.

Verse 11. I beheld then—his body destroyed] When the dominion was taken from the rest of the beasts, their bodies were not destroyed, but suffered to continue still in being; but when the dominion shall be taken away from this beast, his body shall be totally destroyed; because other kingdoms succeeded to those, but no other earthly kingdom shall succeed to this.

Verse 13. One like the Son of Man came with the clouds of heaven] This most certainly points out the Lord Jesus, bar enosh, the Son of miserable man; who took our nature upon him that he might redeem us unto himself. Matt. xxiv. 30.

Verse 14. And there was given him dominion] This also is applied to our Lord Jesus by himself, after his resurrection, Matt. xxviii. 18.

Verse 15. I Daniel was grieved, &c.] The words in the and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me, and made me know the interpretation of the things.

17 ^a These great beasts, which are four, are four kings, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 But ^b the saints of the ^c Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 Then I would know the truth of ^d the fourth beast, which was diverse ^e from all the others, exceeding dreadful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass; which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with his feet;

20 And of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, and before whom three fell; even of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that spake very great things, whose look was more stout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, and the same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them.

22 ^f Until the Ancient of days came, ^g and judgment was given to the saints of the Most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be ^h the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse

^a Ver. 3.—^b Isa. lx. 12, 13, 14. Ver. 22, 27. 2 Tim. ii. 11, 12. Rev. ii. 26, 27. iii. 21. xx. 4.—^c Chald. high ones, that is, things or places.—^d Ver. 7.—^e Chald. from all those.—^f Ch. viii. 12, 24. xi. 31. Rev. xi. 7. xiii. 7. xvii. 14. xix. 9.—^g Ver. 9.—^h Ver. 18. 1 Cor. vi. 2. Rev. i. 6. v. 10. x. 4.—ⁱ Ch. ii. 40.—^j Ver. 7, 8, 20. Rev. xvii. 12.—^k Isa. xxxvii. 23. Ch. viii. 24, 25. xi. 28, 30, 31, 36. 1 original are uncommonly emphatic. My spirit was grieved, or sickened, within its sheath or scabbard.

Verse 18. But the saints of the most high shall take the kingdom. I doubt whether this be the true sense of the original Chaldean, "But the supreme holy ones shall receive the kingdom;" or, "they shall receive the kingdom of the supreme saints." Whatever we may think of the patriarchs and the Jews in their best times, there has never been so much holiness of heart possessed, and so much righteousness practised, as by the genuine disciples of Christ. They are the chief saints, and to them God gives the kingdom: and this shall last for ever.

Verse 19. His nails of brass. This is not mentioned in the seventh verse, where the description of the beast is given. It might be added, for the first time, by the person who is now explaining the fourth beast.

Verse 21. The same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them. Those who make Antiochus the little horn, make the saints the Jewish people. Those who understand the Popedom by it, see this as referring to the cruel persecutions of the Popes of Rome against the Waldenses and Albigenses, and the Protestant Church in general.

Verse 25. He shall speak great words against the Most High. To none can this apply so well or so fully as to the Popes of Rome. They have assumed infallibility, which belongs only to God. They profess to forgive sins, which belongs only to God. They profess to open and shut heaven, which belongs only to God. They profess to be higher than all the kings of the earth, which belongs only to God. And they go beyond God in pretending to loose whole nations from their oath of allegiance to their kings, when such kings do not please them! And they go against God when they give indulgences for sin. This is the worst of all blasphemies!

from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 ⁱ And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise, and another shall rise after them; and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings.

25 ^j And he shall speak great words against the Most High, and shall ^k wear out the saints of the Most High, and ^l think to change times and laws: and ^m they shall be given into his hand ⁿ until a time and times and the dividing of time.

26 ^o But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end.

27 And the ^p kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, ^q whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, ^r and all ^s dominions shall serve and obey him.

28 Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, ^t my cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I ^u kept the matter in my heart.

Macc. i. 46. Rev. xiii. 5, 6.—^v Rev. xviii. 8. xvi. 24.—^w Ch. ii. 21. —^x Rev. xiii. 7.—^y Ch. xii. 7. Rev. xii. 14.—^z Ver. 10, 22.—^a Ver. 14, 18, 22. Ch. ii. 42. Obad. 21. Matt. xxv. 34. Mark xi. 10. Luke xii. 32.—^b Ch. ii. 44. Luke i. 33. John xii. 34. Rev. xi. 16.—^c Isa. lx. 12.—^d Or, rulers.—^e Ver. 15. Ch. viii. 27. x. 8, 16.—^f Luke ii. 19, 51.

And shall wear out the saints. By wars, crusades, massacres, inquisitions, and persecutions of all kinds.

And think to change times and laws. Appointing fasts and feasts; instituting new modes of worship utterly unknown to the Christian church; new articles of faith; new rules of practice; and reversing the laws both of God and man.

Until a time and times and the dividing of time. In Prophetic language a time signifies a year; and a prophetic year has a year for each day. Three years and a half (a day standing for a year, as in chap. ix. 24) will amount to one thousand two hundred and sixty years, if we reckon thirty days to each month, as the Jews do.

If we knew precisely when the papal power began to exert itself in the antichristian way, then we could at once fix the time of its destruction.

If the papal power, as a horn or temporal power, be intended here, which is most likely (and we know that that power was given in 755 to Pope Stephen II. by Pepin, king of France), counting one thousand two hundred and sixty years from that, we are brought to A.D. 2015, about one hundred and ninety years from the present [A.D. 1825]. But I neither lay stress upon, nor draw conclusion from, these dates. If the Church of Rome will reform itself, it will then be the true Christian Church, and will never be destroyed. Every true Protestant would wish rather the reform than the extinction of this church.

Verse 27. The kingdom and dominion. The people who are the supereminent saints, shall have the kingdom. Whatever name they may be distinguished by among men, theirs is the church, that no lapse of time shall injure, and no power be able to destroy.

Verse 28. The end of the matter. So said the expounding angel; and he said so because the purpose of God had determined it.

CHAPTER VIII.

This chapter contains Daniel's vision of the ram and he-goat, 1-14; referring, as explained by the angel, to the Persian and Grecian monarchies, 15-26. The little horn mentioned in the ninth verse (or fierce king, as interpreted in the twenty-third), is supposed by some to denote Antiochus Epiphanes; but seems more properly to apply to the Roman power in general, by which the polity and temple of the Jews were destroyed, on account of the great transgressions of these ancient people of God; and particularly because of their very obstinate and unaccountable rejection of the glorious doctrines of Christianity, which had been preached among them by Jesus Christ and his apostles, and the truth of which God had attested "by signs and wonders, and by divers miracles and gifts of the Holy Ghost." Daniel is then informed of the two thousand and three hundred prophetic days (that is, years) which must elapse before the sanctuary be cleansed; or, in other words, before righteousness shall prevail over the whole earth. This period is supposed, with considerable probability, to have had its commencement when Alexander the Great invaded Asia, in the year before Christ 334. This will bring the close of it to about the end of the SIXTH chiliad of the world; when, as already observed, some astonishing changes are expected to take place in the moral condition of the human race; when the power of Antichrist, both Papal and Mohammedan, shall be totally annihilated, and universal dominion given to the saints of the Most High. The chapter concludes with the distress of Daniel on account of the fearful judgments with which his country should be visited in after ages, 27.

In the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me ^a at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at ^b Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns: and the two horns were high; but one was higher than ^c the other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; ^d but he did according to his will, and became great.

5 And as I was considering, behold, a he-goat

^a Ch. vii. 1.—^b Esth. i. 2.—^c Heb. the second.—^d Ch. v. 19, xl. 3, 16.—^e Or, none touched him in the earth.

Verse 1. In the third year of the reign of—Belshazzar] We now come once more to the Hebrew, the Chaldee part of the book being finished.

Verse 2. I saw in a vision] Daniel was at this time in Shushan, the capital of the Province of Elam or the Elymais; which province was most probably added to the Chaldean territories by Nebuchadnezzar; see Jer. xlix. 34, 35. Here was Daniel's ordinary residence; and though here at this time, he, in vision, saw himself on the banks of the river Ulai. This is the same as the river Euleus, which divided Shushan or Susiana from Elymais.

Verse 3. A ram which had two horns] By the ^a ram, the empire of the Medes and Persians was pointed out, as explained by the angel Gabriel, ver. 20; and particularly Cyrus, who was the founder of that empire. A ram was the symbol of the Persians; and a ram's head with two horns, one higher than the other, appears as such in different parts of the ruins of Persepolis.

Media, signified by the shorter horn, was the more ancient of the two kingdoms. Persia, the higher horn, had come up but lately, and was of little historic or political consequence till the time of Cyrus; but in the reigns of this prince and his immediate successors, Persia attained a political consequence greatly superior to that possessed at any time by the kingdom of Media; therefore, it is said to have been the higher, and to have come up last.

Verse 4. I saw the ram pushing westward] The Persians, as well as their founder Cyrus, pushed their conquests west, north, and south.

He did according to his will] There was no other nation at that time that could stay the progress of the Persian arms.

Verse 5. Behold, a he-goat] This was Alexander the came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and ^a touched not the ground: and the goat had ^a a notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he-goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up ^b four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven.

9 ^c And out of one of them came forth a little

^a Heb. a horn of sight.—^b Ver. 21.—^c Ch. vii. 6. xl. 4. Ver. 22.—^d Ch. vii. 8. xl. 21.

Great; and a goat was a very proper symbol of the Grecian or Macedonian people.

Came from the west] Europe lies westward of Asia.

Touched not the ground] Seemed to fly from conquest to conquest.

A notable horn between his eyes] This, says the angel is the first king, ver. 21, that is, the first kingdom of the Greeks in Asia, which was erected by Alexander; and continued some years in his brother Philip Arideus, and in his two young sons, Alexander Aegus and Hercules.

Verse 6. And ran unto him in the fury of his power] The conflicts between the Greeks and the Persians were excessively severe. Alexander first vanquished the generals of Darius at the river Granicus, in Phrygia; he next attacked and totally routed Darius at the straits of Issus, in Cilicia; and afterwards at the plains of Arbela in Assyria.

Verse 7. And brake his two horns] Subdued Persia and Media; sacked and burnt the royal city of Persepolis, the capital of the Persian empire, and even in its ruins, one of the wonders of the world to the present day.

There was no power in the ram to stand before him] Alexander's victories over the Persians were as easy as they were rapid and decisive.

He cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him] Totally destroyed the family, and overturned the whole monarchy.

Verse 8. The he-goat waxed very strong] He had subdued nearly the whole of the then known world.

The great horn was broken] Alexander died in the height of his conquests, when he was about thirty-three years of age.

And for it came up four notable ones] The regal family being all dead, the governors of provinces usurped the title horn, which waxed exceeding great, * toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the ^bpleasant land.

10 * And it waxed great, even ^d to * the host of heaven; and ^e it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, * he magnified himself even ^b to ¹ the prince of the host, ¹ and ^k by him ¹ the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

12 And ^a a host was given him against the daily sacrifice ^o by reason of transgression, and it cast down ^p the truth to the ground, and ^q it practised, and prospered.

13 Then I heard * one saint speaking, and another saint said unto * that ¹ certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression of ¹ desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred ^r days; ^r then shall the sanctuary be ^r cleansed.

15 And it came to pass, when I, even ¹ Daniel, had seen the vision, and ^r sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me ^s as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice ¹ between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, ^{bb} Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and ^{cc} fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

18 ^{dd} Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: ¹ but he touched me, and ¹ set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation; ¹ for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 ^{bb} The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia.

21 ¹ And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes ¹ is the first king.

22 ^{kk} Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, ¹ when the transgressors ^{mm} are come to the full, a king ⁿⁿ of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, ^{oo} shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, ^{pp} but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully, ^{qq} and shall prosper, and practise, ^{rr} and shall destroy the mighty and the ^{ss} holy people.

25 And ¹ through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; ^{tt} and he shall magnify himself in his heart, ^{uu} and by ^{vv} peace shall destroy many: ^{ww} he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be ^{xx} broken without hand.

26 ^{yy} And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true: ^{zz} wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days.

27 ^{bbb} And I Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days; afterward I rose up, ^{ccc} and did the king's business; and I was astonished at the vision, ^{ddd} but none understood it.

* Ch. xi. 25. 1 Mac. i. 16-19.—^b Ps. xlviii. 2. Ezek. xx. 6, 15. Ch. xi. 16, 41.—^c Ch. xi. 28.—^d Or, against the host.—^e So Isa. xlv. 13.—^f Rev. xii. 4.—^g Jer. xlvii. 26, 42. Ch. xi. 36. Ver. 25.—^h Or, against.—ⁱ Josh. v. 14.—^j Ch. xi. 31. xii. 11. 1 Mac. i. 41-64.—^k Or, from him.—^l Exod. xxix. 33. Num. xviii. 3. Ezek. xlv. 13.—^m Ch. xi. 31.—ⁿ Or, the host was given over for the transgression against the daily sacrifice.—^o 1 Mac. i. 11, &c. 2 Mac. iv. 13, 17.—^p Ps. cxix. 49, 142. Isa. lix. 4.—^q Ver. 4. Ch. xi. 28, 36.—^r Ch. iv. 13. xii. 6. 1 Pet. i. 12.—^s Or, the number of secrets, or the wonderful number.—^t Heb. Palmori.—^u Or, making desolate. Ch. xi. 31. xii. 11. 1 Mac. i. 54.—^v Heb. evening morning.—^w 1 Mac. iv. 26, &c.—^x Heb. justified.—^y See ch. xii. 8. 1 Pet. i. 10, 11.—^z Ezek.

i. 26.—^{aa} Ch. xii. 6, 7.—^{bb} Ch. ix. 21. Luke i. 10, 26.—^{cc} Ezek. i. 28. Rev. i. 17.—^{dd} Ch. x. 9, 10. Luke ix. 32.—^{ee} Ezek. ii. 2.—^{ff} Heb. made me stand upon my standing.—^{gg} Ch. ix. 27. xi. 27, 35, 39. xii. 7. Hab. ii. 3.—^{hh} Ver. 3.—ⁱⁱ Ver. 5.—^{jj} Ch. xi. 3.—^{kk} Ver. 8. Ch. xi. 4.—^{ll} 1 Mac. i. 11, &c. ii. 15.—^{mm} Heb. are accomplished.—ⁿⁿ Deut. xxviii. 50.—^{oo} Ver. 6.—^{pp} Rev. xvii. 18, 17.—^{qq} Ver. 12. Ch. xi. 36.—^{rr} Ver. 10. Ch. vii. 25.—^{ss} Heb. people of the holy ones.—^{tt} Ch. xi. 21, 23, 24.—^{uu} Ver. 11. Ch. xi. 36. 2 Mac. ix. 4, 7, 8, 11.—^{vv} 1 Mac. i. 33, &c.—^{ww} Or, prosperity.—^{xx} Ver. 11. Ch. xi. 36.—^{yy} Job xxxiv. 20.—^{zz} Lam. iv. 6. Ch. ii. 9, 45. 1 Mac. vi. 8-18. 2 Mac. ix. 9, &c.—^{aaa} Ch. x. 1.—^{bbb} Ezek. xii. 27. Ch. x. 14. xii. 4, 9. Rev. xxii. 10.—^{ccc} Ch. vii. 28. x. 8, 16.—^{ddd} Ch. vi. 2, 3.—^{eee} See ver. 16.

of kings; and Antigonus, one of them, being slain at the battle of Ipsus, they were reduced to four. Cassander had the western parts, Lysimachus had the northern regions, Ptolemy possessed the southern countries, and Seleucus had the eastern provinces.

Verse 9. Out of one of them came forth a little horn] Some think that Antiochus Epiphanes is meant; but Bp. Newton contends that it is the Roman government that is intended; and although very great at its zenith, yet very little in its rising.

Waxed—great toward the south] The Romans made Egypt a province of their empire, and it continued such for some centuries.

Toward the east] They conquered Syria, and made it a province.

Toward the pleasant land.] Judea, so called Ps. cvi. 24; Jer. xli. 19: Dan. xi. 16, 41.

Verse 10. The host of heaven] The Jewish hierarchy. The stars, the priests, and Levites. The powers or host of heaven are probably intended by our Lord, Matt. xxiv. 20, to signify the whole Jewish hierarchy.

Verse 11. Even to the prince of the host] They seemed, in this case, to fight against God himself.

The daily sacrifice was taken away] By the destruction of the city and temple; and has never been restored from that day until now.

Verse 12. And a host was given him] That is, power; or perhaps the host of heaven—the priesthood—the whole sacrificial system, by reason of transgression.

Verse 13. One saint speaking, and another saint said]

One angel asked another how long the sanctuary was to be trodden down?

Verse 14. Unto two thousand and three hundred days] Though literally it be two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings, yet I think the prophetic day should be understood here, as in other parts of this prophet, and must signify so many years. If we date these years from the vision of the he-goat (Alexander's invading Asia), this was A. M. 3770. B. C. 834; and two thousand three hundred years from that time will reach to A. D. 1866, or one hundred and forty-one years from the present A. D. 1825. This will bring it near to the time mentioned chap. vii. 25, where see the note.

Verse 15. As the appearance of a man.] Supposed to be the Messiah.

Verse 22. But not in his power.] The four kingdoms which shall arise out of the Macedonian empire shall not be of Alexander's power or family, nor have his strength and dignity.

Verse 23. When the transgressors are come to the full] When the utmost degradation has taken place, by the buying and selling of the high-priesthood; for Onias was ejected for a sum of money, to make room for wicked Jason; and Jason again was supplanted for a greater sum by a worse man, if possible, than himself, Menelaus; and the golden vessels of the temple were sold to pay for this sacrilegious purchase.

A king of fierce countenance] The Roman government, as before; for king is often taken for kingdom or empire.

Understanding dark sentences] The learning of Rome is proverbial to the present time.

Verse 24. But not by his own power] The strength of the other kingdoms consisted in themselves; but the Roman empire, as a horn or kingdom of the goat, was not mighty by its own power—was not strong by virtue of the goat, but drew its nourishment and strength from Rome and Italy. There grew the trunk and body of the tree; though the branches extended over Greece, Asia, Syria, and Egypt.

Shall destroy wonderfully] In the taking of Jerusalem by the Romans ninety-seven thousand Jews were made captives, and eleven hundred thousand were slain.

Verse 25. He shall cause craft to prosper] They subdued as many by their diplomatic skill and political intrigues as they did by the sword.

He shall also stand up against the Prince of princes]

Against Christ; for it was by the Roman authority that he was condemned to death and crucified; and their persecutions had nearly destroyed the Christian religion; but the house was founded on a rock.

But he shall be broken without hand.] The tide was turned by the visible hand of God; and thus heathen Rome was overcome, and converted to Christianity.

Verse 27. Daniel fainted] To foresee the desolations that were coming on the land, the city, the temple, and the people.

Did the king's business] Transacted the affairs of state that belonged to my department, after having been sick for certain days through the effects of this vision.

CHAPTER IX.

Daniel, understanding from the prophecies of Jeremiah that the seventy years' captivity was now terminating, pours out his soul in fervent prayer to God, and earnestly supplicates pardon and restoration for his captive people, 1-12. When thus supplicating God in behalf of Israel, the angel Gabriel is sent to inform him of the seventy prophetic weeks, or four hundred and ninety natural years, which should elapse from the date of the edict to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple to the death of the Messiah, 20-27; a prophecy most exactly fulfilled by the event, according to the computation of the best chronologers. Dean Prideaux states the commencement of these seventy prophetic weeks to have been in the month Nisan in the year of the Julian period 4256 which corresponds with A.M. 3546, B.C. 458, according to the Usherian account. How awfully are the Jews blinded, who, in contradiction to so clear a prophecy, still expect the Messiah who was cut off, and, after suffering, is entered into his glory!

In the first year ^a of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, ^b which was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans;

2 In the first year of his reign I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to 'Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.

3 ^c And I set my face unto the LORD God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes:

4 And I prayed unto the LORD my God, and made my confession, and said, O ^d LORD, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments;

5 ^e We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments:

6 ^f Neither have we hearkened unto thy servants the prophets, which spake in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

^a Ch. i. 21. v. 31. vi. 28.—^b Or, in which he, &c.—^c 2 Chron. xxxvi. 21. Jer. xxv. 12, 13. xli. 10.—^d Neh. i. 4. Ch. vi. 10. Jer. xxxix. 12, 13. James iv. 8, 9, 10.—^e Exod. xx. 6. Deut. vii. 9. Neh. i. 5. ix. 32.—^f 1 Kings viii. 47, 48. Neh. i. 6, 7. ix. 33, 34. Ps. cvi. 6. Isa. lxi. 5, 6, 7. Jer. xiv. 7. Ver. 18. Bar. i. 17, 18.—^g 2 Chron.

Verse 1. In the first year of Darius] This is the same Darius the Mede, spoken of before, who succeeded Belshazzar, king of the Chaldeans.

Verse 2. I Daniel understood by books] The prophecy referred to here is found Jer. xxv. 12, xli. 10. The people must have been satisfied of the divine inspiration of Jeremiah, or his prophecies would not have been so speedily collected nor so carefully preserved. It appears that there was a copy of them then in Daniel's hands.

Verse 3. I set my face—to seek by prayer] He uses that kind of prayer prescribed by Solomon in his prayer at the dedication of the temple. See 1 Kings viii. 47, 48.

7 O LORD, ^h righteousness ⁱ belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all Israel, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

8 O LORD, to us belongeth ^j confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 ^k To the LORD our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him;

10 ^l Neither have we obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, ^m all Israel have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the ⁿ law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath ^o confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, xxxvi. 16, 16. Ver. 10.—^h Neh. ix. 33. Bar. i. 16.—ⁱ Or, thou hast, &c.—^j Ver. 7. Bar. i. 15.—^k Neh. ix. 17. Ps. cxxx. 4, 7.—^l Ver. 6.—^m Isa. i. 4, 5, 6. Jer. viii. 5, 10.—ⁿ Lev. xxvi. 14, &c. Deut. xxvii. 15, &c. xxviii. 15, &c. xxxi. 20, &c. xxx. 17, 18. xxi. 17, &c. xxxii. 19, &c. Lam. ii. 17.—^o Zech. i. 6.

Verse 4. Keeping the covenant] Fidelity and truth are characteristics of God.

Verse 7. All Israel, that are near, and that are far off] He prays both for Judah and Israel.

Verse 9. Mercies and forgivenesses] From God's goodness flow God's mercies; from his mercies, forgivenesses.

Verse 11. Therefore the curse is poured upon us] It is probable that he alludes here to the punishment of certain criminals by pouring melted metal upon them.

Verse 14. The Lord watched upon the evil] In consequence of our manifold rebellions he hath now watched for an opportunity to bring these calamities upon us.

by bringing upon us a great evil: "for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jerusalem.

13 "As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us; "yet "made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the LORD "watched upon the evil, and brought it upon us: for "the LORD our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth: "for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O LORD our God, "that hast brought thy people forth out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast "gotten thee "renown, as at this day; "we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 O LORD, "according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jerusalem, "thy holy mountain; because for our sins, "and for the iniquities of our fathers, "Jerusalem and thy people "are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, "and cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary "that is desolate, "for the Lord's sake.

18 "O my God, incline thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, "and behold our desolations, and the city "which "is called by thy name: for we do not "present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hear-ken and do; defer not, "for thine own sake, O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

20 "And whiles I was speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was speaking in prayer, even the man "Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, being caused to fly "swiftly, "touched me "about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth "to give thee skill and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the "commandment came forth, and "I am come to shew thee; "for thou art "greatly beloved; therefore "understand the matter, and consider the vision.

24 Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, "to finish the transgression, and "to make an end of sins, "and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision "and "prophecy, "and to anoint the Most Holy.

25 "Know therefore and understand, that "from the going forth of the commandment "to restore and to build Jerusalem unto "the Messiah "the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street "shall be built again, and the "wall, "even "in troublous times.

26 And after threescore and two weeks "shall Messiah be cut off, "but "not for himself: "and

"Lam. i. 12. ii. 18. Ezek. v. 9. Amos iii. 2.—^b Lev. xxvi. 14, &c. Deut. xxviii. 15. Lam. ii. 17.—^c Isa. ix. 13. Jer. ii. 30. v. 3. Hos. vii. 10.—^d Heb. intreated we not the face of the, &c.—^e Jer. xxxi. 28. xlv. 27.—^f Neh. ix. 33. Ver. 7.—^g Ver. 10.—^h Exod. vi. 1, 6. xxxii. 11. 1 Kings viii. 61. Neh. i. 10. Jer. xxxii. 21.—ⁱ Heb. made thee a name.—^j Exod. xiv. 18. Neh. ix. 10. Jer. xxxii. 20.—^k Ver. 5.—^l Sum. xii. 7. Ps. xxxi. 1. lxxi. 2. Mic. vi. 4, 5.—^m Ver. 20. Zech. viii. 3.—ⁿ Exod. xx. 5.—^o Lam. ii. 15, 18.—^p Ps. xlv. 13, 14. lxxix. 4.—^q Num. vi. 25. Ps. lxxvi. 1. lxxx. 3, 7, 19.—^r Lam. v. 18.—^s Ver. 19. John xvi. 24.—^t Isa. xxxvii. 17.—^u Exod. iii. 7. Ps. lxxx. 14, &c.—^v Jer. xxv. 20.—^w Heb. wherupon thy name is called.—^x Heb. cause to fail. Jer. xxxvi. 7.—^y Ps. lxxix. 9, 10. cii. 15, 16.—^z Ps. xxxiii. 5. Isa. lxy. 24.—^{aa} Ch. vii. 16.—^{bb} Heb. with weariness, or fight.—^{cc} Ch. viii. 18. x. 10, 16.—^{dd} 1 Kings xviii.

36.—^{ee} Heb. to make thee skilful of understanding.—^{ff} Heb. word.—^{gg} Ch. x. 12.—^{hh} Ch. x. 11, 19.—ⁱⁱ Heb. a man of desires.—^{jj} Matt. xxiv. 15.—^{kk} Or, to restrain.—^{ll} Or, to seal up. Lam. iv. 22.—^{mm} Isa. liii. 10.—ⁿⁿ Isa. liii. 11. Jer. xxxii. 5, 6. Heb. ix. 12. Rev. xiv. 6.—^{oo} Heb. prophet.—^{pp} Ps. xlv. 7. Lukei. 35. John i. 41. Heb. ix. 11.—^{qq} Ver. 23. Matt. xxiv. 15. "Ezra iv. 24. vi. 1, 15. vii. 1. Neh. ii. 1, 3, 5, 6, 8.—^{rr} Or, to build again Jerusalem: as 2 Sam. xv. 25. Ps. lxxi. 20.—^{ss} John i. 41. iv. 25.—^{tt} Isa. iv. 4.—^{uu} Heb. shall return and be builded.—^{vv} Or, breach, or ditch.—^{ww} Neh. iv. 8, 18, 17, 18.—^{xx} Heb. in strait of times. Neh. vi. 15.—^{yy} Isa. liii. 8. Mark ix. 12. Luke xxiv. 26, 46.—^{zz} 1 Pet. ii. 21. ii. 18.—^{aaa} Or, and shall have nothing. John xiv. 30.—^{ccc} Or, and [the Jews] they shall be no more his people, ch. xi. 17, or, and the Prince's [Messiah's, ver. 25] future people.

Verse 17. And cause thy face to shine] Give us proof that thou art reconciled to us.

Verse 21. The man Gabriel] Or the angel Gabriel, who had appeared to me as a man.

Being caused to fly swiftly] God hears with delight such earnest, humble, urgent prayers; and sends the speediest answer. Gabriel himself was ordered on this occasion to make more than usual speed.

Verse 24. Seventy weeks are determined] What is here said by the angel is not a direct answer to Daniel's prayer. He prays to know when the seventy weeks of the captivity are to end. Gabriel shows him that there are seventy weeks determined relative to a redemption from another sort of captivity, which shall commence with the going forth of the edict to restore and rebuild Jerusalem, and shall terminate with the death of Messiah the Prince, and the total abolition of the Jewish sacrifices. In the four following verses he enters into the particulars of this most important determination, and leaves them with Daniel for his comfort, who has left them to the church of God for the confirmation of its faith and a testimony to the truth of divine revelation. They contain the fullest confirmation of Christianity, and a complete refutation of the Jewish cavils and blasphemies on this subject.

Verse 25. From the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem] Most learned men agree that the death of Christ happened at the passover in the month Nisan, in the four thousand seven hundred and forty-sixth year of the Julian period. Four hundred and ninety years, reckoned back from the above year, leads us directly to the month, Nisan in the four thousand two hundred and fifty-sixth year of the same period; the very month and year in which Ezra had his commission from Artaxerxes Longimanus king of Egypt, (see Ezra vii. 9), to restore and rebuild Jerusalem.

The above seventy weeks, or four hundred and ninety years, are divided, in ver. 25, into three distinct periods, to each of which particular events are assigned.

To the first period of seven weeks the restoration and repairing of Jerusalem are referred; and so long were Ezra and Nehemiah employed in restoring the sacred constitutions and civil establishments of the Jews, for this work lasted forty-nine years after the commission was given by Artaxerxes.

From the above seven weeks the second period of sixty-two weeks, or four hundred and thirty-four years more, commences, at the end of which the prophecy says, Messiah the Prince should come, that is, seven weeks, or forty-nine years, should be allowed for the restoration of the Jewish state; from which time till the public entrance of the Messiah on the work of the ministry should be sixty-two weeks, or four hundred and thirty-four years, in all four hundred and eighty-three years.

From the coming of our Lord, the third period is to be dated, viz., "He shall confirm the covenant with many for one week," that is, seven years, ver. 27.

This confirmation of the covenant must take in the ministry of John the Baptist with that of our Lord, comprehending the term of seven years, during the whole of which he might be well said to confirm or ratify the new covenant with mankind. Our Lord says, "The law was until John;" but from his first public preaching the kingdom of God, or gospel dispensation, commenced.

the people of the prince that shall come ^bshall destroy the city ^cand the sanctuary; ^dand the end thereof shall be ^ewith a flood, and unto the end of the war ^fdesolations are determined.

27 And he shall confirm ^gthe ^hcovenant with ⁱmany for one week: and in the midst of the week

^a Matt. xxii. 7.—^b Luke xix. 44.—^c Matt. xxiv. 2.—^d Matt. xiv. 6, 14.—^e Isa. viii. 7, 8. Ch. xi. 10, 22. Nah. i. 8.—^f Or, it shall be cut off by desolations.—^g Or, a.—^h Isa. xlii. 6, 14. Jer. xxxi. 31. Ezek. xvi. 60, 61, 62.—ⁱ Isa. liii. 11. Matt. xxvi. 28. Rom. v. 15.

Verse 26. And the people of the prince &c.] By the "prince" Titus, the son of Vespasian, is plainly intended; and "the people of that prince" are no other than the Romans, who, according to the prophecy, destroyed the sanctuary, hakhodesh, the holy place or temple, and, as a flood, swept away all, till the total destruction of that obstinate people finished the war.

Verse 27. And for the overspreading of abominations he he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the over spreading of ^habominations he shall make it desolate, ⁱeven unto the consummation, ^jand that determined shall be poured ^kupon the desolate.

19. Heb. ix. 28.—^l Or, and upon the battlements shall be the idols of the desolator.—^m Matt. xxiv. 15. Mark xiii. 14. Luke xxi. 20.—ⁿ See Isa. x. 22, 23. xxviii. 22. Ch. xi. 36. Luke xxi. 24. Rom. xi. 26.—^o Or, upon the desolator.

shall make it desolate] "And upon the wing of abominations causing amazement." This is a literal translation of the place; but still there is no determinate sense. A Hebrew MS., written in the thirteenth century, has preserved a very remarkable reading here, which frees the place from all embarrassment. "And in the temple (of the Lord) there shall be abomination." This is countenanced by the most eminent ancient Versions.

CHAPTER X.

This and the two following chapters give an account of Daniel's last vision, wherein the succession of the Persian and Grecian monarchies is described, together with the wars that should take place between Syria and Egypt under the latter monarchy. The last part of the vision (from chap. xi. 36) seems to relate chiefly to the persecutions of the Church in the times of Antichrist, till it be purified from all its pollutions: after which will follow that glorious kingdom of the saints spoken of in the seventh and eighth chapters. This chapter begins with an account of Daniel's fasting and humiliation, 1-3. Then we have a description of the divine person who appeared to the prophet, not unlike him who appeared to the apostle in the Isle of Patmos, 4-21. See Rev. i. 10-16.

IN the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a thing was revealed unto Daniel, ^awhose name was called Belteshazzar; ^band the thing was true, ^cbut the time appointed was ^dlong; and ^ehe understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

2 In those days I Daniel was mourning three ^ffull weeks.

3 I ate no ^gpleasant bread, neither came flesh nor wine in my mouth, ^hneither did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, which is ⁱHiddekel;

5 Then ^jI lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and ^kbehold ^la certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were ^mgirded with ⁿfine gold of Uphaz:

6 His body also was ^olike the beryl, and his face

^a Ch. i. 7.—^b Ch. viii. 28. Rev. xix. 9.—^c Ver. 14.—^d Heb. great.—^e Ch. i. 17. viii. 16.—^f Heb. weeks of days.—^g Heb. bread of desires.—^h Matt. vi. 17.—ⁱ Gen. ii. 14.—^j Josh. v. 18.—^k Ch. xii. 6, 7.—^l Heb. one man.—^m Rev. i. 18, 14, 15. xv. 6.—ⁿ Jer. x. 9.—^o Ch. i. 16.—^p Ezek. i. 14.—^q Rev. i. 14. xix. 12.—^r Ezek. i. 7. Rev. i. 15.—^s Ezek. i. 24. Rev. i. 15.—^t 2 Kings vi. 17. Acts ix. 7.—^u Ch. viii. 27.—^v Or, rigour.—^w Ch. vii. 28.—^x Ch. viii. 18.—^y Jer. i. 9. Ch. ix. 21. Rev. i. 17.—^z Heb. moved.

Verse 1. In the third year of Cyrus] Which answers to the first year of Darius the Mede.

The time appointed was long] Vatsaba gadol, but the warfare long; there will be many contentions and wars before these things can be accomplished.

Verse 2. I was mourning three full weeks.] The weeks are most probably dated from the time of the termination of the last vision.

Verse 3. I ate no pleasant bread.] This fast was rather a general abstinence; living all the while on coarse and unsavoury food, drinking nothing but water; not using the bath, and most probably wearing haircloth next the skin, during the whole of the time.

Verse 4. By the side of—Hiddekel] The same as the Tigris, the great river of Assyria; as the Euphrates of Syria, and the Nile of Egypt.

^a as the appearance of lightning, ^band his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms ^cand his feet like in colour to polished brass, ^dand the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel ^ealone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great quaking fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, ^fand there remained no strength in me: for my ^gcomeliness ^hwas turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: ⁱand when I heard the voice of his words, then was I in a deep sleep on my face, and my face toward the ground.

10 ^jAnd, behold, an hand touched me, which ^kset me upon my knees, and upon the palms of my hands.

Verse 5. Clothed in linen] The description is intended to point out the splendour of the garments.

Gold of Uphaz] The same as Ophir.

Verse 6. His body also was like the beryl] The description of this person is very similar to that of our Lord in Rev. i. 18-15.

Verse 7. The men that were with me saw not the vision] An exactly parallel case with what occurred at the conversion of Saul of Tarsus, Acts ix. 7. There was a divine influence which they all felt, but only Daniel saw the corporeal appearance.

Verse 10. An hand touched me] Nothing was apparent or palpable but a hand. A hand had written Belshazzar's fate upon the wall; and the hand is frequently mentioned when the power or majesty of God is intended. Perhaps by hand God himself may be meant.

11 And he said unto me, O Daniel, ^a ^b man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and ^c stand upright: for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had spoken this word unto me, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he unto me, ^d Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to chasten thyself before thy God, ^e thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 ^f But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days: but, lo, ^g Michael, ^h one of the chief princes, came to help me; and I remained there with the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befall thy people ⁱ in the latter days: ^j for yet the vision is ^k for many days.

15 And when he had spoken such words unto me, I set ^l my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And, behold, ^m one like the similitude of the sons of men, ⁿ touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, by the vision ^o my sorrows are turned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can ^p the servant of this my lord talk with this my lord? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me,

18 Then there came again and touched me ^q one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 ^r And said, O man greatly beloved, ^s fear not: peace ^t be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong. And when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my lord speak, for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight ^u with the king of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and ^v there is none that ^w holdeth with me in these things, ^x but Michael your prince.

^a Ch. ix. 23.—^b Heb. a man of desires.—^c Heb. stand upon thy standing.—^d Rev. i. 17.—^e Ch. ix. 3, 4, 22, 23. Acts x. 4.—^f Ver 20.—^g Ver. 21. Ch. xii. 1. Jude 9. Rev. xii. 7.—^h Or, the first.—ⁱ Gen. xlix. 1. Ch. ii. 28.—^j Ch. viii. 26. Ver. 1. Hab. ii. 3.—

^k Ver. 9. Ch. viii. 18.—^l Ch. viii. 15.—^m Ver. 10. Jer. i. 9.—ⁿ Ver. 8.—^o Or, this servant of my lord.—^p Ver. 11.—^q Judg. vi. 23.—^r Ver. 13.—^s Heb. strengtheneth himself.—^t Ver. 13. Jude 9. Rev. xii. 7.

Verse 12. I am come for thy words.] On account of thy prayers I am sent to comfort and instruct thee.

Verse 13. But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me] I think it would go far to make a legend or a precarious tale of this important place to endeavour to maintain that either a good or evil ANGEL is intended here. Cyrus alone was the prince of Persia, and God had destined him to be the deliverer of his people; but there were some matters, of which we are not informed, that caused him to hesitate for some time. And he therefore resisted the secret inspirations which God had sent him. [Dr. Pusey however endorses the traditional belief that the "princes" of Persia and Grecia were angels, assigned to their function by God.]

But lo, Michael] Gabriel, who speaks, did not leave Cyrus till Michael came to take his place. Michael, he who is like God, sometimes appears to signify the Messiah, at other times the highest or chief archangel. Indeed there is no archangel mentioned in the whole Scripture but this one. See Jude 9; Rev. xii. 7.

Verse 14. For yet the vision is for many days.] There are many things which remain yet to be revealed, and the time of their accomplishment is very distant.

Verse 15. I set my face toward the ground] He was standing upright, ver. 11, and he now bent his body in reverence, and looked down upon the ground.

Verse 16. Like the similitude of the sons of men] I think Gabriel is here meant, who appeared to Daniel in a human form; and so in ver. 18, and see also chap. ix. 21.

Verse 17. Neither is there breath] He could not breathe freely; he was almost suffocated with sorrow.

Verse 19. O man, greatly beloved] Ish chamudoth, man of delights; the most amiable of men.

Verse 20. To fight with the king of Persia] Nothing less than a supernatural agency in the mind of Cyrus can account for his decree in favour of the Jews. He had no natural, no political inclination to it; and his reluctance to obey the heavenly motions is here represented as a fight between him and the angel.

The prince of Grecia shall come.] I believe this refers to Alexander the great, who was to destroy the Persian empire.

Verse 21. Michael your prince.] It appears that God chose to make use of the ministry of angels in this work; that angels, as they could be only in one place at one time, could not produce influence where they were not; and that to carry on the operation on the mind of the Persian king, it was necessary that either Gabriel or Michael should be present with him, and when one went on another commission another took his place; see ver. 13. But we know so little of the invisible world that we cannot safely affirm any thing positively.

CHAPTER XI.

This chapter gives a more particular explanation of those events which were predicted in the eighth chapter. The prophet had foretold the partition of Alexander's kingdom into four parts. Two of these, in which were included Egypt and Syria, the one to the north the other to the south, in respect of Judea, appear to take up the chief attention of the prophet, as his people were particularly concerned in their fate, these being the countries in which by far the greatest number of the Jews were, and still are, dispersed. Of these countries he treats (according to the views of the most enlightened expositors) down to the conquest of Macedon, A. M. 3836, B. C. 168, when he begins to speak of the Romans, 1-30; and then of the church under that power, 31-35. This leads him to speak of Antichrist, who was to spring up in that quarter, 36-39; and of those powers which at the TIME of the end, or the latter days of the Roman monarchy (as this term is generally understood), were to push at it, and overthrow many countries, 40-43. By the king of the south in the fortieth verse, the dominion of the Saracens, or Arabs, is supposed to be intended, which was an exceeding great plague to the Roman empire in the east, and also to several papistical countries, for the space of one hundred and fifty years, i. e., from A. D. 612, when Mohammed and his followers first began their depredations, to A. D. 762, when Bagdad was built, and made the capital of the Caliphs of the house of Abbas from which epoch the Saracens became a more settled people. By the king of the North in the same verse the prophet is supposed by some to design that great scourge of eastern Christendom, the Ottoman or Othman empire, by which, after about a hundred and fifty years of almost uninterrupted hostilities, the Roman empire in the east was completely overturned, A. D. 1453. The chapter concludes with a prediction of the final overthrow of this northern power and of the manner in which this great event shall be accomplished, 44, 45. But it should be observed that, notwithstanding the very learned observations of Bishop Newton and others upon this chapter, their scheme of interpretation presents very great and insurmountable difficulties; among which the very lengthy detail of events in the Syrian and Egyptian histories, comprising a period of less than two hundred years, and the rather uncouth transition to the incomparably greater transactions in Antichristian times, and of much longer duration, which are passed over with unaccountable brevity, are not the least. On all these subjects, however, the reader must judge for himself. See the notes.

ALSO I, * in the first year of ^b Darius the Mede, even I, stood to confirm and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I show thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Persia; and the fourth shall be far richer than they all: and by his strength through his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.

3 And ^c a mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and ^d do according to his will.

4 And when he shall stand up, ^e his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided toward the four winds of heaven, and not to his posterity, ^f nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others beside those.

¹⁶ Ch. ix. 1.—^b Ch. v. 31.—^c Ch. vii. 6. viii. 5.—^d Ch. viii. 4. Ver. 16, 36.—^e Ch. viii. 8.—^f Ch. vi. 1. 22.—^g Heb. shall associate them.

Verse 1. In the first year of Darius the Mede] This is a continuation of the preceding discourse. The types, figures, and symbols of the things are not exhibited in this, as in most other visions, and then expounded by the angel; but the angel relates the whole: and, not by the way of vision, but by narration, informs Daniel of that which is noted in the Scripture of truth, chap. x. 21.

Verse 2. There shall stand up y t three kings] These were, 1. Cambyzes, the son of Cyrus. 2. Smerdis, the Magian, who was an impostor, who pretended to be another son of Cyrus. And 3. Darius, the son of Hystaspes, who married Mandane, the daughter of Cyrus.

The fourth shall be far richer than they all] This was Xerxes, the son of Darius, of whom Justin says: "He had so great an abundance of riches in his kingdom, that although rivers were dried up by his numerous armies, yet his wealth remained unexhausted."

He shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.] He led an army against the Greeks of eight hundred thousand men, and twelve hundred and seven ships, with three banks of rowers each. As he marched along, he obliged all the people of the countries through which he passed to join him.

Verse 3. A mighty king shall stand up] This was Alexander the great. It is not said that this mighty king shall stand up against Xerxes, for he was not born till one hundred years after that monarch; but simply that he should stand up, i. e., that he should reign in Greece.

Verse 4. His kingdom shall be broken.] Shall after his death, be divided among his four chief generals, as we have seen before.

And not to his posterity] The family of Alexander had a most tragical end: 1. His wife Statira was murdered soon after his death by his other wife Roxana. 2. His brother Arrideus, who succeeded him, was killed, together with his wife Euridice, by command of Olympias, Alexander's mother, after he had been king about six years and some months. 3. Olympias herself was killed by the soldiers in revenge. 4. Alexander Aegus, his son, together with his mother Roxana, was slain by order of Cassander. 5. Two

5 And the king of the south shall be strong, and one of his princes; and he shall be strong above him, and have dominion; his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of years they ^a shall join themselves together: for the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the north to make ^a an agreement: but she shall not retain the power of the arm; neither shall he stand, nor his arm: but she shall be given up, and they that brought her, and ^b he that begat her, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots shall one stand up ^c in his estate, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the king of the north, and shall deal against them, and shall prevail:

selves.—^a Heb. rights.—^b Or, whom she brought forth.—^c Or, in his place, or office. Ver. 20.

years after, his other son Hercules, with his mother Barsine was privately murdered by Polyperchon; so that in fifteen years after his death not one of his family or posterity remained alive!

Verse 5. The king of the south] This was Ptolemy Lagus, one of his generals, who had the government of Egypt, Libya, &c., which are on the south of Judea. He was strong, for he had added Cyprus, Phoenicia, Caria, &c., to his kingdom of Egypt.

And one of his princes—shall be strong above him] This was Seleucus Nicator, who possessed Syria, Babylon, Media, and the neighbouring countries. This was the king of the north, for his dominion lay north of Judea.

Verse 6. In the end of years] Several historical circumstances are here passed by.

The king's daughter of the south] Berenice, daughter of Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt, was married to Antiochus Theos, king of Syria.

But she shall be given up] Antiochus recalled his former wife Laodice and her children; and she, fearing that he might recall Berenice, caused him to be poisoned and her to be murdered, and set her son Callinicus upon the throne.

And they that brought her] Her Egyptian women, striving to defend their mistresses, were many of them killed.

And he that begat her] Or, as the margin, "he whom she brought forth;" the son being murdered, as well as the mother, by order of Laodice.

And he that strengthened her] Probably her father Ptolemy, who was excessively fond of her, and who had died a few years before.

Verse 7. But out of a branch of her roots] A branch from the same root from which she sprang. This was Ptolemy Evergetes, her brother, who, to avenge his sister's death, marched with a great army against Seleucus Callinicus, took some of his best places, indeed all Asia from Mount Taurus to India, and returned to Egypt with an immense booty, forty thousand talents of silver, precious vessels, and images of their gods two thousand five hundred, without Callinicus daring to offer him battle.

8 And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their princes, and with ^atheir precious vessels of silver and of gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 But his sons ^bshall be stirred up, and shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and one shall certainly come, ^cand overflow, and pass through: ^dthen shall he return, and be stirred up, ^eeven to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be moved with choler, and shall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he shall set forth a great multitude; but the multitude shall be given into his hand.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his heart shall be lifted up; and he shall cast down many ten thousands: but he shall not be strengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall set forth a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come ^fafter certain years with a great army, and with much riches.

^aHeb. vessels of their desire.—^bOr, shall war.—^cIsa. viii. 8. Ch. ix. 26.—^dOr, then shall he be stirred up again.—^eVer. 7.—^fHeb. at the end of times, even years. Ch. iv. 16. xii. 7.—^gHeb. the children of robbers.—^hHeb. the city of mountains.—ⁱHeb. the people of his Verse 8. He shall continue more years] Seleucus Callinicus died (an exile) by a fall from his horse; and Ptolemy Euergetes survived him four or five years.

Verse 9. So the king of the south] Ptolemy Euergetes—shall come into his kingdom] That of Seleucus Callinicus. And shall return] Having heard that a sedition had taken place in Egypt, Ptolemy Euergetes was obliged to return speedily in order to repress it; else he had wholly destroyed the kingdom of Callinicus.

Verse 10. But his sons shall be stirred up] That is, the sons of Callinicus, who were Seleucus Ceraunus and Antiochus, afterwards called the Great.

Shall assemble a multitude] Seleucus Ceraunus did assemble a multitude of forces in order to recover his father's dominions; but, not having money to pay them, they became mutinous, and he was poisoned by two of his own generals. His brother Antiochus was then proclaimed king; so that one only of the sons did certainly come, and overflow, and pass through; he retook Seleucia, and regained Syria. He then returned, and overcame Nicolaus the Egyptian general; and seemed disposed to invade Egypt, as he came even to his fortress, to the frontiers of Egypt.

Verse 11. The king of the south] Ptolemy Philopater, who succeeded his father Euergetes.

Shall come forth and fight with him] He did come forth to Raphia, where he was met by Antiochus, when a terrible battle was fought between these two kings.

And he (Antiochus, the king of the north) shall set forth a great multitude] Amounting to sixty-two thousand foot, six thousand horse, and one hundred and two elephants; but yet Ptolemy gained a complete victory, and Antiochus was obliged to retreat with his scattered army to Antioch, from which he sent to solicit a peace.

Verse 12. His heart shall be lifted up] Ptolemy, giving way to pride, and a criminally sensual life, made peace on dishonourable terms; and though he had gained a great victory, yet his kingdom was not strengthened by it, for his subjects rebelled against him, or at least became considerably disaffected.

Verse 13. The king of the north shall return—after certain years] In about fourteen years Antiochus did return, Philopater being dead, and his son Ptolemy Epiphanes being then a minor.

Verse 14. Many stand up against the king of the south] Antiochus, and Philip king of Macedon, united together to overrun Egypt.

Also the robbers of thy people] The Jews, who revolted from their religion, and joined Ptolemy, under Scopas—

Shall exalt themselves to establish the vision] That is, to build a temple like that of Jerusalem, in Egypt, hoping 14 And in those times there shall many stand up against the king of the south: also ^athe robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; but they shall fall.

15 So the king of the north shall come, and cast up a mount, and take ^bthe most fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither ^chis chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that cometh against him ^dshall do according to his own will, and ^enone shall stand before him: and he shall stand in the ^fglorious ^gland, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 He shall also ^hset his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and ⁱupright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, ^jcorrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, ^kneither be for him.

18 After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many: but a prince ^lfor his own behalf shall cause ^mthe reproach offered by him to cease; without his own reproach he shall cause ⁿit to turn upon him.

19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fort of choices.—¹Ch. viii. 4, 7. Ver. 3, 36.—²Josh. i. 5.—³Or, goodly land. Ch. viii. 9. Ver. 41, 45.—⁴Heb. the land of ornament.—⁵2 Chron. xx. 3.—⁶Or, much uprightness, or equal conditions.—⁷Heb. to corrupt.—⁸Ch. ix. 26.—⁹Heb. for him.—¹⁰Heb. his reproach.

thereby to fulfil a prediction of Isaiah, chap. xxx. 18-25, which seemed to intimate that the Jews and the Egyptians should be one people. They now revolted from Ptolemy, and joined Antiochus; and this was the means of contributing greatly to the accomplishment of prophecies that foretold the calamities that should fall upon the Jews.

But they shall fall] For Scopas came with a great army from Ptolemy; and, while Antiochus was engaged in other parts, reduced Calesyria and Palestine, subdued the Jews, placed guards on the coasts of Jerusalem, and returned with great spoils to Egypt.

Verse 15. So the king of the north] Antiochus came to recover Judea. He besieged Sidon, and several of the fenced cities, and took them; in short, carried all before him; so that the king of the south, Ptolemy, and his chosen people, his ablest generals, were not able to oppose him.

Verse 16. He shall stand in the glorious land] Judea. For he reduced Palestine; and the Jews supplied him with provisions, and assisted him to reduce the garrison that Scopas had left in the citadel of Jerusalem.

Which by his hand shall be consumed] Or, which shall be perfected in his hand. For Antiochus showed the Jews great favour: he brought back those that were dispersed, and re-established them in the land; freed the priests and Levites from all tribute, &c.

Verse 17. He shall also set his face to enter] Antiochus purposed to have marched his army into Egypt; but he thought it best to proceed by fraudulence; and therefore proposed a treaty of marriage between him and his daughter Cleopatra, called here the daughter of women, because of her great beauty and accomplishments. But he intended his daughter to be a snare to Ptolemy, and therefore purposed to corrupt her that she might betray her husband.

But she shall not stand on his side] On the contrary her husband's interests became more dear to her than her father's; and by her means Ptolemy was put upon his guard against the intentions of Antiochus.

Verse 18. Shall he turn his face unto the isles] Antiochus had fitted out a great fleet of one hundred large ships, and two hundred smaller, and with this fleet subdued most of the maritime places on the coast of the Mediterranean, and took many of the isles, Rhodes, Samos, Eubœa, Colophon, and others.

But a prince for his own behalf] Or, a captain. The consul Acilius Glabrio caused the reproach to cease; beat and routed his army at the Straits of Thermopylae, and expelled him from Greece.

Without his own reproach] Without losing a battle, or taking a false step, Acilius caused the reproach which he was bringing upon the Romans to turn upon himself.

his own land: but he shall stumble and fall, ^a and not be found.

20 Then shall stand up ^b in his estate ^c a raiser of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he shall be destroyed, neither in ^d anger, nor in battle.

21 And ^e in his estate ^f shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 ^g And with the arms of a flood shall they be overflowed from before him, and shall be broken; ^h yea, also the prince of the covenant.

23 And after the league made with him ⁱ he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and shall become strong with a small people.

24 He shall enter ^j peaceably even upon the fattest places of the province; and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers; ^k he shall scatter among them the prey, and spoil, and riches: yea, and he shall ^l forecast his devices against the strongholds, even for a time.

^a Job xx. 8. Ps. xxxvii. 33. Ezek. xxi. 21.—^b Or, in his place. Ver. 7.—^c Heb. one that causeth an exactor to pass over.—^d Heb. angers.—^e Or, in his place.—^f Ch. vii. 8. viii. 9, 23, 25.—^g Ver. 10.—^h Ch. viii. 10, 11, 25.—ⁱ Ch. viii. 25.—^j Or, into the peaceable and fat, Verse 19. He shall turn his face toward the fort of his own land] Antiochus fled to Antioch, his own fort, whence he sent ambassadors to treat for peace; and was obliged to engage to pay an immense sum of money.

But he shall stumble and fall] Some say that he was assassinated by some of his own people whom he had punished for being drunk at a feast. But the manner of his death is uncertain; and perhaps even this circumstance is referred to by the prophet, when he says, "He shall stumble and fall, and not be found."

Verse 20. Then shall stand up in his estate a raiser of taxes] Seleucus Philopater succeeded his father Antiochus. He sent his treasurer Heliodorus to seize the money deposited in the temple of Jerusalem, which is here called the glory of the kingdom, see 2 Mac. ix. 23. He was so cramped to pay the annual tax to the Romans, that he was obliged to burden his subjects with continual taxes.

He shall be destroyed, neither in anger—fighting against an enemy, nor in battle—at the head of his troops; but basely and treacherously, by the hand of Heliodorus his treasurer, who hoped to reign in his stead.

Verse 21. In his estate shall stand up a vile person] This was Antiochus, surnamed Epiphanes—the Illustrious. They did not give him the honour of the kingdom: he was at Athens, on his way from Rome, when his father died; and Heliodorus had declared himself king, as had several others. But Antiochus came in peaceably, for he obtained the kingdom by flatteries.

Verse 22. And with the arms of a flood] The arms which were overflowed before him were his competitors for the crown.

The prince of the covenant] This was Onias, the high-priest, whom he removed, and put Jason in his place, who had given him a great sum of money; and then put wicked Menelaus in his room, who had offered him a larger sum.

Verse 23. He shall come up] From Rome, where he had been a hostage for the payment of the tax laid on his father.

Shall become strong with a small people] At first he had but few to espouse his cause when he arrived at Antioch, the people having been greatly divided by the many claimants of the crown; but being supported by Eumenes and Attalus, his few people increased, and he became strong.

Verse 24. He shall enter peaceably even upon the fattest places] The very richest provinces—Coele Syria and Palestine. He shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers] He became profuse in his liberalities, and scattered among them the prey of his enemies, the spoil of temples, and the riches of his friends, as well as his own revenues.

He shall forecast his devices] As the guardians of the young Egyptian king, Ptolemy Philometer, demanded, from 25 And he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast devices against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat shall destroy him, and his army shall ^m overflow: and many shall fall down slain.

27 And both these kings' ⁿ hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper: for ^o yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall he return into his land ^p with great riches; and ^q his heart shall be against the holy covenant; and he shall do exploits, and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the south: ^r but it shall not be as the former, ^s or as the latter.

30 ^t For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be grieved, and return, and ^u &c.—^v 1 Mac. iii. 28, &c.—^w Heb. think his thoughts.—^x Ver. 10, 22.—^y Heb. their hearts.—^z Ver. 29, 35, 40. Ch. viii. 19.—^{aa} 1 Mac. i. 19.—^{ab} Ver. 22. 1 Mac. i. 20, &c. 2 Mac. v. 11, 14, &c.—^{ac} Ver. 23.—^{ad} Ver. 25.—^{ae} Num. xxiv. 24. Jer. ii. 10.

Antiochus the restitution of Coele Syria and Palestine, which he refused, he foresaw that he might have a war with that kingdom; and therefore he forecast devices—fixed a variety of plans to prevent this; visited the strongholds and frontier places to see that they were in a state of defence. And this he did for a time—he employed some years in hostile preparations against Egypt.

Verse 25. He shall stir up his power] Antiochus marched against Ptolemy, the king of the south (Egypt), with a great army; and the Egyptian generals had raised a mighty force.

Stirred up to battle] The two armies met between Pelusium and Mount Casius; but he (the king of the south) could not stand—the Egyptian army was defeated.

Verse 26. Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat] This is the proof that the intrigues of Antiochus, corrupting the ministers and officers of Ptolemy, were the cause of all the disasters that fell on the Egyptian king.

Verse 27. And both these kings' hearts shall be to do mischief] When Antiochus came to Memphis, he and Philometer had frequent conferences at the same table. Antiochus professing great friendship to his nephew and concern for his interests, yet in his heart designed to ruin the kingdom, by fomenting the discords which already subsisted between the two brothers. On the other hand, Philometer professed much gratitude to his uncle for the interest he took in his affairs, while determining as soon as possible to accommodate matters with his brother, and join all their strength against Antiochus.

But it shall not prosper] Neither succeeded in his object; for the end of the appointed time was not yet come.

Verse 28. Then shall he return into his land with great riches] Antiochus did return, laden with riches, from the spoils that he took in Egypt; see 1 Mac. i. 19, 20. And hearing that there had been a report of his death, at which the citizens of Jerusalem had made great rejoicings—

His heart shall be against the holy covenant] He was determined to take a severe revenge; and he brought a great army against Jerusalem; took it by storm; slew forty thousand of the inhabitants; sold as many more for slaves; boiled flesh, and sprinkled the temple and the altar with the broth; broke into the holy of holies; and took away the golden vessels and other sacred treasures, to the value of one thousand eight hundred talents; restored Menelaus to his office; and made one Philip, a Phrygian, governor of Judea, 1 Mac. i. 24, 2 Mac. v. 21.

Verse 29. At the time appointed he shall return] Finding that his treachery was detected, having collected a great army early in the spring, he passed through Coele Syria; entered Egypt; and came by easy marches to Alexandria. But, he had not the same success as the former, when he have indignation ^aagainst the holy covenant: so shall he do; he shall even return, ^band have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, ^cand they shall pollute the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, ^dand they shall place the abomination that ^emaketh desolate.

32 ^fAnd such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he ^gcorrupt by flatteries: ^hbut the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.

33 ⁱAnd they that understand among the people shall instruct many: ^jyet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, they ^kshall be hol-

^a Ver. 28. 1 Mac. i. 30, 44, &c. 2 Mac. v. 24, &c.—^b 1 Mac. i. 43, 52. 2 Mac. v. 15. 23.—^c Ch. viii. 11. xii. 11. 1 Mac. i. 37, 39, 41, 45, 46.—^d 1 Mac. i. 54, 59. iv. 38.—^e Or, astonisheth—^f 1 Mac. i. 43, 52. 2 Mac. iv. 13, 14. v. 15.—^g Or, cause to dissemble.—^h 1 Mac. i. 62. ii. 41, 42, 43. 2 Mac. v. 27. vi. 19, 20. vii. 1, &c.—ⁱ Mal. ii. 7.—^j Heb. xi. 35, &c.—^k 1 Mac. iii. 2. 2 Mac. viii. 1.—^l 2 Mac. xii. 40.

overthrew the Egyptian army at Pelusium; nor as the latter, when he took Memphis, and subdued all Egypt, except Alexandria.

Verse 30. For the ships of Chittim shall come against him] Chittim is well known to mean the Roman empire. Antiochus, being now in full march to besiege Alexandria, and within seven miles of that city, heard that ships were arrived there from Rome, with legates from the senate. He went to salute them. They delivered to him their letters of the senate, in which he was commanded, on pain of the displeasure of the Roman people, to put an end to the war against his nephews. Antiochus said he would go and consult his friends; on which Popilius, one of the legates, took his staff, and instantly drew a circle round Antiochus on the sand where he stood, and commanded him not to pass that circle till he had given a definitive answer. Antiochus, intimidated, said, he would do whatever the senate enjoined; and in a few days after began his march, and returned to Syria.

Therefore he shall be grieved] "Grieving and groaning," says Polybius; both mortified, humbled, and disappointed.

Have indignation against the holy covenant] For he sent his general, Apollonius, with twenty-two thousand men against Jerusalem, plundered and set fire to the city, slew multitudes of the poor people who had come up to worship, polluted every place, so that the temple service was totally abandoned, and all the people fled from the city. He published a decree that all should conform to the Grecian worship; the Jewish worship was totally abrogated, and the temple itself consecrated to Jupiter Olympius.

In the transacting of these matters he had intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant; with wicked Menelaus the high-priest; and the apostate Jews united with him, who gave from time to time such information to Antiochus as excited him against Jerusalem, the temple, and the people.

Verse 31. And arms shall stand on his part] Both Sir Isaac Newton and Bp. Newton agree, that what follows is spoken of the Romans, who by making war upon the Jews, polluted the sanctuary of strength—the temple (so called by reason of its fortifications), and took away the daily sacrifice, and placed the abomination that maketh desolate, or of the desolator; for that this abomination was thus placed after the time of Christ, appears from Matt. xxiv. 15.

Verse 32. Such as do wickedly against the covenant] This is understood of the Christian Jews; for the N.E.W. had now succeeded to the O.L.D. the whole of the Jewish ritual having been abolished, and Jerusalem filled with heathen temples. And he—the Roman power, did all he could by flatteries, as well as threats, to corrupt the Christians, and cause them to sacrifice to the statues of the emperors.

But the people that do know their God] The genuine Christians.

And do exploits] Continue steadfast in all temptations, hold fast their faith, and enjoy a good conscience.

Verse 33. And they that understand] The apostles and primitive Christians in general, who understood from the pen with a little help: ¹but many shall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall, ²to try ³them, and to purge, and to make them white, ⁴even to the time of the end: ⁵because it is yet for a time appointed.

36 And the king ⁶shall do according to his will; and he shall ⁷exalt himself, and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvellous things ⁸against the God of gods, and shall prosper ⁹till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, ¹⁰nor the desire of women, ¹¹nor regard any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

38 ¹²But ¹³in his estate shall he honour the god

xiii. 21.—¹⁴ Ch. xii. 10. 1 Pet. i. 7.—¹⁵ Or, by them.—¹⁶ Ch. viii. 17, 19. Ver. 40.—¹⁷ Ver. 29.—¹⁸ Ver. 16.—¹⁹ Ch. vii. 8, 25. viii. 25. 2 Thess. ii. 4. Rev. xiii. 5, 6.—²⁰ Ch. viii. 11, 24, 25.—²¹ Ch. ix. 27.—²² 1 Tim. iv. 3.—²³ Isa. xiv. 13. 2 Thess. ii. 4.—²⁴ Or, But in his stead.—²⁵ Heb. as for the Almighty God, in his seat he shall honour, yea, he shall honour a god, whom, &c.

prophets, and his own actions, that Jesus was the true MESSIAH.

Yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days] They were exposed to the malice and fury of their enemies, during TEN STATE PERSECUTIONS, and suffered all kinds of tortures, with but little intermission for three hundred years.

Verse 34. Now when they shall fall] When the storm of the tenth persecution under Diocletian, which lasted ten years fell upon them, they were sorely oppressed.

They shall be helped with a little help] By Constantine; who, while he removed all persecution, and promoted the temporal prosperity of the Christian Church, yet added little to its spiritual perfection and strength. For many, now seeing the Christians in prosperity—

Cleave to them with flatteries] Became Christians BECAUSE THE EMPEROR WAS SUCH.

Verse 35. And some of them of understanding] Disputes on certain points of religion soon agitated the Christian church; and now, having no outward persecution, they began to persecute each other. And many excellent men, men of understanding, fell victims because they would not embrace erroneous doctrine, when professed by the state.

To the time of the end] To the time that God shall cause pure and undefiled religion every where to prevail.

Verse 36. And the king shall do according to his will] This may apply to Antiochus, who exalted himself above every god, called himself a god, sported with all religion, profaned the temple, &c. &c. But others think an anti-christian power in the church is intended; for in the language of this prophecy king is taken for power, a kingdom, &c. That such a power did spring up in the church that acted in an arbitrary manner against all laws, human and divine, is well known. This power showed itself in the Greek Emperor in the east, and in the Bishops of Rome in the west.

Till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done] This is the same as what was called in chap. viii. 19, the last end of the indignation; and chap. ix. 27, the consummation; and means the end or consummation of God's indignation against the Jews.

Verse 37. Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers] That God who sent the evangelists and apostles to preach the pure doctrine. These true fathers of the Christian Church, and their God, this church has not regarded, but put councils, and traditions, and apocryphal writings in their place.

Nor the desire of women] Both the Greek and Latin church, in their antichristian enactments, have discouraged, and in several cases proscribed, marriage, under the pretence of greater chastity, to the discredit of God's ordinance, and Christianity itself.

Nor regard any god] For the mandates and decrees of that church have been often in defiance of God and his word; for it has magnified itself above all power and authority in heaven and on earth.

of 'forces: ^b and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and ^c pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in the ^d most strong holds with a strange god, whom he shall acknowledge and increase with glory: and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for ^e gain.

40 'And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him: and the king of the north shall come against him ^f like a whirlwind, with chariots, ^g and with horsemen, and with many ships; and he shall enter into the countries, ^h and shall overflow and pass over.

41 He shall enter also into the ⁱ 'glorious' land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these

^a Or, munitions.—^b Heb. Mauzzim, or gods protectors.—^c Heb. things desired. Isa. xlii. 9. Heb. fortresses of munitions.—^d Heb. a price.—^e Ver. 35.—^f Ps. lvi. 9. Prov. i. 27. x. 25. Isa. xxi. 1. xl. 24. xli. 18. lxxv. 15. Zech. ix. 14.—^g Ezek. xxxviii. 4, 15. Rev. ix. 16.—^h Ver. 10, 22.—ⁱ Or, goodly land. Ver. 16.—^j Heb. land of Verse 38. Shall he honour the god of forces] Mauzzim or gods protectors, as in the margin; worshipping saints and angels as guardians, and protectors, and mediators, leaving out, in general, the true God, and the only Mediator, JESUS CHRIST.

And a god whom his fathers knew not] For these gods guardians, the Virgin Mary, saints, and angels, were utterly unknown as mediators, and invocable guardians in the primitive apostolic church.

Shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones] How literally does this apply to the church of Rome!

Verse 39. In the most strong holds with a strange god] Bishop Newton proposed the following translation, after justly finding fault with our common Version; "Thus shall he do to the defenders of Mauzzim, together with the strange god whom he shall acknowledge: he shall multiply honour, and he shall cause him to rule over many; and the earth he shall divide for a reward." The defenders of Mauzzim, these saint and angel gods protectors, were the monks, priests, and bishops. [This obscure passage has received very little light from more recent criticism.]

Verse 40. At the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him] When the kingdoms of Egypt and Syria were subsisting, the king of the south and the north applied to them exclusively: but they did not exist at the time of which the prophet speaks; therefore other southern and northern powers must be sought. These we may find in the Saracens, who wore of the Arabians, who came from the south, headed by the false prophet Mohammed, who pushed at him—made war on the Greek emperor Heraclius, and with amazing rapidity deprived him of Egypt, Syria, and many of his finest provinces.

shall escape out of his hands, ¹ even Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall ^m stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be ⁿ at his steps.

44 But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palaces between the seas in ^o the 'glorious' holy mountain; ^p yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

delight, or ornament.—^k Isa. xi. 14.—^l Heb. send forth.—^m Exod. xl. 8. Judg. iv. 10.—ⁿ Ps. xlviii. 2. Ver. 10, 41. 2 Thess. ii. 4.—^o Or, goodly.—^p Heb. mountain of delight of holiness.—¹ 1 Mac. vi. 8-16. 2 Thess. ii. 8.—² Rev. xix. 20.

And the king of the north] The Turks, who were originally Scythians, seized on the remains of the Greek empire, and in process of time rendered themselves masters of the whole.

Verse 41. He shall enter also into the glorious land] Entirely subdue Judea.

And many countries shall be overthrown] Aleppo, Damascus, Gaza, and many other cities were forced to submit to them; and they hold them still.

But these shall escape—Edom and Moab and the chief of the children of Ammon.] These and other Arabians they have never been able to subdue. They still occupy the deserts; and receive a yearly pension of forty thousand crowns of gold from the Ottoman Emperors, to permit the caravans, with the pilgrims for Mecca, to have a free passage.

Verse 42. He shall stretch forth his hand] He—the Ottoman Emperors, have stretched forth the hand, not only on European, but also upon Asiatic and African countries.

Verse 43. The Libyans and the Ethiopians] The Cushim—unconquered Arabs, all sought their friendship; and many of them are tributary to the present time.

Verse 44. But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him] This part of the prophecy is allowed to be yet unfulfilled; and what is portended, the course of prophetic events will show.

Verse 45. He shall plant the tabernacles] He shall make a last stand in Judea, and there shall his power be smitten.

He shall come to his end, and none shall help him.] All his confederate and tributary kingdoms, states, and provinces shall desert him, and leave that government to come to a shameful end.

CHAPTER XII.

The proper conclusion to the great revolutions predicted in this and the following chapters is the general resurrection, of which the beginning of this chapter (if to be literally understood) gives some intimation, 1-3. Daniel is then commanded to shut up the words and to seal the book to the time of the end, 4; and is informed of the three grand symbolical periods of a time, times, and a half, twelve hundred and ninety days, and thirteen hundred and thirty-five days, 4-12; at the end of the last of which Daniel shall rest, and stand in his lot, 13. It is generally thought by commentators that the termination of the last period is the epoch of the FIRST resurrection. See Rev. xx. 4, 5.

AND at that time shall ^a Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: ^b and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people ^c shall be delivered, every one that shall be found ^d written in the book.

2 And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, ^e some to everlasting life, and some to shame ^f and everlasting contempt.

3 And ^g they that be ^h wise shall shine ⁱ as the brightness of the firmament; ^j and they that turn many to righteousness ^k as the stars for ever and ever.

4 ^l But thou, O Daniel, ^m shut up the words, and seal the book, even to ⁿ the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the ^o bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank ^p of the river.

6 And one said to ^q the man clothed in linen, which was ^r upon the waters of the river, ^s How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which

^a Ch. x. 13, 21.—^b Isa. xxvi. 20, 21. Jer. xxx. 7. Matt. xxiv. 21. Rev. xvi. 18.—^c Rom. xi. 26.—^d Exod. xxxii. 32. Ps. lvi. 8, lxx. 28. Ezek. xiii. 9. Luke x. 20. Phil. iv. 3. Rev. iii. 5. xlii. 8.—^e Matt. xxv. 46. John. v. 28, 29. Acts xxiv. 15.—^f Isa. lxxvi. 24. Rom. ix. 21.—^g Ch. xi. 33, 35.—^h Or, teachers.—ⁱ Prov. iv. 18. Wisd. iii. 7. Matt. xlii. 43.—^j James v. 20.—^k I Cor. xv. 41, 42.—^l Ch. viii. 26. Ver. 9.—^m Rev. x. 4, xlii. 10.—ⁿ Ch. x. 1. Ver. 9.—^o Heb. tip.—^p Ch. x. 4.—^q Ch. x. 5.—^r Or, from above.—^s Ch. viii. 13.—

Verse 1. And at that time Michael shall stand up] Michael the archangel, as has already been observed, was ever reputed the guardian of the Jewish people.

Every one that shall be found written in the book.] All that truly fear, love, and obey the Lord.

Verse 2. Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth.] This prophecy has been referred to the future restoration of the Jews. It will be also true of the state of mankind at the general judgment.

Verse 3. And they that be wise] Those who are thoroughly instructed in Christ's word and doctrine, shall shine—shall be eminently distinguished in the Christian church by the holiness of their lives, and the purity of their creed.

And they that turn many to righteousness] They who by preaching Christ crucified among their brethren, shall be the means of converting them to the Christian faith; shall be as the stars—bright luminaries in the gospel kingdom of Jesus Christ.

Verse 4. Shut up the words, and seal the book] When a prophet received a prediction concerning what was at a considerable distance of time, he shut his book, did not communicate his revelation for some time after. This Daniel was commanded to do, chap. vii. 26. See also Isa. xxix. 10, 11; Rev. xxii. 10. Among the ancients, those were said to seal, who in the course of their reading stamped the places of which they were yet doubtful, in order to keep them in memory, that they might refer to them again, as not yet fully understood. [But this is scarcely the meaning here.]

Many shall run to and fro] Many shall endeavour to search out the sense; and knowledge shall be increased by these means; though the meaning shall not be fully known till the events take place: THEN the seal shall be broken, and the sense become plain.

Verse 5. Behold, there stood other two] Probably two angels. We know no more of them, unless they be the same as those called saints, chap. viii. 13, which see. The river was most likely the Tigris.

Verse 6. The man clothed in linen] Gabriel, in a human form. Thus he is represented, chap. x. 5.

Verse 7. Which was upon the waters] This is very similar to the description of the angel, Rev. x. 5, 6, and in the seventh verse there seems to be a reference to this prophecy, "a time, times, and a half."

Verse 8. I heard, but I understood not] Could not comprehend what the time, times, and half time should refer to. These make three years and a half of prophetic time, answering to one thousand two hundred and sixty years.

Verse 9. The words are closed up] The prophecy shall not be understood, but in its accomplishment; and then the depth of the wisdom and providence of God will be clearly seen in these matters. See on ver. 4. We must wait "till the time of the end;" and this, it appears, will not arrive before the TWENTIETH CENTURY.

Verse 10. Many shall be purified] During the interim, the great work of God's providence and grace shall be carried on in the salvation of men; who, in the midst of trials, temptations, and difficulties, shall be purified and made white—be fully saved from their sins.

None of the wicked shall understand] Because they are wicked, and will continue in their sins, the eyes of their understanding shall be closed, and their hearts hardened; so that they shall not see the light of the glorious gospel.

But the wise] Those who open their hearts to God, that he may pour in his light, shall understand the things that make for their peace.

Verse 11. The abomination that maketh desolate set up] I believe, with Bp. Newton, that this is a proverbial phrase; and may be applied to anything substituted in the place of, or set up in opposition to, the ordinances of God, his worship, his truth, &c.

Verse 12. Blessed is he that waiteth] He who implicitly depends on God, expecting, as his truth cannot fail, that these predictions shall be accomplished in due time.

And cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days.] As a prophetic day stands for a year, this must mean a period of one thousand three hundred and thirty-five years, which period is to bring all these wonders to an end, ver. 6. But we are left totally in the dark relative to the time from which these one thousand three hundred and thirty-five years are to be reckoned. If, however, we reckon them from the above epoch, A.D. 612, when Mohammedanism arose, they lead us to A.D. 1947, when the fullness of the Gentiles shall be brought in; and thus a final closure of vision and prophecy be made, as then all the great events relative to the salvation of men shall have taken place. But all these conjectures may be founded in darkness.

Verse 13. But go thou thy way till the end be] Here is proper advice for every man.

^a Deut. xxxii. 40. Rev. x. 5, 6.—^b Ch. iv. 34.—^c Ch. vii. 25. xl. 13. Rev. xii. 14.—^d Or, part.—^e Luke xxi. 24. Rev. x. 7.—^f Ch. viii. 24.—^g Ver. 4.—^h Ch. xi. 35. Zech. xiii. 9.—ⁱ Hos. xiv. 9. Rev. ix. 20. xlii. 11.—^j Ch. xi. 33, 35. John vii. 17. viii. 47. xviii. 37.—^k Ch. viii. 11. xl. 81.—^l Heb. to set up the abomination, &c.—^m Or, astonisheth.—ⁿ Ver. 9.—^o Or, and thou, &c.—^p Isa. lvi. 2. Rev. xiv. 13.—^q Ps. i. 6.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HOSEA.

HOSEA, the son of Beer, is the first of the minor prophets. Epiphanius says that he was of the town of Belemoth, in the tribe of Issachar; which is no other, in all probability, than Beelmeon, towards Esdraelon, in this tribe. The rabbins say that Bura was his father, who is mentioned in the Chronicles, and was prince of the tribe of Reuben at the time when Tiglath-pileser carried some of the tribes of Israel into captivity. But if it be so, Hosea must be said to be of the tribe of Reuben; and a native of Beelmeon, beyond Jordan. This prophet lived in the kingdom of Samaria; and his prophecies for the most part have a view to this state, though there are likewise some particular things which concern the kingdom of Judah.

We read, in the introduction to his prophecy, that he prophesied under the kings of Judah, Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, and under Jeroboam II., king of Israel. If he prophesied in the reign of all these princes, he must have lived a very long time; for there are a hundred and twelve years from the beginning of Uzziah's reign to the end of Hezekiah's reign. Uzziah began to reign A. M. 3194, and Hezekiah's reign ended in 3306. Add, if you please, twenty, or five and twenty years, which might be the age of Hosea when he began to prophesy; and this will make one hundred and thirty-two, or, one hundred and thirty-seven years. And if we were to take ten years from Uzziah, and as many from Hezekiah, during which Hosea might not have prophesied, there will still remain one hundred and twelve, or one hundred and fifteen years.

In the whole collection of Hosea's prophecies, we find nothing which proves that he prophesied so long. And, besides, why should his prophecies be dated in the title by the reigns of the kings of Judah, when he did not live under their dominion? It is therefore very probable that this title is not Hosea's, but some ancient transcriber's; and that the true beginning of this prophet's work is at these words: "The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hosea." It is our opinion that he began about the end of Jeroboam's reign, who was the second king of Israel of this name.

Hosea is concise, sententious, and abrupt. It is his manner to omit the connexive and adverbative particles; an observation which we should recollect when we observe them occasionally supplied by Versions or manuscripts. These are among the causes of that obscurity for which he is remarkable; but the greatest difficulties arise from the corrupt readings which deform the printed text. He chiefly addresses Israel; but introduces frequent mention of Judah. He not only inveighs against the vices of the people, but sharply arraigns the conduct of their kings, princes, and priests.

Like many of the Hebrew prophets, he tempers denunciations of God's vengeance against an idolatrous and vicious people, with promises of abundant mercies in store for them; and his transitions from one of these subjects to the other are rapid and unexpected. He abounds with short and lively comparisons; and, like the best Greek and Roman writers, often omits the particle of similitude. These comparisons he sometimes accumulates in the spirit of that poetry which is most admired. See chap. vi. 3, 4, ix. 10, xi. 11, xiii. 3, xiv. 5, 6, 7. He has often a GREAT FORCE OF EXPRESSION. See chap. i. 7, ii. 3, 18, 21, 22, iv. 2, vi. 5, xi. 4, l. 1, xii. 1, l. 1. He is sometimes HIGHLY ANIMATED. See chap. iv. 14, v. 8, viii. 1, ix. 5, 14, xiii. 10, 14. Many BEAUTIFUL PASSAGES occur in this prophet, as in the SIMILES throughout; in the ALLEGORIES, chap. ii. 2, 20, vii. 11, 12, viii. 7, l. 2, 3, 4, x. 11, 12, 13, xiii. 15; in the PATHOS, chap. xi. 3, l. 1, 2, and ver. 8, 9; in the FIGURES, chap. xiii. 12, xiv. 2, l. 5. There are also some parts which are truly SUBLIME, as chap. v. 14, 15, viii. 7, l. 1, x. 8, l. 2, 3, xiii. 7, 8.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HOSEA.

CHAPTER I.

Under the figure of a wife proving false to her marriage vows, and bearing children that would follow her example, the prophet represents the shameful idolatry of the ten tribes, which provoked God to cast them off. The whole passage is information by action instead of words. The names of the children are all emblematical. The first is intended to put Israel in mind of their unrepented guilt, and the acts of cruelty committed in their palace of Jezreel, (1 King xxi. 1). The second and third, signifying not finding mercy, and not my people denote that, in consequence of their guilt, they were to be rejected of God, 1-9. God promises, however, to repair the loss to his church by calling in the Gentiles, 10; and by uniting all the children of God under one head, the Messiah, in the latter days, 11.

THE word of the LORD that came unto Hosea, the son of Beeri, in the days of ^aUzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of ^bJeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

2 The beginning of the word of the LORD by Hosea. And the LORD said to Hosea, "Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms, and children of whoredoms: for ^cthe land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the LORD.

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the LORD said unto him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, ^dand I will ^eavenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, ^fand will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

^a Isa. i. 1.—^b 2 Kings xiv. 23.—^c So ch. iii. 1.—^d Deut. xxxi. 16. Ps. lxxiii. 27. Jer. ii. 18. Ezek. xxiii. 8, &c.—^e 2 Kings x. 11.—^f Heb. viii.—^g 2 Kings xv. 10, 12.—^h 2 Kings xv. 28.—ⁱ That is, Not having obtained mercy.—^j 2 Kings xvii. 6, 23.—^k Heb. I will not add Verse 1. Hosea, the son of Beeri] See the preceding account of this prophet.

Verse 2. A wife of whoredoms] That is, says Newcome, a wife from among the Israelites, who were remarkable for spiritual fornication, or idolatry. God calls himself the husband of Israel; and this chosen nation owed him the fidelity of a wife. See Exod. xxxiv. 15; Judg. ii. 17; Isa. liv. 5; Jer. iii. 14, xxxi. 32; Ezek. xvi. 17, 27; Hos. 2, 5; Rev. xvii. 1, 2.

Verse 3. He went and took Gomer] All this appears to be a real transaction, though having a typical meaning. If he took an Israelite, he must necessarily have taken an idolatress; or one who had worshipped the calves of Jeroboam at Dan or at Bethel. [Both the literal and allegorical interpretations of this strange transaction are beset with difficulties. Commentators are divided.]

Verse 4. Call his name Jezreel] That is, God will disperse. This seems to intimate that a dispersion or sowing of Israel shall take place; which happened under Salmanneser, king of Assyria, 2 Kings xvii. 5, 6. But the word refers also to the name of a city, where Jehu slew Jezebel and all the children of Ahab. 2 Kings ix. 10, 36, and x. 6.

The blood of Jezreel] Not Jehu's vengeance on Ahab's

5 ^hAnd it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name ⁱLo-ruhamah: ^jfor ^kI will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; ^lbut I will utterly take them away.

7 ^mBut I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the LORD their God, and ⁿwill not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived, and bare a son.

9 Then said God, call his name ^oLo-ammi: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 Yet ^pthe number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be any more so.—^q Or, that I should altogether pardon them.—^r 2 Kings xix. 35.—^s Zech. iv. 6. ix. 10.—^t That is, Not my people.—^u Gen. xxii. 12. Rom. ix. 27, 28.

family, but his acts of cruelty while he resided at Jezreel, a city in the tribe of Issachar, Josh. x. 18, where the kings of Israel had a palace, 1 Kings xxi. 1.

Will cause to cease the kingdom] Either relating to the cutting off of the kingdom of Israel by the Assyrians, see ver. 6, or to the ceasing of the kingdom of Israel from the houses of Jehu, 2 Kings x. 30, and which was fulfilled, 2 Kings xv. 10.

Verse 5. In the valley of Jezreel] This also is supposed to relate either to some signal defeat of the Israelites by the Assyrians, which took place in the valley of Jezreel; or to the death of Zechariah, the fourth lineal descendant of Jehu, which may have happened here. See 2 Kings xv. 10.

Verse 6. Call her Lo-ruhamah] "Not having obtained mercy."

For I will no more have mercy] "For I will no more add to have mercy upon the house of Israel." This refers to the total destruction of that kingdom.

Verse 7. But I will have mercy upon the house of Judah] I will spare them as a kingdom after Israel has been carried away into captivity by the Assyrians.

And will save them by the LORD their God] Remarkably fulfilled in the supernatural defeat of the army of the Assyrians, see 2 Kings xix. 35.

measured nor numbered; *and it shall come to pass, that ^b in the place where it was said unto them, ^c Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are ^d the sons of the living God.

* Rom. ix. 25, 26. 1 Pet. ii. 10.—^b Or, instead of that.—^c Ch. ii. 23.

Verse 9. Call his name Lo-ammi] “Not my people;” for which the reason is immediately given:

Ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.] The word God is not added here by any of the ancient Versions or MSS.; and yet the construction absolutely requires it. It is strange that no various reading occurs on this verse in any MS. yet discovered. [The sense does not need the proposed emendation.]

Verse 10. Yet the number of the children of Israel] See Gen. xxxii. 12; Rom. ix. 25, 26. In the place of the reprobated people, who were now no longer his people, there shall be found an Israel that shall be the children of the living God. This must mean either the Israelites after their conversion to Christianity, or even the Gentiles themselves, converted to God, and now become the true Israel.

Verse 11. The children of Judah and the children of Israel] After the return from Babylon, the distinction between Israel and Judah was entirely destroyed; and those of them that did return were all included under one denomination, Jews; and the one head may refer to Zerubbabel their leader, and afterwards under Ezra and Nehemiah. In the more extensive view of the prophet the one Head may mean Jesus Christ, under whom the true Israel, Jews and Gentiles, shall be finally gathered together; so that there shall be one flock, and one Shepherd over that flock.

11 *Then shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

^d John i. 12. 1 John iii. 1.—^e Isa. xi. 12, 13. Jer. iii. 18. Ezek. xxxiv. 23, xxxvii. 16-24.

They shall come up out of the land] Assyria and Chaldea in particular; but also from the various places of their dispersions in general.

Great shall be the day of Jezreel.] He alludes to the meaning of the word, the seed of God. God who has dispersed—sown, them in different lands, shall gather them together; and that day of God's power shall be great and glorious. It was a wonderful seed time in the divine justice; it shall then be a wonderful harvest in the divine mercy.

CHAPTER II.

The prophet exhorts his people to speak and to act as became those who obtained mercy of God; and to remonstrate strongly against the conduct of their mother (Samaria), whose captivity is threatened on account of her forsaking God, and ascribing her prosperity to idols, 1-5. As an amplification of this threatening, the prophet enumerates a series of afflictions which were to befall her to bring her to a sense of her duty to God; and of her folly in seeking after idols, and falsely ascribing to them the blessings of Providence, 6-13. After these corrections, however, God promises to conduct Israel safely to their own land; perhaps alluding to their restoration from the Babylonish captivity, for, his prophecy is supposed to have been delivered about two hundred and fifty years prior to this event, 14, 15. He further engages to deal with them as a tender husband, and not as a severe master, as were the idols which they served, 16, 17. The rest of the chapter promises the people of God, the true Israel, security from every evil, with the possession of every blessing, under a new covenant; and that in terms full of beauty, energy, and consolation. Heaven and earth, and whatever they contain; all nature, and the God of nature, are represented as uniting to make the people of God happy; so that if they only breathe a wish, one part of nature, animate or inanimate, echoes it to another, and all join in sweet harmony to transmit it to the ear of the Almighty. “I will hear, saith the LORD, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth; and the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hear Jezreel.”

SAY ye unto your brethern, * Ammi; and to your sisters, ^b Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your mother, plead: for ^c she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: let her therefore put away her ^d whoredoms out of her sight, and her adulteries from between her breasts;

3 Lest ^e I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was ^f born, and make her ^g as a wilderness, and set her like a dry land, and slay her with ^h thirst.

* That is, My people.—^b That is, Having obtained mercy.—^c Isa. i. 1.—^d Ezek. xvi. 25.—^e Jer. xiii. 22, 26. Ezek. xvi. 37, 39.—^f Ezek. xvi. 4.—^g Ezek. xix. 18.—^h Amos. viii. 11, 13.—ⁱ John viii. 41.—

Verse 1. Say ye unto your brethren, Ammi] I prefer the interpretation of these proper names. Say ye unto your brethren, MY PEOPLE; and to your sisters, who have OBTAINED MERCY.

Verse 2. Plead with your mother] People of Judah, accuse your mother (Jerusalem), who has abandoned my worship, and is become idolatrous; convince her of her folly and wickedness, and let her return to him from whom she has so deeply revolted.

Verse 3. Lest I strip her naked] Lest I expose her to infamy, want, and punishment. See on Isa. iii. 17; and see also Ezek. xvi. 39; xxiii. 26.

4 And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they be the ¹ children of whoredoms.

5 ¹ For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my lovers, ² that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my ¹ drink.

6 Therefore, behold, ³ I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and ⁴ make a wall, that she shall not find her paths.

1 Isa. i. 21. Jer. iii. 1, 6, 8, 9. Ezek. xvi. 15, 16, &c.—² Ver. 8, 12, Jer. xlv. 17.—³ Heb. drinks.—⁴ Job. iii. 23. xix. 8. Lam. iii. 7, 9.—⁵ Heb. wall a wall.

And set her like a dry land] The Israelites, if obedient, were promised a land flowing with milk and honey; but should they be disobedient, the reverse.

Verse 4. They be the children of whoredoms.] They are all idolaters; and have been consecrated to idols, whose marks they bear.

Verse 5. That give me my bread] See Jer. xlv. 17, 18, where nearly the same words are found and illustrated.

Verse 6. I will hedge up thy way with thorns] I will put it out of your power to escape the judgments I have threatened; and, in spite of all your attachment to your 7 And she shall follow after her lovers, but she shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but she shall not find them: then shall she say, "I will go and return to my ^b first husband; for then was it better with me than now.

8 For she did not ^c know that ^d I gave her corn, and ^e wine, and oil, and multiplied her silver and gold, ^f which they prepared for Baal.

9 Therefore will I return, and ^g take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will ^h recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedness.

10 And now ⁱ will I discover her ^j lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and none shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 ^k I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her ^l feast days, her new moons, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts.

12 And I will ^m destroy her vines and her fig-trees, ⁿ whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and ^o I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall eat them.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein she burned incense to them, and she ^p decked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she went after her lovers, and forgot me, saith the Lord.

^a Ch. v. 15. Luke xv. 18. ^b Ezek. xvi. 8. ^c Isa. i. 8. ^d Ezek. xvi. 17, 18, 19. ^e Heb. new wines. ^f Or, where with they made Baal. Ch. viii. 4. ^g Ver. 3. ^h Or, take away. ⁱ Ezek. xvi. 37, xxiii. 29. ^j Heb. folly or villany. ^k Amos viii. 10. ^l Kings xii. 32. ^m Amos viii. 5. ⁿ Heb. make desolates. ^o Ver. 5. ^p Ps. lxxx. 12, 13. Isa. v. 5. ^q Ezek. xxiii. 40, 42. ^r Ezek. xx. 35. ^s Or, friendly. ^t Heb. to her heart. ^u Josh. vii. 26. Isa. lrv. 10.

idols, you shall find that they can give you neither bread, nor water, nor wool, nor flax, nor oil, nor drink.

Verse 8. For she did not know that I gave her corn] How often are the gifts of God's immediate bounty attributed to fortuitous causes—to any cause but the right one!

Which they prepared for Baal.] Were the goods those of the enemy, in whose service they are employed, the crime would be the less. But the crime is deeply ingrained, when God's property is made the instrument to dis honour himself.

Verse 9. Therefore will I return, and take away] In the course of my providence, I will withhold those benefits which she has prostituted to her idolatrous services.

Verse 10. In the sight of her lovers] Her idols, and her faithful or faithless allies.

Verse 11. Her feast days] Jerusalem shall be pillaged and destroyed; and therefore all her joyous assemblies, and religious feasts, &c., shall cease.

Verse 12. These are my rewards] They attributed all the blessings of Providence as rewards received from the idols which they worshipped.

Verse 13. Days of Baalim] To visit signifies to inflict punishment; the days are taken for the acts of idolatrous worship committed on them; and Baalim means the multitude of false Gods worshipped by them.

Her earrings] Nose jewels. These are worn by females in the east to the present day, in great abundance.

Verse 14. I will allure her, and bring her into the wilderness, and speak comfortably unto her.] Instead of making her a public example, he takes her in private, talks to and reasons with her; puts her on her good behaviour; promises to pass by all, and forgive all, if she will now amend her ways. In the mean time he provides what is necessary for her wants and comfortable support; and thus opening a door of hope for her, she may be fully reconciled; rejoice as at the beginning, when he first took her by the hand, and she became his bride. This is most probably the simple meaning of the above metaphorical expressions. The valley of Achor was very fruitful; it lay to the north of Jericho, not far from Gilgal. See Isai. lrv. 10. [The reference is not to the fruitfulness of Achor, but to the occurrence described in Joshua vii.—and to the etymology of the word Achor: i.e., trouble.]

14 Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and ^a bring her into the wilderness, and speak ^b comfortably ^c unto her.

15 And I will give her vineyards from thence, and ^d the valley of Achor for a door of hope: and she shall sing there, as in ^e the days of her youth, and ^f as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be at that day, saith the Lord, that thou shalt call me ^g Ishi; and shalt call me no more ^h Baali.

17 For ⁱ I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

18 And in that day will I make a ^j covenant for them with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground: and ^k I will break the bow and the sword, and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to ^l lie down safely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever; yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in lovingkindness, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulness; and ^m thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, ⁿ I will hear, saith the Lord, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth;

^a Jer. ii. 2. Ezek. xvi. 8, 22, 60. ^b Exod. xv. 1. ^c That is, My husband. ^d That is, My lord. ^e Exod. xxiii. 13. Josh. xxiii. 7. Ps. xvi. 4. Zech. xiii. 2. ^f Job v. 28. Isa. xi. 6-9. Ezek. xxiv. 32. ^g Ps. xlii. 9. Isa. li. 4. Ezek. xxxix. 9. ^h Zech. ix. 10. ⁱ Jer. xvi. 5. Jer. xxiii. 6. ^j Jer. xxxi. 33, 34. John xvii. 3. ^k Zech. viii. 12.

Verse 16. Thou shalt call me Ishi] That is, my man, or my husband; a title of love and affection; and not BAALI, my master, a title exciting fear and apprehension; which, howsoever good in itself, was now rendered improper to be applied to Jehovah, having been prostituted to false gods.

Verse 18. Will I make a covenant for them] Their flocks shall not be destroyed, nor their crops spoiled. I will also prevent every species of war. They shall also be safe from robbers and nightly alarms.

Verse 19. I will betroth thee unto me] The people are always considered under the emblem of a wife unfaithful to her husband.

In mercies.] Forgiving and blotting out all past miscarriages. Or there may be an allusion here to the dowry given by the husband to his wife: "I will give righteousness," &c., as a dowry.

Verse 20. In faithfulness] Thou shalt no more prostitute thyself to idols, but be faithful to him who calls himself thy husband.

Thou shalt know the Lord.] There shall be no more infidelity on thy part nor divorce on mine; and thou shalt experience me to be the sole, present, and eternal good of thy immortal spirit.

Verse 21. I will hear, saith the Lord] The sentence is repeated, to show how fully the thing was determined by the Almighty, and how implicitly they might depend on the divine promise.

I will hear the heavens] The visible heavens, the atmosphere, where vapours are collected. The clouds, when they wish to deposit their fertilizing showers upon the earth.

They shall hear the earth] When it seems to supplicate for rain.

Verse 22. Shall hear the corn, and the wine] When they seem to express a desire to supply the wants of man.

And they shall hear Jezreel.] The destitute people who are in want of the necessities of life.

As Jezreel or the Israelites are here considered as perishing for want of food, all inanimate nature is represented as invoking God in their behalf.

1. The heavens have prayed that they be stored with clouds, that they may drop down fatness upon the earth.

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; *and they shall hear Jezreel.

23 And ^bI will sow her unto me in the earth; *and I will have mercy upon her that had not ob-

* Ch. i. 4.—^b Jer. xxxi. 27. Zech. x. 9.—^c Ch. i. 6.

2. The Lord answers the heavens, and clouds are formed.

3. The earth invokes the clouds, that they may drop down their fatness into its bosom.

4. The bottles of heaven are, consequently, unstopped for this purpose.

5. Then the corn, vine, and olive implore the earth to put forth its vegetative energy.

6. The earth answers; and corn wine, and oil are produced.

7. Jezreel cries for the necessities of life, and the abundance of the above supplies all his wants.

All these are dependant on each other, as the links are which constitute a chain; and God has the government of the whole; and he manages all for the benefit of man. How wondrous is this providence! How gracious is this God!

tained mercy; and I ^d will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art my God.

^d Ch. i. 10. Zech. xiii. 9. Rom. ix. 26. 1 Pet. ii. 10.

Verse 23. I will sow her] Alluding to the import of the name Jezreel, the seed of God. It does not appear that these promises have had their fulfilment among the Jews. They must either be understood of the blessings experienced by the Gentiles on their conversion to God by the preaching of the gospel, or are yet to be fulfilled to the Jews on their embracing the gospel, and being brought back to their own land.

The sentences in the latter part of this verse are very abrupt, but exceedingly expressive; leaving out those words supplied by the translators, and which unnerve the passage, it stands thus: I will say to NOT MY PEOPLE, THOU MY PEOPLE; and they shall say MY GOD.

CHAPTER III.

By the prophet's taking back his wife, for whom he (her friend or husband) still retained his affection, though she had proved unfaithful; by his entering into a new contract with her; and by his giving her hopes of reconciliation, after she should for some time prove as in a state of widowhood, the sincerity of her repentance; is represented the gracious manner in which God will restore the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, 1-4. It is also very strongly intimated that the whole house of Israel will be added to the church of Christ in the latter days, 5.

THEN said the LORD unto me, * Go yet, love a woman beloved of her ^b friend, yet an adulteress, according to the love of the LORD toward the children of Israel, who look to other gods, and love flagons ^c of wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for an homer of barley, and an ^d half homer of barley:

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt * abide for me many days; thou shalt not play the harlot, and

* Ch. i. 2.—^b Jer. iii. 20.—^c Heb. of grapes.—^d Heb. lethech.—^e Deut. xxi. 13.—^f Ch. x. 3. Song of the three children, ver. 15.—^g Heb. a standing, or statue, or pillar. Isa. xix. 19.—^h Exod.

Verse 1. Go yet, love a woman] This is a different command from that mentioned in the first chapter. That denoted the infidelity of the kingdom of Israel, and God's divorce of them. He gave them up to their enemies, and caused them to be carried into captivity. The woman mentioned here represents one who was a lawful wife joining herself to a paramour; then divorced by her husband; afterwards repenting, and desirous to be joined to her spouse; ceasing from her adulterous commerce, but not yet reconciled to him. This was the state and disposition of the Jews under the Babylonish captivity. Though separated from their own idols, they continued separated from their God. He is still represented as having affectionate feelings towards them; awaiting their full repentance and contrition, in order to renew the marriage covenant.

Beloved of her friend] Or, a lover of evil; or, loving another: the Hebrew word signifies a friend, or evil, according as it is pointed.

According to the love of the Lord] This woman, who had proved false to her husband, was still beloved by him, though he could not acknowledge her; as the Israelites were beloved by the Lord, while they were looking after other gods. The flagons of wine were probably such as were used for libations, or drunk in idol feasts. Others think that the words should be translated cakes of dried grapes, sweet cakes, consecrated wafers.

Verse 2. Fifteen pieces of silver] If they were shekels, the price of this woman was about two pounds five shillings.

thou shalt not be for another man: so will I also be for thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without sacrifice, and without ^a an image, and without an ^b ephod, and without ^c teraphim:

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel return, and ^d seek the LORD their God, and ^e David their King; and shall fear the LORD and his goodness in the ^f latter days.

xxviii. 6.—^g Judg. xvii. 5.—^h Jer. i. 4, 5. Ch. v. 8.—ⁱ Jer. xxx 9. Ezek. xxxiv. 23, 24. xxxvii. 22, 24.—^j Isa. ii. 2. Jer. xxx. 24. Ezek. xxxviii. 8, 16. Dan. ii. 28. Mic. iv. 1.

An homer of barley] As the homer was about eight bushels, or something more, the homer and half was about twelve or thirteen bushels.

Verse 3. Thou shalt abide for me many days] He did not take her home, but made a contract with her that, if she would abstain from her evil ways, he would take her to himself after a sufficient trial.

Verse 4. Many days without a king] Since the destruction of the temple by the Romans they have neither had king nor prince, nor any civil government of their own, but have lived in different nations of the earth as mere exiles.

Without an image—ephod—teraphim] What is called image may signify any kind of pillar, such as God forbade them to erect, Lev. xxvi. 1, lest it should be an incitement to idolatry.

All the time that the Israelites were in captivity in Babylon they seem to have been wholly without forms of idolatrous worship, as they were without the worship of God; and this may be what the prophet designs: they were totally without any kind of public worship, whether true or false.

Verse 5. Afterward shall the children of Israel return] Shall repent of their iniquities, and seek the Lord; lay aside their mock worship, and serve the true God in spirit and in truth.

And David their king] Some think that the family of David is intended; but if we go to the rigour of the letter, the house of Israel was scarcely ever perfectly submissive to David. And to say that Zerubbabel is here meant, is not supportable, as the very short and imperfect obedience of the Jews to Zerubbabel can never comport with the high terms of this and similar prophecies. We are obliged, therefore, to consider these texts as applying solely to JESUS CHRIST, the promised MESSIAH, who has been a light to lighten the Gentiles, and will yet be the glory of his people Israel.

CHAPTER IV.

The prophet charges his people with their enormous sins, 1, 2; in consequence of which they are threatened with heavy judgments, 3-5. God himself is then introduced complaining of the ignorance and obstinacy of Israel; and as their priests had a large share in the common guilt, it is declared that they shall be visited with a proportionable share of the common ruin, 6-11. The sins of idolatry and divination are then particularly reprov'd, 12-14; and Judah admonished to beware of these sins, which would leave her rebellious sister Israel helpless and desolate as a lamb in a desert, 15, 16. In the remaining verses the style is varied, but the subject is the same. Ephraim is given up to idolatry and the necessary consequence declared to be a bitter draught! Immediately we see him bound in the wings of a mighty tempest, and driven as chaff before the wind, either to destruction or captivity, 17-19.

HEAR the word of the LORD, ye children of Israel: for the LORD hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and committing adultery, they break out, and blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man strive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that strive with the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the day, and the

* Isa. i. 18. iii. 13, 14. Jer. xxv. 31. Ch. xii. 2. Mic. vi. 2.— b Jer. iv. 22. v. 4.—c Heb. bloods.—d Jer. iv. 28. xii. 4. Amos v. 16.
viii. 8.—e Zeph. i. 3.—f Deut. xvii. 12.—g See Jer. vi. 4. 5. xx. 8.—
h Heb. cut off.—i Isa. v. 13.—j Heb. cut off.—k Ch. xiii. 6.—l 1 Sam.

Verse 1. The Lord hath a controversy] Rib, what we should call a lawsuit, in which God is plaintiff, and the Israelites defendants.

Verse 2. By swearing, and lying] Where there is no truth there will be lies and perjury; for false swearing is brought in to confirm lying statements. And where there is no mercy, killing, slaying, and murders will be frequent. And where there is no knowledge of God, no conviction of his omnipresence and omniscience, private offences, such as stealing, adulteries, &c., will prevail. These, sooner or later, break out, become a flood, and carry all before them.

Blood toucheth blood.] Murders are not only frequent, but assassinations are mutual. Men go out to kill each other; and as there is no law regarded, and no justice in the land, the nearest akin slays the murderer.

Verse 3. Therefore shall the land mourn] Fruitful seasons shall be denied.

That dwelleth therein shall languish] Endemic and epidemic disorders shall prevail, and multitudes shall die; so that mourning shall be found in all quarters.

The beasts of the field, and with the fowls] There is a dearth of cattle and domestic animals, in consequence of the badness of the season.

The fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.] Those immense shoals which at certain seasons frequent the coasts, shall avoid them.

Verse 4. Yet let no man strive] Or, no man contendeth. All these evils stalk abroad unprovoked, for all are guilty. None can say, "Let me pluck the mote out of thy eye," because he knows that "there is a beam in his own."

For thy people are] Bp. Newcome renders this clause, "And as is the provocation of the priest, so is that of my people." [But the reference is evidently to Deut. xvii. 12, 13, which see.] prophet also shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sin of my people, and they set their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there shall be, like people, like priest: and I will punish them for their ways, and reward them their doings.

10 For they shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit whoredom, and shall not increase:

ii. 30. Mal. ii. 9. Psal. liii. 19.—a Heb. lift up their soul to their iniquity.—b Isa. xxiv. 2. Jer. v. 31.—c Heb. visit upon.—d Heb. cause to return.—e Jer. xxvi. 26. Mic. vi. 14. Hag. i. 6.

Verse 5. Therefore shalt thou fall in the day] In the most open and public manner, without snare or ambush. And the prophet also shall fall—in the night] The false prophet, when employed in taking prognostications from stars, meteors, &c. [Day and night are used simply to indicate the continuance of falling.]

And I will destroy thy mother.] The metropolis or mother city. Jerusalem or Samaria is meant.

Verse 6. My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge] They have not the knowledge of God, nor of sacred things, nor of their own interest, nor of the danger to which they are exposed.

Thou shalt be no priest to me] If this be the true reading, there must be reference to some particular priest, well known, to whom these words are personally addressed; unless by priest the whole priesthood is meant, and then it may apply to the priests of Jeroboam's calves. [The meaning is that the people should lose the privilege of being a priestly nation. Ex. xix. 6.]

Verse 8. They eat up the sin of my people] Chatteth, the sin-offering, though it be offered contrary to the law; for their hearts are set on iniquity, they wish to do whatever is contrary to God.

Verse 10. They shall eat, and not have enough] Whatever means they may use to satisfy or gratify themselves shall be ineffectual.

Verse 11. Take away the heart.] Darken the understanding, deprave the judgment, pervert the will, debase all the passions, &c.

Verse 12. At their stocks] They consult their wooden gods.

And their staff declareth] They use divination by rods; see the note on Ezek. xxi., where this sort of divination (trabdomancy) is explained.

because they have left off to take heed to the LORD
11 Whoredom and wine and new wine ^atake away the heart.

12 My people ask counsel at their ^bstocks, and their staff declareth unto them: for ^cthe spirit of whoredoms hath caused them to err, and they have gone ^awhoring from under their God.

13 ^aThey sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good: ^ctherefore your daughters shall commit whoredom, and your spouses shall commit adultery.

14 ^aI will not punish your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses when they commit adultery: for themselves are separated with whores, and they sacrifice with harlots: therefore

^a Isa. xxviii. 7. See Eccles. vii. 7.—^b Jer. ii. 27. Hab. ii. 19.—^c Isa. xlv. 20. Ch. v. 4.—^d Isa. i. 29. lvii. 5, 7. Ezek. vi. 13. xx. 28.—^e Amos vii. 17. Rom. i. 28.—^f Or, Shall I not, &c.—^g Ver. 1. 6.—^h Or, be punished.—ⁱ Jer. ix. 15. xii. 11. Amos iv. 4. v. 5.—^j 1 Kings xii. 29. Ch. x. 8.—^k Amos viii. 14. Zeph. i. 5.—^l Jer. iii. 6.

Verse 14. I will not punish] When God, in judgment, removes his judgments, the case of that people is desperate. While there is hope, there is correction.

Verse 15. Let not Judah offend] Israel was totally dissolute; Judah was not so. Hero she is exhorted to maintain her integrity. If the former will go to what was once Beth-el, the house of God, now Beth-aven, the house of iniquity, because Jeroboam has set up his calves there, let not Judah imitate them. Gilgal was the place where the covenant of circumcision was renewed when the people passed over Jordan; but was rendered infamous by the worship of idols, after Jeroboam had set up his idolatry.

Verse 16. Israel slideth back] They are untractable, like an unbroken heifer or steer, that pulls back, rather than draw in the yoke.

Will feed them as a lamb in a large place.] A species of irony. Ye shall go to Assyria, and be scattered among the nations; ye may sport yourselves in the extensive empire, whether ye shall be carried captives.

the people that ^adoth not understand shall ^bfall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah offend; ^aand come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to ^bBeth-aven, ^cnor swear, The LORD liveth.

16 For Israel ^aslideth back as a backsliding heifer: now the LORD will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: ^alet him alone.

18 Their drink is ^asour: they have committed whoredom continually: ^bher ^crulers with shame do love, Give ye.

19 ^aThe wind hath bound her up in her wings, and ^bthey shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

vii. 24. viii. 5. Zech. vii. 11.—^a Matt. xv. 14.—^b Heb. is gone.—^c Mic. iii. 11. vii. 8.—^d Heb. shields. Ps. lxxiv. 9.—^e Ps. i. 4. lxxviii. 13. Isa. xi. 15. xli. 16. lviii. 13. Jer. iv. 11, 12. li. 1.—^f Isa. i. 29. Jer. ii. 26.

Verse 17. Ephraim] The ten tribes.

Is joined to idols] Is become incorporated with false gods. Let him alone.] They are irreclaimable, leave them to the consequences of their vicious conduct.

Verse 18. Their drink is sour] Or rather, he is gone after their wine. The enticements of idolatry have carried them away.

Her rulers with shame do love] Rather, have loved shame; they glory in their abominations.

Give ye.] Perhaps it would be better to read, Her rulers have committed, &c. They have loved gifts. What a shame! [More correctly rendered "Her rulers do love, do love shame," the verb being intensive.]

Verse 19. The wind hath bound her] A parching wind has blasted them in their wings—coasts, borders; or they are carried away into captivity, as with the most rapid blight.

CHAPTER V.

This chapter begins with threatening the Israelites for ensnaring the people to idolatry by their sacrifices and other rites on Mizpah and Tabor, 1-5. Their sacrifices, however costly, are declared to be unacceptable, 6; and their substance is devoted to the locust, 7. Nor is judgment to stop here. The cities of Judah are called upon, in a very animated manner, to prepare for the approach of enemies. Benjamin is to be pursued; Ephraim is to be desolate; and all this is intimated to Israel, that they may, by repentance, avert the judgment, 8, 9. The following verses contain further denunciations, 10-13, expressed in terms equally terrible and sublime, 14. The Lord affects not willingly the children of men; he visits with temporal calamities that he may heal their spiritual malady, 15.

HEAR ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ye ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because ^aye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 And the revolvers are ^bprofound to make

^a Ch. vi. 9.—^b Isa. xxix. 15.—^c Or, and, &c.—^d Heb. a correction.—^e Amos. iii. 2.

Verse 1. Hear ye this, O priests] The accusation is, that they have ensnared the people, caused them to practise idolatry, both at Mizpah and Tabor. Mizpah was situated beyond Jordan, in the mountains of Gilead; see Judg. xi. 29. And Tabor was a beautiful mountain in the tribe of Zebulun. Both these places are said to be eminent for hunting, &c.; and hence the natural occurrence of the words snare and net in speaking of them.

slaughter, ^athough I have been ^ba Rebuker of them all.

3 ^aI know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, ^bthou committest whoredom, and Israel is defiled.

4 ^aThey ^bwill not frame their doings to turn

^a Ezek. xxiii. 5. &c. Ch. iv. 17.—^b Heb. They will not give.—^c Or, Their doings will not suffer them.

Verse 2. The revolvers are profound to make slaughter] Here may be a reference to the practice of hunters, making deep pits in the ground, and lightly covering them over, that the beasts, not discovering them, might fall in and become a prey.

Though I have been a Rebuker] As they have made victims of others to their idolatry, I will make victims of them to my justice.

unto their God: ^afor the spirit of whoredoms is in the midst of them, and they have not known the LORD.

5 And ^bthe pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity; Judah also shall fall with them.

6 ^cThey shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD; but they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have ^ddealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall ^ea month devour them with their portions.

8 ^fBlow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: ^gcry aloud at ^hBeth-aven, ⁱafter thee, O Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I made known that which shall surely be.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that ^aCh. iv. 12.—^bvii. 10.—^cProv. i. 28. Isa. i. 15. Jer. xi. 11. Ezek. viii. 18. Mic. iii. 4. John vii. 34.—^dIes. xlviii. 8. Jer. iv. 20. v. 11. Ch. vi. 7. Mal. ii. 11.—^eZech. xi. 8.—^fCh. vii. 1. Joel ii. 1.—^gIsa. x. 30.—^hJosh. vii. 2. Ch. iv. 15.—ⁱJudg. v. 14.—^jDeut. xix. 14. xxvii. 17.—^kDeut. xxviii. 83.—^l1 Kings xii. 28. Mic. vi. 18.

Verse 4. They will not frame their doings] They never purpose to turn to God, they have fully imbibed the spirit of idolatry.

Verse 5. The pride of Israel doth testify to his face] The effrontery with which they practise idolatry manifests not only their insolence, but the deep depravity of their heart; but their pride and arrogance shall be humbled.

Verse 6. They shall go with their flocks] As they still retain the spirit of their idolatry, he has withdrawn himself from them.

Verse 7. Now shall a month devour them] In a month's time the king of Assyria shall be upon them, and oblige them to purchase their lives and liberties by a grievous tax of fifty shekels per head. This Menahem, king of Israel, gave Pul, king of Assyria, 2 Kings xv. 16-20. Instead of month, some translate the original locust. "The locusts shall devour them."

Verse 8. Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah] Gibeah and Ramah were cities of Judah, in the tribe of Benjamin.

After thee, O Benjamin.] An abrupt call of warning "Benjamin, fly for thy life! The enemy is just behind thee!" This is a prediction of the invasion of the Assyrians, and the captivity of the ten tribes.

Verse 9. Among the tribes of Israel have I made known] ^jremove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim ^kis ^loppressed and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after ^mthe commandment.

12 Therefore ⁿwill I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah ^oas ^prottenness.

13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah saw his ^qwound, then went Ephraim ^rto the Assyrian, and sent ^sto king Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For ^tI will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as ^ua young lion to the house of Judah: I, ^veven I, will tear and go away; I will take away, and none shall rescue him.

15 I will go and return to my place, ^wtill ^xthey acknowledge their offence, and seek my face: ^yin their affliction they will seek me early.

^aProv. xii. 4.—^bOr, a worm.—^cJer. xxx. 12.—^d2 Kings xv. 19. Ch. vii. 11. xii. 1.—^eCh. x. 6.—^fOr, to the king of Jareb: or, to the king that should plead.—^gIam. iii. 10. Ch. xiii. 7. 8. Ch. xxx. 6.—^hPs. i. 2.—ⁱHeb. till they be guilty.—^jLev. xxvi. 40, 41. Jer. xxix. 12, 13. Ezek. vi. 9. xx. 43. xxxi. 81.—^kPs. lxxviii. 34.

They have got sufficient warning; it is their own fault that they have not taken it.

Verse 10. Like them that remove the bound] As execrable as they who remove the land-mark.

Verse 11. Walked after the commandment.] Jeroboam's commandment to worship his calves at Dan and Beth-el. Many of them were not forced to do this; they did it willingly.

Verse 12. Unto Ephraim as a moth] I will consume them by little and little, as a moth frets a garment.

Verse 13. When Ephraim saw his sickness] When both Israel and Judah felt their own weakness to resist their enemies, instead of calling upon and trusting in me, they sought sinful alliances, and trusted in their idols.

King Jareb] This name occurs nowhere in Scripture but here and in chap. x. 6. The Vulgate and Targum render yareb, an avenger, a person whom they thought able to save them from their enemies. It is well known that Menahem, king of Israel, sought alliance with Pul and Tiglath-pileser, kings of Assyria, and Ahez king of Judah. These were the protectors that Ephraim sought after. See 2 Kings xv. and xvi. But far from healing them by making them tributary, the Assyrians made their wound more dangerous.

Verse 15. I will go and return to my place] I will abandon them till they acknowledge their offences.

CHAPTER VI.

The prophet earnestly exhorts to repentance, 1-3. God is then introduced as very tenderly and pathetically remonstrating against the backslidings of Ephraim and Judah, 4-11.

COME, and let us return unto the LORD: for ^ahe hath torn, and ^bhe will heal us; ^che hath smitten, and he will bind us up.

2 ^dAfter two days will he revive us: in ^aDeut. xxxii. 39. 1 Sam. ii. 6. Job v. 18. Ch. v. 14.

Verse 1. Come and let us return unto the Lord] While they acknowledge the justice of God in their punishment, they depend on his well-known mercy and compassion for restoration to life and health.

Verse 2. After two days will he revive] Such is his power, that in two or three days he can restore us.

the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 ^eThen shall we know, if we follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared ^fas the ^aJer. xxx. 17.—^b1 Cor. xv. 4.—^cIsa. liv. 18.—^d2 Sam. xxiii. 4.

In the third day he will raise us up] In so short a time can he give us complete deliverance. These words are supposed to refer to the death and resurrection of our Lord; and it is thought that the apostle refers to them, 1 Cor. xv. 4: "Christ rose again the third day, according to the scriptures;" and this is the only place in the scriptures, i. e., of the Old Tesmorning; and ^a he shall come unto us ^b as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth.

4 ^c O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your ^d goodness is ^e as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I hewed them ^f by the prophets; I have slain them by ^g the words of my mouth: ^h and thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired ⁱ mercy, and ^j not sacrifice; and the ^k knowledge of God more than burnt-offerings.

7 But they ^l like men ^m have transgressed the

^a Ps. lxxii. 6.—^b Job xxix. 23.—^c Ch. xi. 8.—^d Or, mercy or kindness.—^e Ch. xlii. 8.—^f Jer. i. 10. v. 14.—^g Jer. xxiii. 29. Heb. iv. 12.—^h Or, that thy judgments might be, &c.—ⁱ 1 Sam. xv. 22. Eccles. v. 1. Mic. vi. 8. Matt. ix. 13. xii. 7.—^j Ps. i. 8, 9. Prov. xxi. 3. Isa. i. 11.—^k Jer. xxii. 16. John xvii. 8.—^l Or, like Adam. Job tament, where his resurrection on the third day seems to be hinted at.

And we shall live in his sight.] His resurrection being a proof of theirs.

Verse 3. Then shall we know] We shall have the fullest evidence that we have not believed in vain.

If we follow on to know the Lord] If we continue to be as much in earnest as we now are.

His going forth.] The manifestation of his mercy to our souls is as certain as the rising of the sun at the appointed time.

And he shall come unto us as the rain] As surely as the early and the latter rain come. The first, to prepare the earth for the seed; this fell in autumn: the second, to prepare the full ear for the harvest; this fell in spring.

Verse 4. O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee?] This is the answer of the Lord to the above pious resolutions; sincere while they lasted, but frequently forgotten, because the people were fickle.

Verse 5. Therefore have I hewed them by the prophets] I have sent my prophets to testify against their fickleness. They have smitten them with the most solemn and awful threatenings; they have as it were, slain them by the words of my mouth.

Thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.] The proper reading is most probably, "And my judgment is as the light going forth." It shall be both evident and swift; alluding both to the velocity and splendour of light.

Verse 6. I desired mercy, and not sacrifice.] I was more willing to save than to destroy; and would rather see them full of penitent and holy resolutions, than behold them offering the best and most numerous victims upon my altar.

covenant: there ^a have they dealt treacherously against me.

8 ^b Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity and is ^c polluted with blood.

9 And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so ^d the company of priests murder in the way ^e by consent: for they commit ^f lewdness.

10 I have seen ^g an horrible thing in the house of Israel: there is ^h the whoredom of Ephraim, Israel is defiled.

11 Also, O Judah, ⁱ he hath set an harvest for thee, ^j when I returned the captivity of my people.

xxxii. 33.—^a Ch. viii. 1.—^b Ch. v. 7.—^c Ch. xii. 11.—^d Or, cunning for blood.—^e Jer. xi. 9. Ezek. xxii. 25. Ch. v. 1, 2.—^f Heb. with one shoulder, or to Shechem.—^g Or, enormity.—^h Jer. v. 30.—ⁱ Ch. iv. 12, 13, 17.—^j Jer. li. 33. Joel iii. 13. Rev. xiv. 15.—^k Ps. cxxvi. 1.

Verse 7. But they like men, kadam, "like Adam" have transgressed the covenant] They have sinned against knowledge as he did. There was a striking similarity in the two cases, Adam, in Paradise, transgressed the commandment, and I cast him out; Israel, in possession of the promised land, transgressed my covenant, and I cast them out, and sent them into captivity.

Verse 8. Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity] In this place Jacob and Laban made their covenant, and set up a heap of stones, which was called Gilced, the heap of testimony; and most probably idolatry was set up here. Perhaps the very heap became the object of superstitious adoration.

Verse 9. As troops of robbers] The country of Gilead was infamous for its robberies and murders. The idolatrous priests there formed themselves into companies, and kept possession of the roads and passes; and if they found any person going to Jerusalem to worship the true God, they put him to death.

Verse 10. I have seen an horrible thing] That is, the idolatry that prevailed in Israel to such a degree that the whole land was defiled.

Verse 11. O Judah, he hath set an harvest for thee] Thou also hast transgressed; thy harvest will come; thou shalt be reaped down and sent into captivity. The sickle is already thrust in. That which thou hast sowed shalt thou reap.

When I returned the captivity of my people.] From the common reading some suppose this to be a promise of return from captivity. It is true that Judah was gathered together again and brought back to their own land; but the majority of the Israelites did not return, and are not now to be found.

CHAPTER VII.

Here God complains that though he had employed every means for reforming Israel, they still persisted in their iniquity without fearing the consequences, 1, 2; that those who ought to check their crimes were pleased with them, 3; and that they all burned with adultery, as an oven when fully heated, and ready to receive the kneaded dough, 8. The fifth verse alludes to some recent enormities; the sixth charges them with dividing their time between inactivity and iniquity; the seventh alludes to their civil broils and conspiracies (see 2 Kings xv. 10, 14, 25); the eighth to their joining themselves with idolatrous nations; and the ninth describes the sad consequence. The tenth verse reproves their pride and open contempt of God's worship; the eleventh reproves their foolish conduct in applying for aid to their enemies (see 2 Kings xv. 19, and xvii. 4); the twelfth and thirteenth threaten them with punishments; the fourteenth charges them with hypocrisy in their acts of humiliation; the fifteenth with ingratitude; and the image of the deceitful bow, in the sixteenth verse, is highly expressive of their frequent apostasies; and their hard speeches against God shall be visited upon them by their becoming a reproach in the land of their enemies.

WHEN I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickedness of Samaria: for ^athey commit falsehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers ^aspoileth without.

2 And they ^aconsider not in their hearts that I ^aremember all their wickedness: now ^atheir own doings have beset them about; they are ^abefore my face.

3 They make the king glad with their wickedness, and the princes ^awith their lies.

4 ^aThey are all adulterers, as an oven heated by the baker, ^awho ceaseth ^afrom raising after he hath kneaded the dough, until it be leavened.

5 In the day of our king the princes have made him sick ^awith bottles of wine; he stretched out his hand with scorners.

6 For they have ^amade ready their heart like an oven, whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night; in the morning it burneth as a flaming fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges; ^aall their kings ^aare fallen: ^athere is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim, he ^ahath mixed himself among the people; Ephraim is a cake not turned.

^a Heb. evils.—Ch. v. 1. vi. 10.—^a Heb. strippath.—^a Heb. say not so.—Jer. xvii. 1.—^a Ps. ix. 16. Prov. v. 22.—^a Ps. xc. 8.—^a Rom. i. 32.—Jer. ix. 2.—^a Or, the raiser will cease.—^a Or, from waking.—^a Or, with heat through wine.—^a Or, applied.—Ch. viii. 4.—^a 2 Kings xv. 10, 14, 25, 30.—^a Isa. lxiv. 7.—^a Ps. cvi. 85.—Ch. viii. 7.—^a Heb. sprinkled.—Ch. v. 5.—^a Isa. ix. 13.—Ch. xi. 11.—

Verse 1. When I would have healed Israel] Scarcely was one sin blotted out until another was committed.

The thief cometh in] Their own princes spoil them.

The troop of robbers spoileth without.] The Assyrians, under different leaders, waste and plunder the country.

Verse 2. They consider not in their hearts] They do not consider that my eye is upon all their ways; they do not think that I record all their wickedness; and they know not that their own evil doings are as a host of enemies encompassing them about.

Verse 3. They make the king glad] They pleased Jeroboam by coming readily into his measures, and heartily joining with him in his idolatry.

Verse 7. All their kings are fallen] There was a pitiful slaughter among the idolatrous kings of Israel; four of them had fallen in the time of this prophet. Zechariah was slain by Shallum; Shallum, by Menahem; Pekahiah, by Pekah; and Pekah, by Hosea, 2 Kings xv. All were idolaters, and all came to an untimely death.

Verse 8. A cake not turned.] In the East, having heated the hearth, they sweep one corner, put the cake upon it, and cover it with embers; in a short time they turn it, cover it again, and continue this several times, till they find it sufficiently baked. All travellers in Asiatic countries have noted this.

Verse 9. Gray hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.] The kingdom is grown old in iniquity; the time of their captivity is at hand, and they are apprehensive of no danger. They are in the state of a silly old man, who does not consider his latter end; is making no provision for that eternity on the brink of which he is constantly standing; does not apply to the sovereign Physician to heal his spiritual diseases; but calls in the doctors to cure him of old age and death!

Verse 11. Ephraim also is like a silly dove without heart] A bird that has little understanding; that is easily snared and taken; that is careless about its own young, and seems to live without any kind of thought.

They call to Egypt, they go to Assyria.] They strive to 9 ^aStrangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, gray hairs are ^ahere and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the ^apride of Israel testifieth to his face: and ^athey do not return to the Lord their God, nor seek him for all this.

11 ^aEphraim also is like a silly dove without heart: ^athey call to Egypt, they go to Assyria.

12 When they shall go, ^aI will spread my net upon them; I will bring them down as the fowls of the heaven; I will chastise them, ^aas their congregation hath heard.

13 Woe unto them! for they have fled from me: ^adestruction unto them! because they have transgressed against me; though ^aI have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lies against me.

14 ^aAnd they have not cried unto me with their heart, when they howled upon their beds: they assemble themselves for corn and wine, and they rebel against me.

15 Though I ^ahave bound and strengthened their arms, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

16 ^aThey return, but not to the Most High: ^athey are like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword for the ^arage of their tongue: this shall be their derision ^ain the land of Egypt.

^a See 2 Kings xv. 19. xvii. 4. Ch. v. 13. ix. 3. xii. 1.—^a Ezek. xii. 13.—^a Lev. xxvi. 14 &c. Deut. xxviii. 15, &c. 2 Kings xvii. 18.—^a Heb. spoil.—^a Mic. vi. 4.—^a Job xxxv. 9, 10. Ps. lxxviii. 31. Jer. iii. 10. Zech. vii. 5.—^a Or, chastened.—^a Ch. xi. 7.—^a Ps. lxxvii. 57.—^a Ps. lxxlii. 9.—^a Ch. ix. 8, 6.

make these their allies and friends; but in this they showed that they were without heart, had not a sound understanding; for these were rival nations, and Israel could not attach itself to the one without incurring the jealousy and displeasure of the other.

Verse 12. I will spread my net upon them] I will cause them to be taken by those in whom they trusted.

I will bring them down] The allusion to the dove, and to the mode of taking the fowls of heaven, is still carried on.

As their congregation hath heard.] As in their solemn assemblies they before have heard; in the reading of my law, and the denunciation of my wrath against idolaters.

Verse 13. Woe unto them!] They shall have woe, because they have fled from me. They shall have destruction, because they have transgressed against me.

Though I have redeemed them] Out of Egypt; and given them the fullest proof of my love and power.

Yet they have spoken lies against me.] They have represented me as rigorous and cruel; and my service as painful and unprofitable.

Verse 14. They have not cried unto me with their heart] I know they have cried, yea, howled; but could I hear them when all was forced and hypocritical, not one sigh coming from their heart?

They assemble themselves for corn and wine] In dearth and famine they call and howl: but they assemble themselves, not to seek me, but to invoke their false gods for corn and wine.

Verse 15. Though I have bound and strengthened their arms] Whether I dealt with them in judgment or mercy, it was all one; in all circumstances they rebelled against me.

Verse 16. They return, but not to the Most High] They go to their idols.

They are like a deceitful bow] Which, when it is refixed, in order to be strung, suddenly springs back into its quiescent curve.

Shall fall by the sword] Their tongue has been enraged against me; but the sword shall be enraged against them.

CHAPTER VIII.

This chapter begins with threatening some hostile invasion in short and broken sentences, full of rapidity, and expressive of sudden danger and alarm: "The trumpet to thy mouth; he cometh as an eagle," 1. And why? For their hypocrisy, 2; iniquity, 3; treason (see 2 Kings xv. 13, 17) and idolatry, 4; particularly the worshipping of the calves of Dan and Beth-el, 5, 6. The folly and unprofitableness of pursuing evil courses is then set forth in brief but very emphatic terms. The labour of the wicked is vain, like sowing of the wind; and the fruit of it destructive as the whirlwind. Like corn blighted in the bud, their toil shall have no recompence; or if it should have a little, their enemies shall devour it, 7. They themselves, too, shall suffer the same fate, and shall be treated by the nations of Assyria and Egypt as the vile sherds of a broken vessel, 8, 9. Their incorrigible idolatry is again declared to be the cause of their approaching captivity under the king of Assyria. And as they delighted in idolatrous altars, there they shall have these in abundance, 10-14. The last words contain a prediction of the destruction of the fenced cities of Judah, because the people trusted in these for deliverance, and not in the Lord their God

SET * the trumpet to ^b thy mouth. He shall come * as an eagle against the house of the LORD, because * they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

2 * Israel shall cry unto me, My God, 'we know thee.

3 ~~Israel~~ hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 * They have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: ^b of their silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

5 Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off; mine anger is kindled against them: 'how long will it be ere they attain to innocency?

6 For from Israel was it also: the workman made it; therefore it is not God; but the calf of Samaria shall be broken in pieces.

7 For 'they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: it hath no ^b stalk: the bud shall yield no meal: if so be it yield 'the strangers shall swallow it up.

* Ch. v. 8.—^b Heb. the roof of thy mouth.—^c Deut. xxviii. 49. Jer. iv. 13. Hab. i. 8.—^d Ch. vi. 7.—^e Ps. lxxviii. 84. Ch. v. 15.—^f Tit. i. 16.—^g 2 Kings xv. 13, 17, 25. Shallum, Menahem, Pekahiah.—^h Ch. ii. 8. xiii. 2.—ⁱ Jer. xlii. 27.—^j Prov. xxii. 8. Ch. x. 12, 13.—^k Or, standing corn.—^l Ch. vii. 9.—^m 2 Kings xvii. 6.—ⁿ Jer. xxii. 28. xlviii. 38.—^o 2 Kings xv. 19.—^p Jer. li. 24.—^q Isa. xxx. 6. Ezek. xvi. 33, 34.—^r Heb. loose.—^s Ezek. xvi. 37. Ch. x. 10.—^t Or, Verse 1. Set the trumpet to thy mouth.] Sound another alarm. Let them know that an enemy is fast approaching.

As an eagle against the house of the Lord.] If this be a prophecy against Judah, as some have supposed, then by the eagle Nebuchadnezzar is meant, who is often compared to this king of birds. See Ezek. xvii. 8; Jer. xlviii. 40; xlix. 22; Dan. vii. 4.

But if the prophecy be against Israel, which is the most likely, then Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, is intended, who, for his rapidity, avarice, rapacity, and strength, is fitly compared to this royal bird.

Verse 2. Israel shall cry.] The rapidity of the eagle's flight is well imitated in the rapidity of the sentences in this place.

My God, we know thee.] The same sentiment, from the same sort of persons, under the same feelings, as that in the Gospel of St. Matthew, chap. vii. 22.

Verse 4. They have set up kings, but not by me.] Properly speaking, not one of the kings of Israel, from the defection of the ten tribes from the house of David, was the appointed of the Lord.

I knew it not.] It had not my approbation. In this sense the word know is frequently understood.

That they may be cut off.] That is, they shall be cut off in consequence of their idolatry.

How long will it be ere they attain to innocency?] How long will ye continue your guilty practices? When shall it be said that ye are free from these vices? The calf or ox, which was the object of the idolatrous worship of the Israel-

8 * Israel is swallowed up: now shall they be among the Gentiles * as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For * they are gone up to Assyria, 'a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim 'hath hired 'lovers.

10 Yea, though they have hired among the nations, now * will I gather them, and they shall 'sorrow * a little for the burden of 'the king of princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made * many altars to sin, altars shall be unto him to sin.

12 I have written to him * the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing.

13 * They 'sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it; * but the LORD accepteth them not; ^b now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: * they shall return to Egypt.

14 * For Israel hath forgotten * his Maker, and " buildeth temples: and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but * I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

begin.—^a Or, in a little while, as Hag. ii. 6.—^b Isa. x. 8. Ezek. xxi. 7. Dan. ii. 37.—^c Ch. xii. 11.—^d Deut. iv. 8. Ps. cxix. 18. cxlvi. 19, 20.—^e Jer. vii. 21. Zech. vii. 6.—^f Or, in the sacrifices of mine offerings they, &c.—^g Jer. xiv. 10, 12. Ch. v. 6. ix. 4. Amos v. 22.—^h Ch. ix. 9. Amos vii. 7.—ⁱ Deut. xxviii. 68. Ch. ix. 8, 6. xi. 5.—^j Deut. xxxii. 18.—^k Isa. xix. 23. Eph. ii. 10.—^l 1 Kings xii. 31.—^m Jer. xvii. 27. Amos ii. 5.

ites, was a supreme deity in Egypt; and it was there they learned this idolatry.

Verse 6. The workman made it; therefore it is not God.] This is an overwhelming argument against all idols. Nothing need be added.

Verse 7. They have sown the wind and they shall reap the whirlwind.] As the husbandman reaps the same kind of grain which he has sown, but in far greater abundance, thirty, sixty, or one hundred fold; so he who sows the wind shall have a whirlwind to reap.

It hath no stalk.] Nothing that can yield a blossom. If it have a blossom, that blossom shall not yield fruit; if there be fruit, the sower shall not enjoy it, for strangers shall eat it. The meaning is, the labours of this people shall be utterly unprofitable and vain.

Verse 8. Now shall they be among the Gentiles.] The allusion is to a rotten, corrupted skin-bottle; a bottle made of goat, deer, or calf hide, still commonly used in Asia and Africa.

Verse 9. They are gone up to Assyria.] For succour. A wild ass alone by himself.] Like that animal, jealous of its liberty, and suffering no rival.

Ephraim hath hired lovers.] Hath subsidized the neighbouring heathen states.

Verse 10. For the burden of the king of princes.] The exactions of the Assyrian king, and the princes of the provinces.

Verse 11. Many altars to sin.] Though it does not appear that the Jews in Babylon were obliged to worship the idols of the country, except in the case mentioned by Daniel, yet it was far otherwise with the Israelites in Assyria, and the other countries of their dispersion.

Verse 12. I have written to him the great things of my law] I have as it were inscribed my laws to them, and they have treated them as matters in which they had no interest.

Verse 18. They sacrifice flesh] They offer to their idols the things which belong to Jehovah; or, while pretending to offer unto the Lord, they eat and drink idolatrously; and therefore the Lord will not accept them.

They shall return to Egypt.] Many of them did return to Egypt after the conquest of Palestine by Shalmaneser, and many after the ruin of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar; but they had in effect returned to Egypt by setting up the worship of the golden calves, which were in imitation of the Egyptian Apis.

CHAPTER IX.

The prophet reproves the Israelites for their sacrifices and rejoicings on their corn-floors, by which they ascribe to idols, as the heathen did, the praise of all their plenty, 1. For which reason they are threatened with famine and exile, 2, 3, in a land where they should be polluted, and want the means of worshipping the God of their fathers, or observing the solemnities of his appointment, 4, 5. Nay more; they shall speedily fall before the destroyer, be buried in Egypt, and leave their own pleasant places desolate, 6-9. God is then introduced declaring his early favour for his people, and the delight he took in their obedience; but now they had so deeply revolted, all their glory will take wing, God will forsake them, and their offspring be devoted to destruction, 10-16.

REJOICE not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a reward upon every corn floor.

2 The floor and the winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in the LORD's land; but Ephraim shall return to Egypt, and they shall eat unclean things in Assyria.

4 They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD, neither shall they be pleasing unto him: their sacrifices shall be unto them as the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread for their soul shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will ye do in the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the LORD?

6 For, lo, they are gone because of destruction: Egypt shall gather them up, Memphis shall bury them: the pleasant places for their silver, nettles shall possess them; thorns shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of recompence are come; Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool, the spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred in the house of his God.

9 They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the fig-tree at her first time: but they went to Baal-peor, and separated themselves unto that shame; and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird, from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

1. Ch. iv. 12. v. 4, 7.—Jer. xlv. 17. Ch. ii. 12.—Or, in, &c.—Ch. ii. 9, 12.—Or, wine-fat.—Lev. xxv. 23. Jer. ii. 7. xvi. 18. Ch. viii. 13. xi. 5. Not into Egypt itself, but into another bondage as bad as that.—Ezek. iv. 13. Dan. i. 8.—2 Kings xvii. 6. Ch. xi. 11.—Ch. iii. 4.—Jer. vi. 20. Ch. viii. 13.—Deut. xxvi. 14.—Lev. xvii. 11.—Ch. ii. 11.—Heb. spoil.—Ch. vii. 16. Ver. 3.—Or, their silver shall be desired, the nettle, &c.

—Heb. the desire.—Isa. v. 6. xxxii. 13. xxxiv. 13. Ch. x. 8.—Heb. man of the spirit.—Ezek. xiii. 3, &c. Mic. ii. 11. Zeph. iii. 4.—Jer. vi. 17. xxi. 6. Ezek. xiii. 17. xxxiii. 7.—Or, against.—Isa. xxi. 6. Ch. x. 9.—Judg. xix. 22.—Ch. viii. 13.—Isa. xxviii. 4. Mic. vii. 1.—See Ch. ii. 15.—Num. xv. 8. Ps. cvi. 28.—Ch. iv. 14.—Jer. xi. 13. See Judg. vi. 32.—Ps. lxxxi. 12. Ezek. xx. 8. Amos iv. 5.

Verse 1. Rejoice not] Hitherto thou hast acted as a common whorl, who goes even to the common threshing places; connects herself with the meanest, in order to get a hire even of the grain there threshed out.

Verse 4. As the bread of mourners] By the law, a dead body, and every thing that related to it, the house where it lay, and the persons who touched it, were all polluted and unclean, and whatever they touched was considered as defiled. See Deut. xxvi. 14; Numb. xix. 11, 13, 14.

For their bread for their soul] The bread for the common support of life shall not be sanctified to them by having the first-fruits presented at the temple.

Verse 6. For, lo, they are gone] Many of them fled to Egypt to avoid the destruction; but they went there only to die.

Memphis] Now Cairo, or Kahira, found them graves.

The pleasant places for their silver] The fine estates or villas which they had purchased by their money, being now neglected and uninhabited, are covered with nettles; and even in their tabernacles, thorns and brambles of different kinds grow. These are the fullest marks of utter desolation.

Verse 7. The days of visitation] Of punishment, are come.

The prophet is a fool] Who has pretended to foretell, on divine authority, peace and plenty; for behold all is desolation.

The spiritual man] Ish haruach, the man of spirit, who was ever pretending to be under a divine afflatus.

Is mad] He is now enraged to see every thing falling out contrary to his prediction.

Verse 8. The watchman of Ephraim] The true prophet was with—faithful to God.

The prophet] The false prophet is the snare of a fowler; is continually deceiving the people, and leading them into snares, and infusing into their hearts deep hatred against God and his worship.

Verse 9. They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days of Gibeah] This relates to that shocking rape and murder of the Levite's wife, mentioned Judg. xix. 16, &c.

Verse 10. As the first-ripe] Those grapes, whose bud having come first, and being exposed most to the sun, have been the first ripe upon the tree; which tree was now in the vigour of youth, and bore fruit for the first time. A metaphor of the rising prosperity of the Jewish state.

Verse 11. Their glory shall fly away] It shall suddenly spring away from them, and return no more.

12 "Though they bring up their children, yet will I bereave them, that there shall not be a man left: yea, woe also to them when I depart from them!

13 Ephraim, "as I saw Tyros, is planted in a pleasant place; but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O LORD: what wilt thou give? give them "a miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness is in Gilgal: for there I

* Job xxvii. 14.—Deut. xxviii. 41, 62.—Deut. xxxi. 17. 2 Kings xvii. 18. Ch. v. 6.—See 1 Sam. xxviii. 15, 16.—See Ezek. xxvi. xxvii. xxviii.—Ver. 16. Ch. xiii. 16.—Luke xxiii. 29.—Heb.

From the birth] They shall cease to glory in their numbers; for no children shall be born, no woman shall be pregnant, for none shall conceive. Here judgment blasts the very germs of population.

Verse 12. Though they bring up their children] And were they even to have children, I would bereave them of them; for, when I depart from them, they shall have all manner of wretchedness and woe.

Verse 13. Ephraim, as I saw Tyros] Tyre was strongly situated on a rock in the sea; Samaria was on a mountain, both strong and pleasant. But the strength and beauty of those cities shall not save them from destruction.

Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.] The people shall be destroyed, or led into captivity by the Assyrians. Of the grandeur, wealth, power, &c. of Tyre, see the notes on Ezekiel, chap. xxvii. and xxviii.

Verse 14. Give them, O Lord: what wilt thou give?] The prophet, seeing the evils that were likely to fall upon his countrymen, begins to make intercession for them: but when he had formed the first part of his petition, "Give them, O Lord!" the prophetic light discovered to him that the petihated them: for the wickedness of their doings I will drive them out of mine house, I will love them no more: "all their princes are revolvers.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up, they shall bear no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay even "the beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken unto him: and they shall be "wanderers among the nations.

that casteth the fruit.—Ch. iv. 15. xii. 11.—Ch. i. 6.—Isa. i. 28.—Ver. 13.—Heb. the desires. Ezek. xxiv. 21.—Deut. xxviii. 64, 65.

tion would not be answered, and that God was about to give them something widely different. Then changing his petition, he asks the question, then "What wilt thou give them?" and the answer is, "Give them a miscarrying womb, and dry breasts." And this he is commanded to announce.

Verse 15. All their wickedness is in Gilgal] Probably they had been guilty of some scandalous practices of idolatry in Gilgal.

Verse 16. Ephraim is smitten] The thing being determined, it is considered as already done.

Their root is dried up] They shall never more be a kingdom.

Verse 17. My God will cast them away] Here the prophet seems to apologize for the severity of these denunciations; and to vindicate the divine justice, from which they proceeded.

And they shall be wanderers among the nations.] And where they have wandered to, who can tell? and in what nations to be found, no man knows. Wanderers they are: and perhaps even now unknown to themselves.

CHAPTER X.

This chapter treats of the same subject, but elegantly varied. It begins with comparing Israel to a fruitful vine, but corrupted by too much prosperity, 1. It next reproves and threatens them for their idolatry, 2; anarchy, 3; and breach of covenant, 4. Their idolatry is then enlarged on; and its fatal consequences declared in terms full of sublimity and pathos, 5-8. God is now introduced complaining of their excessive guilt; and threatening them with captivity in terms that bear a manifest allusion to their favourite idolatry, the worshipping the similitude of a calf or heifer, 9-11. Upon which the prophet, in a beautiful allegory suggested by the preceding metaphors, exhorts them to repentance; and warns them of the dreadful consequence of their evil courses, if obstinately persisted in, 12-15.

ISRAEL is "an empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himself: according to the multitude of his fruit he hath increased the altars; according to the goodness of his land they have made goodly images.

2 Their heart is divided; now shall they be found faulty: he shall break down their altars, he shall spoil their images.

3 For now they shall say, 'We have no king, be-

* Neh. ii. 2.—Or, a vine emptying the fruit which it giveth.—Ch. viii. 11. xii. 11.—Ch. viii. 4.—Heb. statues or standing images.—Or, He hath divided their heart.—1 Kings xviii. 21. Matt. vi. 24.—Heb. behead.—Ch. iii. 4. xi. 8. Mic. iv. 9. Ver. 7.

Verse 1. Israel is an empty vine] Or, a vine that casteth its grapes.

He bringeth forth fruit] He was prosperous; but his prosperity corrupted his heart.

to the multitude of his fruit] He became idolatrous in proportion to his prosperity; and in proportion to their wealth was the costliness of their images, and the expensiveness of their idol worship.

Verse 2. Their heart is divided] They wish to serve God and Mammon, Jehovah and Baal: but this is impossible. Now God will do in judgment what they should have done cause we feared not the Lord; what then should a king do to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment springeth up as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear because of the calves of Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and the priests thereof that rejoiced on it, for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

—See Dent. xxi. 18. Amos v. 7. vi. 12. Acts viii. 23. Heb. xii. 15.—1 Kings xii. 28, 29. Ch. viii. 5, 6.—Ch. iv. 15.—Or, Chemarim. 2 Kings xxiii. 5. Zeph. i. 4.—1 Sam. iv. 21, 22. Ch. ix. 11.

in contrition, "break down their altars, and spoil their images."

Verse 3. We have no king] We have rejected the King of heaven, and had we any king, he would be of no service to us in this state, as he would be a captive like ourselves; nor could we have the approbation of God, as we now justly lie under his displeasure.

Verse 4. Swearing falsely] This refers to the alliances made with strange powers, to whom they promised fidelity without intending to be faithful.

Judgment springeth up as hemlock] As our land lies without 6 It shall be also carried unto Assyria for a present to a king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed^b of his own counsel.

7^c As for Samaria, her king is cut off as the foam^d upon the water.

8^e The high places also of Aven, 'the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed: 'the thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars; 'and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

9 'O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they stood: 'the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10^f It is in my desire that I should chastise them; and 'the people shall be gathered against them, 'when they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as 'an heifer that is taught and loveth to tread out the corn; but I passed cultivation, so that we have nothing but noxious weeds instead of crops; so we have no administration of justice. What is done in this way is a perversion of law, and is as hurtful to society as hemlock would be to animal life.

^a Ch. v. 13.—^b Ch. xi. 6.—^c Ver. 3, 15.—^d Heb. the face of the water. ^e Ch. iv. 15.—^f Deut. ix. 21. 1 Kings xii. 30.—^g Ch. ix. 6.—^h Isa. ii. 19. Luke xxiii. 30. Rev. vi. 16. ix. 6.—ⁱ Ch. ix. 9.—^j See Judg. xx.—^k Deut. xxviii. 63.—^l Jer. xvi. 16. Ezek. xxiii. 46, 47. Ch. viii. 10.—^m Or, when I shall bind them for their two transgressions.

Verse 5. The people thereof shall mourn] On seeing the object of their worship carried into captivity, as well as themselves.

And the priests thereof] The priests of Samaria, says Calmet, are here called kamarim, that is, black coats, or shouters, because they made loud cries in their sacrifices.

Verse 6. A present to king Jareb] See on chap. v. 13. If this be a proper name, the person intended is not known in history: but it is most likely that Pul, king of Assyria, is intended, to whom Menahem, king of Israel, appears to have given one of the golden calves, to insure his assistance.

Verse 7. Her king is cut off as the foam] We have already seen that not less than four of them died by assassination in a very short time. See on chap. vii. 7.

Verse 8. The thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars] Owing to the uncultivated and unfrequented state of the land, and of their places of idol worship, the people being all carried away into captivity.

Verse 9. Thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah] This is another reference to Judg. xix. 13, 14.

There they stood] Only one tribe was nearly destroyed, viz., that of Benjamin. They were the criminals, the children of iniquity; the others were faultless, and stood, only for the rights of justice and mercy.

Verse 10. When they shall bind themselves in their two furrows] But this double iniquity may refer to what Jeremiah says, chap. xi. 13: "My people have committed two evils."—1. They have forsaken me. 2. They have joined themselves to idols.

over upon^o her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

12^p Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; 'break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13^q Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14^r Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy fortresses shall be spoiled, as Shalman spoiled Beth-arbel in the day of battle: 'the mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So shall Beth-el do unto you because of 'your great wickedness: in a morning 'shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.

or in their two habitations.—^s Jer. i. 11. Mic. iv. 13.—^t Heb. the beauty of her neck.—^u Prov. xviii. 21.—^v Jer. iv. 3.—^w Job. iv. 8. Prov. xxii. 8. Ch. viii. 7. Gal. vi. 7, 8.—^x Ch. xiii. 16.—^y 2 Kings xviii. 34. xix. 13.—^z Ch. xiii. 16.—^{aa} Heb. the evil of your evil.—^{ab} Ver. 7.

Verse 11. Ephraim is as an heifer that is taught] One thoroughly broken in to the yoke.

And loveth to tread out] Goes peaceably in the yoke; and is pleased because, not being muzzled, she eats of the corn.

I passed over upon her fair neck] I brought the yoke upon it, that she should not tread out the corn merely, but draw the plough and drag the harrow.

Verse 12. Sow to yourselves in righteousness] Let the seed you sow be of the best kind, and in just measure.

Reap in mercy] By the blessing of God on this ploughing, sowing, and harrowing, you may expect a good crop in harvest.

Break up your fallow ground] Do not be satisfied with a slight furrow; let the land that was fallowed (slightly plowed) be broken up again with a deep furrow. All these metaphors may be applied to the human heart, and the work of God upon it. Correction, contrition, conversion, receiving the grace of Christ, bringing forth fruit, &c.

Verse 14. Shall a tumult arise] The enemy shall soon fall upon thy people, and take all thy fortified places.

As Shalman spoiled Beth-arbel] Some think that an allusion is made here to the destruction of Arbela, a city of Armenia, by Shalmaneser, here called Shalman; and this while he was only general of the Assyrian forces, and not yet king. I think the history to which this refers is unknown. It seems that it was distinguished by some remarkable ferocities.

Verse 15. So shall Beth-el do unto you] This shall be the consequence of your idolatry.

In a morning shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off] Suddenly, unexpectedly. Hoshea, the king of Israel, shall be cut off by the Assyrians.

CHAPTER XI.

This chapter gives a very pathetic representation of God's tender and affectionate regard for Israel, by metaphors chiefly borrowed from the conduct of mothers towards their tender offspring. From this, occasion is taken to reflect on their ungrateful return to the divine goodness, and to denounce against them the judgments of the Almighty, 1-7. But suddenly and unexpectedly the prospect changes. Beams of mercy break from the clouds just now fraught with vengeance. God, to speak in the language of men, feels the relentings of a tender parent; his bowels yearn; his mercy triumphs; his rebellious child shall yet be pardoned. As the lion of the tribe of Judah, he will employ his power to save his people, he will call his children from the land of their captivity; and as doves, they will fly to him, a faithful and a holy people, 8-12.

WHEN ^aIsrael was a child, then I loved him, ^band called my ^cson out of Egypt.

2 ^dAs they called them, so they went from them: ^ethey sacrificed unto Baalim, and burned incense to graven images.

3 ^fI taught Ephraim also to go, taking them by their arms; but they knew not that ^gI healed them.

4 ^hI drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and ⁱI was to them as they that ^jtake off the yoke on their jaws, and ^kI laid meat unto them.

5 ^lHe shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, ^mbecause they refused to return.

6 And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them ⁿbecause of their own counsels.

7 And my people are bent to ^obacksliding from me: ^pthough they called them to the Most High, ^qnone at all would exalt him,

^a Ch. ii. 15.—^b Matt. ii. 15.—^c Exod. iv. 22, 23.—^d 2 Kings xvii. 16. Ch. ii. 13. xiii. 2.—^e Deut. i. 31. xxxi. 10, 11, 12. Isa. xlv. 3.—^f Exod. xv. 26.—^g Lev. xxvi. 13.—^h Heb. lift up.—ⁱ Pa. lxxviii. 25. Ch. ii. 8.—^j See ch. viii. 13. ix. 3.—^k 2 Kings xvii. 13, 14. Cir. 728, they became tributaries to Salmanasser.—^l Ch. x. 6.—^m Jer. iii. 8, &c. viii. 5. Ch. iv. 16.—ⁿ Ch. vii. 16.—^o Hcb. together

Verse 1. When Israel was a child] In the infancy of his political existence.

Verse 3. I taught Ephraim also to go] An allusion to a mother or nurse teaching a child to walk, directing it how to lift and lay its feet, and supporting it in the mean time by the arms, that it may use its feet with the greater ease.

Verse 4. I drew them with cords of a man] This is a reference to leading strings, one end of which is held by the child, the other by the nurse, by which the little one, feeling some support, and gaining confidence, endeavours to walk.

That take off the yoke on their jaws] There appears to be here an allusion to the moving and pulling forward the collar or yoke of beasts which have been hard at work, to let in the cool air between it and their neck, so as to refresh them, and prevent that heat, which with the sweat would scald their necks, and take off not only the hair, but the skin.

And I laid meat unto them.] The metaphor is strong and expressive; and he who ever had or saw the management of cattle in the plough or cart must admire it.

Verse 5. He shall not return into Egypt] I have brought them thence already, with the design that the nation should never return thither again; but as they have sinned, and forfeited my favour and protection, they shall go to Assyria; and this because they refused to return to me.

Verse 6. The sword shall abide on his cities] Israel was agitated with external and intestine wars from the time of Jeroboam the Second. The sword rested on their cities; it continued in the land till all was ruined.

Verse 7. Though they called them to the Most High] Newcome is better: "And though they call on him to-

8 ^rHow shall I give thee up, Ephraim? ^show shall I deliver thee, Israel? ^thow shall I make thee as ^uAdmah? ^vhow shall I set thee as Zebaim? ^wmine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together.

9 ^xI will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, ^yI will not return to destroy Ephraim: ^zfor I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not enter into the city.

10 ^{aa}They shall walk after the Lord: ^{ab}he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble ^{ac}from the west.

11 ^{ad}They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt, ^{ae}and as a dove out of the land of Assyria: ^{af}and I will place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

12 ^{ag}Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful ^{ah}with the saints.

they exalted not.—^r Jer. ix. 7. Ch. vi. 4.—^s Gen. xiv. 8. xix. 24, 25. Deut. xxix. 23. Amos iv. 11.—^t Deut. xxxii. 36. Isa. lxi. 15. Jer. xxxi. 20.—^u Num. xxi. 19. Isa. lv. 8, 9. Mal. iii. 6.—^v Isa. xxi. 4. Joel iii. 16. Amos i. 2.—^w Zeoh. viii. 7.—^x Isa. lx. 8. Ch. vii. 11.—^y Ezek. xxviii. 25, 26. xxxvii. 21, 25.—^z Cf. xii. 1.—^{aa} Or, with the most holy.

gether because of the yoke, he will not raise it. He shall receive no refreshment." See the metaphor, ver. 4.

Mine heart is turned within me] Justice demands thy punishment; Mercy pleads for thy life. As thou changest, Justice resolves to destroy, or Mercy to save. My heart is oppressed, and am I weary with repenting, with so frequently changing my purpose. What sinner or saint upon earth has not been a subject of these gracious operations?

Verse 9. I will not execute] Here is the issue of this conflict in the divine mind. Mercy triumphs over Judgment; Ephraim shall be spared. He is God and not man. He cannot be affected by human caprices.

Verse 10. They shall walk after the Lord] They shall discern the operations of his providence, when,

He shall roar like a lion] When he shall utter his majestic voice, Cyrus shall make his decree. The people shall tremble—be in a state of commotion; every one hurrying to avail himself of the opportunity to return to his own land.

Verse 11. They shall tremble as a bird] All shall, in the fulness of time, return to their own land.

I will place them in their houses, saith the Lord] They shall have their temple once more, and all their holy ordinances.

Verse 12. Ephraim compasseth me about with lies] I think this verse does not well unite with the above; it belongs to another subject, and should begin the following chapter, as in the Hebrew.

Judah yet ruleth with God] There is an allusion here to Gen. xxxii. 24, where Jacob, having "wrestled with the Angel," had his name changed to Israel, one that rules with God.

CHAPTER XII.

The prophet, in very pointed terms, describes the unprofitableness and destruction attending vicious courses: particularly such as Ephraim pursued, who forsook God, and courted the alliance of idolatrous princes;

1. Judah is also reproved, 2. He is reminded of the extraordinary favour of God to his father Jacob, in giving him the birthright; and exhorted, after his example, to wrestle with God (the Angel of the covenant, the same unchangeable Jehovah,) for a blessing: and to love mercy, and execute justice, 3-6. Ephraim is accused of pursuing practices that are deceitful, although pretending to integrity, 7, 8. God then threatens to deprive this people of their possessions, 9, as they had rejected every means of reformation, 10, and given themselves up to gross impieties, 11. And, as an aggravation of their guilt, they are reminded from what humble beginnings they had been raised, 12, 13. The divine judgments about to fall upon Israel are declared to be the result of great provocation, 14.

EPHRAIM feedeth on wind, and followeth after the east wind: he daily increaseth lies and desolation; and they do make a covenant with the Assyrians, and oil is carried into Egypt.

2 The Lord hath also a controversy with Judah, and will punish Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompense him.

3 He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and by his strength he had power with God:

4 Yea, he had power over the Angel, and prevailed: he wept, and made supplication unto him: he found him in Bethel, and there he spake with us;

5 Even the Lord God of hosts; the Lord is his memorial.

6 Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually.

7 He is a merchant, the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to oppress.

8 And Ephraim said, Yet I am become rich, I

* Ch. viii. 7.—2 Kings xvii. 4. Ch. v. 13. Ch. vii. 11.—Isa. xxx. 8. lvi. 9.—Ch. iv. 1. Mic. vi. 2.—Heb. visit upon.—Gen. xxv. 26.—Heb. was a prince, or behaved himself princely.—Gen. xxxii. 24, &c.—Gen. xxviii. 12, 19. xxxv. 9, 10, 15.—Exod. iii. 15.—Ch. xiv. 1. Mic. vi. 8.—Ps. xxxvii. 7.—Or, Canaan: See Ezek. xvi. 8.—Prov. xi. 1. Amos viii. 5.—Or, deceiver.—Zech. xi. 5. Rev. iii. 17.—Or, all my labours suffice me not: he shall have punishment of iniquity in whom is sin.—Heb. which.—Ch.

Verse 1. Ephraim feedeth on wind] He forms and follows empty and unstable counsels.

Followeth after the east wind] The east wind was, and still is, in all countries, a parching, wasting, injurious wind.

He daily increaseth lies] He promises himself safety from foreign alliances.

Verse 2. The Lord hath also a controversy with Judah] The rest of the prophecy belongs both to Judah and Israel.

Verse 3. He took his brother by the heel] See on Gen. xxv. 26, and xxxii. 24, &c.

Verse 4. He had power over the Angel] Who represented the invisible Jehovah.

He wept, and made supplication] He entreated with tears that God would bless him; and he prevailed. The circumstance of his weeping is not mentioned in Genesis.

He found him in Beth-el] It was there that God made those glorious promises to Jacob relative to his posterity. See Gen. xxviii. 13-15.

Verse 5. The Lord is his memorial] He is the same God as when Jacob so successfully wrestled with him.

Verse 6. Therefore turn thou to thy God] Seek him as faithfully and as fervently as Jacob did, and you will find him the same merciful and compassionate being.

Verse 7. He is a merchant] Or a Canaanite; referring to the Phenicians, famous for their traffic. Ephraim is as corrupt as those heathenish traffickers.

have found me out substance: in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me that were sin.

9 And I that am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feasts.

10 I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes, by the ministry of the prophets.

11 Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in Gilgal; yea, their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

12 And Jacob fled into the country of Syria, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep.

13 And by a prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

14 Ephraim provoked him to anger most bitterly: therefore shall he leave his blood upon him, and his reproach shall his Lord return unto him.

xiii. 4.—Lev. xxiii. 42, 43. Neh. viii. 17. Zech. xiv. 16.—2 Kings xvii. 13.—Heb. by the hand.—Ch. v. 1. vi. 8.—Ch. iv. 15. ix. 15. Amos iv. 4. v. 5.—Ch. vii. 11. x. 1.—Gen. xxviii. 5. Deut. xxi. 5.—Gen. xxix. 20, 28.—Exod. xii. 50, 51. xiii. 3. Ps. lxxvii. 20. Isa. lxiii. 11. Mic. vi. 4.—2 Kings xvii. 11-13.—Heb. with bitterness.—Heb. bloods. See Ezek. xviii. 13. xix. 10. xiv. 7, 8.—Dan. xi. 18.—Deut. xxviii. 37. Lam. iii. 61-66.

Verse 8. In all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me] This is frequently the language of merchants, tradesmen, &c. None are so full of professions of equity and justice, while all the time they are endeavouring to overreach, both in buying and selling: There are, however, many noble exceptions among merchants and tradesmen.

Verse 9. And I—the Lord thy God] This appears to be a threatening. I will reduce you to as miserable a state in the land of your captivity, as you often were through your transgressions in the wilderness.

Verse 10. I have also spoken] I have used every means, and employed every method, to instruct and save you. And, alas! all is in vain; you have not profited by my condescension.

Verse 11. Iniquity in Gilead] Gilgal and Gilead are equally iniquitous, and equally idolatrous.

Their altars are as heaps] They occur every where. The whole land is given to idolatry.

Verse 12. For a wife he kept sheep] Critics complain of want of connection here. Why is this isolated fact predicted? Thus, in a detached sentence, the prophet speaks of the low estate of their ancestors, and how amply the providence of God had preserved and provided for them. This is all the connection the place requires.

Verse 14. Therefore shall he leave his blood upon him] He will not remove his guilt. These are similar to our Lord's words, John iii. 36, ix. 41.

CHAPTER XIII.

This chapter begins with observing that the fear of God leads to prosperity, but sin to ruin, a truth most visibly exemplified in the sin and punishment of Ephraim, 1-3. As an aggravation of their guilt, God reminds them of his former favours, 4, 5; which they had shamefully abused, 6; and which now expose them to dreadful punishments, 7, 8. He however tempers these awful threatenings with gracious promises; and, on their repentance, engages to save them, when no other could protect them, 9-11. But alas! instead of repenting, Ephraim is filling up the measure of his iniquity, 12, 13. Notwithstanding this, God promises to put forth his almighty power in behalf of his people, and, as it were, raise them from the dead, 14; although, in the mean time, they must be visited with great national calamities, compared first to the noxious and parching east wind, 15, and described immediately after in the plainest terms, 16.

WHEN Ephraim spake trembling, he exalted himself in Israel: but *when he offended in Baal, he died.

2 And now ^bthey sin more and more, and ^chave made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding, all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let ^dthe men that sacrifice ^ekiss the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be ^fas the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, ^gas the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet ^hI am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for ⁱthere is no saviour beside me.

5 ^jI did know thee in the wilderness, ^kin the land of ^lgreat drought.

6 ^mAccording to their pasture, so were they filled; they were filled, and their heart was exalted; therefore ⁿhave they forgotten me.

7 Therefore ^oI will be unto them as a lion: as ^pa leopard by the way will I observe them:

8 I will meet them ^qas a bear that is bereaved of ^rher whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a lion: ^sthe wild beast shall tear them.

9 O Israel, ^tthou hast destroyed thyself; ^ubut in me ^vis thine help.

* 2 Kings xvii. 16, 18. Ch. xi. 2.—^bHeb. they add to sin.—^cCh. ii. 8. viii. 4.—^dOr, the sacrifices of men.—^e1 Kings xix. 18.—^fCh. vi. 4.—^gDan. ii. 35.—^hIsa. xliii. 11. Ch. xii. 9.—ⁱIsa. xliii. 11. xiv. 21.—^jDeut. ii. 7. xxxii. 10.—^kDeut. viii. 15. xxxii. 10.—^lHeb. droughts.—^mDeut. viii. 12. 14. xxxii. 15.—ⁿCh. viii. 14.—^oLam. iii. 10. Ch. v. 11.—^pJer. v. 6.—^q2 Sam. xvii. 8. Prov. xvii. 12.—^rHeb. the beast of the field.—^sProv. vi. 32. Ch. xiv. 1. Mal. i. 9.—^tVer. 4.—^uHeb. in thy help.—^vRather, Where is thy king? King Hoshea being then in prison. 2 Kings xvii. 4.—

Verse 1. When Ephraim spake trembling] This has been thus understood: "As soon as Ephraim spake (To your tents, O Israel!) there was a trembling or commotion: then the kingdom was exalted in Israel." Thus taken, it refers to the division of the ten tribes from Rehoboam, son of Solomon, 1 Kings xii. 16, &c., and the establishment of the kingdom of Israel under Jeroboam in opposition to that of Judah; which breach was never healed.

Verse 2. Let the men that sacrifice kiss the calves.] This was the test. If there be a Jew that pretends to sacrifice, and whose conversion is dubious, let him come openly and kiss the calves. This will show what he is; no real Jew will do this. This was the ancient method of adoration. 1. They kissed the idol. 2. When the statue was too high or too far off, they presented the hand, in token of alliance. 3. They brought that hand respectfully to their mouths, and kissed it. This was the genuine act of adoration; from ad, to, and os, oris, the mouth.

Verse 3. Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud—as the early dew—as the chaff—as the smoke] Four things, most easy to be driven about and dissipated, are employed here to show how they should be scattered among the nations, and dissipated by captivity.

Verse 4. I am the Lord thy God.] This was the first discovery I made of myself to you, and the first commandment I gave; and I showed you that besides me there was no Saviour.

Verse 5. I did know thee] I approved of thee; I loved thee; and by miraculously providing for thee in that land of drought, I demonstrated my love.

Verse 6. According to their pasture] They had a rich pasture, and were amply supplied with every good.

Verse 7. I will be unto them as a lion] Shachel is supposed to mean here the black lion, frequent in Ethiopia.

As a leopard] Namar, so termed from its spotted skin, for to be spotted is the signification of the root.

Will I observe them] The leopard, tiger, and panther will hide themselves in thick brush-wood, near where they expect any prey to pass; and as soon as it comes near, spring suddenly upon it. They shall be greatly harassed even on their way to Assyria, when going into captivity.

10 ^wI will be thy king: ^xwhere is any other that may save thee in all thy cities? and thy judges of whom ^ythou saidst, Give me a king and princes?

11 ^zI gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.

12 ^{aa}The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hid.

13 ^{ab}The sorrows of a travelling woman shall come upon him: he is ^{ac}an unwise son; for he should not ^{ad}stay ^{ae}long in the place of the breaking forth of children.

14 ^{af}I will ransom them from ^{ag}the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death; ^{ah}O death, I will be thy plagues; O grave, I will be thy destruction: ^{ai}repentance shall be hid from mine eyes.

15 Though ^{aj}he be fruitful among his brethren, ^{ak}an east wind shall come, the wind of the Lord shall come up from the wilderness, and his spring shall become dry, and his fountain shall be dried up: he shall spoil the treasure of all ^{al}pleasant vessels.

16 ^{am}Samaria shall become desolate; ^{an}for she hath rebelled against her God: ^{ao}they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ripped up.

^wDeut. xxii. 38. Ch. x. 3. Ver. 4.—^x1 Sam. viii. 5, 19.—^y1 Sam. viii. 7. x. 19. xv. 22, 23. xvi. 1. Ch. x. 3.—^zDeut. xxxii. 34. Job. xiv. 17.—^{aa}Isa. xlii. 8. Jer. xxx. 6.—^{bb}Prov. xxii. 3.—^{cc}2 Kings xix. 3.—^{dd}Heb. a time.—^{ee}Isa. xxv. 8. Ezek. xxxvii. 12.—^{ff}Heb. the hand.—^{gg}1 Cor. xv. 51, 55.—^{hh}Jer. xv. 6. Rom. xi. 29.—ⁱⁱSee Gen. xli. 52. xlviii. 19.—^{jj}Jer. iv. 11. Ezek. xvii. 10. xix. 12. Ch. iv. 19.—^{kk}Heb. vessels of desire. Nah. ii. 9.—^{ll}Fulfilled, cir. 721. 2 Kings xvii. 6.—^{mm}2 Kings xviii. 12.—ⁿⁿ3 Kings vii. 12. xv. 16. Isa. xlii. 16. Ch. x. 14, 15. Amos i. 13. Nah. iii. 10.

Verse 8. As a bear—bereaved] This is a figure to denote excessive ferocity.

And will rend the caul of their heart] Every savage beast goes first to the seat of the blood when it has seized its prey; as in this fluid they delight more than in the most delicate parts of the flesh.

There will I devour them like a lion] Labi, the old strong lion; drinking the blood, tearing the flesh, and breaking the bones to extract the marrow.

Verse 9. O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself] These evils come not by any immediate infliction; they are the consequences of thy own crimes. In the above terrifying figures of the ferocious beasts, the prophet only shows what they would meet with from the hand of the Assyrians in the war, the famine, and the captivity; God being represented as doing what he only permits to be done.

Verse 10. Give me a king and princes] Referring to the time in which they cast off the divine theocracy, and chose Saul in the place of Jehovah.

Verse 11. I gave thee a king in mine anger] Such was Saul; for they highly offended God when they clamoured to have a king like the heathen nations that were around them.

Took him away in my wrath.] Permitted him and the Israelites to fall before the Philistines. Others think that Shalmaneser was the king thus given, and Hosea the king thus taken away.

Verse 12. The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up] It is registered in my court of justice; the death warrant is in store, and will be produced in due time.

Verse 13. The sorrows of a travelling woman] These judgments shall come suddenly and unavoidably.

The place of the breaking forth of children.] As there is a critical time in parturition in which the mother in hard labour may by skillful assistants be eased of her burden, which, if neglected, may endanger the life both of parent and child; so there was a time in which Ephraim might have returned to God, but they would not; therefore they are now in danger of being finally destroyed.

Verse 14. I will ransom them from the power of the grave] In their captivity they are represented as dead and buried, which is a similar view to that taken of the Jews in the Babylonish captivity by Ezekiel in his vision of the valley of dry bones. God will bring them out of that grave, and ransom them from that death; for as they have deserved that death and disgraceful burial, they must be redeemed and ransomed from it, or still lie under it. In the prospect of this the prophet exclaims, in the person of the universal Redeemer, "O death, I will be thy plagues;" I will bring into thy reign the principle of his destruction.

O grave, I will be thy destruction] By rising from the dead, and bringing life and immortality to light by my gospel, and by finally raising from death the whole human race in the day of the general resurrection.

Sheol, which we translate grave, is the state of the dead: maveth, which we translate death, is the principle of corruption that renders the body unfit to be longer the tenement of the soul, and finally decomposes it. Sheol shall be destroyed, for it must deliver up all its dead. Maveth shall be annihilated, for the body shall be raised incorruptible. See the use which the apostle makes of this passage, 1 Cor. xv. 54, 55; but he does not quote from the Hebrew, nor from any of the ancient Versions. He had to apply the subject anew; and the Spirit, which had originally given the words, chose to adapt them to the subject then in hand, which was the resurrection of the dead in the last day.

Repentance shall be hid from mine eyes]. On these points I will not change my purpose; this is the signification of repentance when attributed to God.

CHAPTER XIV.

By the terrible denunciation of vengeance, which concludes the preceding chapter, the prophet is led to exhort Israel to repentance, furnishing them with a beautiful form of prayer, very suitable to the occasion, 1-3. Upon which God, ever ready to pardon the penitent, is introduced making large promises of blessings, in allusion to those copious dews which refresh the green herbs, and which frequently denote, not only temporal salvation, but also the rich and refreshing comforts of the Gospel, 4-7. Their reformation from idolatry is foretold, and their consequent prosperity, under the emblem of a green flourishing fir-tree, 8; but these promises are confined to those who bring forth the fruits of righteousness, and the wicked are declared to have no share in them, 9.

O ISRAEL, "return unto the LORD thy God; ^bfor thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words, and turn to the LORD: say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and ^creceive us graciously: so will we render ^dthe calves of our lips.

3 ^eAsshur shall not save us; ^fwe will not ride

^aCh. xii. 6. Joel ii. 13.—^bCh. xiii. 9.—^cOr, give good.—^dHeb. xiii. 15.—^eJer. xxxi. 18, &c. Ch. v. 13. xii. 1.—^fDeut. xvii 16. Ps. xxxiii. 17. Isa. xxx. 2, 16. xxxi. 1.—^gCh. ii. 17. Ver. 8.—

Verse 1. O Israel, return unto the Lord] This exhortation to repentance shows that they still had power to repent, and that God was ready to save them and avert all these evils. All this is easily accounted for on the doctrine of the contingency of events, i.e., the poisoning a multitude of events on the possibility of being and not being, and leaving the will of man to turn the scale; and that God will not foreknow a thing as absolutely certain, which his will has determined to make contingent. A doctrine against which some solemn men have blasphemed, and philosophic infidels declaimed; but without which fate and dire necessity must be the universal governors, prayer be a useless meddling, and Providence nothing but the ineluctable adamant chain of unchangeable events; all virtue is vice, and vice virtue; or there is no distinction between them, each being eternally determined and unalterably fixed by a sovereign and uncontrollable will and unvarying necessity, from the operation of which no soul of man can escape, and no occurrence in the universe be otherwise than it is.

Verse 2. Take with you words] And you may be assured that you pray aright, when you use the words which God himself has put in your mouths. On this very ground there is a potency in the LORD'S PRAYER, when offered up believingly, beyond what can be found in any human composition. And it may be presumed that it was this consideration that induced our reformers to introduce it so frequently in the public liturgy.

Verse 4. I will heal their backsliding] Here is the answer of God to these prayers and resolutions.

I will love them freely—nodabah, after a liberal princely manner. I will love them so as to do them incessant good. It shall not be a love of affection merely, but it shall be a beneficial love. A love that not only feels delight in itself, upon horses: ^gneither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: ^hfor in thee the fatherless findeth mercy.

4 I will heal ⁱtheir backsliding, I will love them ^jfreely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

5 I will be as ^kthe dew unto Israel: he shall ^lgrow as the lily, and ^mcast forth his roots as Lebanon.

^bPs. x. 14. lxxviii. 5.—^cJer. v. 6. xiv. 7. Ch. xi. 7.—^dEph. i. 6.—^eJob xxix. 19. Prov. xix. 12.—^fOr, blossom.—^gHeb. strikes.

but fills them with delight who are its objects, by making them unutterably and supremely happy.

Verse 5. I will be as the dew unto Israel] "If we consider the nature of the climate, and the necessity of dews in so hot a country, not only to refresh, but likewise to preserve life; if we consider also the beauty of the oriental lilies, the fragrance of the cedars which grow upon Lebanon, the beautiful appearance which the spreading olive trees afforded, the exhilarating coolness caused by the shade of such trees, and the aromatic smell exhaled by the cedars; we shall then partly understand the force of the metaphors here employed by the prophet."

These promises are not for Israel merely after the flesh; they are for all the people of God. We have a lot and portion in the matter; God also places his love upon us.

Verse 7. They shall revive as the corn] The justness and beauty of this metaphor is not generally perceived. After the corn has been a short time above the earth, in a single spike, the blades begin to separate, and the stalk to spring out of the centre. The side leaves turn back to make way for the protruding stalk; and fall bending down to the earth, assuming a withered appearance, though still attached to the plant. To look at the corn in this state, no one, unacquainted with the circumstance, could entertain any sanguine hope of a copious harvest. In a short time other leaves spring out; the former freshen, and begin to stand erect; and the whole seems to revive from a vegetative death.

Verse 8. What have I to do any more with idols?] The conversion of Ephraim is now as complete as it was sincere. God hears and observes this.

I am like a green fir-tree] Perhaps these words should be joined to the preceding, as Newcome has done, and be part of God's speech to Ephraim.

6 His branches ^a shall spread, and ^b his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and ^c his smell as Lebanon.

7 ^d They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the corn, and ^e grow as the vine: the ^f scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim shall say, ^g What have I to do any

^a Heb. shall go.—^b Ps. lli. 8. cxviii. 8. Eccles. i. 10.—^c Gen. xxvii. 27. Cant. iv. 11.—^d Ps. xci. 1.—^e Or, blossom.—^f Or, memorial.—^g Ver. 3.—Jer. xxxi. 18.—James i. 17.—^h Ps. cvii. 43. Jer.

From me is thy fruit found.] All thy goodness springs from the principle of grace which I have planted in thy soul; for as the earth cannot bring forth fruit without the blessing of God, sending the dews and rains, with the genial rays of the sun: so neither can the soul of man, even of the most pious, bear fruit, without a continual influence from the Most High. Reader, ever consider that all thy good must be derived from God; and all that good must be preserved in thee by his continued influence of light, love, and power upon thy soul.

Verse 9. Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? What things? Those which relate to the backslidings, iniquity, and punishment of Israel; and to the mercy and kindness of God in their promised restoration.

more with idols? ^h I have heard him, and observed him: I am like a green fir tree. ⁱ From me is thy fruit found.

9 ^j Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for ^k the ways of the LORD are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.

ix. 12. Dan. xii. 10. Eccles. xxxix. 24, 27. John. viii. 47. xviii. 37. —^k Ps. cxix. 14, 27, 83. cxlv. 17. Prov. x. 29. Luke ii. 84. 2 Cor. ii. 18. 1 Pet. ii. 7, 8.

For the ways of the Lord are right] All God's conduct, both in the dispensation of justice and mercy, is right: all as it should be, all as it must be; because he is too wise to err, too good to be unkind.

The just shall walk in them] This is a truth which he will always acknowledge; and illustrate it by a righteous and godly life.

But the transgressors shall fall therein.] Howsoever good they might have been before, if they do not consider the necessity of depending upon God; of receiving all their light, life, power, and love from him; ever evidencing that faith which worketh by love; maintaining an obedient conduct, and having respect to all God's precepts; they shall fall even in the "way of righteousness."

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

P R O P H E T J O E L.

JOEL, the son of Pethuel, the second of the twelve minor prophets, was, as is said, of the tribe of Reuben, and city of Bethoran; or rather Betharan, for Bethoran was on this side Jordan, in the tribe of Ephraim, and Betharan was on the other side of the river, in the tribe of Reuben. Joel prophesied in the kingdom of Judah; and it is the opinion of some critics that he did not appear there till after the removal of the ten tribes and the destruction of the kingdom of Israel. We do not know distinctly the year wherein he began to prophesy, nor that in which he died. He speaks of a great famine, and an inundation of locusts, which ravaged Judea; but as these are evils not uncommon in that country, and all sorts of events have not been registered in history, we can infer nothing from thence towards fixing the particular period of Joel's prophecy.

The Hebrews maintain that Joel prophesied under Manasseh; and as collateral circumstances seem to preponderate in favour of this hypothesis, it has been accordingly followed in the margin.

Bishop Lowth observes that "the style of Joel differs much from that of Hosea; but, though of a different kind, is equally poetical. It is elegant, perspicuous, clear, diffusive, and flowing; and, at the same time, very sublime, nervous, and animated. He displays the whole power of poetic description in the first and second chapters; and, at the same time, his fondness for metaphors, comparisons, and allegories; nor is the connexion of his subjects less remarkable than the graces of his diction. It is not to be denied that in some places he is very obscure; which every attentive reader will perceive, especially in the end of this prophecy." The two first chapters are inimitably beautiful; and the language, in force, and often in sound, well adapted to the subject.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET JOEL.

CHAPTER I.

This and the beginning of the next chapter contain a double prophecy, applicable in its primary sense to a plague of locusts which was to devour the land, and to be accompanied with a severe drought and famine; and in its secondary sense it denotes the Chaldean invasion. Both senses must be admitted: for some of the expressions will apply only to the dearth by insects; others, to the desolation by war. The contexture of both is beautiful and well conducted. In this chapter the distress of every order of people is strongly painted; and not only does the face of nature languish when the God of nature is displeased, 1-19; but the very beasts of the field, by a bold figure, are represented as supplicating God in their distress, and reproaching the stupidity of man, 20.

THE word of the LORD that came to Joel the son of Pethuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land. *Hath this been in your days, or even in the days of your fathers?

3 ^bTell ye your children of it, and let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.

4 ^cThat ^dwhich the palmerworm hath left hath the locust eaten: and that which the locust hath left hath the cankerworm eaten; and that which the cankerworm hath left hath the caterpillar eaten.

* Chs. ii. 2.—^b Ps. lxxviii. 4.—^c Deut. xxviii. 38. Ch. ii. 25.—^d Heb. The residue of the palmerworm.—^e Isa. xxvi. 10.—^f So Prov. xxx. 25, 26, 27. Ch. ii. 2, 11, 25.—^g Rev. ix. 8.—^h Isa. v. 6.—ⁱ Heb.

Verse 1. The word of the Lord that came to Joel] Bishop Newcome thinks that he lived under Manasseh, and before his conversion, 2 Chron. xxxiii. 13; that is some time from before Christ 697 to (suppose) 660. [But this is most improbable. For the prophet Amos quotes from Joel, (Amos 1, 2. See Joel iii. 16.) and Isaiah seems to do the same, Isaiah xiii 6, from Joel i. 15. The prophecies of Joel were probably delivered during the first thirty years of the reign of Joash.]

Verse 2. Hath this been in your days] He begins very abruptly; and excites attention and alarm by intimating that he is about to announce disastrous events, such as the oldest man among them has never seen, nor any of them learnt from the histories of ancient times.

Verse 4. That which the palmerworm hath left] What the different insects may be which he specifies is not easy to determine. I shall give the words of the original, with their etymology.

The palmerworm, gazam, from the same root, to cut short; probably the caterpillar, or some such blight, from its cutting the leaves of the trees into pieces for its nourishment.

The locust, arbeh, from rabah, to multiply, from the immense increase and multitude of this insect.

Cankerworm, yelek from lak, to lick or lap with the tongue; the reference is uncertain.

5 Awake, ye drunkards, and weep; and howl, all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine: * for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For 'a nation is come up upon my land, strong, and without number, * whose teeth are the teeth of a lion, and he hath the cheek-teeth of a great lion.

7 He hath ^blaid my vine waste, and ^cbarked my fig-tree: he hath made it clean bare, and cast it away; the branches thereof are made white.

8 ^dLament like a virgin girded with sackcloth for ^ethe husband of her youth.

9 ^fThe meat-offering and the drink-offering is laid my fig-tree for a barking.—^g Isa. xxii. 12.—^h Prov. ii. 17. Jer. iii. 4.—ⁱ Ver. 13. Ch. ii. 14.

Caterpillar, chasil, from chasel, to consume, to eat up; the consumer. I am fully of opinion that the arbeh, or locust himself, is the gazam, the yelek, and the chasil; and these different names are used here by the prophet to point out the locust in its different states, or progress from embryo to full growth. [Or rather the use of four words to denote the same things is rhetorical.]

Verse 5. Awake, ye drunkards] The general destruction of vegetation by these devouring creatures has totally prevented both harvest and vintage; so that there shall not be wine even for necessary uses, much less for the purposes of debauchery.

Verse 6. A nation is come up upon my land] That real locusts are intended there can be little doubt; but it is thought that this may be a double prophecy, and that the destruction by the Chaldeans may also be intended, and that the four kinds of locust mentioned above may mean the four several attacks made on Judea by them. Others say that they mean four powers which have been enemies of the Jews; others make them four kings. But of such similitudes there is no end: and the best of them is arbitrary and precarious.

Verse 7. He hath laid my vine waste] The locusts have eaten off both leaves and bark.

Verse 8. Lament like a virgin—for the husband of her youth.] The original is bethulah, which signifies a young cut off from the house of the LORD; the priests, the LORD's ministers, mourn.

10 The field is wasted, * the land mourneth; for the corn is wasted: ^b the new wine is ^c dried up, the oil languisheth.

11 ^a Be ye ashamed, O ye husbandmen; howl, O ye vine-dressers, for the wheat and for the barley; because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 ^a The vine is dried up, and the fig-tree languisheth, the pomegranate tree, the palm tree also, and the apple tree, even all the trees of the field, are withered: because ^b joy is withered away from the sons of men.

13 ^a Gird yourselves, and lament, ye priests: howl, ye ministers of the altar; come, lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for ^b the meat-offering and the drink-offering is withholden from the house of your God.

14 ^a Sanctify ye a fast, call ^a ^a ^a solemn assembly, gather the elders and ^a all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD.

15 ^a Alas for the day! for ^a the day of the LORD is at hand, and as a destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

16 Is not the meat cut off before our eyes, yea, ^a joy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The ^a seed is rotten under their clods, the garners are laid desolate, the barns are broken down; for the corn is withered.

18 How do ^a the beasts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, because they have no pasture; yea, the flocks of sheep are made desolate.

19 O LORD, ^a to thee will I cry: for ^a the fire hath devoured the ^a pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burned all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field ^a cry also unto thee: for ^a the rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

^a Jer. xii. 11. xiv. 2.—^b Isa. xxiv. 7. Ver. 12.—^c Or, ashamed.—^d Jer. xiv. 3. 4.—^e Ver. 10.—^f Isa. xxiv. 11. Jer. xlviii. 33. See Ps. iv. 7. Isa. ix. 8.—^g Ver. 8. Jer. iv. 8.—^h Ver. 9.—ⁱ 2 Chron. xx. 3, 4. Ch. ii. 15, 16.—^j Lev. xxiii. 36.—^k Or, day of restraint.—

woman or bride; not a virgin, the proper Hebrew for which is almah.

Verse 9. The meat-offering and the drink-offering is cut off] The total devastation of plants, trees, corn, &c., is referred to.

Verse 14. Call a solemn assembly] Atsarah signifies a time of restraint, as the margin has it. The clause should be translated—consecrate a fast, proclaim a time of restraint; that is, of total abstinence from food, and from all secular employment. The temple was not yet destroyed. This prophecy was delivered before the captivity of Judah.

Verse 15. As a destruction from the Almighty] The destruction that is now coming is no ordinary calamity; it is as a signal judgment immediately inflicted by the Almighty.

Verse 17. The seed is rotten under their clods] When the sprout was cut off as low as possible by the locusts, there was no further germination.

Verse 18. How do the beasts groan!] Behemah is a collec-

12 Chron. xx. 18.—^a Jer. xxx. 7.—^b Isa. xlii. 8, 9. Ch. ii. 1.—^c See Deut. xii. 6, 7. xvi. 11, 14, 15.—^d Heb. grains.—^e Hos. iv. 3.—^f Ps. i. 15.—^g Jer. ix. 10. Ch. ii. 3.—^h Or, habitations.—ⁱ Job xxxiii. 41. Ps. cix. 21. cxiv. 16.—^j Kings xvii. 7. xviii. 5.

tive name for all domestic cattle, and those used in husbandry.

Cattle are perplexed] They are looking every where, and wandering about to find some grass, and know not which way to run.

Verse 19. O Lord, to thee will I cry] The calamity is such as God alone can remove, therefore unto him must we cry.

The fire hath devoured the pastures] This may either refer to a drought, or to the effects of the locusts; as the ground, after they have passed over it, everywhere appears as if a sheet of flame had not only scorched, but consumed every thing.

Verse 20. The beasts of the field cry also unto thee] Even the cattle, wild and tame, are represented as supplicating God to have mercy upon them, and send them provender!

The rivers of waters are dried up] There must have been a drought as well as a host of locusts; as some of these expressions seem to apply to the effects of intense heat.

CHAPTER II.

The prophet sounds the alarm of a dreadful calamity, the description of which is most terribly worked up, 1-11. Exhortation to repentance, fasting, and prayer, that the divine judgments may be averted, 12-17. God will in due time take vengeance on all the enemies of pure and undefiled religion, 18-20. Great prosperity of the Jews subsequent to their return from the Babylonish captivity, 21-27. Joel then makes an elegant transition to the outpouring of the Holy Ghost on the Day of Pentecost, 28-30; for so these verses are explained by one of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. See Acts ii. 16-21. Prophecy concerning the destruction of Jerusalem, which was shortly to follow the opening of the gospel dispensation, 31. Promises of safety to the faithful and penitent; promises afterwards remarkably fulfilled to the Christians in their escape to Pella from the desolating sword of the Roman army, 32.

BLOW ^a ye the ^b trumpet in Zion, and ^c sound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for ^d the day of the LORD cometh, for it is nigh at hand;

2 ^a A day of darkness and of gloominess, a day

^a Jer. iv. 5. Ver. 15.—^b Or, cornet.—^c Num. x. 5, 9.—^d Ch. i. 15. Obad. 15. Zeph. i. 14, 15.—^e Amos v. 18, 20.—^f Ver. 5, 11, 25.

Verse 1. Blow ye the trumpet in Zion] This verse also shows that the temple was still standing.

The day of the Lord cometh] This phrase generally means a day of judgment or punishment.

of clouds and of thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains: ^a a great people and a strong; ^b there hath not been ever the like, neither shall be any more after it, even to the years ^c of many generations.

3 ^a A fire devourereth before them; and behind

Ch. i. 6.—^b Exod. x. 14.—^c Heb. of generation and generation.—^d Ch. i. 19, 20.

Verse 2. A day of darkness, &c.] The depredations of the locusts are described from the second to the eleventh verse, and their destruction in the twentieth.

them a flame burneth: the land is as ^athe garden of Eden before them, ^band behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them.

4 ^cThe appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 ^dLike the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, ^eas a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained: ^fall faces shall gather ^gblackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks.

8 Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path: and ^hwhen they fall upon the ⁱsword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses: they shall ^jenter in at the windows ^klike a thief.

10 ^lThe earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: ^mthe sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 ⁿAnd the LORD shall utter his voice before ^ohis army: for his camp is very great: ^pfor ^qhe is strong that executeth his word: for the ^rday of the LORD is great and very terrible; and ^swho can abide it?

12 Therefore also now, saith the LORD, ^tturn ye even unto me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning:

13 And ^urend your heart, and not ^vyour garments, and turn unto the LORD your God: for he is ^wgracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 ^xWho knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave ^ya blessing behind him; ^zeven ^{aa}a meat-offering and a drink-offering unto the LORD your God?

15 ^{ab}Blow the trumpet in Zion, ^{ac}sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly:

16 Gather the people, ^{ad}sanctify the congregation, ^{ae}assemble the elders, ^{af}gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: ^{ag}let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the LORD, weep ^{ah}between the porch and the altar, and let them say, ^{ai}"Spare thy people, O LORD, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should ^{aj}rule over them: ^{ak}wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then will the LORD ^{al}be jealous for his land, ^{am}and pity his people.

19 Yea, the LORD will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you ^{an}corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen:

20 But ^{ao}"I will remove far off from you ^{ap}the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face ^{aq}toward the east sea, and his hinder part ^{ar}toward the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his ill favour shall come up, because ^{as}he hath done great things.

21 Fear not, O land: be glad and rejoice: ^{at}for the LORD will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, ^{au}ye beasts of the field: for ^{av}the

^a Gen. ii. 8. xlii. 10. Isa. li. 3.—^b Zeph. vii. 14.—^c Rev. ix. 7.—^d Rev. ix. 9.—^e Ver. 2.—^f Jer. vii. 21. Lam. iv. 8. Nah. ii. 10.—^g Heb. pot.—^h Or, dart.—ⁱ Jer. ix. 21.—^j John x. 1.—^k Ps. xviii. 7.—^l Isa. xlii. 10. Ezek. xxxiii. 7. Ver. 81. Ch. iii. 15. Matt. xxiv. 29.—^m Jer. xxv. 30. Ch. iii. 16. Amos i. 2.—ⁿ Ver. 25.—^o Jer. i. 34. Rev. xviii. 8.—^p Jer. xxx. 7. Amos v. 18. Zeph. i. 15.—^q Num. xxiv. 23. Mal. iii. 2.—^r Jer. iv. 1. Hos. xii. 6. xiv. 1.—^s Ps. xxxiv. 18. li. 17.—^t Gen. xxxvii. 34. 2 Sam. i. 11. Job i. 21.—^u Exod. xxxiv. 6. Ps. lxxvii. 5. 15. Jonah iv. 2.—^v Josh. xiv. 12. 2 Sam. xii. 22. 2 Kings xix. 4. Amos v. 15.

Some clouds of them are said to have darkened the sun for a mile, and others for the space of twelve miles!

Verse 3. A fire devoureth before them] They consume like a general conflagration.

Verse 4. The appearance of horses] The head of the locust is remarkably like that of the horse. On this account the Italians call them cavaletto, cavalry. Bochart remarks, from an Arabic writer, that the locusts resemble ten different kind of animals: 1. The HORSE in its head. 2. The ELEPHANT in its eyes. 3. The BULL in its neck. 4. The STAG in its horns. 5. The LION in its breast. 6. The SCORPION in its belly. 7. The EAGLE in its wings. 8. The CAMEL in its thighs. 9. The OSTRICH in its feet. And 10. The SERPENT in its tail.

Verse 6. All faces shall gather blackness.] Universal mourning shall take place, because they know that such a plague is irresistible.

Verse 7. Like mighty men—like men of war (and as horsemen, ver. 4)] The prophet does not say they are such but they resemble. They are locusts; but in their operations they are LIKE the above.

Verse 8. They shall not be wounded.] They have hard scales like a coat of mail: but the expression refers to the utter uselessness of all means to prevent their depredations.

Verse 10. The earth shall quake—the heavens shall tremble] Poetical expressions to point out universal consternation and distress. The earth quaked to see itself deprived of its verdure; the heavens trembled to find themselves deprived of their light.

Verse 11. The Lord shall utter his voice] Such a mighty force seems as if summoned by the Almighty, and the noise

Jonah iii. 9. Zeph. ii. 3.—^{aa} Isa. lxxv. 8. Hag. ii. 19.—^{ab} Ch. i. 9, 13.—^{ac} Num. x. 8. Ver. 1.—^{ad} Ch. i. 14.—^{ae} Exod. xix. 10, 22.—^{af} Ch. i. 14.—^{ag} 2 Chron. xx. 13.—^{ah} 1 Cor. vii. 5.—^{ai} Ezek. viii. 16. Matt. xxiii. 35.—^{aj} Exod. xxxii. 11, 12. Deut. ix. 26-29.—^{ak} Or, use a byword against them.—^{al} Ps. xlii. 10. lxxix. 10. cxv. 2. Mic. vii. 10.—^{am} Zeph. i. 14. vii. 2.—^{an} Deut. xxxii. 36. Isa. ix. 10.—^{ao} See ch. i. 10. Mal. iii. 10, 11, 12.—^{ap} See Exod. x. 19.—^{aq} Jer. i. 14.—^{ar} Ezek. xlvii. 18. Zeph. xiv. 8.—^{as} Deut. xi. 24.—^{at} Heb. he hath magnified to do.—^{au} Ch. i. 18, 20.—^{av} Zeph. vii. 12. See ch. i. 19.

they make in coming announces their approach, while yet afar off.

Verse 12. Turn ye even unto me] Three means of turning are recommended: Fasting, weeping, mourning, i. e., continued sorrow.

Verse 13. Rend your heart] Let it not be merely a rending of your garments, but let your hearts be truly contrite. Merely external worship and hypocritical pretensions will only increase the evil, and cause God to meet you with heavier judgments.

And repenteth him of the evil.] Is ever ready to change his purpose to destroy, when he finds the culprit willing to be saved.

Verse 14. Who knoweth if he will return] He may yet interpose and turn aside the calamity threatened, and so far preserve the land from these ravagers, that there will be food for men and cattle, and a sufficiency of offerings for the temple service.

Verse 16. Gather the children] Let all share in the humiliation, for all must feel the judgment, should it come. Let no state nor condition among the people be exempted.

Verse 17. Let the priests—weep between the porch and the altar] The altar of burnt-offerings stood before the porch of the temple, 2 Chron. viii. 12, and between them there was an open space of fifteen or twenty cubits.

Verse 19. Yea, the Lord will answer] It is not a peradventure; it will surely be done; if ye seek God as commanded, ye will find him as promised.

I will send you corn and wine] He will either prevent the total ravaging of the land, or so bless it with extraordinary vegetable strength, that ye shall have plentiful crops.

pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and the vine do yield their strength.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and ^arejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you ^bthe former rain ^cmoderately, and he ^dwill cause to come down for you ^ethe rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month.

24 And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years ^fthat the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm, ^gmy great army which I sent among you.

26 And ye shall ^heat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 And ye shall know that I am ⁱin the midst

^a Isa. xli. 16. xli. 10. Hab. iii. 18. Zech. x. 7.—^b Or, a teacher of righteousness.—^c Heb. according to righteousness.—^d Lev. xxvi. 4. Deut. xi. 14. xxviii. 12.—^e James v. 7.—^f Ch. i. 4.—^g Ver. 11.—^h Lev. xxvi. 5. Ps. xxii. 26. See Lev. xxvii. 26. Mic. vi. 14.—ⁱ Ch. iii. 17.—^j Lev. xxvi. 11, 12. Ezek. xxxvii. 26, 27, 28.—^k Isa. xlv. 5, 21, 22. Ezek. xxxix. 22, 28.—^l Isa. xlv. 3. Ezek. xxxix. 29. Acts ii. 17.—^m Zech. xii. 10. John vii. 39.—ⁿ Isa. liv. 13.—^o Acts

Verse 20. I will remove far off from you the northern army] Syria, which was northward of Judea, was infested with the locusts; and it must have been a northern wind that brought them into Judea, in the time of Joel; as God promises to change this wind, and carry them into a barren and desolate land, Arabia Deserta.

And his stink shall come up] After having been drowned by millions in the Mediterranean, the reflux of the tide has often brought them back, and thrown them in heaps upon the shore, where they putrefied in such a manner as to infect the air and produce pestilence, by which both men and cattle have died in great multitudes.

Because he hath done great things.] Or, although he have done great things, or, after he has done them, i.e., in almost destroying the whole country.

Verse 23. The former rain moderately] Hammorah kitedakah, "the former rain in righteousness," that is, in due time and in just proportion. This rain fell after autumn, the other in spring.

In the first month.] In the month Nisan.

Verse 25. I will restore—the years] It has already been remarked that the locusts not only destroyed the produce of that year, but so completely ate up all buds, and barked the trees, that they did not recover for some years.

Verse 26. Praise the name of the Lord your God that hath dealt wondrously with you] In so destroying this formidable enemy; and so miraculously restoring the land to fertility, after so great a devastation.

Verse 28. Shall come to pass afterward] We have the testimony of St. Peter, Acts ii. 17, that this prophecy relates to that mighty effusion of the Holy Spirit which took place after the day of Pentecost. Nor is there any evidence that such an effusion took place, nor such effects were produced, from the days of this prophet till the day of Pentecost. And the Spirit was poured out then upon all flesh, that is, on people of different countries, speaking the languages of almost all the people of the earth; which intimated that these were the first-fruits of the conversion of all the nations of the world.

Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy] Shall preach—exhort, pray, and instruct, so as to benefit the church.

Your old men shall dream dreams] Have my will represented to them in this way, as the others by direct inspiration.

Your young men shall see visions] Have true representations of divine things made upon their imaginations by the power of God; that they shall have as full an evidence of them as they could have of any thing that came to the mind through the medium of the senses.

of Israel, and that ^kI am the LORD your God, and none else: and my people shall never be ashamed.

28 ^lAnd it shall come to pass afterward, that I ^mwill pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; ⁿand your sons and ^oyour daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions:

29 And also upon ^pthe servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my Spirit.

30 And ^qI will shew wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 ^rThe sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, ^sbefore the great and the terrible day of the LORD come.

32 And it shall come to pass, that ^twhosoever shall call on the name of the LORD shall be delivered: for ^uin Mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the LORD hath said, and in ^vthe remnant whom the LORD shall call.

xxi. 9.—¹ 1 Cor. xii. 13. Gal. iii. 28. Col. iii. 11.—² Matt. xxiv. 29. Mark xiii. 24. Luke xxi. 11, 25.—³ Ver. 10. Isa. xlii. 9, 10. Ch. iii. 1, 15. Matt. xxiv. 29. Mark xlii. 24. Luke xxi. 25. Rev. vi. 12.—⁴ Mat. iv. 5.—⁵ Rom. x. 13.—⁶ Isa. xlii. 13. lix. 20. Obad. 17. Rom. xi. 26.—⁷ Isa. xi. 11, 16. Jer. xxxi. 7. Mic. iv. 7. v. 3, 7, 8. Rom. ix. 27, 5, 7.

Verse 29. And also upon the servants and upon the handmaids] The gifts of teaching and instructing men shall not be restricted to any one class or order of people. He shall call and qualify the men of his own choice; and shall take such out of all ranks, orders, degrees, and offices in society.

And this God has done, and is still doing. He left the line of Aaron, and took his apostles indiscriminately from any tribe. He passed by the regular order of the priesthood, and the public schools of the most celebrated doctors, and took his evangelists from among fishermen, tent-makers, and even the Roman tax-gatherers. And he lastly passed by the Jewish tribes, and took the Gentile converts, and made them preachers of righteousness to the inhabitants of the whole earth. The same practice he continues to the present day.

Verse 30. Wonders in the heavens and in the earth] This refers to those dreadful sights, dreadful portents, and destructive commotions, by which the Jewish polity was finally overthrown, and the Christian religion established in the Roman empire.

Verse 31. The sun shall be turned into darkness] The Jewish polity, civil and ecclesiastical, shall be entirely destroyed.

Before the great and the terrible day of the Lord come.] In the taking and sacking of Jerusalem, and burning of the temple, by the Romans, under Titus, the son of Vespasian. This was perhaps the greatest and most terrible day of God's vengeance ever shown to the world, or that ever will be shown, till the great day of the general judgment.

Verse 32. Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord] "All who shall invoke in the name of Jehovah." That CHRIST is the Jehovah here mentioned, appears plain from Rom. x. 15, where the reader had better consult the notes. Every man who invokes Jehovah for mercy and salvation by or in the name—JESUS, that very name given under heaven among men for this purpose, shall be saved. Nor is there salvation in any other; and those who reject him had better lay these things to heart before it be too late.

For in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem.] Our blessed Lord first began to preach the gospel in Mount Zion, in the temple, and throughout Jerusalem. There he formed his church, and thence he sent his apostles and evangelists to every part of the globe. Of the Jews there was but a remnant, a very small number, that received the doctrine of the gospel, here termed the remnant that the Lord should call; more, whom he calleth. Many were called who would not obey; but those who obeyed the call were saved; and still he delivers those who call upon him; and he is still calling on men to come to him that they may be saved.

CHAPTER III.

The prophecy in this chapter is thought by some to relate to the latter times of the world, when God shall finally deliver his people from all their adversaries; and it must be confessed that the figures employed are so lofty as to render it impossible to restrain the whole of their import to any events prior to the commencement of the Christian era. The whole prophecy is delivered in a very beautiful strain of poetry: but what particular events are referred to is at present very uncertain, 1-21.

FOR, behold, ¹ in those days, and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, ² I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into ^a the valley of Jehoshaphat, and ^a will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

³ And they have ^a cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for a harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

⁴ Yea, and what have ye to do with me, ^a O Tyre, and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestine? ^a will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I return your recompence upon your own head;

⁵ Because ye have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly ^a pleasant things:

⁶ The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem have ye sold unto ^a the Grecians, that ye might remove them far from their border.

⁷ Behold, ^a I will raise them out of the place

^a Jer. xxx. 3. Ezek. xxxviii. 14.—^b Zech. xiv. 2, 3, 4.—^c 2 Chron. xx. 26. Ver. 12.—^d Isa. lxvi. 18. Ezek. xxxviii. 22.—^e Obad. 11. Nah. iii. 10.—^f Amos i. 6, 9.—^g Ezek. xxv. 15, 16, 17.—^h Heb. desirable. Dan. xi. 38.—ⁱ Heb. the sons of the Grecians.—^j Isa. xlii. 5, 6. xlix. 12. Jer. xlii. 8.—^k Ezek. xxxiii. 42.—^l Jer. vi. 20.—^m See Isa. viii. 9, 10. Jer. xli. 3, 4. Ezek. xxxviii. f.—ⁿ Heb.

Verse 1. For, behold, in those days] According to the preceding prophecy, these days should refer to gospel times, or to such as should immediately precede them. But this is a part of the prophecy which is difficult to be understood. All interpreters are at variance upon it.

It may refer to those times in which the Jews shall be brought in with the fullness of the Gentiles, and be re-established in their own land. Or there may be portions in this prophecy that refer to many events; and to some that have not fallen yet within the range of human conjecture, and will be only known when the time of fulfilment shall take place.

I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem.] This may refer to the return from the Babylonish captivity; extending also to the restoration of Israel, or the ^a ten tribes.

Verse 2. The valley of Jehoshaphat] There is no such valley in the land of Judea; and hence the word must be symbolical. It signifies the judgment of God, or Jehovah judgeth.

And parted my land.] While the Jews were in captivity, much of the land of Israel was seized on, and occupied by the ^a Philistines, and other nations that bordered on Judea.

Verse 3. Have given a boy for a harlot] To such wretched circumstances were the Jews reduced in their captivity, that their children were sold by their oppressors; and both males and females used for the basest purposes. Or this may refer to the issue of the Chaldean war in Judea, where the captives were divided among the victors, who cast lots for them; sold them for various purposes; and in return for them got wine and such things.

Verse 4. What have ye to do with me] Why have the Tyrians and Sidonians joined their other enemies to oppress my people? for they who touch my people touch me.

Will ye render me a recompence?] Do you think by this to avenge yourselves upon the Almighty? I to retaliate upon God! Proceed, and speedily will I return your recompence; I will retaliate.

whither ye have sold them, and will return your recompence upon your own head:

⁸ And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the ^a Sabeans, to a people ^a far off; for the LORD hath spoken it.

⁹ Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; ^a Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up.

¹⁰ Beat your plowshares into swords, and your ^a pruninghooks into spears: ^a let the weak say, I am strong.

¹¹ Assemble yourselves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: thither ^a cause ^a thy mighty ones to come down, O LORD.

¹² Let the heathen be wakened, ^a and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to ^a judge all the heathen round about.

¹³ Put ye in the sickle, for ^a the harvest is ripe: come, get you down; for the ^a press is full, the fats overflow; for their wickedness is great.

¹⁴ Multitudes, multitudes in ^a the valley of ^a de-sanctify.—^a See Isa. ii. 4. Mic. iv. 3.—^b Or, scythes.—^c Zech. xii. 8.—^d Ver. 2.—^e Or, the LORD shall bring down.—^f Ps. ciii. 20. Isa. xiii. 3.—^g Ver. 2.—^h Ps. xcvi. 13. xlviii. 9. cx. 6. Isa. ii. 4. iii. 18. Mic. iv. 3.—ⁱ Matt. xiii. 39. Rev. xiv. 16, 18.—^j Jer. li. 33. Hos. vi. 11.—^k Isa. lxiii. 3. Lam. i. 15. Rev. xiv. 19, 20.—^l Ver. 2.—^m Or, concision or threshing.

Verse 5. Ye have taken my silver and my gold] The Chaldeans had spoiled the temple, and carried away the sacred vessels, and put them in the temple of their own god in Babylon.

Verse 6. Sold unto the Grecians] These were the descendants of Javan, Gen. x. 2-5. And with them the Tyrians trafficked, Ezek. xxvii. 19.

That ye might remove them far from their border.] Intending to send them as far off as possible, that it might be impossible for them to get back to reclaim the land of which you had dispossessed them.

Verse 7. I will raise them] It is said that Alexander and his successors set at liberty many Jews that had been sold into Greece. And it is likely that many returned from different lands, on the publication of the edict of Cyrus.

Verse 8. I will sell your sons] When Alexander took Tyre, he reduced into slavery all the lower people, and the women.

Verse 9. Prepare war] Let all the enemies of God and of his people join together; let them even call all the tillers of the ground to their assistance, instead of labouring in the field; let every peasant become a soldier.

Verse 12. Let the heathen be wakened] The heathen shall be wakened.

The valley of Jehoshaphat] Any place where God may choose to display his judgments against his enemies.

Verse 13. Put ye in the sickle] The destruction of his enemies is represented here under the metaphor of reaping down the harvest; and of gathering the grapes, and treading them in the wine-presses.

Verse 14. Multitudes, multitudes] Crowds upon crowds, in the valley of decision, or concision: the same as the valley of Jehoshaphat, the place where God is to execute judgment on his enemies.

Verse 15. The sun and the moon shall be darkened] High and mighty states shall be eclipsed and brought to ruin, and the stars—petty states, princes, and governors, shall cision: for ^athe day of the LORD ^{is} near in the valley of decision.

15 The ^bsun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their shining.

16 The LORD also shall ^croar out of Zion, and utter his voice out of Jerusalem; and ^dthe heavens and the earth shall shake: ^ebut the LORD will be the ^fhope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 So ^gshall ye know that I am the LORD your God dwelling in Zion, ^hmy holy mountain: then shall Jerusalem be ⁱholy, and there shall ^jno strangers pass through her any more.

18 And it shall come to pass in that day, that

^aCh. ii. 1.—^bCh. ii. 10, 31.—^cJer. xxv. 30. Ch. ii. 11. Amos i. 2.—^dHag. ii. 6.—^eIsa. li. 5. 6.—^fHeb. places of repair or harbour.—^gCh. ii. 27.—^hDan. xi. 45. Obad. 16. Zech. viii. 3.—ⁱHeb. holiness.—^jIsa. xxxv. 8. iii. 1. Nah. i. 15. Zech. xiv. 21. Rev. xxi. 27.—^kAmos ix. 13.—^lPs. xxx. 25.—^mHeb. go.—ⁿPs. xlii. 4.

withdraw their shining—withhold their influence and tribute from the kingdoms to which they have belonged, and set up themselves as independent governors.

Verse 16. The Lord also shall roar out of Zion] His temple and worship shall be re-established there, and he will thence denounce his judgments against the nations.

Verse 17. So shall ye know] By the judgments I execute on your enemies, and the support I give to yourselves, that I am the all-conquering Jehovah; and that I have again taken up my residence in Jerusalem. All this may refer, ultimately, to the restoration of the Jews to their own land. It is a promise not yet fulfilled.

Verse 18. In that day] After their return from their captivities.

The mountains shall drop down new wine] A poetic expression for great fertility. The vines shall grow luxuriantly on the sides of the mountains; and the hills shall produce such rich pastures that the flocks shall yield abundance of milk.

And all the rivers of Judah] Far from being generally dry in the summer, shall have their channels always full of water.

And a fountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord] See the account of the typical waters in Ezekiel, chap. xlvii. Shittim was in the plains of Moab beyond Jordan (Numb. xxxiii. 49; Josh. iii. 1); but as no stream of water could flow from the temple, pass across Jordan, or reach this plain, the mountains shall ^adrop down new wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, ^band all the rivers of Judah shall ^cflow with waters, and ^da fountain shall come forth of the house of the Lord, and shall water ^ethe valley of Shittim.

19 ^fEgypt shall be a desolation, and ^gEdom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Judah shall ^hdwell ⁱfor ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will ^jcleanse their blood that I have not cleansed: ^kfor ^lthe LORD dwelleth in Zion.

Ezek. xlvii. 1. Zech. xiv. 8. Rev. xxii. 1.—^aNum. xxv. 1.—^bIsa. xix. 1. &c.—^cJer. xlix. 17. Ezek. xxv. 12, 13. Amos i. 11. Obad. 10.—^dOr, abide.—^eAmos ix. 15.—^fIsa. iv. 4.—^gEzek. xlviii. 85. Ver. 17. Rev. xxi. 3.—^hOr, even I the LORD that dwelleth in Zion.

the valley of Shittim must be considered symbolical, as the valley of Jehoshaphat. But as Shittim may signify thorns, it may figuratively represent the most uncultivated and ferocious inhabitants of the earth receiving the gospel of Christ, and being civilized and saved by it. We know that briers and thorns are emblems of bad men; see Ezek. iii. 6.

Verse 19. Egypt shall be a desolation] While peace, plenty, and prosperity of every kind, shall crown my people, all their enemies shall be as a wilderness; and those who have used violence against the saints of God, and shed the blood of innocents (of the holy MARTYRS) in their land, when they had political power; these and all such shall fall under the just judgments of God.

Verse 20. But Judah shall dwell for ever] The true church of Christ shall be supported, while all false and persecuting churches shall be annihilated. The promise may also belong to the full and final restoration of the Jews, when they shall dwell at Jerusalem as a distinct people, professing the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Verse 21. For I will cleanse their blood] I will avenge the slaughter and martyrdom of my people, which I have not yet avenged. Persecuting nations and persecuting churches shall all come, sooner or later, under the stroke of vindictive justice.

For the Lord dwelleth in Zion] He shall be the life, soul, spirit, and defence of his church for ever.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

P R O P H E T A M O S

AMOS, the third of the minor prophets, was, it is said, of the little town of Tekoa, in the tribe of Judah, about four leagues southward of Jerusalem. There is no good proof however, that he was a native of this place; but only that he retired thither when he was driven from Beth-el, which was in the kingdom of the ten tribes. It is very probable that he was born within the territories of Israel, and that his mission was directed principally to this kingdom.

He began to prophesy the second year before the earthquake, which happened in the reign of king Uzziah; and which Josephus, with most of the ancient and modern commentators, refers to this prince's usurpation of the priest's office, when he attempted to offer incense to the Lord.

The time and manner of his death are not known. Some old authors relate that Amaziah, priest of Beth-el, provoked by the discourses of the prophet, had his teeth broken in order to silence him. Others say that Hosea, or Uzziah, the son of Amaziah, struck him with a stake upon the temples, and knocked him down, and almost killed him; that in this condition he was carried to Tekoa, where he died, and was buried with his fathers. On the contrary, it is the opinion of others, that he prophesied a long time at Tekoa after the adventure he had with Amaziah: and the prophet taking no notice of the ill-treatment which he is said to have received from Uzziah, his silence is no argument that he suffered nothing from him.

Amos generally makes use of comparisons taken from the country life wherein he had been brought up. .

But though a herdsman, Amos is not a whit behind the very chiefest prophets; almost equal to the greatest in the loftiness of his sentiments; and not inferior to any in the splendour of his diction, and the elegance of his composition. The same heavenly Spirit which inspired Isaiah and Daniel in the palace, inspired David and Amos in their shepherds' tents; always choosing proper interpreters of his will, and sometimes perfecting praise even out of the mouths of babes: at one time using the eloquence of some; at another, making others eloquent to subserve his great purposes.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET AMOS.

CHAPTER I.

This chapter denounces judgments against the nations bordering on Palestine, enemies to the Jews; viz., the Syrians, 1-5; Philistines, 6-8; Tyrians, 9, 10; Edomites, 11, 12; and Ammonites, 13-15. The same judgments were predicted by other prophets, and fulfilled, partly by the kings of Assyria, and partly by those of Babylon; though, like many other prophecies, they had their accomplishment by degrees, and at different periods. The prophecy against the Syrians, whose capital was Damascus, was fulfilled by Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria; see 2 Kings xvii. 9. The prophecy against Gaza of the Philistines was accomplished by Hezekiah, 2 Kings xviii. 8; by Pharaoh, Jer. xlvii. 1; and by Alexander the Great; see Quintus Curtius lib. iv., c. 6. The prophecy against Ashdod was fulfilled by Uzziah, 2 Chron. xxvi. 6; and that against Ashkelon by Pharaoh, Jer. xlvii. 5. All Syria was also subdued by Pharaoh-necho; and again by Nebuchadnezzar, who also took Tyre, as did afterwards Alexander. Nebuchadnezzar also subdued the Edomites, Jer. xxv. 9, 21, and xxvii. 3, 6. Judas Maccabeus routed the remains of them, 1 Macc. v. 3; and Hyrcanus brought them under entire subjection. The Ammonites were likewise conquered by Nebuchadnezzar. The earthquake, which the prophet takes for his era, is perhaps referred to in Zech. xiv. 5, and also in Isai. v. 25. Josephus ascribes it to Uzziah's invasion of the priestly office; see 2 Chron. xxvi. 16.

THE words of Amos, * who was among the herdmen of ^b Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel ^c in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of ^d Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the ^e earthquake.

2 And he said, The Lord will ^f roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the habitations of the shepherds shall mourn, and the top of ^g Carmel shall wither.

3 Thus saith the Lord; for three transgressions

^a Ch. vii. 14.—^b 2 Sam. xiv. 2. 2 Chron. xx. 20.—^c Hos. i. 1.—^d Ch. vii. 10.—^e Zech. xiv. 5.—^f Jer. xxv. 30. Joel iii. 16.—^g 1 Sam. xxv. 2. Isa. xxxiii. 9.—^h Isa. viii. 4. xvii. 1. Jer. xlix. v3. Zech. ix. 1.—Or yea, for four.—ⁱ Or, con art it, or let it be quiet: and so

Verse 1. The words of Amos] This person and the father of Isaiah, though named alike in our translation, were as different in their names as in their persons. The father of Isaiah, Amos; the prophet before us, Amos.

Among the herdmen] He seems to have been among the very lowest orders of life, a herdsman, one who tended the flocks of others in the open fields, and a gatherer of sycamore fruit. Of whatever species this was, whether a kind of fig, it is evident that it was wild fruit; and he probably collected it for his own subsistence, or to dispose of it either for the service of his employer, or to increase his scanty wages.

Before the earthquake.] Probably the same as that referred to, Zech. xiv. 5, if haraash do not mean some popular tumult.

Verse 2. The Lord will roar from Zion] This introduction was natural in the mouth of a herdsman who was familiar with the roaring of lions, the bellowing of bulls, and the lowing of kin. The roaring of the lion in the forest is one of the most terrific sounds in nature; when near, it strikes terror into the heart both of man and beast.

Verse 3. For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four] These expressions of three and four, so often repeated in this chapter, mean repetition, abundance, and any thing that goes towards excess.

of ^b Damascus, ^c and for four, I will not ^d turn away the punishment thereof; ^e because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron:

4 ^f But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, which shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break also the ^g bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant from ^h the plain of Aven, and him that holdeth the sceptre from ⁱ the house of Eden: and ^j the people of Syria shall go into captivity ^k unto Kir, saith the Lord.

6 Thus saith the Lord; For three transgressions ver. 6, &c.—^a 2 Kings x. 33. xvii. 7.—^b Jer. xvii. 27. xlix. 27. Ver. 7, 10, 12. Ch. ii. 2, 5.—^c Jer. li. 30. Lam. ii. 9.—^d Or, Bikath-aven.—^e Or, Beth-eden.—^f Fulfilled, 2 Kings xvi. 9.—^g Ch. ix. 7.

Damascus was the capital of Syria.

Verse 4, Ben-hadad.] He was son and successor of Hazael. See the cruelties which they exercised upon the Israelites, 2 Kings x. 32, viii. 7, &c.; and see especially 2 Kings viii. 12 where these cruelties are predicted.

The fire threatened here is the war so successfully carried on against the Syrians by Jeroboam II., in which he took Damascus and Hamath, and reconquered all the ancient possessions of Israel. See 2 Kings xiv. 25, 26, 28.

Verse 5. The bar of Damascus] The gates, whose long transverse bars, running from wall to wall, were their strength. I will throw it open; and the gates were forced, and the city taken, as above.

The plain of Aven—the house of Eden] These are names says Bochart, of the valley of Damascus. [They probably refer to cities, which cannot now be identified with any certainty.]

The people of Syria shall go into captivity unto Kir] Kir is supposed to be the country of Cyrene in Albania, on the river Cyrus, which empties itself into the Caspian Sea. The fulfilment of this prophecy may be seen in 2 Kings xvi. 1-9.

Verse 6. They carried away captive] Gaza is well known to have been one of the five lordships of the Philistines; it lay on the coast of the Mediterranean Sea, near to Egypt.

of ^aGaza, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they ^bcarried away captive the whole captivity, ^cto deliver them up to Edom: 7 ^dBut I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza, which shall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant ^efrom Ashdod, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ashkelon, and I will ^fturn mine hand against Ekron: and ^gthe remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of ^hTyrus, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; ⁱbecause they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom, and remembered not ^jthe brotherly covenant:

10 ^kBut I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus, which shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions

^a3 Chron. xxviii. 18. Isa. xiv. 29. Jer. xlvii. 4, 5. Ezek. xxv. 15. Zeph. ii. 4.—^bOr, carried them away with an entire captivity. 2 Chron. xxi. 16, 17. Joel iii. 6.—^cVer. 9.—^dJer. xlvii. 1.—^eZeph. ii. 4. Zech. ix. 5, 6.—^fPs. lxxx. 14.—^gJer. xlvii. 4. Ezek. xxv. 16.—^hIsa. xlviii. 1. Jer. xlvii. 4. Ezek. xxv. xxviii. xxviii. Joel iii. 4, 5.—ⁱVer. 6.—^jHeb. the covenant of brethren. 2 Sam. v. 11. 1 Kings v. 1. ix. 11-14.—^kVer. 4, 7, &c.

Ekron, Ashdod, and Ashkelon, were other seignories of the same people, which are here equally threatened with Gaza. The margin reads, an entire captivity. They took all away; none of them afterwards returned.

Verse 9. [Tyrus] See an ample description of this place, and of its desolation and final ruin, in the notes on Ezek. xxvi, xxvii, and xxviii.

The brotherly covenant] This possibly refers to the very friendly league made between Solomon and Hiram, king of Tyre, 1 Kings v. 12: but some contend that the brotherly covenant refers to the consanguinity between the Jews and Edomites.

Verse 10. I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus] The destructive fire or siege by Nebuchadnezzar which lasted thirteen years, and ended in the destruction of this ancient city; see on Ezekiel, chap. xxvi. 7-14, as above.

Verse 11. For three transgressions of Edom] That the Edomites were always implacable enemies of the Jews, is well known; but most probably that which the prophet has in view was the part they took in distressing the Jews when of ^lEdom, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he did pursue ^mhis brother ⁿwith the sword, and ^odid cast off all pity, ^pand his anger did tear perpetually, and he kept his wrath for ever:

12 But ^qI will send a fire upon Teman, which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of ^rthe children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have ^sripped ^tup the women with child of Gilead, ^uthat they might enlarge the border:

14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of ^vRabbah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, ^wwith shouting in the day of battle, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind:

15 And ^xtheir king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the LORD.

^lIsa. xxi. 11. xxxiv. 5. Jer. xlix. 8, &c. Ezek. xxv. 12, 13, 14. xxxv. 2, &c. Joel iii. 19. Obad. 1, &c. Mal. i. 4.—^mGen. xxvii. 41. Deut. xxiii. 7. Mal. i. 2.—ⁿ2 Chron. xxiii. 17.—^oHeb. corrupted his compassions.—^pEzek. xxxv. 5.—^qObad. 9, 10.—^rJer. xlix. 1, 2. Ezek. xxv. 2. Zeph. ii. 9.—^sOr, divided the mountains.—^tHos. xiii. 16.—^uJer. xlix. 1.—^vDeut. iii. 11. 2 Sam. xii. 26. Jer. xlix. 2. Ezek. xxv. 5.—^wCh. ii. 2.—^xJer. xlix. 3.

Jerusalem was besieged and finally taken, by the Chaldeans. See Obad. 11-14, Ezek. xxv. 12, xxxv. 5, Ps. cxxxvii. 7.

Verse 12. Teman—Bozrah.] Principal cities of Idumea.

Verse 13. The children of Ammon] The country of the Ammonites lay to the east of Jordan, in the neighbourhood of Gilead. Rabbah was its capital.

Because they have ripped up] This refers to some barbarous transaction well known in the time of this prophet, but of which we have no distinct mention in the sacred historians.

Verse 14. With shouting in the day of battle] They shall be totally subdued. This was done by Nebuchadnezzar. See Jer. xxvii. 3, 6.

Verse 15. Their king shall go into captivity] Probably malcham should be Milcom, who was a chief god of the Ammonites; and the following words, he and his princes, may refer to the body of his priesthood. See 1 Kings xi. 33, and the notes there. All these countries were subdued by Nebuchadnezzar. [There is no authority and no necessity for the suggested emendation.]

CHAPTER II.

The prophet goes on to declare the judgments of God against Moab, 1-3; against Judah, 4, 5; and then against Israel, the particular object of his mission. He enumerates some of their sins, 6-8, aggravated by God's distinguishing regard to Israel, 9-12; and they are in consequence threatened with dreadful punishments, 13-16. See 2 Kings xv. 19, and xvii. 6.

THUS saith the LORD; For three transgressions of ^aMoab, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he ^bburned the bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 But I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall ^aIsa. xv. xvi. Jer. xlviii. Ezek. xxv. 8. Zeph. ii. 8.—^b2 Kings iii. 27.

Verse 1. For three transgressions of Moab, and for four] The land of the Moabites lay to the east of the Dead Sea. He burned the bones of the king of Edom into lime] Possibly referring to some brutality; such as opening the grave of one of the Idumean kings, and calcining his bones. It is supposed by some to refer to the fact mentioned, 2 Kings iii. 26.

devour the palaces of ^cKiriath: and Moab shall die with tumult, ^dwith shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet:

3 And I will cut off ^ethe judge from the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the LORD.

^cJer. xlviii. 41.—^dCh. i. 14.—^eNum. xxiv. 17. Jer. xlviii. 7.

Verse 2. The palaces of Kiriath] This was one of the principal cities of the Moabites.

Moab shall die with tumult] All these expressions seem to refer to this city's being taken by storm, which was followed by a total slaughter of its inhabitants.

Verse 3. I will cut off the judge] It shall be so destroyed that it shall never more have any form of government.

4 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; ^a because they have despised the law of the LORD, and have not kept his commandments, and ^b their lies caused them to err, ^c after the which their fathers have walked:

5 ^d But I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because ^e they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes;

7 That pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and ^f turn aside the way of the meek: ^g and a man and his father will go in unto the same ^h maid, ⁱ to profane my holy name:

8 And they lay themselves down upon clothes ^j laid to pledge ^k by every altar, and they drink the wine of ^l the condemned in the house of their god.

9 Yet destroyed I the ^m Amorite before them, ⁿ whose height was like the height of the cedars,

^a Lev. xxvi. 14, 15. Neh. i. 7. Dan. ix. 11.—^b Isa. xxviii. 16. Jer. xvi. 19, 20. Rom. i. 28.—^c Ezek. xx. 13, 16, 18, 24, 40.—^d Jer. xvii. 27. Hos. viii. 14.—^e Isa. xxix. 21. Ch. viii. 6.—^f Isa. x. 2. Ch. v. 12.—^g Ezek. xxi. 11.—^h Or, young woman.—ⁱ Lev. xx. 8. Ezek. xxxvi. 20. Rom. ii. 24.—^j Exod. xxii. 26.—^k Ezek. xxiii. 41. 1 Cor. viii. 1. x. 21.—^l Or, such as have fined, or mulcted.—^m Num. xxi. 24. Deut. ii. 31. Josh. xxiv. 8.—ⁿ Num. xii. 23, 32, 33.—

Verse 4. For three transgressions of Judah] We may take the three and four here to any latitude; for this people lived in continual hostility to their God, from the days of David to the time of Uzziah, under whom Amos prophesied.

Verse 5. I will send a fire upon Judah] This fire was the war made upon the Jews by Nebuchadnezzar which terminated with the sackage and burning of Jerusalem and its palace, the temple.

Verses 6—8. For three transgressions of Israel, &c.] To be satisfied of the exceeding delinquency of this people, we have only to open the historical and prophetic books in any part; for the whole history of the Israelites is one tissue of transgression against God. The clause in verses may be understood of their appropriating to themselves that wine which was allowed to criminals to mitigate their sufferings in the article of death; which was the excess of inhumanity and cruelty.

Verse 9. Yet destroyed I the Amorite] Here follow general heads of God's mercies to them, and the great things he had done for them.

Verse 12. But ye gave the Nazarites wine] This was expressly forbidden in the laws of their institutions. See Num. vi. 1-3.

and he was strong as the oaks; yet I ^o destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Also ^p I brought you up from the land ^q Egypt, and ^r led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for ^s Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith the LORD.

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, ^t saying, Prophecy not.

13 ^u Behold, ^v I am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves.

14 ^w Therefore the flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, ^x neither shall the mighty deliver ^y himself.

15 Neither shall he stand that handleth the bow; and he that is swift of foot shall not deliver himself: ^z neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.

16 And he that is ^{aa} courageous among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, saith the LORD.

^a Isa. v. 24. Mal. iv. 1.—^b Exod. xii. 51. Mic. vi. 4.—^c Deut. ii. 7. viii. 2.—^d Num. vi. 2. Judg. xiii. 5.—^e Isa. xxx. 10. Jer. xi. 21. Ch. vii. 12, 13. Mic. ii. 6.—^f Isa. i. 14.—^g Or, I will press your place, as a cart full of sheaves presseth.—^h Ch. ix. 1, &c. J. r. ix. 23.—ⁱ Ps. xxxiii. 16.—^j Heb, his soul or life.—^k Ps. xxxiii. 17.—^l Heb, strong of his heart.

Prophecy not.] They would not worship God, and they would not hear the voice of his prophets.

Verse 13. Behold, I am pressed under you] The marginal reading is better: "Behold, I will press your place, as a cart full of sheaves presseth." I will bring over you the wheel of destruction; and it shall grind your place—your city and temple, as the wheel of a cart laden with sheaves presses down the ground, gravel, and stones, over which it rolls.

Verse 14. The flight shall perish from the swift] None, by might, by counsel, or by fleetness, shall be able to escape from the impending ruin. In a word, God has so fully determined to avenge the quarrel of his broken covenant, that all attempts to escape from his judgments shall be useless.

Verse 15. Neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.] I believe all these sayings, from verse 13 to 16 inclusive, are proverbs, to show the inutility of all attempts, even in the best circumstances, to escape the doom now decreed, because the cup of their iniquity was full.

Verse 16. Shall flee away naked] In some cases the alarm shall be in the night; and even the most heroic shall start from his bed, and through terror not wait to put on his clothes.

CHAPTER III.

This chapter begins with reproving the twelve tribes in general, 1, 2; and then particularly the kingdom of Israel, whose capital was Samaria. The prophet assures them that, while they were at variance with God, it would be unreasonable in him to expect his presence or favour, 3-8. Other neighbouring nations are then called upon to take warning from the judgments about to be inflicted upon the house of Israel, which would be so general that only a small remnant should escape them, 9-15. The image used by the prophet on this occasion (see verse 12), and borrowed from his former calling, is very natural and significant, and not a little dignified by the inspired writer's lofty air and manner.

HEAR this word that the LORD hath spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 ^a You only have I known of all the families of the earth: ^b therefore I will ^c punish you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

^d xi. 22. Luke xii. 47. Rom. ii. 9. 1 Pet. iv. 17.—^e Heb, visit upon.

^a Deut. vii. 6. x. 15. Ps. cxlviii. 19, 20.—^b See Dan. ix. 12. Matt.

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? will a young lion cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no gin is for him? shall one take up a snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord God hath spoken, who can but prophesy?

9 Publish in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, saith the Lord,

^a Heb. give forth his voice.—^b Or, not run together.—^c Isa. xlv. 7.—^d Or, and shall not the Lord do somewhat?—^e Gen. vi. 13. xviii. 17. Ps. xlv. 14. John xv. 15.—^f Ch. i. 2.—^g Acts iv. 20. v. 20, 29. 1 Cor. ix. 16.—^h Or, oppressions.—ⁱ Jer. iv. 22.—^j Or, spoil.—

Verse 1. Against the whole family] That is, all, both of the kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

Verse 2. You only have I known] I have approved of you, loved you, fed, sustained, and defended you; but because you have foregone me, have become idolatrous and polluted, therefore will I punish you. And the punishment shall be in proportion to the privileges you have enjoyed, and the grace you have abused.

Verse 3. Can two walk together] The similes in this and the three following verses are all chosen to express the same thing, viz., that no calamities or judgments can fall upon any people but by the express will of God, on account of their iniquities; and that whatever his prophets have foretold, they have done it by direct revelation from their Maker; and that God has the highest and most cogent reason for inflicting the threatened calamities. This correctness of the prophets' predictions shows that they and I are in communion.

Verse 4. Will a lion roar] Should I threaten such judgment without cause?

Verse 5. Can a bird fall in a snare] Can ye, as a sinful people, fall into calamities which I have not appointed?

Shall one take up a snare—and have taken nothing] The original, literally translated, is nearly as follows: "Shall the trap arise from the ground; and catching, shall it not catch?" Here is a plain allusion to such traps as we employ to catch rats, foxes &c.

Verse 6. Shall a trumpet be blown] The sign of alarm and invasion.

And the people not be afraid?] Not take the alarm, and provide for their defence and safety?

Shall there be evil in a city] The word does not mean moral evil, but punishment for sin; calamities falling on the workers of iniquity. Natural evil is the punishment of moral evil: God sends the former when the latter is persisted in.

Verse 7. Surely the Lord God will do nothing] In reference to the punishment, correction, or blessing of his people.

But he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.] They are in strict correspondence with him, and he shows them things to come.

Verse 8. The lion hath roared] Can any hear such denunciations of divine wrath, and not tremble?

The Lord God hath spoken] And those only who are in communion with him have heard the speech. Who can but prophesy? Who can help proclaiming at large the judgment threatened against the nation?

who store up violence and robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God; An adversary there shall be even round about the land; and he shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord; As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus in a couch.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord God, the God of hosts.

14 That in the day that I shall visit the transgressions of Israel upon him I will also visit the altars of Beth-el: and the horns of the altar shall be cut off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter house with the summer house; and the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall have an end, saith the Lord.

^a 2 Kings xvii. 3, 6. xviii. 9, 10, 11.—^b Heb. delivereth.—^c Or, On the bed's feet.—^d Or, punish Israel for.—^e Jer. xxxvi. 22.—^f Judg. iii. 20.—^g 1 Kings xxii. 39.

But I think naba, here, is to be taken in its natural and ideal signification, to pray, supplicate, or deprecate vengeance. The Lord hath spoken of punishment—who can help supplicating his mercy, that his judgments may be averted?

Verse 9. Publish in the palaces] The housetops or flat roofs were the places from which public declarations were made. See in Isa. xxii. 1, and on Matt. x. 27.

Verse 10. For they know not to do right] "There are none so blind as those who will not see." Their eyes, saith the Lord, they have closed.

Verse 11. An adversary—round about the land] Ye shall not be able to escape; wherever ye turn, ye shall meet a foe.

Verse 12. As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion] Scarcely any of you shall escape; and those that do shall do so with extreme difficulty, just as a shepherd, of a whole sheep carried away by a lion, can recover no more than two of its legs, or a piece of its ear, just enough to prove by the marks on those parts, that they belonged to a sheep which was his own.

So shall the children of Israel be taken out] Those of them that escape these judgments shall escape with as great difficulty, and be of as little worth, as the two legs and piece of an ear that shall be snatched out of the lion's mouth.

In the corner of a bed] As the corner is the most honourable place in the east, and a couch in the corner of a room is the place of the greatest distinction; so the words in the text may mean, that even the metropolitan cities, which are in the corner—in the most honourable place of the land, whether Samaria in Israel, or Damascus in Syria, shall not escape these judgments. [Or it may mean the grandees of Samaria.]

Verse 13. Hear ye] This is an address to the prophet.

Verse 14. In the day that I shall visit] See 2 Kings xxiii. 15, 16, &c.

Verse 15. I will smite the winter-house with the summer-house] I will not only destroy the poor habitations and villages in the country, but I will destroy those of the nobility and gentry; as well as the lofty palaces in the fortified cities in which they dwell in the winter season, as those light and elegant seats in which they spend the summer season.

And the houses of ivory] We cannot suppose that a house constructed entirely of ivory can be intended, but one in which ivory vessels, ornaments, and inlaying abounded. See 1 Kings xxii. 39.

CHAPTER IV.

Israel reprov'd for their oppression, 1-3; idolatry, 4, 5; and for their impenitence under the chastising hand of God, 6-11. The omniscience and uncontrollable power of God, 12, 13.

HEAR this word, ye ^a kine of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink.

² ^b The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away ^c with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks.

³ And ^d ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her; and ^e ye shall cast them into the palace, saith the Lord.

⁴ ^f Come to Beth-el, and transgress; at ^g Gilgal multiply transgression; and ^h bring your sacrifices every morning, ⁱ and your tithes after ^j three years:

⁵ ^k And ^l offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish ^m the free offerings: ⁿ for ^o this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

⁶ And I also have given you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: ^p yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

⁷ And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

^a Ps. xxii. 12. Ezek. xxxix. 18.—^b Ps. lxxxix. 35.—^c Jer. xvi. 16. Hab. i. 15.—^d Ezek. xii. 5, 12.—^e Or, ye shall cast away the things of the palace.—^f Ezk. k. xx. 39.—^g Hos. iv. 15, xii. 11. Ch. v. 5.—^h Num. xxviii. 3, 4.—ⁱ Deut. xiv. 28.—^j Heb. three years of days.—^k Lev. vii. 13. xxiii. 17.—^l Heb. offer by burning.—^m Lev. xxii. 18, 21. Deut. xii. 6.—ⁿ Ps. lxxxii. 12.—^o Heb. so ye love.—^p Isa. xxvi. 11. Jer. v. 3. Hag. ii. 17. Ver. 8, 9.—^q Ver. 6, 10, 11.—^r Deut. xxviii. 22. Hag. ii. 17.—^s Or, the multitude of your gardens, &c.,

Verse 1. Hear this word ye kine of Bashan] Bashan was famous for the fertility of its soil, and its flocks and herds; and the prophet here represents the iniquitous, opulent, idle, lazy drones, whether men or women, under the idea of fatted bullocks, which were shortly to be led out to the slaughter.

Verse 2. He will take you away with hooks] As the words in the text are generally feminine, it has been supposed that the prophecy is against the proud, powerful, voluptuous women. I rather think that the prophet speaks cytachrestically; and means men of effeminate manners and idle lives. They are not the bulls of Bashan but the cows; having little of the manly character remaining.

Verse 3. And ye shall go out at the breaches] Samaria itself is the net; your adversaries shall besiege it, and make breaches in its walls. At those breaches ye shall endeavour to make your escape, but ye shall also be caught and led into captivity, where most of you shall be destroyed.

Verse 4. Come to Beth-el, and transgress] Spoken ironically. Go on to worship your calves at Beth-el; and multiply your transgressions at Gilgal; the very place where I rolled away the reproach of your fathers, by admitting them there into my covenant by circumcision.

Verse 5. Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving] To the senseless metal, and the unfeeling stock and stone images, from which ye never did, and never could, receive any help. Proceed yet farther, and bring free-will-offerings; testify superabundant gratitude to your wooden and metallic gods, to whom ye are under such immense imaginary obligations!

Verse 6. Cleanness of teeth] Scarcity of bread as immediately explained.

The famine mentioned here is supposed to be that which ⁸ So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water; but they were not satisfied: ^a yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

⁹ ^b I have smitten you with blasting and mildew: ^c when your gardens, and your vineyards, and your fig trees, and your olive trees increased, ^d the palmerworm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

¹⁰ I have sent among you the pestilence ^e after ^f the manner of Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, ^g and have taken away your horses; and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostrils: ^h yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

¹¹ I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew ⁱ Sodom and Gomorrah, ^j and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: ^k yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.

¹² Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, ^l prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

¹³ For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the ^m wind, ⁿ and declareth unto man what is his thought, ^o that maketh the morning darkness, ^p and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, ^q The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name.

did the palmerworm, &c.—^a Joel i. 4. ii. 25.—^b Or, in the way.—^c Exod. ix. 3, 8. xii. 29. Deut. xxviii. 27, 60. Ps. lxxviii. 50.—^d Heb. with the captivity of your horses. 2 Kings xiii. 7.—^e Ver. 6.—^f Gen. xix. 24, 25. Isa. xiii. 19. Jer. xlix. 18.—^g Zech. iii. 2. Jude 23.—^h Ver. 6.—ⁱ See Ezek. xiii. 5. xxii. 30. Luke xiv. 31, 32.—^j Or, spirit.—^k Ps. cxxxix. 2. Dan. ii. 28.—^l Ch. v. 3. viii. 9.—^m Deut. xxxii. 13. xxxiii. 29. Mic. i. 3.—ⁿ Isa. xlvii. 4. Jer. x. 10. Ch. v. 8. ix. 6.

is spoken of 2 Kings viii. 1; but it is most likely to have been that mentioned by Joel, chap. i. and ii.

Verse 7. When there were yet three months to the harvest] The rain that God had withheld from them, was that which was usual in the spring months, particularly in April.

I caused it to rain upon one city] In these instances a particular providence was most evident. "And yet, they did not return to the Lord."

Verse 9. I have smitten you with blasting and mildew] And this in such a way as to show it was a divine judgment. They saw this; "yet they did not return to the Lord!"

Verse 10. I have sent—the pestilence] Besides this, he had suffered their enemies to attack and prevail against them; alluding to the time in which the Syrians besieged Samaria, and reduced it to the most extreme necessity; 2 Kings vi. 25.

Verse 11. I have overthrown some of you] In the destruction of your cities I have shown my judgments as signally as I did in the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah; and those of you that did escape were as "brands plucked out of the fire;" if not consumed yet much scorched.

Verse 12. Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.] This is a military phrase, and is to be understood as a challenge to come out to battle. This verse has been often painfully misapplied by public teachers; it has no particular relation to the day of judgment, nor the hour of death. These constructions are impositions on the text.

Verse 13. He that formeth the mountains] Who is he who hath done and can do all these things? JEHOVAH ELOHIM TSEBAOTH, that is his name. 1. The self-existing, eternal, and independent Being. 2. The God who is in covenant with mankind. 3. The universal Commander of all the hosts of earth and heaven.

CHAPTER V.

This chapter opens with a tender and pathetic lamentation, in the style of a funeral song, over the house of Israel, 1, 2. The prophet then glances at the awful threatenings denounced against them, 3; earnestly exhorting them to renounce their idols, and seek Jehovah, of whom he gives a very magnificent description, 4-9. He then reproves their injustice and oppression with great warmth and indignation; exhorts them again to repentance; and enforces his exhortation with the most awful threatenings, delivered with great majesty and authority, and in images full of beauty and grandeur, 10-24. The chapter concludes with observing that their idolatry was of long standing; that they increased the national guilt, by adding to the sins of their fathers; and that their punishment, therefore, should be great in proportion, 25-27. Formerly numbers of them were brought captive to Damascus (2 Kings x. 32, 33); but now they must go beyond it to Assyria, 2 Kings xv. 29; xvii. 6.

H ye this word which I *take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel.

2 The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the LORD God; The city that went out by a thousand shall leave an hundred, and that which went forth by an hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Israel, *Seek ye me, *and ye shall live:

5 But seek not *Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to *Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and *Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 *Seek the LORD, and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 Ye who *turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth.

8 Seek him that maketh the *seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, *and maketh the day dark with night: that *callesth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: *The his name:

*Jer. vii. 29. Ezek. xix. i. xxvii. 2.—*2 Chron. xv. 2. Jer. xxix. 13. Ver. 6.—*Isa. iv. 3.—*Ch. iv. 4.—*Ch. viii. 14.—*Hos. iv. 15. x. 8.—*Ver. 4.—*Ch. vi. 12.—*Job. ix. 9. xxxviii. 31.—*Ps. civ. 20.—*Job. xxxviii. 34. Ch. ix. 6.—*Ch. iv. 13.—*Heb. spoil.—*Isa. xxix. 21.—*1 Kings xxi. 8.—*Deut. xxviii. 30, 38, 39.

Verse 1. Hear ye this word] Attend to this doleful song which I make for the house of Israel.

Verse 2. The virgin of Israel] The kingdom of Israel, or the ten tribes, which were carried into captivity; and are now totally lost in the nations of the earth.

Verse 3. The city that went out by a thousand] The city that could easily have furnished, on any emergency, a thousand fighting men, can now produce scarcely one hundred, and now of the hundred scarcely ten remain: so reduced was Israel when Shalmaneser besieged and took Samaria, and carried the residue into captivity.

Verse 4. Seek ye me, and ye shall live] Deplorable as your case is, it is not utterly desperate.

Verse 5. But seek not Beth-el] There was one of Jeroboam's golden calves, and at Gilgal were carved images; both were places in which idolatry was triumphant.

Verse 6. In the house of Joseph] The Israelites of the ten tribes, of whom Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph, were the chief.

Verse 7. Ye who turn judgment to wormwood] Who pervert judgment; causing him who obtains his suit to mourn sorely over the expenses he has incurred in gaining his right.

Verse 8. That maketh the seven stars and Orion] See notes on Job ix. 9 and xxxviii. 32, where the subject of this verse is largely considered.

Turneth the shadow of death into the morning] Who makes day and night, light and darkness.

Callesth for the waters of the sea] Raising them up by evaporation, and collecting them into clouds.

9 That strengtheneth the *spoiled against the strong, so that the spoiled shall come against the fortress.

10 *They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they *abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: *ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted *pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins: *they afflict the just, they take *a bribe, and they *turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

13 Therefore *the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the LORD, the God of hosts, shall be with you, *as ye have spoken.

15 *Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: *it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord, saith thus; Wailing shall be in all streets; and they shall say in all the highways. Alas! alas!

Mic. vi. 15. Zeph. i. 13. Hag. i. 6.—*Heb. vineyards of desire.—*Ch. ii. 26.—*Or, a ransom.—*Isa. xxix. 21. Ch. ii. 7.—*Ch. vi. 10.—*Mic. iiii. 11.—*Ps. xxxiv. 14. xcvii. 10. Rom. xli. 9.—*Exod. xxxii. 30. 2 Kings xix. 4. Joel ii. 14.

And poureth them out] Causing them to drop down in showers upon the face of the earth.

Verse 9. That strengtheneth the spoiled] Who takes the part of the poor and oppressed against the oppressor; and, in the course of his providence, sets up the former, and depresses the latter.

Verse 10. They hate him that rebuketh in the gate] They cannot bear an upright magistrate, and will not have righteous laws executed.

Verse 11. Your treading is upon the poor] You tread them under your feet; they form the road on which you walk; and yet it was by oppressing and impoverishing them that ye gained your riches.

Ye take from him burdens of wheat] Ye will have his bread for doing him justice.

Verse 12. I know your manifold transgressions] I have marked the multitude of your smaller crimes, as well as your mighty offences.

Verse 13. The prudent shall keep silence] A wise man will consider that it is useless to complain.

Verse 14. Seek good, and not evil] Is there a greater mystery in the world, than that a man, instead of seeking good, will seek evil, knowing that it is evil?

And so the Lord] As God is the Fountain of good, so they who seek the supreme good seek him; and they who seek shall find him.

Verse 15. Hate the evil, and love the good] What ruins you, avoid; what helps you, cleave to.

Verse 16. They shall call the husbandman to mourning and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and such as are skilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards shall be wailing: for I will pass through thee, saith the LORD.

18 Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the house and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

21 I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies.

22 Though ye offer me burnt-offerings and

* Jer. ix. 17.—Exod. xii. 13. Nah. i. 12.—Isa. v. 19. Jer. xvii. 15. Ezek. xii. 22, 27. 2 Pet. iii. 4.—Jer. xxx. 7. Joel ii. 2. Zeph. i. 15.—Jer. xlviii. 44.—Prov. xxi. 27. Isa. i. 11-13. Jer. vi. 20. Hos. viii. 13.—Lev. xxvi. 31.—Or, smell your holy days.—Isa. lxxvi. 3. Mic. vi. 6, 7.—Or, thank-offerings.—Hos. vi. 6.

Because the crops have failed, and the ground has been tilled in vain.

Verse 17. And in all vineyards shall be wailing] The places where festivity especially used to prevail.

I will pass through thee] As I passed, by the ministry of the destroying angel, through Egypt, not to spare, but to destroy.

Verse 18. Woe unto you that desire the day of the Lord] The prophet had often announced the coming of God's day, that is, of a time of judgment; and the unbelievers had said, "Let his day come, that we may see it." Now the prophet tells them that that day would be to them darkness—calamity, and not light—not prosperity.

Verse 19. As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him] They shall go from one evil to another.

Leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.] Snakes and venomous animals are fond of taking up their lodging in walls of houses, where they can either find or make holes; and it is dangerous to sit near or lean against them.

Verse 21. I hate, I despise your feast days] I abominate those sacrificial festivals where there is no piety; and I despise them because they pretend to be what they are not.

Verse 23. The noise of thy songs—the melody of thy viols.] They had both vocal and instrumental music in these sacriyour meat-offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace-offerings of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols.

24 But let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.

25 Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O house of Israel?

26 But ye have borne the tabernacle of your Moloch and Chiun your images, the star of your god, which he made to yourselves.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus, saith the LORD, whose name is The God of hosts.

Mic. vi. 8.—Heb. roll.—Deut. xxxii. 17. Josh. xxiv. 14. Ezek. xx. 8, 16, 21. Acts vii. 42, 43. See Isa. xlii. 23.—Or, Sicutu⁹ your king.—1 Kings xi. 83.—2 Kings xvii. 6.—Ch. iv. 13.

ficial festivals; and God hated the noise of the one and shut his ears against the melody of the other.

Verse 24. Let judgment run down] Let the execution of justice be everywhere like the showers that fall upon the land to render it fertile; and let righteousness in heart and life be like a mighty river.

Verse 25. Have ye offered unto me sacrifices] Learned men have considered this verse as speaking thus: Did ye offer to me, during forty years in the wilderness, sacrifices in such a way as was pleasing to me? Ye did not; for your hearts were divided, and ye were generally in a spirit of insurrection or murmuring.

Verse 26. But ye have borne] The preceding verse spoke of their fathers; the present verse speaks of the Israelites then existing, who were so grievously addicted to idolatry, that they not only worshipped at stated public places the idols set up by public authority, but they carried their gods about with them everywhere.

The tabernacle of your Moloch] Probably a small portable shrine, with an image of their god in it, such as Moloch; and the star or representative of their god Chiun.

Verse 27. Will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus] That is, Assyria, the way to which, from Judea, was by Damascus.

This captivity happened after the time of Amos.

CHAPTER VI.

The prophet reproves his people for indulging themselves in luxurious ease, and forming alliances with their powerful idolatrous neighbours, 1. He asks if their lands or their lot be better than their own, 2, that they should choose to worship the gods of the heathen, and forsake Jehovah. Then follows an amplification of the sin which the prophet reproves, 3-6; to which he annexes very awful threatenings, confirmed by the oath of Jehovah, 7, 8. He next particularly specifies the punishment of their sins by pestilence, 9-11; by famine, or a drought that should harden the earth so that it could not be tilled, 12; and by the sword of the Assyrians, 14.

WOE to them that are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named chief of the nations, to whom the house of Israel came!

2 Pass ye unto Calneh, and see; and from thence go ye to Hamath the great: then go down

* Luke vi. 24.—Or, are secure.—Exod. xix. 5.—40^r, first-fruits.—Jer. ii. 10.—Isa. x. 9. Taken cir. 794.—2 Kings xviii. 34.—Josh. xi. 22. 1 Sam. v. 8. 2 Chron. xxvi. 6.—Nah. iii. 8.—

Verse 1. Woe to them that are at ease in Zion] Those that are at ease may mean those who have no concern about the threatened judgments, and who have no deep concern for the salvation of their own souls.

Are named chief] They call themselves not after their to Gath of the Philistines: be they better than these kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that put far away the evil day, and cause the seat of violence to come near;

4 That lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch them-

Isa. xlii. 27.—Ch. v. 19. ix. 10.—Ch. v. 12. Ver. 12.—Ps. xciv. 20.—Or, habitation.—Or, abound with superfluities.

ancestors, but after the chief of the idolatrous nations with whom they intermarry contrary to the law.

Verse 2. Pass ye unto Calneh] This is Ctesiphon on the river Tigris.

Hamath] A city on the Orontes, in Syria.

selves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall;

5 ^a That ^b chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music, ^c like David;

6 That drink ^a wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments: ^a but they are not grieved for the ^a affliction of Joseph.

7 Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed.

8 ^a The Lord God hath sworn by himself, saith the Lord the God of hosts, I abhor ^b the excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city with all ^a that is therein.

9 And it shall come to pass, if there remain ten men in one house, that they shall die.

10 And a man's uncle shall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the

^a Isa. v. 12.—^b Or, quaver.—^c 1 Chron. xxiii. 5.—^d Or, in bowls of wine.—^e Gen. xxxvii. 25.—^f Heb. breach.—^g Jer. li. 14. Heb. vi. 13, 17.—^h Ps. xlvii. 4. Ezek. xxiv. 21. Ch. viii. 7.—ⁱ Heb. the fulness thereof.—^j Ch. v. 13.—^k Ch. viii. 3.—^l Or, they will not, or Gath] A well-known town, and head of one of the five seignories of the Philistines.

Be they better] You have no more reason to expect exemption from the consequences of your sins than they had.

Verse 3. Ye that put far away the evil day] Woe to you who will not consider the day of approaching vengeance; but continue in your iniquity, and harden your hearts.

Verse 4. That lie upon beds of ivory] The beds mentioned here may be either sofas to recline on at table, or beds to sleep on; and these among the ancients were ornamented with ivory inlaid.

Verse 5. And invent to themselves instruments of music, like David] See the note on 1 Chron. xxiii. 5; and see especially the note on 2 Chron. xxix. 25.

The word happoretim, which we render chant, and the margin quaver, signifies to dance, to skip, &c. In the sight of such a text, fiddlers, drummers, waltzers, &c., may well tremble, who perform to excite detestable passions.

Verse 6. That drink wine in bowls] Perhaps the costliness of the drinking vessels, more than the quantity drunk, is that which is here reprehended by the prophet.

Verse 7. With the first that go captive] The house of Israel shall be carried into captivity before the house of Judah.

Verse 8. The Lord God hath sworn by himself] Benaph-sho, by his soul, his being, existence.

Verse 9. Ten men—they shall die] ALL shall be cut off by the sword, or by captivity, or by famine.

Verse 10. A man's uncle shall take him up] This obscure verse seems to describe the effects of famine and pestilence during the siege of Samaria. The carcase shall be burnt; house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? and he shall say, No. Then shall he say, Hold thy tongue: ^a for ^a we may not make mention of the name of the Lord.

11 For, behold, ^a the Lord commandeth, ^a and he will smite the great house with ^a breaches, and the little house with clefts.

12 Shall horses run upon the rock? will one plow there with oxen? for ^a ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into hemlock:

13 Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought, which say, Have we not taken to us horns by our own strength?

14 But, behold, ^a I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the Lord the God of hosts; and they shall afflict you from the ^a entering in of Hamath unto the ^a river of the wilderness.

have not.—^a Isa. lv. 11.—^b Ch. iii. 15.—^c Or, droppings.—^d Hos. x. 4. Ch. v. 7.—^e Jer. v. 15.—^f Num. xxxiv. 8. 1 Kings viii. 85.—^g Or, valley.

and the bones removed with no ceremony of funeral rites, and without the assistance of the nearest kinsman. Solitude shall reign in the house; and if one is left, he must be silent (see chap. vii. 3), and retired, lest he be plundered of his scanty provision! Burning the body, and then collecting the ashes, and putting them into an urn, was deemed the most honourable mode of burial.

Verse 11. He will smite the great house with breaches] The great and small shall equally suffer; no distinction shall be made; rich and poor shall fall together; death has received his commission, and he will spare none.

Verse 12. Shall horses run upon the rock?] Just as useless and injurious would it be to put gall in the place of judgment, and hemlock in the place of righteousness. You have not only been labouring in vain for yourselves, but you have also been oppressive to others; and for both ye shall suffer.

Verse 13. Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought] In your idols: for an idol is nothing in the world.

Have we not taken to us horns] We have arrived to power and dignity by our strength. Horns were the symbols of power and authority.

Verse 14. I will raise up against you a nation] The Assyrians under Pul, Tiglath-Pileser, and Shalmaneser, who subdued the Israelites at various times, and at last carried them away captive in the days of Hosea, the last king of Israel in Samaria.

From the entering in of Hamath (on the north) unto the river of the wilderness] Besor, which empties itself into the sea, not far from Gaza, and was in the southern part of the tribe of Simeon.

CHAPTER VII.

In this chapter God represents to Amos, by three several visions, the judgments he is about to bring on Israel. The first is a plague of locusts threatening to cut off the hopes of the harvest, by attacking it in the time of the second growth; the first luxuriations of the crop being probably mowed for the king's horses, 1-3. The next vision threatens a judgment by fire, which would consume a great part, 4-6; and the third, a total overthrow of Israel, levelling it as it were by a line, 7-9. The rest of the chapter is a denunciation of heavy judgments against Amaziah, priest of Beth-el, who had brought an accusation to the king against the prophet, 10-17.

THUS hath the LORD GOD shewed unto me; and, behold, he formed *grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee: *by *whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

3 ^aThe Lord repented for this: It shall not be, saith the LORD.

4 Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and, behold, the Lord GOD called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee: *by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

6 The Lord repented for this: This also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

7 Thus he showed me: and, behold, the LORD stood upon a wall made by a plumb-line, with a plumb line in his hand.

8 And the LORD said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumb-line. Then said the LORD, Behold, I will set a plumb-line in the midst of my people Israel: *I will not again pass by them any more:

9 ^bAnd the high places of Isaac shall be desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste; and I will rise against ^cthe house of Jeroboam with the sword.

*Or, green worms.—^aIsa. li. 19. Ver. 5.—^cOr, who of or for Jacob shall stand?—^dDeut. xxxii. 36. Ver. 6. Jonah ii. 10. James v. 16.—^eVer. 2, 3.—^fSee 2 Kings xxi. 13. Isa. xxviii. 17. xxiv. 11. Lam. ii. 8.—^gCh. vii. 2. Mic. vii. 18.—^hBeer-sheba, Gen. xxvi. 25. xli. 1. Ch. v. viii. 14.—ⁱ1 Kings xvi. 3.—^j1 Kings xli. 32.—^k2 Kings xiv. 23.—^lCh. ii. 12.—^m1 Kings xii. 32. xlii. 1.—

Verse 1. Behold, he formed grasshoppers] Gobai is generally understood here to signify locusts. See the notes on Joel i. and ii.

The shooting up of the latter growth] The early crop of grass had been already mowed and housed. The second crop or roving, as it is called in some places, was not yet begun. By the king's mowings we may understand the first crop, a portion of which the king probably claimed as being the better hay; but the words may signify simply the prime crop, that which is the best of the whole. [Keil regards the king as Jehovah, and the mowings as the judgments already executed upon Israel.]

Verse 2. By whom shall Jacob arise?] The locusts, the symbol of the many enemies that had impoverished Jerusalem, having devoured much of the produce of the land, were proceeding, till, at the intercession of the prophet, they were removed. Then, seeing in the light of prophecy the nation in every sense brought low, he cries, "By whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small."

Verse 3. The Lord repented] Changed his purpose of destroying them by the locusts.

Verse 4. The Lord God called to contend by fire] Permitted war, both civil and foreign, to harass the land, after the death of Jeroboam the Second. These wars would have totally destroyed it, had not the prophet interceded.

It devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.] We are here to understand the partially destructive wars which afterwards took place; for the Lord causes all these things to pass before the eyes of Amos in the vision of prophecy; and intimates that, at the intercession of his prophets, total ruin should be prevented.

Verse 7. With a plumb-line in his hand.] This appears to be intended as an emblem of strict justice, and intimates that God would now visit them according to their iniquities.

Verse 8. I will set a plumb-line] I will visit them by justice without any mixture of mercy.

10 Then Amaziah ^jthe priest of Beth-el sent to *Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13 But ^kprophesy not again any more at Beth-el: ^lfor it is the king's ^mchapel, and it is the *king's court.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I ⁿa prophet's son; ^obut I was an herdman, and a gatherer of ^psycomore fruit:

15 And the LORD took me ^qas I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and ^rdrop not thy word against the house of Isaac.

17 ^sTherefore thus saith the Lord; ^tThy wife shall be an harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land: and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

*Or, sanctuary.—^oHeb. house of the kingdom.—^p1 Kings xx. 35. 2 Kings ii. 5. iv. 38 vi. 1.—^qCh. i. 1. Zech. xiii. 5.—^rOr, wild figs. ^sHeb. from behind.—^tEzek. xxi. 2. Micah ii. 6.—^uSee Jer. xxviii. 12. xxix. 21, 25, 31, 32.—^vIsa. xlii. 16. Lam. v. 11. Hos. iv. 13. Zech. xiv. 2.

Verse 9. And the high places of Isaac shall be desolate] The high place of Isaac was Beer-sheba, where Isaac had built an altar to the Lord, Gen. xxvi. 25. This was demolished by Josiah, king of Judah, 2 Kings xxiii. 8.

I will rise against the house of Jeroboam] Zechariah, the son of Jeroboam, was murdered by Shallum after he had reigned six months, and in him the family became extinct.

Verse 10. Amaziah the priest of Beth-el] The idolatrous priest who had been established by the king to maintain the worship of the golden calves which Jeroboam the elder had set up at this place.

Amos hath conspired against thee] This was truly a lying prophet; there is not one word of truth in this message which he sent to Jeroboam.

Verse 12. O thou seer] He pretends kindness to the prophet, and counsels him to go into Judea, and prophesy there and be safe, even at the time that he had accused him of high treason against Jeroboam.

Verse 13. But prophesy not—at Bethel] He must not speak against idolatry, because that was the king's religion; and he who speaks against the king's religion must be an enemy to the state.

Verse 14. I was no prophet] I am an extraordinary messenger of God. I am not called to the prophetic office but for this occasion. I have no message to Judah, and therefore need not go there. I have a message to Israel alone, and I must faithfully deliver it.

Verse 16. Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord] While he was speaking in his own vindication, God seems to have inspired him with the awful prediction which he immediately delivers.

Verse 17. Thy wife shall be an harlot] As this was the word of the Lord, so it was fulfilled; but as we have no further account of this idolatrous priest, so we cannot tell in what circumstances these threatenings were executed.

CHAPTER VIII.

This chapter begins with a fourth vision denoting the certainty and nearness of the destruction of Israel, 1-3. The prophet then proceeds to reprove their oppression and injustice, 4-7. Strong and beautiful figures, by which is represented the complete dissolution of the Israelitish polity, 8-10. The people threatened with a most awful judgment: a FAMINE of the word of God, 11-14.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and behold a basket of summer fruit.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me, "The end is come upon my people of Israel; ^b I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And "the songs of the temple ^d shall be howlings in that day, saith the Lord GOD: there shall be many dead bodies in every place; "they shall cast them forth 'with silence.

4 Hear this, O ye that "swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail, 5 Saying, When will the "new moon be gone, that we may sell corn? and "the sabbath, that we may "set forth wheat, "making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and "falsifying the balances by deceit?

6 That we may buy the poor for "silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The LORD hath sworn by "the excellency of Jacob, Surely "I will never forget any of their works.

8 ^p Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood; and it shall be cast out and drowned, "as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, "that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 "And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; "and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; "and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but "of hearing the words of the LORD:

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

13 In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst.

14 They that "swear by "the sin of Samaria, and say, "Thy god, O Dan, liveth; and, The "manner "of Beer-sheba liveth; even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

^a Ezek. vii. 2.—^b Ch. vii. 8.—^c Ch. v. 23.—^d Heb. shall howl.—^e Ch. vi. 9, 10.—^f Heb. be silent.—^g Ps. xiv. 4. Prov. xxx. 14.—^h Or. month.—ⁱ Neh. xiii. 15, 16.—^j Heb. open.—^k Mic. vi. 11, 11.—^l Heb. perverting the balances of deceit. Hos. xii. 7.—^m Ch. ii. 6.—ⁿ Ch. vi. 8.—^o Hos. viii. 13. ix. 9.—^p Hos. iv. 3.—^q Ch. ix. 5.

^r Job v. 14. Isa. xlii. 10. lix. 9, 10. Jer. xv. 9. Mic. iii. 6.—^s Isa. i. 14. Tob. ii. 6.—^t Isa. xv. 2, 3. Jer. xlviii. 37. Ezek. vii. 18. xxvii. 31.—^u Jer. vi. 26. Zech. xii. 10.—^v 1 Sam. iii. 1. Ps. lxxiv. 9. Ezek. vii. 26.—^w Hos. iv. 15.—^x Deut. ix. 21.—^y Heb. way. See Acts ix. 2. xviii. 25. xix. 9, 23. xxiv. 14.—^z Ch. v. 6.

Verse 1. A basket of summer fruit.] As summer fruit was not proper for preserving, but must be eaten as soon as gathered, so the Lord intimates by this symbol that the kingdom of Israel was now ripe for destruction, and that punishment must descend upon it without delay.

Verse 3. The songs of the temple.] Instead of joyous songs, they shall have nothing but lamentation.

They shall cast them forth with silence.] Every place shall be filled with the dead, and a dreadful silence shall reign universally; the few that remain being afraid either to speak or complain, or even to chant a funeral dirge for the most respectable of the dead.

Verse 5. When will the new moon be gone? This was kept as a kind of holy day, not by divine command, but by custom. The sabbath was strictly holy; and yet so covetous were they that they grudged to give to God and their own souls this seventh portion of time! But bad and execrable as they were, they were saints when compared to multitudes called Christians, who keep their shops either partially or entirely open on the Lord's day, and buy and sell without any scruple of conscience.

Making the ephah small, and the shekel great.] Giving short measure, and taking full price; or, buying with a heavy weight, and selling with one that was light.

Falsifying the balances.] Having one scale light, and the other weighty; one end of the beam long, and the other short. So we find that though the knaves of ancient Israel are dead, they have left their successors behind them.

Verse 6. That we may buy the poor for silver.] Buying their services for such a time, with just money enough to clear them from other creditors.

And sell the refuse of the wheat?] Selling bad wheat and damaged flour to poor people as good, knowing that such cannot afford to prosecute them.

Verse 7. By the excellency of Jacob.] By the state of eminence to which he had raised the descendants of Jacob; or, by the excellent ONE of Jacob, that is, HIMSELF.

Verse 8. Shall not the land tremble for this?] It is supposed that an earthquake is here intended, and that the rising up and subsiding as a flood refers to that heaving motion that takes place in an earthquake, and which the prophet here compares to the overflowing and subsiding of the waters of the Nile. But it may refer to commotions among the people.

Verse 9. I will cause the sun to go down at noon.] This may either refer to that darkness which often precedes and accompanies earthquakes, or to an eclipse.

Verse 11. A famine in the land.] The most grievous of all famines, a famine of the words of Jehovah; a time in which no prophet should appear, none who would point out the way of salvation, or assure them of the mercy of God on their repentance and return to him. This is the severest of God's judgments on this side the worm that never dieth, and the fire that is never quenched.

Verse 12. They shall wander from sea to sea.] From the Mediterranean to the Dead Sea; or from west to east, and from north to south, to seek the word of the Lord; to find a prophet, or any person authorized by God to show them the end of their calamities.

Verse 14. By the sin of Samaria.] Baal, who was worshipped here.

Thy god, O Dan.] The golden calf, or ox, the representative of the Egyptian god Apis, or Osiris.

The manner of Beer-sheba.] The worship, or object of worship. The word derech, way, is here taken for the object and mode of worship; see Acts xix. 2, where way is taken for the creed and form of divine worship as practised by the followers of Christ, and by which they were distinguished from the Jews.

CHAPTER IX.

The first part of this chapter contains another vision, in which God is represented as declaring the final ruin of the kingdom of Israel, and the general dispersion of the people, 1-10. The prophet then passes to the great blessedness of the people of God under the gospel dispensation, 11-15. See Acts xv. 15, 16.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the altar : and he said, Smite the ^a lintel of the door, that the posts may shake : and ^b cut ^c them in the head, all of them ; and I will slay the last of them with the sword : ^d he that fleeth of them shall not flee away, and he that escapeth of them shall not be delivered.

2 ^e Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them : ^f though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down :

3 And though they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence ; and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them :

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, ^g thence will I command the sword, and it shall take them : and ^h I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord God of hosts ⁱ is he that toucheth the land, and it shall ^j melt, ^k and all that dwell therein shall mourn : and it shall rise up wholly like a flood ; and shall be drowned, as ^l by the flood of Egypt.

6 ^m It is he that buildeth his ⁿ stories ^o in the heaven, and hath founded his ^p troop in the earth ;

^a Or, chapter, or knop.—^b Or, wound them.—^c Ps. lxxviii. 21. Hab. iii. 13.—^d Ch. ii. 14.—^e Ps. cxxxix. 3, &c.—^f Job. xx. 6. Jer. li. 53. Obad. 4.—^g Lev. xxvi. 83. Deut. xxviii. 65. Ezek. v. 12.—^h Lev. xvii. 10. Jer. xlii. 11.—ⁱ Mic. i. 4.—^j Ch. vii. 8.—^k Or, spheres.—^l Heb. ascensions.—^m Ps. civ. 3, 13.—ⁿ Or, bundle.—^o Ch.

Verse 1. I saw the Lord standing upon the altar] As this is a continuation of the preceding prophecy, the altar here may be one of those either at Dan or Beer-sheba.

And cut them in the head] Let all the lintels of all the doors of all those temples be thus cut, as a sign that the whole shall be thrown down and totally demolished. Or this may refer to their heads—chief men, who were principals in these transgressions.

He that fleeth—shall not flee away] He shall be caught before he can get out of the reach of danger.

And he that escapeth [that makes good his flight] shall not be delivered.] Captivity, famine, or sword shall reach him even there.

Verse 2. Though they dig into hell] Though they should get into the deepest caverns ; and get to the most inaccessible heights ; I will drag them up from the one, and pull them down from the other.

Verse 4. I will set mine eyes upon them for evil] I will use that very providence against them which before worked for their good.

Verse 5. The Lord God of hosts is he] So powerful is he that a touch of his hand shall melt or dissolve the land, and cause all its inhabitants to mourn.

Verse 6. Buildeth his stories in the heaven] There is here an allusion to large houses, where there are cellars, or places dug in the ground as repositories for corn ; ^a middle apartments, or stories, for the families to live in ; and the house-top for persons to take the air upon. There may be here a reference to the various systems which God has formed in illimitable space, transcending each other as the planets do in our solar system.

Hath founded his troop in the earth] Aguddatho, from agad, to bind or gather together, possibly meaning the seas and other collections of waters which he has gathered together and bound by his perpetual decree, that they cannot pass ; yet when he calleth for these very waters, as in the he that calleth for the ^a waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth : ^b The Lord is his name.

7 ^c Are ye not as children of the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Israel ? saith the Lord. Have not I brought up Israel out of the land of Egypt ? and the ^d Philistines from ^e Caphtor, and the Syrians from ^f Kir ?

8 Behold, ^g the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I ^h will destroy it from off the face of the earth ; saving that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the Lord.

9 For, lo, I will command, and I will ⁱ sift the house of Israel among all nations, like as corn is sifted in a sieve, yet shall not the least ^j grain fall upon the earth.

10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, ^k which say, The evil shall not overtake nor prevent us.

11 ^l In that day will I raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, and ^m close up the breaches thereof ; and I will raise up his ruins, and I will build it as in the days of old :

12 ⁿ That they may possess the remnant of ^o Edom, and of all the heathen, ^p which are called by my name, saith the Lord that doeth this.

v. 8.—^a Ch. iv. 13.—^b Jer. xvii. 4.—^c Deut. ii. 23. Jer. xlvii. 4.—^d Ch. i. 5.—^e Ver. 4.—^f Jer. xxx. 11. xxxi. 35, 36. Obad. 16, 17.—^g Heb. cause to move.—^h Heb. stone.—ⁱ Ch. vi. 3.—^j Acts xv. 16, 17.—^k Heb. hedge or wall.—^l Obad. 19.—^m Num. xxiv. 18.—ⁿ Heb. upon whom my name is called.

general deluge, he “ poureth them out upon the face of the earth.”

The Lord is his name.] This points out his infinite essence. But what is that essence ? and what is his nature ? and what his immensity and eternity ? What archangel can tell ?

Verse 7. Children of the Ethiopians] The meaning of the verse is this : Do not presume on my having brought you out of the land of Egypt and house of bondage, into a land flowing with milk and honey. I have brought other nations, and some of your neighbours, who are your enemies, from comparatively barren countries, into fruitful territories ; such, for instance, as the Philistines from Caphtor, and the Syrians from Kir.

Verse 8. The eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom] The kingdom of Israel, peculiarly sinful ; and therefore to be signally destroyed by the Assyrians.

I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob] The race shall not become extinct : I will reserve them as monuments of my justice, and finally of my mercy.

Verse 9. I will sift the house of Israel among all nations] I will disperse them over the face of the earth ; and yet I will so order it that the good shall not be lost.

The least grain] Tseror, little stone, pebble, or gravel. All shall be collected in Christ, and brought into their own land.

Verse 10. All the sinners of my people] It is no evidence of a man's safety that he is presumptuously fearless. There is a blessing to him who trembles at God's word.

Verse 11. Will I raise up the tabernacle of David] This prophecy remains to be fulfilled. It must refer to their restoration under the gospel, when they shall receive the Lord Jesus as the Messiah, and be by him restored to their own land. See these words quoted by James, Acts xv. 17.

Verse 13. The plowman shall overtake the reaper] All the seasons shall succeed in due natural order ; but the crops shall be so copious in the fields and in the vineyards, that a 13 Behold ^athe days come, saith the LORD, that the plowman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that ^bsoweth seed; ^cand the mountains shall drop ^dsweet wine, and all the hills shall melt.

14 ^aAnd I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel, and ^bthey shall build the waste cities, ^aLev. xxvi. 5.—^bHeb. draweth forth.—^cJoel iii. 18.—^dOr, new wine.—^eJer. xxx. 8.

long time shall be employed in gathering and disposing of them; so that the seasons shall press on the heels of each other; so vast will be the abundance, and so long the time necessary to gather and cure the grain and fruits. These are all poetical and prophetic images, by which happy times are pointed out.

and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof; they shall also make gardens, and eat the fruit of them.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and ^athey shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the LORD thy God.

^aIsa. lxi. 4. Ixv. 21. Ezek. xxxvi. 33-36.—^bIsa. lx. 21. Jer. xxxii. 41. Ezek. xxxiv. 28. Joel iii. 20.

Verse 15. I will plant them upon the land] They shall receive a permanent establishment there.

And they shall no more be pulled up] Most certainly this prophecy has never yet been fulfilled. I conclude, as the word of God cannot fail, and this has not yet been fulfilled, it therefore follows that it will and must be fulfilled to the fulness of its spirit and intention.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET OBADIAH

OBADIAH.

God is here represented as summoning the nations against Edom, and declaring that his strongholds should not save him, 1-4; that not a remnant, not a gleanings, should be left of him, 5; that the enemy would search out his people, and totally subdue them; and that none of their allies should stand by them, 6-9. He then enlarges on their particular offence, and threatens them with a speedy recompence, 10-16. The Babylonians accordingly subdued the Edomites, and expelled them from Arabia Petraea, of which they never afterwards recovered possession. The remaining verses contain a prophecy of the restoration of the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, and of their victory over all their enemies, 17-21. Some commentators think that these last verses were fulfilled by the conquests of the Maccabees over the Edomites. See 1 Macc. v. 3-5, 65, &c.

THE vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord God ^a concerning Edom; ^b We have heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassador is sent among the heathen, Arise ye, and let us rise up against her in battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art greatly despised.

3 The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts ^c of the rock, whose habitation is high; ^d that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 ^e Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou ^f set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord.

5 If ^g thieves came to thee, if robbers by night, (how art thou cut off!) would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, ^h would they not leave ⁱ some grapes?

^a Isa. xxi. 11. xxxiv. 5. Ezek. xxv. 12, 13, 14. Joel iii. 19. Mal. 1. 3.—^b Jer. xlix. 14, &c.—^c 2 Kings xiv. 7.—^d Isa. xlv. 13, 14. 15. Rev. xvii. 7.—^e Job. xx. 6. Jer. xlix. 16. 11. 63. Amos ix. 2.—^f Isa. xlv. 13. Nah. iii. 16. Hab. ii. 9.—^g Jer. xlix. 9.—^h Deut. xxiv. 21. Isa. xvii. 6. xxiv. 13.—ⁱ Or, gleanings.—Heb. the men of

Who was this prophet? where born? of what country? at what time did he prophesy? who were his parents? when and where did he die? are questions which have been asked from the remotest antiquity: and which, to this day, have received no answer worthy of recording. There is a multitude of opinions concerning these points: and their multitude and discrepancy are the strongest proofs of their uncertainty. All that seems probable is, that, as he prophesied concerning the destruction of Edom, he flourished a little before, or a little after, the taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, which happened about five hundred and eighty-eight years before Christ; and the destruction of Idumea by the same monarch, which took place a short time after; probably between 588 B. C. and 575 B. C., in the interval of the thirteen years which Nebuchadnezzar employed in the siege of Tyre, which he undertook immediately after the capture of Jerusalem.

Verse 1. We have heard a rumour] See Jer. xlix. 14, where the same expressions are found.

Verse 2. I have made thee small among the heathen] God ever attributes to himself the rise and fall of nations. If they be great and prosperous, it is by God's providence; if they be low and depressed, it is by his justice.

Verse 3. The pride of thine heart] St. Jerome observes that all the southern part of Palestine was full of caverns 6 How are the things of Esau searched out! how are his hidden things sought up!

7 All the men of thy confederacy have brought thee even to the border: ^a the ^b men that were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee; ^c they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee: ^d there is none understanding ^e in him.

8 ^f Shall I not in that day, saith the Lord, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding out of the mount of Esau?

9 And thy ^g mighty men, O ^h Teman, shall be dismayed, to the end that every one of the mount of Esau may be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy ⁱ violence against thy brother Jacob shame shall cover thee, and ^j thou shalt be cut off forever.

11 In the day that thou stoodest on the other thy peace.—^a Jer. xxxviii. 22.—^b Heb. the men of thy bread.—^c Isa. xix. 11, 12.—^d Or, of it.—^e Job. v. 12, 13. Isa. xxix. 14. Jer. xlix. 7.—^f Ps. lxxvi. 6. Amos. ii. 16.—^g Jer. xlix. 7.—^h Gen. xxvii. 11. Ps. cxxxvii. 7. Ezek. xxv. 12. xxxv. 5. Amos i. 11.—ⁱ Ezek. xxxv. 9. Mal. i. 4.

hewn out of the rocks, and that the people had subterranean dwellings similar to ovens. Here they are said to dwell in the clefts of the rock, in reference to the caverns above mentioned.

Verse 4. Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle] Though like this bird thou get into the highest cliff of the highest rock, it will not avail thee.

Verse 5. If thieves came to thee] Thou art totally and irretrievably ruined! The prophet speaks of this desolation as if it had already taken place.

Verse 7. All the men of thy confederacy] The Chaldeans are here intended, to whom the Idumeans were attached, and whose agents they became in exercising cruelties upon the Jews.

Have brought thee even to the border] Have hemmed thee in on every side, and reduced thee to distress, or they have driven thee to thy border: cast thee out of thy own land into the hands of thine enemies.

The men that were at peace with thee] The men of thy covenant, with whom thou hadst made a league.

That eat thy bread] That professed to be thy firmest friends, have all joined together to destroy thee.

There is none understanding in him.] Private counsels and public plans are all in operation against thee; and yet thou art so foolish and infatuated as not to discern thy own danger.

side, in the day that the strangers "carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and "cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But "thou shouldest not have "looked on "the day of thy brother in the day that he became a stranger; neither shouldest thou have "rejoiced over the children of Judah in the day of their destruction; neither shouldest thou have "spoken proudly in the day of distress.

13 Thou shouldest not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their calamity; yea, thou shouldest not have looked on their affliction in the day of their calamity, nor have laid hand on their "substance in the day of their calamity.

14 Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway, to cut off those of his that did escape; neither shouldest thou have "delivered up those of his that did remain in the day of distress.

15 "For the day of the Lord is near upon all the heathen: "as thou hast done, it shall be done unto thee: thy reward shall return upon thine own head.

16 "For as ye have drunk upon my holy moun-

*Or, carried away his substance.—b Joel. iii. 3. Nah. iii. 10.—
*Or, do not behold, &c.—d Ps. xxii. 17. liv. 7. lix. 10. Mic. iv. 11. vii. 10.—e Ps. xxxvii. 13. cxxxvii. 7.—f Job. xxxi. 29. Mic. vii. 8. Prov. xvii. 5. xxiv. 17. 18.—g Heb. magnified thy mouth.—h Or, forces.—i Or, shut up. Ps. xxxi. 8.—i Ezek. xxx. 8. Joel iii. 14.—
Ezek. xxxv. 15. Hab. ii. 8.—j Jer. xxv. 28, 29. xlix. 12. Joel

Verse 8. Shall I not—destroy the wise men] It appears from Jer. xlix. 7, that the Edomites were remarkable for wisdom, counsel, and prudence.

Verse 9. Thy mighty men, O Teman] This was one of the strongest places in Idumea; and is put here, as in Amos i. 2, and elsewhere, for Idumea itself.

Mount of Esau] Mount Seir.

Verse 10. For thy violence against thy brother Jacob] By this term the Israelites in general are understood; for the two brothers—Jacob, from whom sprang the Jews, and Esau, from whom sprang the Idumeans or Edomites—are here put for the whole people or descendants of both. We need not look for particular cases of the violence of the Edomites against the Jews.

Verse 11. Thou stoodest on the other side] Thou not only didst not help thy brother when thou mightest, but thou didst assist his foes against him.

And cast lots] When the Chaldeans cast lots on the spoils of Jerusalem, thou didst come in for a share of the booty; "thou wast as one of them."

Verse 12. Thou shouldest not have looked] It shows a malevolent heart to rejoice in the miseries of those who have acted unkindly or wickedly towards us.

Verse 14. Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway] They are represented here as having stood in the passes and defiles to prevent the poor Jews from escaping from the Chaldeans. By stopping these passes, they threw the poor fugitives back into the teeth of their enemies.

Verse 15. The day of the Lord is near] God will not associate thee with him in the judgments which he inflicts. Thou also art guilty, and shalt have thy punishment in due course with the other sinful nations.

Verse 16. For as ye have drunk] This address is to the Jews. As we have been visited and punished upon my holy mountain in Jerusalem, so shall other nations be punished in their respective countries. See Jer. xlix. 12.

Verse 17. But upon Mount Zion shall be deliverance] Here is a promise of the return from the Babylonish captivity. They shall come to Zion, and there they shall find safety; and it is remarkable that after their return they were greatly befriended by the Persian kings, and by Alexander the Great and his successors; so that, whilst they ravaged the neighbouring nations, the Jews were unmolested.

And there shall be holiness] They shall return to God, separate themselves from their idols, and become a better tain, so shall all the heathen drink continually, yea, they shall drink, and they shall "swallow down, and they shall be as though they had not been.

17 "But upon Mount Zion "shall be "deliverance and "there shall be holiness; and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.

18 And the house of Jacob "shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau for stubble, and they shall kindle in them, and devour them; and there shall not be any remaining of the house of Esau; for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And they of the south "shall possess the mount of Esau; "and they of the plain the Philistines: and they shall possess the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria: and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel shall possess that of the Canaanites, even "unto Zarephath; and the captivity of Jerusalem, "which is in Sepharad, "shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And "saviours shall come up on Mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau; and the "kingdom shall be the Lord's.

iii. 17. 1 Pet. iv. 17.—m Or, sup up.—n Joel iii. 32.—o Amos ix. 8.— p Or, they that escape.—q Or, it shall be holy. Joel iii. 17.—r Isa. x. 17. Zech. xii. 6.—s Amos ix. 12.—t Zeph. ii. 7.—u 1 Kings xvii. 9, 10.—v Or, shall possess that which is in Sepharad.—w Jer. xxxii. 44.—x 1 Tim. iv. 16. James v. 21.—y Ps. xxii. 28. Dan. ii. 44. vii. 14, 27. Zech. xiv. 9. Luke i. 33. Rev. xi. 15. xix. 6.

people than they were when God permitted them to be carried into captivity.

The house of Jacob shall possess] They were restored to their former possessions. But this may refer also to their future restoration under the gospel, when they shall be truly converted, and become holiness to the Lord; for salvation and holiness shall be the characteristics of Zion—the Christian church, for ever.

Verse 18. The house of Jacob shall be a fire] After their return from captivity the Jews, called here the house of Jacob and the house of Joseph, did break out as a flame upon the Idumeans; they reduced them into slavery; and obliged them to receive circumcision, and practise the rites of the Jewish religion.

There shall not be any remaining] As a people and a nation they shall be totally destroyed. This does not signify that every individual shall be destroyed.

Verse 19. They of the south] The Jews who possessed the southern part of Palestine, should render themselves masters of the mountains of Idumea which were contiguous to them.

They of the plain] From Eleutheropolis to the Mediterranean Sea.

The fields of Samaria] Alexander the Great gave Samaria to the Jews; and John Hyrcanus subdued the same country after his wars with the Syrians.

Benjamin shall possess Gilead] Edom lay to the south; the Philistines to the west; Ephraim to the north; and Gilead to the east. Those who returned from Babylon were to extend themselves everywhere.

Verse 20. Zarephath] Sarepta, a city of the Sidonians, 1 Kings xvii. 9.

Which is in Sepharad] This is a difficult word. Some think the Bosphorus is meant; others, Spain; others, France; others, the Euphrates; others, some district in Chaldea; for there was a city called Sphora, in Mesopotamia, above the division of the Euphrates. Dr. Lightfoot says it was a part of Edom.

Verse 21. And saviours shall come up] Certain persons whom God may choose to be deliverers of his people; such as Zerubbabel, Ezra, Nehemiah, and the Maccabees.

But if we take the whole as referring to the times of the gospel, which I believe is not its primary sense, it may signify the conversion and restoration of the Jews, and that under Jesus Christ the original theocracy shall be restored.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

P R O P H E T J O N A H.

JONAH, the son of Amittai, the fifth of the minor prophets, was a Galilean, a native of Gath-hepher, which is believed to be the same as Jotapata, celebrated for the siege which Josephus the historian there maintained against the Roman army, a little before the destruction of Jerusalem. Gath-hepher was situated in the land of Zebulon, where was the canton of Ophir or Hepher. St. Jerome places it two miles from Sepphoris, in the way towards Tiberias. Some rabbins are of opinion that Jonah was the widow of Sarcpta's son, restored to life by Elijah.

Our Saviour makes frequent mention of Jonah in the Gospels. He says that the Ninevites shall one day rise in judgment against the Jews, and condemn them, because they repented at the preaching of Jonah, and the Jews would not hearken to him who was greater than Jonah. And when the Pharisees required a sign of him to prove his mission, he said that he would give them no other than that of the prophet Jonah, that is to say, of his resurrection, which would complete all his miracles, and render the Jews inexcusable in their hardness of heart.

That there are difficulties in this book every man must allow; and that learned men have differed greatly in their mode of interpreting the book, and explaining these difficulties, is well known. Some have considered it an allegory; referring entirely to Manasseh, and what was done before, during and after the war with Esar-haddon, king of Assyria: Manasseh, being taken prisoner by the Assyrians, and thrust into a dungeon; where, having lain three days and three nights, on his earnest prayer to God in the dungeon, he was delivered, &c. Others have thought, that instead of a fish, a ship is meant, which had the image of a whale on the stern, and might be called the Whale. Others have thought that the whole of the account of Jonah's being swallowed by a great fish, his praying in its belly, and being cast on dry-land, was a dream which he had while fast asleep in the ship. And others state that the whole book is a parable, intending to point out God's justice and mercy, and how prevalent repentance is to turn aside the threatened stroke of divine wrath.

The appeal made to the main facts of this history by our Lord proves that we are to admit of no allegorical exposition of these facts. 1. There was such a person as Jonah. 2. He was swallowed by a sea-monster, in whose belly he was miraculously preserved three days and three nights. 3. This same prophet preached to the Ninevites; and they repented, and turned from their sins under his ministry. This testimony puts an end to all mythological, allegorical, and hypothetical interpretations of those great facts. And in its literal sense alone, I undertake the interpretation of this book.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET JONAH

CHAPTER I.

Jonah, sent to Nineveh, flees to Tarshish, 1-3. He is overtaken by a great tempest, 4-14; thrown into the sea, 15, 16; and swallowed by a fish, in the belly of which he is miraculously preserved alive three days and three nights, 17.

NOW the word of the LORD came unto ^aJonah ^bthe son of Amittai, saying,
2 Arise, go to Nineveh, that ^cgreat city, and cry against it; for ^dtheir wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jonah ^erose up to flee unto ^fTarshish from the presence of the LORD, and went down to ^gJoppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarshish ^hfrom the presence of the LORD.

4 But ⁱthe LORD ^jsent out a great wind into the ^a2 Kings xiv. 25.—^bCalled, Matt. xii. 39, Jonas.—^cGen. x. 11, 12. Ch. iii. 2, 3. iv. 11.—^dGen. xviii. 20, 21. Ezra ix. 6. James v. 4. Rev. xviii. 5.—^eCh. iv. 2.—^f1 Kings x. 22.—^gJosh. xix. 46. 2 Chron. ii. 16. Acts ix. 26.—^hGen. iv. 16. Job i. 12. ii. 7.—

Verse 1. Now the word of the Lord came unto Jonah] As a prophet, it is likely that he had but this one mission.

Verse 2. Go to Nineveh] This was the capital of the Assyrian empire, and one of the most ancient cities of the world, Gen. x. 10; and one of the largest, as it was three days' journey in circumference. It was situated on the Tigris, or a little to the west, or on the west side of that river. It was well peopled, and had at this time one hundred and twenty thousand persons in it reputed to be in a state of infancy, which on a moderate computation would make the whole number six hundred thousand persons. But some, supposing that persons not being able to distinguish their right hand from their left must mean children under two years of age, and reckoning one such child for every twenty persons from that age upwards, make the population amount to two millions five hundred thousand.

Their wickedness is come up before me.] This is a personification of evil. It ascends from earth to heaven; and stands before the supreme Judge, to bear witness against its own delinquency, and that of the persons whom it has seduced.

Verse 3. To flee unto Tarshish] Some say Tartessus, in Spain, near the straits of Gibraltar; others, Tarrus, in Cilicia; and others, Taprobana, or the island of Ceylon, formerly called Taprobah; and Taprobavah in Sanscrit, to the present day. [Tartessus, without doubt.]

And went down to Joppa] This place is the nearest port to Jerusalem on that side of the Mediterranean.

And he found a ship] The Phœnicians carried on a considerable trade with Tartessus, Ezek. xxvii. 12; and it was probably in one of their ships that Jonah embarked.

sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship ^kwas like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and ^lcast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jonah was gone down ^minto the sides of the ship; and he lay, and was fast asleep.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, ⁿcall upon thy God, ^oif so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come,

¹Ps. cvii. 25.—¹Heb. cast forth.—²Heb. thought to be broken.—³So Acts xxvii. 18, 19, 33.—⁴1 Sam. xxiv. 8.—⁵Ps. cvii. 28.—⁶Joel ii. 14.

From the presence of the Lord.] He considered that God was peculiarly resident in Judea; and if he got out of that land, the Lord would most probably appoint another prophet to carry the message; for Jonah appears to have considered the enterprise as difficult and dangerous, and therefore wished to avoid it.

Verse 5. Cried every man unto his god] The ship's crew were all heathens; and, it is probable, heathens who had each a different object of religious worship.

Cast forth the wares] Threw the lading overboard to lighten the ship, hoping the better to ride out the storm.

Jonah was gone down] Most probably into the hold or cabin under the deck; or where they had berths for passengers in the sides of the ship; something in the manner of our packets.

Was fast asleep.] Probably quite exhausted and overcome with distress, which in many cases terminates in a deep sleep.

Verse 6. The shipmaster] Either the captain or the pilot.

Arise, call upon thy God] He supposed that Jonah had his god, as well as they had theirs; and that, as the danger was imminent, every man should use the influence he had, as they were all equally involved in it.

Verse 7. Come, and let us cast lots] This was a very ancient mode of endeavouring to find out the mind of Divine Providence; and in this case it proves that they supposed the storm to have arisen on account of some hidden crime of some person aboard.

The lot fell upon Jonah.] In this case God directed the lot.

Verse 8. Tell us—for whose cause] A very gentle method and let us ^a cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, ^b Tell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; What is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, I am an Hebrew; and I fear ^c the LORD, the God of heaven, ^d which hath made the sea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men ^e exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea ^f may be calm unto us? for the sea ^g wrought, ^h and was tempestuous.

12 And he said unto them, ⁱ Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm of bringing the charge home to himself, and the several questions here asked gave the utmost latitude to make the best of his own case.

^a Josh. vii. 14, 16. 1 Sam. x. 20, 21. xiv. 41, 42. Prov. xvi. 33. Acts i. 23.—^b Josh. vii. 19. 1 Sam. xiv. 43.—^c Or, JEHOVAH.—^d Ps. cxlvi. 6. Acts xvii. 24.—^e Heb. with great fear.—^f Heb. may be silent from us.—^g Or, grew more and more tempestuous.—^h Heb. went.—ⁱ John xi. 50.—^j Heb. digged.—^k Prov. xxi. 30.—

Verse 9. I fear the Lord] In this Jonah was faithful. He gave an honest testimony concerning the God he served, which placed him before the eyes of the sailors as infinitely higher than the objects of their adoration: for the God of Jonah was the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land, and governed both. He also honestly told them that he was fleeing from the presence of this God, whose honourable call he had refused to obey.

Verse 11. What shall we do unto thee] In these poor men there was an uncommon degree of humanity and tender feeling.

Verse 12. I know that for my sake] I am not worthy to live; throw me overboard. God will not quiet the storm till I am cast out of the ship.

Verse 13. The men rowed hard] Were very unwilling to proceed to this extremity, and thought they would risk every thing rather than cast this disobedient prophet into the great deep.

Verse 14. They cried unto the Lord] Under a conviction that he was the self-existing Being, the Maker of the heavens unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless the men ^j rowed hard to bring it to the land; ^k but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and ^l lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, ^m hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him forth into the sea: ⁿ and the sea ^o ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men ^p feared the LORD exceedingly, and ^q offered a sacrifice unto the LORD, and made vows.

17 Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And ^r Jonah was in the ^s belly of the fish three days and three nights.

¹ Deut. xxi. 8.—² Ps. cxv. 3.—³ Ps. lxxxix. 9. Luke viii. 24.—⁴ Heb. stood.—⁵ Mark iv. 41. Acts v. 11.—⁶ Heb. sacrificed a sacrifice unto the LORD, and vowed vows.—⁷ Matt. xii. 40. xvi. 4. Luke xi. 30.—⁸ Heb. bowels.

and the earth, and the author of the present storm, they put up their prayers to him.

Let us not perish for this man's life] They were now about to cast him overboard; but seemed to call God to witness that it was with the utmost reluctance, and only in obedience to his command.

Verse 16. Offered a sacrifice] The first perhaps ever offered on board a vessel, since the ark floated on the waters of the great deluge; and it is most probable that these heathens, witnessing what was done became sincere converts to the true God.

Verse 17. Now the Lord had prepared a great fish] Dag gadol. This could not have been a whale for the throat of that animal can scarcely admit a man's leg; but it might have been a shark, which abounds in the Mediterranean, and whose mouth and stomach are exceedingly capacious. See the note on Matt. xii. 40, where the whole subject of this verse is considered at large. That days and nights do not, among the Hebrews, signify complete days and nights of twenty-four hours, see Esth. iv. 16, compared with chap. v. 1, Judg. xiv. 17, 18. Our Lord lay in the grave one natural day, and part of two others; and it is most likely that this was the precise time that Jonah was in the fish's belly.

CHAPTER II.

This chapter (except the first verse and the last, which make a part of the narrative) contains a beautiful prayer or hymn, formed of those devout thoughts which Jonah had in the belly of the great fish, with a thanksgiving for his miraculous deliverance.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish's belly,
2 And said, I ^a cried ^b by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, ^c and he heard me:

^a Ps. cxx. 1. cxxx. 1. cxlii. 1. Lam. iii. 65, 66.—^b Or, out of mine affliction.

Verse 1. Then Jonah prayed—out of the fish's belly] It may be asked, "How could Jonah either pray or breathe in the stomach of the fish?" Very easily, if God so willed it. And let the reader keep this constantly in view; the whole is a miracle, from Jonah's being swallowed by the fish till he was cast ashore by the same animal.

out of the belly of ^d hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 ^e For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the ^f midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me

¹ Ps. lxxv. 2.—² Or, the grave. Isa. xiv. 9.—³ Ps. lxxxviii. 3.—⁴ Heb. heart.

Verse 2. Out of the belly of hell] Among the Hebrews sheol means the grave, any deep pit, the place of separate spirits, &c. Here the prophet represents himself as in the bottom of the sea; for so sheol must be understood in this place.

Verse 3. All thy billows and thy waves passed over me.] about: "all thy billows and thy waves passed over me.

4 ^b Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again "toward thy holy temple.

5 The ^a waters compassed me about, even to the soul; the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head.

6 I went down to the "bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life "from "corruption, O LORD my God.

^a Ps. xlii. 7.—^b Ps. xxxi. 22.—^c 1 Kings viii. 38.—^d Ps. lxi. 1. Lam. iii. 51.—^e Heb. cuttings off.—^f Ps. xvi. 10.—^g Or, the pit.—

This may be understood literally; while the fish, in whose belly he was, sought its pleasure or sustenance in the paths of the deep, the waves and billows of the sea were rolling above. This line seems borrowed from Ps. xlii. 7.

Verse 5. The waters compassed me about even to the soul] So as to seem to deprive me of life. I had no hope left.

The weeds were wrapped about my head.] This may be understood literally also. He found himself in the fish's stomach, together with sea weeds, and such like marine substances, which the fish had taken for its aliment.

Verse 6. I went down to the bottoms of the mountains] This also may be literally understood. The fish followed the slanting base of the mountains, till they terminated in a plain at the bottom of the great deep.

The earth with her bars] He represents himself as a prisoner in a dungeon, closed in with bars which he could not remove, and which at first appeared to be for ever, i. e., the place where his life must terminate.

Yet hast thou brought up my life] The substance of this poetic prayer was composed while in the fish's belly; but afterwards the prophet appears to have thrown it into its present poetic form, and to have added some circumstances.

Verse 7. When my soul fainted] When I had given up all hope of life.

My prayer came in unto thee] Here prayer is personified, and is represented as a messenger going from the distressed,

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: "and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

8 They that observe "lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

9 But I will "sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. "Salvation is of the LORD.

10 And the LORD spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

^a Ps. xviii. 6.—^b 2 Kings xxvii. 15. Ps. xxxi. 6. Jer. x. 8. xvi. 19. ^c Ps. i. 14, 23. cxvi. 17, 18. Hos. xiv. 2. Heb. xliii. 15.—^d Ps. iii. 8.

and entering into the temple of God, and standing before him. This is a very fine and delicate image.

Verse 8. They that observe lying vanities] They that trust in idols, follow vain predictions, permit themselves to be influenced with foolish fears, so as to induce them to leave the path of obvious duty, forsake their own mercy. In leaving that God who is the Fountain of mercy they abandon that measure of mercy which he had treasured up for them.

Salvation is of the Lord.] All deliverance from danger, preservation of life, recovery from sickness, and redemption of the soul from the power, guilt, and pollution of sin, is from Jehovah.

Verse 10. And the Lord spake unto the fish] That is, by his influence the fish swam to the shore, and cast Jonah on the dry land. So the whole was a miracle from the beginning to the end; and we need not perplex ourselves to find out literal interpretations. Some men, because they cannot work a miracle themselves, can hardly be persuaded that God can do it.

The text, and the use made of it by Christ, most plainly teach us that the prophet was literally swallowed by the fish by the order of God; and that by the divine power he was preserved alive, for what is called three days and three nights, in the stomach of the fish; and at the conclusion of the above time that same fish was led by the unseen power of God to the shore, and there compelled to eject the prey that he could neither kill nor digest.

CHAPTER III.

Jonah is sent again to Nineveh, a city of three days' journey (being sixty miles in circumference, according to Diodorus Siculus), 1-4. The inhabitants, in consequence of the prophet's preaching, repent in dust and ashes, 5-9. God, seeing that they were deeply humbled on account of their sins, and that they turned away from all their iniquities, repents of the evil with which he had threatened them, 10.

AND the word of the LORD came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, accord-

^a Heb. of God. ^b Gen. xxx. 8. Ps. xxxvi. 6. lxxx. 10.

Verse 1. And the word of the Lord] The same oracle as that before given; and which, from what he had felt and seen of the justice and mercy of the Lord, he was now prepared to obey.

Verse 2. And preach unto it the preaching] "And cry the cry that I bid thee." Be my herald, and faithfully deliver my message. Such was John Baptist, Isa. xl. 8; such was Jesus Christ, John vii. 18-37; and such were all his apostles. And such earnestness becomes a ministry that has to do with immortal souls, asleep and dead in sin, hanging on the brink of perdition, and insensible of their state. The soft-speaking, gentle-toned, unmoved preacher, is never likely to awaken souls. As we preach, so the people hear; scarcely receiving any counsels that appear to have no im-ing to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an "exceeding great city, of three days' journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and ^b he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 So the people of Nineveh "believed God, and ^b See Deut. xviii. 22.—^c Matt. xii. 41. Luke xi. 32.

portance by the manner in which they are delivered. But this earnestness is widely different from that noisy, blustering, screaming rant, that manifests more of the turbulence of disorderly passions, than of the real inspired influence of the Spirit of God.

Verse 4. Yet forty days] Both the Septuagint and Arabic read three days. But the Hebrew text is undoubtedly the true reading; and it is followed by all the ancient Versions, the Septuagint and Vulgate excepted. Had they only three days' space, the denunciation would have so completely confounded them, as to excite nothing but terror, and prevent repentance and conversion.

Verse 5. The people of Nineveh believed God] They had no doubt that the threatening would be fulfilled, unless proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

7 And he caused it to be proclaimed and published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything: let them not feed, nor drink water.

* Job ii. 8.—2 Chron. xx. 3. Joel ii. 15.—Heb. said.—d Heb. great men.

their speedy conversion prevented it: but, though not expressed, they knew that their threatening was conditional.

Proclaimed a fast] And never was there one so general, so deep, and so effectual.

Verse 6. Word came unto the king] This, some think, was Pul; others, Sardanapalus his son, king of Assyria, who flourished in the reign of Jeroboam the Second: but it seems more probable that the monarch here alluded to was a king of Assyria contemporary with Joash, king of Judah. It was by the decree of the king that the fast was instituted, and became general.

Verse 8. Let man and beast be covered] This was done that every object which they beheld might deepen the 8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands.

9 Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?

10 And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

* Isa. lviii. 6.—Isa. lix. 6.—2 Sam. xii. 22. Joel ii. 14.—Jer. xlviii. 8. Amos vii. 3, 6.

impression already made, and cause them to mourn after a godly sort.

Verse 9. Who can tell if God will turn and repent] There is at least a peradventure for our salvation. God may turn towards us, change his purpose, and save us alive. While there is life there is hope; God has no pleasure in the death of sinners; he is gracious and compassionate. Himself has prescribed repentance; if we repent, and turn to him from our iniquities, who knows then whether God will not turn, &c.

Verse 10. And God saw their works] They repented, and brought forth fruits meet for repentance; works which showed that they did most earnestly repent. He therefore changed his purpose, and the city was saved.

CHAPTER IV.

Jonah, dreading to be thought a false prophet, repines at God's mercy in sparing the Ninevites, whose destruction he seems to have expected, from his retiring to a place without the city about the close of the forty days. But how does he glorify that mercy which he intends to blame! And what an amiable picture does he give of the compassion of God! 1-5. This attribute of the Deity is still farther illustrated by his tenderness and condescension to the prophet himself, who, with all his prophetic gifts, had much of human infirmity, 6-11

BUT it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.

2 And he prayed unto the LORD, and said, I pray thee, O LORD, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

3 Therefore now, O LORD, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live.

* Ch. i. 3.—Exod. xxxiv. 6. Ps. lxxxvi. 5. Joel ii. 13.—1 Kings xix. 4.—d Ver. 8.

Verse 1. But it displeased Jonah exceedingly] He had more respect to his high sense of his own honour than he had to the goodness and mercy of God.

And he was very angry.] Because the prediction was not literally fulfilled; for he totally lost sight of the conditions.

Verse 3. Take, I beseech thee, my life from me] Do not let me survive this disgrace. Thou hast spared this city. I thought thou wouldst do so, because thou art merciful and gracious; and it was on this account that I refused to go at first, as I knew that thou mightest change thy purpose, though thou hadst commanded me to make an absolute denunciation of judgment.

Verse 4. Doest thou well to be angry] "Is anger good for thee?" No, anger is good for no man; but an angry preacher, minister, bishop, or prophet, is an abominable man. He who, in denouncing the word of God against sinners, 4 Then said the LORD, Doest thou well to be angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city.

6 And the LORD God prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning

* Or, Art thou greatly angry?—Or, palmecrist.—Heb. Kikajon.—Heb. rejoiced with great joy.

joins his own passions with the divine threatenings, is a cruel and bad man, and should not be an overseer in God's house.

Verse 5. So Jonah went out of the city] I agree with Bp. Newcome, who translates, "Now Jonah HAD gone out of the city, and HAD sat," &c.; for there are many instances where verbs in the preterite form have its force.

Verse 6. And the Lord God prepared a gourd] I believe this should be rendered in the preterpluperfect tense, The Lord HAD prepared—this plant, kikajon. But what was the kikajon? The best judges say the ricinus or palma Christi, from which we get what is vulgarly called castor oil, is meant. It is a tree as large as the olive, has leaves which are like those of the vine, and is also quick of growth. This in all probability was the plant in question, which had been already planted, though it had not attained its proper rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a ^avehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, ^b*It is better for me to die than to live.*

9 And God said to Jonah, ^cDoest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, ^d*I do well to be angry, even unto death.*

^aOr, silent.—^bVer. 8.—^cOr, Art thou greatly angry.—^dOr, I am greatly angry.—^eOr, spared.

growth, and was not then in full leaf. But it is evident there was something supernatural in the growth of this plant, for it is stated to have come up in a night.

Verse 7. But God prepared a worm] By being eaten through the root, the plant, losing its nourishment, would soon wither; and this was the case in the present instance.

Verse 8. A vehement east wind] Which was of itself of a parching, withering nature; and the sun, in addition, made it intolerable. These winds are both scorching and suffocating in the east, for deserts of burning sand lay to the east or south-east; and the easterly winds often brought such a multitude of minute particles of sand on their wings, as to add greatly to the mischief.

Verse 9. I do well to be angry, even unto death.] Jonah was a prophet, and yet had all his old bad tempers about him, in a shameful predominancy. Balaam was of the same kind. So we find that God gave the gift of prophecy, even to graceless men. But many of the prophets were sanctified in their nature before their call to the prophetic office, and were the most excellent of men.

Verse 11. And should not I spare Nineveh?] How much is 10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast ^ehad pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which ^fcame up in a night and perished in a night:

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, ^gthat great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons ^hthat cannot discern between their right hand, and their left hand; and also much ⁱcattle?

^fHeb. was the son of the night.—^gCh. i. 2. iii. 2, 3.—^hDeut. i. 39.—ⁱPs. xxxvi. 6. cxlv. 9.

the city better than the shrub? But besides this there are in it one hundred and twenty thousand persons! And shall I destroy them, rather than thy shade should be withered, or thy word apparently fail! And besides, these persons are young, and have not offended (for they knew not the difference between their right hand and their left); and should not I feel more pity for those innocents than thou dost for the fine flowering plant which is withered in a night, being itself exceedingly short-lived? Add to all this, they have now turned from those sins which induced me to denounce judgment against them. And should I destroy them who are now fasting and afflicting their souls; and covered with sackcloth, are lying in the dust before me, bewailing their offences and supplicating for mercy? Learn, then, from this, that it is the incorrigibly wicked on whom my judgments must fall, and against whom they are threatened.

This last expostulation of God, it is to be hoped, produced its proper effect on the mind of this irritable prophet; and that he was fully convinced that in this, as in all other cases, God had done all things well.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK
OF THE
P R O P H E T M I C A H

MICAH, he Morasthite, or of Moresa, a village near the city Eleutheropolis, in the southern part of Judah, is the sixth in order of the twelve minor prophets. He prophesied under Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, for about fifty years. Some have confounded him with Micaiah, son of Imlah, who lived in the kingdom of the ten tribes under the reign of Ahab.

The spurious Dorotheus says that Micah was buried in the burying-place of the Anakim, whose habitation had been at Hebron, and round about it. This prophet appeared almost at the same time with Isaiah, and has even borrowed some expressions from him. Compare Isa. ii. 2 with Mic. iv. 1, and Isa. xli. 15 with Mic. iv. 13.

There are few beauties of composition of which examples may not be found in this prophet. For sublimity and impressiveness in several places, he is unrivalled. The Lord's controversy, chap. vi. 1-8, is equal to any thing even in the prophet Isaiah. It has a powerful effect on every attentive reader.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET MICAH.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet begins with calling the attention of all people to the awful descent of Jehovah, coming to execute his judgments against the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 1-5; first against Samaria, whose fate the prophet laments in the dress of mourners, and with the doleful cries of the fox or ostrich, 6-8; and then against Jerusalem, which is threatened with the invasion of Sennacherib. Other cities of Judah are likewise threatened; and their danger represented to be so great as to oblige them to have recourse for protection even to their enemies the Philistines, from whom they desired at first to conceal their situation. But all resources are declared to be vain; Israel and Judah must go into captivity, 9-16.

THE word of the LORD that came to *Micah the Morasthite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, ^b which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 ^c Hear, all ye people; ^d hearken, O earth, and ^e all that therein is: and let the Lord God ^f be witness against you, the Lord from ^g his holy temple.

3 For behold, ^h the Lord cometh forth out of his ⁱ place, and will come down, and tread upon the ^j high places of the earth.

4 And ^k the mountains shall be molten under him, and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down ^l a steep place.

*Jer. xxvi. 18.—^b Amos i. 1.—^c Heb. Hear, ye people, all of them.—^d Deut. xxxii. 1. Isa. i. 2.—^e Heb. the fulness thereof.—^f Ps. l. 7. Mal. iii. 5.—^g Ps. xl. 4. Jonah ii. 7. Hab. ii. 20.—^h Isa. xxvi. 21.—ⁱ Ps. cxv. 3.—^j Deut. xxxii. 13. xxxiii. 29. Amos iv. 13.—

Verse 1. In the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah] These three kings reigned about threescore years; and Micah is supposed to have prophesied about forty or fifty years; but no more of his prophecies have reached posterity than what are contained in this book, nor is there any evidence that any more was written. His time appears to have been spent chiefly in preaching and exhorting; and he was directed to write those parts only that were calculated to profit the succeeding generation.

Verse 2. Hear, all ye people] The very commencement of this prophecy supposes preceding exhortations and predictions.

Hearken, O earth] Arete, here, should be translated land, the country of the Hebrews being only intended.

And let the Lord God be witness] Let him who has sent me with this message be witness that I have delivered it faithfully; and be a witness against you, if you take not the warning.

The Lord from his holy temple] The temple was yet standing, for Jerusalem was not taken for many years after this; and these prophecies were delivered before the captivity

5 For the transgression of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what are the high places of Judah? are they not Jerusalem?

6 Therefore I will make Samaria ^a as an heap of the field, and as plantings of a vineyard: and I will pour down the stones thereof into the valley, and I will ^b discover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof shall be beaten to pieces, and all the ^c hires thereof shall be burned with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I lay desolate: for she hath gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall return to the hire of an harlot.

*Judg. v. 5. Ps. xviii. 5. Isa. lxiv. 1, 2, 3. Amos ix. 5. Hab. iii. 6, 10.—^a Heb. a descent.—^b 2 Kings xix. 25. Ch. iii. 12.—^c Ezek. xiii. 14.—^d Hos. ii. 5, 12.

of the ten tribes, as Micah appears to have been sent both to Israel and to Judah.

Verse 3. For, behold, the Lord cometh forth] He represents Jehovah as a mighty conqueror, issuing from his pavilion, stepping from mountain to mountain, which rush down and fill the valleys before him; a consuming fire accompanying him, that melts and confounds every hill and dale, and blends all in universal confusion.

Verse 5. What is the transgression of Jacob?] Is it not something extremely grievous? Is it not that of Samaria? Samaria and Jerusalem, the chief cities, are infected with idolatry. Each had its high places, and its idol worship, in opposition to the worship of the true God. That there was idolatry practised by the elders of Israel, even in the temple of Jehovah. See Ezek. viii. 1, &c.

Verse 6. I will make Samaria] I will bring it to desolation; and, instead of being a royal city, it shall be a place for vineyards.

I will discover the foundations thereof] I will cause its walls and fortifications to be razed to the ground.

Verse 7. All the hires thereof shall be burned] Multitudes

8 Therefore * I will wail and howl, ^b I will go stripped and naked: * I will make a wailing like the dragons, and mourning as the ^c owls.

9 For * her wound is incurable; for 'it is come unto Judah; he is come unto the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 * Declare ye it not at Gath, weep ye not at all: in the house of ^a Aphrah ¹ roll thyself in the dust.

11 Pass ye away, ¹ thou ^a inhabitant of Saphir, having thy ¹ shame naked: the inhabitant of ^a Zaanan came not forth in the mourning of ^a Beth-ezel; he shall receive of you his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth ^a waited carefully for good: but ^a evil came down from the LORD unto the gate of Jerusalem.

^a Isa. xxi. 8. xxli. 4. Jer. iv. 19. ^b Isa. xx. 2, 3, 4. ^c Job. xxx. 29. 1 s. cit. 6. ^d Heb. daughters of the owl. ^e Or, she is grievously sick of her wounds. ^f 2 Kings xviii. 13. Isa. viii. 7, 8. ^g 2 Sam. i. 20. ^h That is, dust. ⁱ Jer. vi. 26. ^j Or, thou that dwellest fairly. ^k Heb. inhabitress. ^l Isa. xx. 4. xlvii. 2, 3. Jer. xiii. 22. Nah. iii. 5. ^m Or, the country of flocks. ⁿ Or, a place near. ^o Or, was of women gave the money they gained by their public prostitution at the temples for the support of the priesthood, the ornamenting of the walls, altars, and imagos.

Verse 8. I will make a wailing like the dragons] The jackal.

Travellers inform us that its howlings by night are most lamentable; and as to the ostrich, it is remarkable for its fearful shrieking and agonizing groanings after night.

Verse 9. Her wound is incurable] Nothing shall prevent their utter ruin, for they have filled up the measure of their iniquity.

He is come—even to Jerusalem.] The desolation and captivity of Israel shall first take place; that of Judah shall come after.

Verse 10. Declare ye it not at Gath] Do not let this prediction be known among the Philistines, else they will glory over you.

House of Aphrah] Or, Beth-aphrah. This place is mentioned, Josh. xviii. 23, as in the tribe of Benjamin.

Verse 11. Inhabitant of Saphir] Sapher, Sepphoris, or Sephora, was a city in the tribe of Judah, between Eleutheropolis and Ascalon. [This is doubtful.]

Zaanan] Another city in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv. 18. [This, too, is unknown.]

Beth-ezel] A place near Jerusalem, Zech. xiv. 5. Some think that Jerusalem itself is intended by this word.

13 O thou inhabitant of ^a Lachish, bind the chariot to the swift beast: she is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou ^a give presents ^a to Moresheth-gath: the houses of ^a Achzib ^a shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O inhabitant of ^a Mareshah: ^a he shall come unto ^a Adullam, the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee ^a bald, and poll thee for thy ^a delicate children; enlarge thy baldness as the eagle; for they are gone into captivity from thee.

grieved.—^a Amos iii. 6.—^b 2 Kings xviii. 14, 17.—^c 2 Sam. viii. 2. 2 Kings xviii. 14, 15, 16.—^d Or, for.—^e That is, a lie.—^f Josh. xv. 44.—^g Josh. xv. 44.—^h Or, the glory of Israel shall come, &c.—ⁱ 2 Chron. xi. 7.—^j Job. i. 20. Isa. xv. 2. xxii. 12. Jer. vii. 29. xvi. 6. xlvii. 5. xviii. 87.—^k Lam. iv. 5.

Verse 12. The inhabitant of Maroth] There was a city of a similar name in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv. 59.

Verse 13. Inhabitant of Lachish] This city was in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv. 39.

She is the beginning of the sin] This seems to intimate that Lachish was the first city in Judah which received the idolatrous worship of Israel.

14. Give presents to Moresheth-gath] Calmet says that Moresa or Morashti, and Achzib, were cities not far from Gath.

Verse 15. Adullam the glory of Israel.] This was a fenced city in the south of Judah (see 2 Chron. xi. 7) towards the Dead Sea.

There is much obscurity in the concluding verses of this chapter. They undoubtedly refer to the captivity of Israel, and to circumstances of distress, &c., which are not mentioned in any of the historical books; and therefore their references and meaning can only be conjectured.

Verse 16. Make thee bald] Cutting off the hair was a sign of great distress, and was practised on the death of near relatives; see Amos viii. 10.

Enlarge thy baldness as the eagle] Referring to the moulting of this bird, when in casting its feathers and breeding new ones, it is very sickly, and its strength wholly exhausted.

They are gone into captivity] This is a prediction of the captivity by Shalmaneser.

CHAPTER II.

Here the prophet denounces a woe against the plotters of wickedness, the covetous, and the oppressor, 1, 2. God is represented as devising their ruin, 3. An Israelite is then introduced as a mourner, personating his people, and lamenting their fate, 4. Their total expulsion is now threatened on account of their very numerous offences, 5-10. Great infatuation of the people in favour of those pretenders to divine inspiration who prophesied to them peace and plenty, 11. The chapter concludes with a gracious promise of the restoration of the posterity of Jacob from captivity; possibly alluding to their deliverance from the Chaldean yoke, an event which was about two hundred years in futurity at the delivery of this prophecy, 12, 13.

WOE to them ^a that devise iniquity, and ^b work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practise it, because ^c it is in the power of their hand.

^a Hos. vii. 8.—^b Ps. xxxvi. 4.—^c Gen. xxxi. 29.

Verse 1. Woe to them that devise iniquity] Who lay schemes and plans for transgression; who make it their study to find out new modes of sinning; and make these things their nocturnal meditations, that having fixed their plan, they may begin to execute it as soon as it is light in the morning.

2 And they covet ^a fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they ^a oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

^a Isa. v. 8.—^b Or, defraud.

Verse 2. They covet fields] Like Ahab, they will take the vineyard or inheritance of any poor Naboth on which they may fix their covetous eye; so that they take away even the heritage of the poor.

Verse 3. Against this family (the Israelites) do I devise an evil] Tiglath-pileser ruined this kingdom, and transported 8 Therefore thus saith the LORD ; Behold, against * this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks ; neither shall ye go haughtily : * for this time is evil.

4 In that day shall one * take up a parable against you, and * lament * with a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly spoiled ; * he hath changed the portion of my people : how hath he removed it from me ! * turning away he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast * a cord by lot in the congregation of the LORD.

6 * Prophecy * ye not, say they to them that prophesy : they shall not prophesy to them, that they shall not take shame.

7 O thou that art named the house of Jacob, is the Spirit of the LORD * straitened ? are these his doings ? do not my words do good to him that walketh * uprightly ?

8 Even * of late my people is risen up as an enemy : ye pull off the robe * with the garment from them that pass by securely as men adverse from war.

9 The * women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses ; from their children have been taken away my glory for ever.

10 Arise ye, and depart ; for this is not your * rest : because it is * polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man * walking * in the spirit and falsehood do lie, saying, I will prophesy unto thee of wine and of strong drink ; he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 * I will surely assemble, O Jacob, all of thee ; I will surely gather the remnant of Israel ; I will put them together * as the sheep of Bozrah, as the flock in the midst of their fold : they shall make great noise by reason of the multitude of men.

13 The breaker is come up before them : they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it : * and * their king shall pass before them, * and the LORD on the head of them.

* Jer. viii. 3.—* Amos v. 13. Eph. v. 16.—* Hab. ii. 6.—* 2 Sam. i. 17.—* Heb. with a lamentation of lamentations.—* Ch. i. 15.—* Or, instead of restoring.—* Deut. xxxii. 8, 9.—* Or, Prophecy not as they prophesy.—* Heb. drop, &c. Ezek. xxi. 2.—* Isa. xxx. 10. Amos ii. 12. vii. 14.—* Or, shortened.—* Heb.

upright.—* Heb. yesterday.—* Heb. over against a garment.—* Or, wires.—* Deut. xii. 9.—* Lev. xviii. 25, 28. Jer. iii. 2.—* Or, walk with the wind, and his falsely.—* Ezek. xiii. 5.—* Ch. iv. 6, 7.—* Jer. xxxi. 10.—* Ezek. xxxvi. 37.—* Hos. iii. 5.—* Isa. iii. 12.

the people to Assyria, under the reign of Hezekiah, king of Judah ; and Micah lived to see this catastrophe.

Verse 4. Take up a parable against you] Your wickedness and your punishment shall be subjects of common conversation ; and a funeral dirge shall be composed and sung for you as for the dead.

Verse 5. None that shall cast a cord] You will no more have your inheritance divided to you by lot, as it was to your fathers ; ye shall neither have fields nor possessions of any kind.

Verse 6. Prophecy ye not] The original is singular, and expressive of sorrow and sobbing. Literally, "Do not cause it to rain ; they will cause it to rain ; they cannot make it rain sooner than this ; confusion shall not depart from us." To rain, often means to preach, to prophesy ; Ezek. xx. 46, xxi. 2 ; Amos vii. 16 ; Deut. xxxii. 2 ; Job xxix. 22 ; Prov. v. 3, &c.

Verse 7. Is the Spirit of the Lord straitened ?] Doth it not speak by other persons as well as by Micah ? Doth it communicate to us such influences as it did formerly ? Is it true that these evils are threatened by that Spirit ? Are these his doings ? To which Jehovah answers, "Do not my words do good to him that walketh uprightly ?" No upright man need fear any word spoken by me : my words to such yield instruction and comfort ; never dismay.

Verse 8. My people is risen up as an enemy] Ye are not only opposed to me, but ye are enemies to each other. Ye rob and spoil each other. Ye plunder the peaceable passenger ; depriving him of both his upper and under garment :

ye pull off the robe from those who, far from being spoilers themselves, are averse from war.

Verse 9. The women of my people] These two verses may probably relate to the war made on Abaz by Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah, king of Israel. They fell suddenly upon the Jews ; killed in one day one hundred and twenty thousand, and took two hundred thousand captive ; and carried away much spoil.

Verse 10. Arise ye, and depart] Prepare for your captivity ; ye shall have no resting place here : the very land is polluted by your iniquities, and shall vomit you out, and it shall be destroyed ; and the destruction of it shall be great and sore.

Some think that this is an exhortation to the godly to leave a land that was to be destroyed so speedily.

Verse 11. If a man walking in the spirit and falsehood] The meaning is ; If a man who professes to be divinely inspired do lie, by prophesying of plenty, &c., then such a person shall be received as a true prophet by this people.

Verse 12. I will surely assemble] This is a promise of the restoration of Israel from captivity. He compares them to a flock of sheep rushing together to their fold, the hoofs of which made a wonderful noise or clatter.

Verse 13. The breaker is come up] This may apply to those human agents that shall permit and order their return. And Jehovah being at their head, may refer to their final restoration, when the Lord Jesus shall become their leader, they having returned unto him as the shepherd and bishop of their souls ; and they and the Gentiles forming one fold under one shepherd, to go no more out into captivity for ever.

CHAPTER III.

In this chapter the prophet inveighs with a great boldness and spirit against the princes and prophets of Judah ; and foretells the destruction of Jerusalem as the consequence of their iniquity, 1-12. The last verse was fulfilled to a certain extent by Nebuchadnezzar ; but most fully and literally by the Romans under Titus. See Josephus.

AND I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel; Is it not for you to know judgments?

2 Who hate the good, and love the evil; who pluck off their skin from off them, and their flesh from off their bones;

3 Who also ^beat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them, and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and ^cas flesh within the caldron.

4 Then ^dshall they cry unto the LORD, but he will not hear them; he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themselves ill in their doings.

5 Thus saith the LORD ^econcerning the prophets that make my people err, that ^f'bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and ^ghe that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him:

6 ^hTherefore night shall be unto you, ⁱthat ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, ^jthat ye shall not divine; ^kand the sun shall ^aJer. v. 4, 5.—^bPs. xiv. 4.—^cEzek. xi. 3, 7.—^dIsa. xlviii. 41. Prov. i. 28. Isa. i. 15. Ezek. viii. 18. Z ch. vii. 13.—^eIsa. lvi. 10, 11. Ezek. xlii. 10. xxii. 25.—^fCh. ii. 11. Matt. vii. 15.—^gEzek. xlii. 18, 19.—^hIsa. viii. 20, 22. Ezek. xlii. 23, 24. Zech. xlii. 4.—ⁱHeb. from a vision.—^jHeb. from divining.—^kAmos vii. 9.

Verse 1. Hear, O heads of Jacob] The metaphor of the flock is still carried on. The chiefs of Jacob, and the princes of Israel, instead of taking care of the flocks, defending them, and finding them pasture, oppressed them in various ways.

Verse 4. Then shall they cry] When calamity comes upon these oppressors, they shall cry for deliverance: but they shall not be heard; because, in their unjust exactions upon the people, they went on ruthlessly, and would not hear the cry of the oppressed.

Verse 5. That bite with their teeth] That eat to the full; that are well provided for, as long as they are so, prophesy smooth things, and cry, Peace! i.e., Ye shall have nothing but peace and prosperity.

Verse 6. Night shall be unto you] Ye shall have no spiritual light, nor will God give you any revelation of his will.

The sun shall go down over the prophets] The very day that gives light and comfort to others, shall be darkness and calamity to them.

Verse 7. But the seers be ashamed] For the false visions of comfort and prosperity which they pretended to see.

And the diviners confounded] Who pretended to foretell future prosperity: for they themselves are now thrall'd in that very captivity which the true prophets foretold, and which the false prophets said should not happen.

Verse 8. But—I am full of power] Here is the character of the true prophet.

Verse 9. They build up Zion with blood] They might cry out loudly against that butchery practised by Pekah, king of Israel, and Pul, coadjutor of Rezin, against the Jews, go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their lips; ^afor there is no answer of God.

8 But truly I am full of power by the Spirit of the LORD, and of judgment, and of might, ^bto declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 ^cThey build up Zion with ^dblood, ^eand Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 ^fThe heads thereof judge for reward, and ^gthe priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money: ^h'yet will they lean upon the LORD, ⁱand say, Is not the LORD among us? none evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be ^jplowed as a field; ^kand Jerusalem shall become heaps, and ^lthe mountain of the house as the high places of the forest.

—Heb. upper lip.—^aPs. lxxiv. 9. Amos viii. 11.—^bIsa. lvii. 1.—^cJer. xxii. 13.—^dEzek. xxii. 27. Hab. ii. 12. Z ph. iii. 3.—^eHeb. bloods.—^fIsa. i. 23. Ezek. xxii. 12. Hos. iv. 13. Ch. vii. 3.—^gJer. vi. 13.—^hIsa. xlviii. 2. Jer. vii. 4. Rom. ii. 17.—ⁱHeb. saying.—^jJer. xxvi. 18. Ch. i. 6.—^kPs. lxxix. 1.—^lCh. iv. 2.

See on chap. ii. 9. But these were by no means clear themselves; for if they strengthened the city, or decorated the temple, it was by the produce of their exactions and oppressions of the people.

Verse 11. The heads thereof judge for reward] This does not apply to the regular law officers, who have their proper salaries for giving up their whole time and attention to the conscientious discharge of the duties of their office; but to those who take a reward, who take BRIBES, for the perversion of justice; who will decide in favour of those from whom they get the greatest reward.

The prophets—divine for money] These are evidently the false prophets; for none, professing to be sent by God, used any kind of divination.

Yet will they lean upon the LORD] They will prescribe fasts and public thanksgivings, while not one sin is repented of or forsaken, and not one public grievance is redressed.

Is not the LORD among us?] Here is his temple, here are his ordinances, and here are his people. Will he leave these? Yes, he will abandon the whole, because all are polluted.

Verse 12. Therefore shall Zion—be plowed as a field] It shall undergo a variety of reverses and sackings, till at last there shall not be one stone left on the top of another that shall not be pulled down; and then a plough shall be drawn along the site of the walls, to signify an irreparable and endless destruction.

Thus did the Romans treat Jerusalem when it was taken by Titus. Tullius Rufus, or Terentius Rufus, according to Josephus, caused a plough to be drawn over all the courts of the temple, to signify that it should never be rebuilt, and the place only serve for agricultural purposes.

CHAPTER IV.

In the commencement of this chapter we have a glorious prophecy of the establishment and prosperity of the Messiah's kingdom; its peaceful character, increasing spiritual and political influence, ultimate universality, and everlasting duration, 1-4. Then break in a chorus of his people declaring their peculiar happiness in being members of his kingdom, 5. The prophet resumes the subject; predicts the restoration and future prosperity of Israel, 6-8; and exhorts them not to be discouraged at their approaching captivity, as they should in due time not only be delivered from it, but likewise be victorious over all their enemies, 9-13. These last verses, which evidently contain a prediction of the final triumph of Christianity over every adversary, have been applied to the conquests of the Maccabees; but the character and beneficial results of their military exploits, as far as we have any account of them, correspond but in a very faint degree to the beautiful and highly wrought terms of the prophecy. The first three verses of this chapter are very similar to the commencement of the second chapter of Isaiah; and the fourth, for beauty of imagery and elegance of expression, is not unworthy of that prophet.

BUT *in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

2 And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the ^bmountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

3 And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into ^cplowshares, and their spears into ^dpruning-hooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, ^eneither shall they learn war any more.

4 ^fBut they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the LORD of hosts hath spoken it.

5 For ^gall people will walk every one in the name of his god, and ^hwe will walk in the name of the LORD our God for ever and ever.

6 In that day, saith the LORD, ⁱwill I assemble her that halteth, ^jand I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted;

7 And I will make her that halted ^ka remnant, and her that was cast far off a strong nation: and the LORD ^lshall reign over them in Mount Zion from henceforth, even for ever.

8 And thou, O tower of ^mthe flock, the stronghold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion; the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now why dost thou cry out aloud? ⁿis there no king in thee? is thy counsellor perished? for ^opangs have taken thee as a woman in travail.

10 Be in pain, and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou shalt dwell in the field, and thou shalt go ^peven to Babylon; there shalt thou be delivered; there the LORD shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 ^qNow also many nations are gathered against thee, that say, Let her be defiled, and let our eye ^rlook upon Zion.

12 But they know not ^sthe thoughts of the LORD, neither understand they his counsel: for he shall gather them ^tas the sheaves into the floor.

13 ^uArise and thresh, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs brass: and thou shalt ^vbeat in pieces many people: ^wand I will consecrate their gain unto the LORD, and their substance unto ^xthe LORD of the whole earth.

* Isa. ii. 2, &c. Ezek. xvii. 22, 23.—^b Isa. xiv. 25.—^c Isa. ii. 4. Joel iii. 10.—^d Or, scythes.—^e Ps. lxxii. 7.—^f 1 Kings iv. 25. Zech. iii. 10.—^g Jer. ii. 11.—^h Zech. x. 12.—ⁱ Ezek. xxxiv. 16. Zeph. iii. 19.—^j Ps. cxlvii. 2. Ezek. xxxiv. 13. xxxvii. 21.—^k Ch. ii. 12. v. 8, 7, 8. vii. 18.—^l Isa. ix. 8. xxiv. 13. Dan. vi. 14, 27. Luke

i. 33. Rev. xi. 15.—^m Or, Edar. Gen. xxxv. 21.—ⁿ Jer. viii. 19.—^o Isa. xlii. 8. xxi. 3. Jer. xxx. 6 l. 43.—^p Lam. ii. 16.—^q Obad. 12. Ch. vii. 10.—^r 1-a. lv. 8. Rom. xi. 33.—^s Isa. xxi. 10.—^t Isa. xlii. 15, 16. Jer. li. 33.—^u Dan. ii. 44.—^v Isa. xlviii. 7. xxiii. 18. lx. 6. 9.—^w Zech. iv. 14. v. 15.

Verses 1-4. But in the last days it shall come to pass] Bp. Louth thinks that "Micah took this passage from Isaiah;" or the Spirit may have inspired both prophets with this prediction; or both may have copied some common original, the words of a prophet well known at that time.

Verse 4. Under his vine and under his fig tree] A proverbial expression, indicative of perfect peace, security, and rural comfort. See on Isa. ii. 1.

Verse 5. Every one in the name of his god] This shall be the state of the Gentile world; but after the captivity, the Jews walked in the name of Jehovah alone; and acknowledge no other object of religious worship to the present day.

Verse 6. Will I assemble her that halteth—driven out—afflicted] Under these epithets, the state of the Jews, who were to be gathered into the Christian church, is pointed out. They halted between the true God and idols; they were driven out into captivity, because of this idolatry; and they were variously afflicted, because they would not return unto the Lord that bought them.

Verse 7. Her that halted a remnant] I will preserve them as a distinct people after their return from captivity, for the further purposes of my grace and mercy.

Verse 8. O tower of the flock] I believe Jerusalem, or the temple, or both, are meant; for these were considered the stronghold of the daughter of Zion, the fortress of the Jewish people.

Even the first dominion] What was this? The divine theocracy under Jesus Christ; this former, this first dominion, was to be restored. Hence the angel called him Immanuel, God with us, ruling among us.

Verse 9. Is there no king in thee?] None. And why? Because thou hast rejected Jehovah thy king.

Is thy counsellor perished?] No: but thou hast rejected the words and advices of the prophets.

Pangs have taken thee] He represents the people under the notion of a woman in travail.

Verse 10. There shalt thou be delivered] There God shall meet thee; and by redeeming thee from thy captivity, bringing thee back to thine own land, and finally converting thee unto himself, shall deliver thee from the burden of grief and woe which thou now bearest, and under which thou dost groan.

Verse 11. Many nations are gathered against thee] The Chaldeans, who were composed of many nations.

Let her be defiled] This was their cry and their wish.

Verse 12. But they know not the thoughts of the Lord] The persons here referred to are not only the Chaldeans, which were threshed by the Persians and Medes; but the Idumeans, Ammonites, Moabites, and Philistines, which the Jews afterwards subdued.

Verse 13. Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion] This refers to the subject of the preceding verse. When God shall have gathered together all thy enemies, as into the threshing-floor, he will give thee commission and power to get a complete victory over them, and reduce them to servitude. And that thou mayest be able to do this, he will be on thy side as a powerful helper; here signified by the metaphors, iron horns and brazen hoofs.

I will consecrate unto the Lord] Was not this prediction fulfilled when Cyrus gave the Jews permission to return to their own land, and gave them back the sacred vessels of the temple which Nebuchadnezzar carried away.

CHAPTER V.

This chapter begins, according to the opinion of some commentators, with a prophecy concerning the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, and the great indignities which Zedekiah should suffer from the Babylonians, 1. We have next a most famous prediction concerning the birth-place of the Messiah, "whose goings forth have been from of old, from EVERLASTING." (See Matt. ii. 6.) 2. The Jews obstinately persisting in their opposition to the Messiah, God will therefore give them up into the hands of their enemies till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled; and then all the posterity of Jacob, both Israel and Judah, shall be converted to the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, and, along with the Gentiles, be brought into the large and peaceful pastures of this Great Shepherd of the sheep, 3, 4. After this illustrious prophecy, the prophet goes on to foretell the downfall of the Assyrians, by whom are meant the enemies of the church in general, the type being probably put for the antitype: the miraculous discomfiture of the great Assyrian army in the reign of Sennacherib strongly shadowing forth the glorious and no less miraculous triumphs of Christianity in the latter times, 5, 6. See Isai. xi. 16. Some understand this prophecy of Antiochus and the seven famous Maccabees, with their eight royal successors, from Aristobulus to Antigonus: and it is not impossible that these people may be also intended, for we have often had occasion to remark that a prophecy of the Old Testament scriptures has frequently more than one aspect. The seventh verse was fulfilled by the Jews spreading the knowledge of the true God during their captivity, and so paving the way for the gospel; but will be more signally fulfilled after their conversion and restoration. See Rom. xi. 12-15. The remaining verses contain a prophecy of the final overthrow of all the enemies of pure and undefiled religion, and of the thorough purification of the Church of God from the corruptions of Antichrist, 9-15.

NOW gather thyself in troops, O daughter of troops: he hath laid siege against us: they shall smite the judge of Israel, with a rod upon the cheek.

2 But thou, Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be Ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting.

3 Therefore will he give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth: then the remnant of his brethren shall return unto the children of Israel.

4 And he shall stand and feed in the strength

* Lam. iii. 30. Matt. v. 39, xxvii. 31. — Matt. ii. 6. John vii. 42. — 1 Sam. xx. 23. — Exod. xviii. 15. — Gen. xlix. 10. Isa. ix. 6. — Ps. xc. 2. Prov. viii. 22, 24. John. i. 1. — Heb. the days of eternity. — Ch. iv. 10. — Ch. iv. 7. — Or, rule. — Isa. xl. 11. xlix. 10. Eze. xxxiv. 23. Ch. vii. 14. — Ps. lxxiii. 8. Isa. liii. 13. Zech.

Verse 1. O daughter of troops] The Chaldeans, whose armies were composed of troops from various nations.

He (Nebuchadnezzar) hath laid siege against us (Jerusalem); they shall smite the judge of Israel (Zedekiah).] They shall offer him the greatest indignity. They slew his sons before his face; and then put out his eyes, loaded him with chains, and carried him captive to Babylon.

Verse 2. But thou, Beth-lehem Ephratah] See notes on Matt. ii. 6.

Beth-lehem Ephratah, to distinguish it from another Beth-lehem, which was in the tribe of Zebulun, Josh. xix. 15.

Thousands of Judah] The tribes were divided into small portions called thousands; as in our country certain divisions of counties are called hundreds.

Whose goings forth have been from of old] In every age, from the foundation of the world, there has been some manifestation of the Messiah.

From everlasting] "From the days of all time," from time as it came out of eternity. That is, there was no time in which he has not been going forth—coming in various ways to save men.

Verse 3. Therefore will he give them up] Jesus Christ shall give up the disobedient and rebellious Jews into the hands of all the nations of the earth, till she who travaileth hath brought forth; that is, till the Christian church, represented, Rev. xii. 1, under the notion of a woman in travail, shall have had the fulness of the Gentiles brought in.

Unto the children of Israel] Taking in both families, that of Judah, and that of Israel. The remnant of the ten tribes, wherever they are, shall be brought in under Christ; and though now lost among the nations of the earth, they will then not only be brought in among the fulness of the Gentiles, but most probably be distinguished as Jews.

of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God; and they shall abide: for now shall he be great unto the ends of the earth.

5 And this man shall be the peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land: and when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principal men.

6 And they shall waste the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of Nimrod in the entrances thereof: thus shall he deliver us from the Assyrian, when he cometh into our land, and when he treadeth within our borders.

7 And the remnant of Jacob shall be in the

ix. 10. Luke i. 32. — Ps. lxxii. 7. Isa. ix. 6. Zech. ix. 10. Luke H. 14. Eph. ii. 14. — Heb. princes of men — Heb. eat up. — Gen. x. 9, 11. — Or, with her own naked swords. — Luke i. 71. — Ver. 3.

Verse 4. He shall stand and feed] The Messiah shall remain with his followers, supporting and governing them in the strength and majesty of the Lord, with all the miraculous interferences of his power, and all the glories of his grace.

And they shall abide] After this the Jews shall no more go astray, but shall remain one people with the Gentiles, under the one Shepherd and Bishop of all souls.

For now shall he be great] All nations shall receive his religion, and he shall be universal King.

Verse 5. And this man shall be the peace] This clause should be joined to the preceding verse, as it finishes the prophecy concerning our blessed Lord, who is the Author and Prince of Israel.

When the Assyrian shall come] This is a new prophecy, and relates to the subversion of the Assyrian empire.

Then shall we raise up against him seven shepherds] Supposed to mean the seven Maccabees, Mattathias, and his five sons, and Hyrcanus, the son of Simon.

Eight principal men] Eight princes, the Asmonean race; beginning with Aristobulus, and ending with Herod, who was married to Mariamne, perhaps seven and eight are a definite for an indefinite number, as Eccles. xi. 2. Job. v. 19.

Verse 6. The land of Nimrod] Assyria, and Nineveh its capital; and Babylon, which was also built by Nimrod, who was its first king, Gen. x. 11, 12, in the margin.

In the entrances thereof] At its posts or watergates; for it was by rendering themselves masters of the Euphrates that the Medes and Persians took the city, according to the prediction of Jeremiah, chap. li. 32, 33.

Verse 7. As a dew from the Lord] Even during their captivity many of the Jews were the means of spreading the knowledge of the one true God; see Dan. ii. 47, iii. 29, iv. 34, vi. 26. This may be the dew from the Lord men-midst of many people *as a dew from the LORD, as the showers upon the grass, that tarrieth not for man, nor waiteth for the sons of men.

8 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of ^bsheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lifted up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

10 *And it shall come to pass in that day saith the LORD, that I will cut off thy horses out of the tioned here. When the Messiah appeared, the gospel was preached by them; and it shall again be propagated by their future glorious restoration, Rom. xi. 12, 25.

*Deut. xxxii. 2. Ps. lxxii. 6. ex. 3.—^bOr, goats.—^cZech. ix. 10.—^dIsa. ii. 6.—^eZech. xiii. 2.

The grass, that tarrieth not for man.] Which grass springs up without the attention and culture of man; leish, even the best and most skilful of men.

Nor waiteth for the sons of men.] Libney adam, for the sons of Adam, the first transgressor. The dew and the showers descend on the earth and water it, in order to render it fruitful; and the grass springs up independently either of the worth or wickedness of man.

midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots: 11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and throw down all thy strongholds:

12 And I will cut off witchcrafts out of thine hand; and thou shalt have no more ^asoothsayers.

13 *Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy ^astanding images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt ^ano more worship the work of thine hands.

14 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: so will I destroy thy ^acities.

15 And I will ^bexecute vengeance in anger and fury upon the heathen, such as they have not heard.

^aOr, statues.—^bIsa. ii. 8.—^cOr, enemies.—^dPs. cxlix. 7. Ver. 8. 2 Thess. i. 8.

Verse 8. As a lion] In this and the following verse the victories of the Maccabees are supposed to be foretold.

Verse 9. All thine enemies shall be cut off] The Assyrians, who had destroyed Israel; and the Babylonians, who had ruined Judah.

Verse 10. I will cut off thy horses] Thou shalt have no need of cavalry in thine armies; God will fight for you.

Verse 11. I will—throw down all thy strong holds] Thou shalt have no need of fortified cities; I will be thy defence.

Verse 12. I will cut off witchcrafts] Thou shalt seek help only in Jehovah thy God.

CHAPTER VI.

This chapter reproves and threatens. The manner of raising the attention by calling on man to urge his plea in the face of all nature, and on the inanimate creation to hear the expostulation of Jehovah with his people, is awakening and sublime. The words of Jehovah follow, 3-5. And God's mercies having been set forth to his people, one of them is introduced, in a beautiful dramatic form, asking what his duty is towards a God so gracious, 6, 7. The answer follows in the words of the prophet, 8; who goes on to upbraid the people of his charge with their injustice and idolatry, to which he ascribes want of success in their lawful undertakings, and those heavy calamities which were now impending, 9-15.

HEAR ye now what the LORD saith; Arise, contend thou *before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 ^bHear ye, O mountains, *the LORD's controversy, and ye strong foundations^c of the earth: for *the LORD hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with Israel.

3 O my people, *what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

*Or, with.—^bDeut. xxxii. 1. Ps. l. 1, 4. Isa. i. 2.—^cHos. xii. 2.—^dIsa. i. 18. v. 3, 4. xlii. 26. Hos. iv. 1.—^eJer. ii. 5, 31.—^fExod. xli. 51. xiv. 30. xx. 2. Deut. iv. 20. Amos ii. 10.—^gNum. xxii. 5.

Verse 1. Arise, contend thou] This chapter is a sort of dialogue between God and the people. God speaks the five first verses, and convicts the people of sin, righteousness, and judgment. The PEOPLE, convinced of their iniquity, deprecate God's judgments in the sixth and seventh verses. In the eighth verse God prescribes the way in which they are to be saved: and then the prophet, by the command of God, goes on to remonstrate from the ninth verse to the end of the chapter.

Verse 2. Hear ye, O mountains] Such was the nature of their crimes that, to heighten the effect, and show what reason he had to punish such a people, he appeals to inanimate creation. Their ingratitude and rebellion are sufficient to make the mountains, the hills, and the strong foundations of the earth to hear, tremble, and give judgment against them. This, then, is the LORD's controversy with his people, and thus he will plead with Israel.

4 *For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what *Balak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him from ^bShittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know ^bthe righteousness of the LORD.

6 Wherewith shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come bexxiii. 7. xxiv. 10, 11. Deut. xxiii. 4, 5. Josh. xxiv. 9, 10. Rev. ii. 14.—^bNum. xxv. 1. xxxiii. 49. Josh. iv. 19. v. 10.—^cJudg. v. 11.

Verse 3. O my people, what have I done unto thee?] This condescension is truly astonishing! God appears to humble himself to his creatures. You have acted basely, treacherously, and ungratefully to me; this had already been proved by the prophets. What cause have I given you for such conduct? I have required a religious service from you; but have I wearied you by a fatiguing round of difficult duties? If I have now, testify against me; and you shall be first heard, and your plea received, if it be reasonable and good. They are silent; and God proceeds, and states what he has done for them.

Verse 4. I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt] Where you were slaves, and grievously oppressed; from all this I redeemed you. Was this a small benefit?

Verse 5. Remember now what Balak king of Moab consulted] He sent for Balaam to curse your fathers; but by my influence he was obliged to bless them.

fore him with burnt-offerings, with calves * of a year old?

7 ^b Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? ^a shall I give my first-born for my transgression, the fruit of my * body for the sin of my soul?

8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but * to do justly, and to love mercy, and to ^b walk humbly with thy God?

9 The ^a Lord's voice crieth unto the city, and ^b the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 ^a Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the ^b scant measure ^c that is abominable?

11 ^a Shall I count them pure with the ^b wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?

^a Heb. sons of a year. ^b Ps. i. 9. li. 16. Isa. i. 11. ^c Job. xxix. 6. ^d 2 Kings xvi. 8. xxi. 6. xxiii. 10. Jer. vii. 31. xix. 5. Ezek. xliii. 37. ^e Heb. belly. ^f Deut. x. 12. 1 Sam. xv. 22. Hos. vi. 6. xli. 6. ^g Gen. xviii. 19. Isa. i. 17. ^h Heb. humble thyself to walk. ⁱ Deut. xv. 5. xxvi. 17. xxviii. 1, 2. xxx. 10. ^j Or, thy name shall see that which is. ^k Or, is there yet unto every man a house of the wicked, &c. ^l Heb. measure of leanness. Amos vii. 5. ^m Deut.

From Shittim unto Gilgal] From the encampment at Shittim, Num. xxv. 1, on the way to that of Gilgal, Josh. iv. 19.

That ye may know the righteousness] The just, equitable, and merciful dealing of the Most High. Recollect those things, that ye may have a proper impression of this.

Verse 6. Bow myself before the high God] Some offering must be brought; but of what kind, or of what value? Their sin is unprecedented, and usual methods of access will not avail. They are distracted in their minds, and make a variety of proposals to themselves, some rational, some absurd and impossible, and some even sinful.

Shall I come before him with burnt-offerings] This is reasonable, and according to the law; but this will be insufficient.

Verse 7. Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams] These might be procured, though with difficulty; but conscience says, neither will these do.

With ten thousands of rivers of oil] This is absurd and impossible; but could even these be procured, could they all make atonement for such guilt, and ingratitude, and rebellion?

Shall I give my first-born for my transgression] This was sinful and wicked; but such offerings had been made by the Phœnicians, and their successors the Carthaginians; and this very custom was copied by the corrupt Israelites.

The fruit of my body for the sin of my soul &c.] This clause is an explanation of the former. Shall I make the first-born, the best and goodliest of my children, chattath, a SIN-OFFERING for my soul? And thus the original is used in a multitude of places.

When they had put all these questions to their reason and conscience, they found no satisfaction; their distraction is increased, and despair is about to take place, when Jehovah the plaintiff, in his mercy interposes.

Verse 8. He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good] All the modes of expiation which ye have proposed are, in the sight of God, unavailable; they cannot go away the evil, nor purify from the guilt of sin. He himself has shown thee what is good; that which is profitable to thee, and pleasing to himself.

12 For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and ^a their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I ^a make thee sick in smiting thee, and making thee desolate because of thy sins.

14 ^a Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied; and thy casting down shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver; and that which thou deliverest will I give up to the sword.

15 Thou shalt ^a sow, but thou shalt not reap; thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil; and sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine.

16 For ^a the statutes of ^b Omri are ^c kept, and all the works of the house of ^d Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels; that I should make thee ^e a ^f desolation, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing; therefore ye shall bear the ^g reproach of my people.

xxv. 13-16. Prov. xi. 1. xx. 10, 23. ^a Or, Shall I be pure with, &c. ^b Hos. xii. 7. ^c Jer. ix. 8, 5, 6, 8. ^d Lev. xxvi. 16. Ps. cvii. 17, 18. ^e Lev. xxvi. 28. Hos. iv. 10. ^f Deut. xxviii. 38, 39, 40. Amos v. 11. Zeph. i. 13. Hag. i. 8. ^g Or, he doth much keep thee, &c. ^h 1 Kings xvi. 25, 26. ⁱ Hos. v. 11. ^j 1 Kings xvi. 30, &c. xxi. 25, 26. 2 Kings xxi. 3. ^k 1 Kings ix. 8. Jer. xix. 8. ^l Or, astonishment. ^m Isa. xxv. 8. Jer. li. 51. Lam. v. 1.

Verse 9. The Lord's voice crieth unto the city] No man is found to hear; but the man of wisdom will hear tushiyah; a word frequent in the writings of Solomon and Job, signifying wisdom, wealth, substance, reason, essence, happiness; anything that is complete; or that which is substantial, in opposition to vanity, emptiness, mere show, unsubstantiality.

Verse 10. Are there yet the treasures of wickedness] Such as false balances and deceitful weights. See on Hos. xii. 7. This shows that they were not doing JUSTLY. They did not give to each his due.

Verse 12. For the rich men thereof are full of violence] This shows that they did not love mercy.

The inhabitants thereof have spoken lies] This shows that they did not humble themselves to walk with God.

Verse 13. Will I make thee sick in smiting thee] Perhaps better, "I also am weary in smiting thee, in making thee desolate for thy sins." They were corrected, but to no purpose; they had stroke upon stroke, but were not amended.

Verse 14. Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied] All thy possessions are cursed, because of thy sins; and thou hast no real good in all thy enjoyments.

And thy casting down] For veyeshchacha, "thy casting down," Newcome, veyechshach, "and it shall be dark; and this is probably the true reading.

Verse 15. Thou shalt sow, but thou shalt not reap] Thou shalt labour to amass property, but thou shalt not have God's blessing; and whatever thou collectest, thy enemies shall carry away. And at last carry thyself into captivity.

Verse 16. The statutes of Omri are kept] Omri, king of Israel, the father of Ahab, was one of the worst kings the Israelites ever had; and Ahab followed in his wicked father's steps. The statutes of those kings were the very grossest idolatry.

The inhabitants thereof an hissing] Lishrekah, "for a shriek;" because those who should see them should be both astonished and affrighted at them.

There are few chapters in the prophets, or in the Bible, superior to this for genuine worth and importance. The structure is as elegant as it is impressive; and it is every way worthy of the Spirit of God.

CHAPTER VII.

The prophet begins this chapter with lamenting the decay of piety and the growth of ungodliness, using a beautiful allegory to imply (as explained in verse 2) that the good man is as seldom to be met with as the early fig of best quality in the advanced season, or the cluster after the vintage, 1, 2. He then reproves and threatens in terms so expressive of great calamities as to be applied in the New Testament to times of the hottest persecution, 3-6. See Matt. x. 35, 36. Notwithstanding which a Jew is immediately introduced declaring, in the name of his captive people, the strongest faith in the mercy of God, the most submissive resignation to his will, and the firmest hope in his favour in future times, when they should triumph over their enemies, 7-10. The prophet upon this resumes the discourse, and predicts their great prosperity and increase, 11, 12; although the whole land of Israel must first be desolated on account of the great wickedness of its inhabitants, 13. The prophet intercedes in behalf of his people, 14. After which God is introduced promising, in very ample terms, their future restoration and prosperity, 15-17. And then, to conclude, a chorus of Jews is introduced, singing a beautiful hymn of thanksgiving, suggested by the gracious promises which precede, 18-20.

WOE is me! for I am as a when they have gathered the summer fruits, as the grape-gleanings of the vintage: there is no clusier to eat: "my soul desired the first-ripe fruit.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth: and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; they hunt every man his brother with a net.

3 That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, the prince asketh, and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up.

4 The best of them is as a brier: the most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

* Heb. the gatherings of summer. — Isa. xvii. 6. xxiv. 13. — Isa. xxviii. 4. Hos. ix. 10. — Ps. xii. 1. xiv. 13. Isa. vii. 1. — Or, goodly, or merciful. — Hab. i. 15. — Hos. iv. 18. — Isa. i. 23. Ch. iii. 11. — Heb. the mischief of his soul. — 2 Sam. xxii. 6, 7. Ezek. ii. 6. See Isa. lv. 13. — Jer. ix. 4. — Ezek. xxii. 7. Matt. x. 21, 35, 36. Luke xii. 53. xxi. 16. 2 Tim. iii. 2. — Isa. viii. 17. — Prov. xxiv. 17.

Verse 1. Woe is me!] This a continuation of the preceding discourse. And here the prophet points out the small number of the upright to be found in the land. He himself seemed to be the only person who was on God's side; and he considers himself as a solitary grape, which had escaped the general gathering. The word kayts, which is sometimes used for summer, and summer fruits in general, is here translated late figs; and may here be opposed to the early ripe fig of superior quality. See on Hos. ix. 10, and Amos viii. 1, 2. He desired to see the first-ripe fruit—distinguished and eminent piety; but he found nothing but a very imperfect and spurious kind of godliness.

Verse 2. The good man is perished out of the earth] As the early fig of excellent flavour cannot be found in the advanced season of summer, or a choice cluster of grapes after vintage, so neither can the good and upright man be discovered by searching in Israel.

They hunt every man his brother with a net.] This appears to be an allusion to the ancient mode of duel between the retiarus and secutor. I have explained this before on Job, and other places.

Verse 3. That they may do evil with both hands] That is, earnestly, greedily, to the uttermost of their power.

The prince asketh] A bribe, to forward claims in his court.

The judge asketh for a reward] That he may decide the cause in favour of him who gives most money, whether the cause be good or evil. This was notoriously the case in our own country before the giving of Magna Charta; and hence that provision, "We will not sell justice to any man."

The great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire] Such consider themselves above law, and they make no secret of 6 For the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore I will look unto the LORD: I will wait for the God of thy salvation: my God will hear me.

8 Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, the LORD shall be a light unto me.

9 I will bear the indignation of the LORD, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.

10 Then she that is mine enemy shall see it, and shame shall cover her which said unto me, Where is the LORD thy God? mine eyes shall behold her: now shall she be trodden down as the mire of the streets.

Lam. iv. 21. — Ps. xxxvii. 24. Prov. xxiv. 18. — Ps. xxvii. 1. — Lam. iii. 39. — Ps. xxxvii. 6. — Or, And thou wilt see her that is mine enemy, and cover her with shame. — Ps. xxxv. 28. — Ps. xlii. 3, 10. Lxxix. 10. cxv. 2. Joel ii. 17. — Ch. iv. 11. — Heb. she shall be for a treading down. — 2 Sam. xxii. 43. Zech. x. 5.

their unjust determinations. And so they wrap it up—they all conjoin in doing evil in their several offices, and oppressing the poor; so our translators have interpreted the original vayebathu, which the Versions translate variously.

Verse 4. The best of them is as a brier] He alludes to the thick thorn hedges, still frequent in Palestine.

The day of thy watchmen] The day of vengeance, which the prophets have foreseen and proclaimed, is at hand. In that day every man will wish that he were different from what he is found to be; but he shall be judged from what he is, and for the deeds he has done.

Verse 5. Trust ye not in a friend] These times will be so evil, and the people so wicked, that all bonds will be dissolved; and even the most intimate will betray each other when they can hope to serve themselves by it.

Verse 6. For the son dishonoureth the father] See the use our Lord has made of these words, where he quotes them, Matt. x. 21, 25, 36, and the notes there.

Verse 7. Therefore I will look unto the Lord] Because things are so I will trust in the Lord more firmly, wait for him more patiently, and more confidently expect to be supported, defended, and saved.

Verse 8. Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy] The captive Israelites are introduced as speaking here and in the preceding verse. The enemy are the Assyrians and Chaldeans; the fall is their idolatry and consequent captivity; the darkness, the calamities they suffered in that captivity; their rise and light, their restoration and consequent blessedness.

Verse 9. I will bear the indignation of the Lord] The words of the penitent captives, acknowledging their sins and praying for mercy.

11 In the day that thy walls are to be built, in that day shall the decree be far removed.

12 In that day also he shall come even to thee from Assyria, and from the fortified cities, and from the fortress even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, for the fruit of their doings.

14 Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage, which dwell solitarily in the wood, in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in the days of old.

15 According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt will I shew unto him marvellous things.

16 The nations shall see and be confounded at

*Amos ix. 11, &c.—^b Isa. xi. 16. xix. 23, &c. xxvii. 13. Hos. xi. 11. —^c Or, even to.—^d Or, After that it hath been.—^e Jer. xxi. 14. Ch. iii. 12.—^f Or, Rule. Ps. xxviii. 9. Ch. v. 4.—^g Isa. xxxvii. 24.—^h Ps. lxxviii. 22. lxxviii. 12.—ⁱ Isa. xxvi. 11.—^j Job. xxi. 5. xxix. 9.—

Until he plead my cause] And woe to the slanderers when God undertakes to plead for the fallen who have returned to him with deep compunction of heart, seeking redemption in the blood of the cross.

Verse 10. Then she that is mine enemy] This may refer particularly to the city of Babylon.

Shall she be trodden down] Literally fulfilled in the sackage of that city, by the Persians, and its consequent total ruin.

Verse 11. In the day that thy walls are to be built] This refers to Jerusalem; the decree, to the purpose of God to deliver the people into captivity. "This shall be far removed." God having purposed their return, I cannot think, with some commentators, that this verse contains threatenings against Jerusalem, and not promises.

Verse 12. In that day also he shall come] This prediction was literally fulfilled under the Asmoneans. The Jewish nation was greatly extended and very powerful under Herod, at the time that our Lord was born.

Verse 13. Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate] This should be translated in the preter tense, "Though the land HAD been desolate;" that is, the land of Israel had been desolate during the captivity, which captivity was the "fruit of the evil doings of them that had dwelt therein."

Verse 14. Feed thy people with thy rod] Beshibtecha, "with thy crook." The shepherd's crook is most certainly designed, as the word flock immediately following shows.

all their might; they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.

18 Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy.

19 He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

20 Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, and the mercy to Abraham, which thou hast sworn unto our fathers from the days of old.

*Ps. lxxii. 9. Isa. xlix. 23.—^a Ps. xviii. 45.—^b Or, creeping things.—^c Jer. xxxiii. 9.—^d Exod. xv. 11.—^e Exod. xxxiv. 6, 7. Jer. i. 20.—^f Ch. iv. 7. v. 3, 7, 8.—^g Ps. ciii. 9. Isa. lviii. 10. Jer. iii. 5.—^h Luke i. 72, 73.—ⁱ Ps. cv. 9, 10.

No rod of correction or affliction is here intended; nor does the word mean such.

Solitarily] They have been long without a shepherd or spiritual governor.

Verse 15. According to the days] This is the answer to the prophet's prayer; and God says he will protect, save, defend, and work miracles for them in their restoration, such as he wrought for their fathers in their return from Egypt to the promised land.

Verse 16. The nations shall see and be confounded] May be understood as ultimately applicable to the final restoration of this people, and their lasting prosperity under the gospel.

Verse 18. Who is a God like unto thee, &c.] Here is a challenge to all idol worshippers, and to all those who take false views of the true God, to show his like.

Verse 20. Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob] This God has most signally fulfilled by the incarnation of Christ, who was sent to bless us by turning away every one of us from his iniquities; and for this purpose he was delivered for our offences, and rose again for our justification; and repentance and remission of sins are preached in his name to all nations. The proclamation was first made at Jerusalem; and that the prophet refers to this, is evident from the use made of these words by Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist, when, under the full affluence of the Spirit of God, he quoted this prophecy of Micah, as fulfilled in the incarnation of Christ, Luke i. 72, 73.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

OF THE

P R O P H E T N A H U M .

NAHUM, the seventh of the twelve minor prophets, was a native of Elkoshai, a little village of Galilee, whose ruins were still in being in the time of St. Jerome. However, there are some who think that Elkoshai is rather the name of his father, and that the place of his birth was Bethabor, or Bethabara, beyond Jordan. They used to show the tomb of the prophet at a village called Beth-gabre, now called Gibbin, near Emmaus. The Chaldee calls him Nahum of Beth-kosli, or of Beth-kitsi; but the situation of this place is as much unknown as that of Elkoshai.

The particular circumstances of the life of Nahum are altogether unknown. His prophecy consists of three chapters, which make up but one discourse, wherein he foretells the destruction of Nineveh. He describes it in so lively and pathetic a manner, that he seems to have been upon the spot to declare to the Ninevites the destruction of their city.

Opinions are divided as to the time in which he prophesied. We are inclined to be of St. Jerome's opinion, that he foretold the destruction of Nineveh in the time of Hezekiah, and after the war of Sennacherib in Egypt, mentioned by Berossus. Nahum speaks plainly of the taking of No-Ammon, a city of Egypt; of the haughtiness of Rabshakeh; of the defeat of Sennacherib: and he speaks of them as things that were past. He supposes that the Jews were still in their own country, and that they there celebrated their festivals. He speaks of the captivity and of the dispersion of the ten tribes. All these evidences convince us, that Nahum cannot be placed before the fifteenth year of Hezekiah, since the expedition of Sennacherib against this prince was in the fourteenth year of his reign.

The time of the prophet's death is not known. The Greek menologies and the Latin martyrologies place his festival on the first of December. Petrus Natalis places it on the twenty-fourth of the same month, which he says was the day of his death, without acquainting us whence he had learned this circumstance.

The conduct and imagery of this prophetic poem are truly admirable.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET NAHUM.

CHAPTER I.

This chapter opens the prophecy against the Assyrians and their metropolis with a very magnificent description of the infinite justice, tender compassion, and uncontrollable power of God, 1-8. To this succeeds an address to the Assyrians; with a lively picture of their sudden overthrow, because of their evil device against Jerusalem, 9-11. Then appears Jehovah himself, proclaiming deliverance to his people from the Assyrian yoke, and the destruction of the Assyrian idols, 12-14; upon which the prophet, with great emphasis, directs the attention of Judah to the approach of the messenger who brings such glad tidings; and exultingly bids his people to celebrate their solemn feasts, and perform their vows, as a merciful Providence would not suffer these enemies of the Jewish state to prevail against them, 15.

THE burden of *Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite.

2 ^b God is ^c jealous, and ^d the LORD revengeth; the LORD revengeth, and ^e is furious;
the LORD will take vengeance on his adversaries, and he reserveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The LORD is ^f slow to anger, and ^g great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked; ^h the LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 ⁱ He rebuketh the sea, and maketh it dry, and drieth up all the rivers: ^j Bashan languisheth, and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon languisheth.

5 ^k The mountains quake at him, and ^l the hills melt, and ^m the earth is burned at his presence;
yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can stand before his indignation? and who can ⁿ abide in the fierceness of his anger?
^o His fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him.

7 ^p The LORD is good, a ^q strong hold in the day of trouble; and ^r he knoweth them that trust in him.

^a Zeph. ii. 13.—^b Or, The LORD is a jealous God and a revenger, &c.
—^c Exod. xx. 5. xxxiv. 14. Deut. iv. 24. Josh. xxiv. 19.—^d Deut.
xxxii. 35. Ps. xciv. 1. Isa. lxx. 11.—^e Heb. that hath fury.—^f Exod.
xxxiv. 6, 7. Neh. ix. 17. Ps. ciii. 8. Jonah iv. 2.—^g Job. x. 4.—
^h Ps. xviii. 7, &c. xcvii. 2. Hab. iii. 5, 11, 12.—ⁱ Ps. cvi. 9. Isa.

1, 2. Matt. viii. 28.—^j Isa. xxxiii. 9.—^k Ps. lxxviii. 8.—^l Judg. v. 5.
Ps. xcvi. 5. Mic. i. 4.—^m 2 Pet. iii. 10.—ⁿ Mal. iii. 2.—^o Heb. stand up.—^p Rev. xvi. 1.—^q 1 Chron. xvi. 34. Ps. c. 5. Jer. xxxiii. 11. Lam. iii. 25.—^r Or, strength.—^s Ps. i. 6. 2 Tim. ii. 19.

Verse 1. The burden of Nineveh.] Massa not only signifies a burden, but also a thing lifted up, pronounced or proclaimed; also a message. It is used by the prophets to signify the revelation which they have received from God to deliver to any particular people: the oracle—the prophecy. Here it signifies the declaration from God relative to the overthrow of Nineveh, and the commission of the prophet to deliver it.

Nahum, Nachum, signifies comforter. The name was very suitable, as he was sent to comfort the people, by showing them that God was about to destroy their adversaries.

Verse 2. God is jealous] For his own glory.

And—revengeth] His justice; by the destruction of his enemies.

And is furious] So powerful in the manifestations of his judgments, that nothing can stand before him.

He reserveth wrath] Though they seem to prosper for a time, and God appears to have passed by their crimes without notice, yet he reserveth—*treasur*eth up wrath for them, which shall burst forth in due time.

Verse 3. The Lord is slow to anger] He exercises much long-suffering towards his enemies, that this may lead them to repentance. And it is because of this long-suffering that vengeance is not speedily executed on every evil work.

The Lord hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm] These are the effects of his power; and when they appear unusual, they may be considered as the immediate effects of his power: and although he be in them to punish and destroy, he is in them to direct their course, to determine their operations, and to defend his followers from being injured by their violence. See 2 Kings xix. 35.

The clouds are the dust of his feet.] This is spoken in allusion to a chariot and horses going on with extreme rapidity: they are all enveloped in a cloud of dust.

Verse 4. He rebuketh the sea] The Red sea, and the rivers: probably an allusion to the passage of the Red Sea and Jordan.

The description of the coming of Jehovah, from the third to the sixth verse, is dreadfully majestic. He is represented as controlling universal nature. The sea and the rivers are dried up; the mountains tremble, the hills melt, and the earth is burnt at his presence. Bashan, Carmel, and Lebanon are withered and languish: streams of fire are poured out, and the rocks are cast down to make him a passage.

Verse 7. The Lord is good] In the midst of judgment he remembers mercy; and among the most dreadful denun-

8 "But with an overrunning flood he will make an utter end of the place thereof, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 "What do ye imagine against the LORD? "he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time.

10 For while they be folded together "as thorns, "and while they are drunken as drunkards, "they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry.

11 There is one come out of thee, "that imagineth evil against the LORD, "a wicked counsellor.

12 Thus saith the LORD; "Though they be quiet, and likewise many, yet thus "shall they be "cut down, when he shall "pass through. Though I

* Dan. ix. 26. xi. 10, 22, 40.—Ps. ii. 1.—1 Sam. iii. 12.—2 Sam. xxiii. 6, 7.—Ch. iii. 11.—Mal. iv. 1.—2 Kings xix. 22, 23.—1 Heb. a counsellor of Babel.—Or, If they would have been at peace, so should they have been many, and so should they have been ciations of wrath he mingles promises of mercy. None that trust in him need be alarmed at these dreadful threatenings; they shall be discriminated in the day of wrath.

Verse 8. But with an overrunning flood] This may refer to the manner in which Nineveh was taken.

Darkness shall pursue] All kinds of calamity shall pursue them till they are destroyed.

Verse 9. Affliction shall not rise up the second time.] There shall be no need to repeat the judgment; with one blow God will make a full end of the business.

Verse 10. While they be folded together] However united their counsels may be, they shall be as drunken men—perplexed and unsteady in all their resolutions; and before God's judgments they shall be as dry thorns before a devouring fire.

Verse 12. Though they be—many] Sennacherib invaded Judea with an army of nearly two hundred thousand men.

Thus shall they be cut down] The angel of the Lord (a have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now will I "break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

14 And the LORD hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be sown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven image and the molten image: "I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.

15 Behold "upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace! O Judah, "keep thy solemn feasts, perform thy vows: for "the "wicked shall no more pass through thee; "he is utterly cut off.

shorn, and he should have passed away.—2 Kings xix. 35, 37.—1 Heb. shorn.—Isa. viii. 8. Dan. xi. 10.—Jer. ii. 20. xxx. 8.—2 Kings xix. 37.—Isa. lii. 7. Rom. x. 15.—Heb. feast.—Heb. Babel.—Ver. 11, 12.—Ver. 14.

suffocating wind) slew of them in one night one hundred and eighty-five thousand, 2 Kings xix. 35

Verse 13. Now will I break his yoke from off thee] This refers to the tribute which the Jews were obliged to pay to the Assyrians, 2 Kings xvii. 14.

Verse 14. No more of thy name be sown] No more of you shall be carried away into captivity.

I will make thy grave; for thou art vile] I think this is an address to the Assyrians, and especially to Sennacherib. See 2 Kings xix. 37.

Verse 15. Behold upon the mountains] Borrowed probably from Isa. lii. 7, but applied here to the messengers who brought the good tidings of the destruction of Nineveh. Judah might then keep her solemn feasts, for the wicked Assyrian should pass through the land no more; being entirely cut off, and the imperial city razed to its foundations.

CHAPTER II.

Nineveh is now called upon to prepare for the approach of her enemies, the instruments of Jehovah's vengeance, 1: and the military array and muster, the very arms and dress, of the Medes and Babylonians in the reigns of Cyaxares and Nabopolassar; their rapid approach to the city; the process of the siege, and the inundation of the river; the capture of the place; the captivity, lamentation, and flight of the inhabitants; the sacking of this immense, wealthy, and exceedingly populous city and the consequent desolation and terror, are all described in the pathetic, vivid, and sublime imagery of Hebrew poetry, 2-10. This description is succeeded by a very beautiful and expressive allegory, 11, 12; which is immediately explained, and applied to the city of Nineveh, 13. It is thought by some commentators that the metropolitan city of the Assyrian empire is also intended by the tender and beautiful simile, in the seventh verse, of a great princess led captive, with her maids of honour attending her, bewailing her and their own condition, by beating their breasts, and by other expressions of sorrow.

HE "that "dasheth in pieces is come up before thy face: "keep the munition, watch the way, make thy loins strong, fortify thy power mightily.

2 "For the LORD hath turned away "the excellency of Jacob, as the excellency of Israel: for

* Or, The disperser, or hammer.—Jer. i. 23.—Jer. ii. 11, 12. Ch. iii. 14.—Isa. x. 12. Jer. xxv. 29.—Or, the pride of Jacob as Verse 1. He that dasheth in pieces] Or, scattereth. The Chaldeans and Medes.

Keep the munition] Guard the fenced places.

Verse 2. For the Lord hath turned away] The Lord has been opposed to Jacob, and the enemy has prevailed against him.

Verse 3. The shield of his mighty men is made red] These things may refer to the warlike preparations made by the Ninevites: they had red shields, and scarlet or purple

"the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is made "red, the valiant men are "in scarlet: the chariots shall be with "flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir-trees shall be terribly shaken.

the pride of Israel.—Ps. lxxx. 12. Hos. x. 1.—Isa. lxiii. 2, 3.—Or, dyed scarlet.—Or, fiery torches.

clothing; their chariots were finely decorated, and proceeded with amazing rapidity.

The fir trees shall be terribly shaken.] This may refer to the darts, arrows, and javelins, flung with destructive power. [These were made of cypress.]

Verse 4. The chariots shall rage] Those of the besiegers and the besieged, meeting in the streets, producing universal confusion and carnage.

Verse 6. The gates of the rivers shall be opened]

4 The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways: they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings.

5 He shall recount his worthies: they shall stumble in their walk; they shall make haste to the wall thereof, and the defence shall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers shall be opened, and the palace shall be dissolved.

7 And Huzzab shall be led away captive, she shall be brought up, and her maids shall lead her as with the voice of doves, tabering upon their breasts.

8 But Nineveh is of old like a pool of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they cry; but none shall look back.

9 Take ye the spoil of silver, take the spoil of

^a Heb. their show. — ^b Or, galleys. — ^c Heb. covering or coverer. — ^d Or, molten. — ^e Or, that which was established, or there was a stand made. — ^f Or, discovered. — ^g Isa. xxxviii. 14, lix. 11. — ^h Or, from the days that she hath been. — ⁱ Or, cause them to turn. — ^j Or, and their

"There was a prophecy received from their forefathers, that Nineveh should not be taken till the river first became an enemy to the city. It happened in the third year of the siege, that the Euphrates [quarry, Tigris] being swollen with continued rains, overflowed part of the city, and threw down twenty stadia of the wall. The king then imagining that the oracle was accomplished, and that the river was now manifestly become an enemy to the city, casting aside all hope of safety, and lest he should fall into the hands of the enemy, built a large funeral pyre in the palace, and having collected all his gold and silver and royal vestments, together with his concubines and eunuchs, placed himself with them in a little apartment built in the pyre; burnt them, himself, and the palace together. When the death of the king (Sardanapalus) was announced by certain deserters, the enemy entered in by the breach which the waters had made, and took the city." Diod. Siculus, Lib. ii.

Verse 7. And Huzzab shall be led away captive] Perhaps Huzzab means the queen of Nineveh, who had escaped the burning mentioned above by Diodorus. Some think Huzzab signifies Nineveh itself. [Huzzab is probably a verb, and signifies "it is determined."]

Verse 8. But Nineveh is of old like a pool of water] "And the waters of Nineveh are a pool of waters." There may be reference here to the fact given in the preceding note, the overflowing of the river by which the city was primarily destroyed. [This translation of Bishop Newcome is not authorized.]

Stand, stand] Consternation shall be at its utmost height, gold: for there is none end of the store and glory out of all the pleasant furniture.

10 She is empty, and void, and waste: and the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and much pain is in all loins, and the faces of them all gather blackness.

11 Where is the dwelling of the lions, and the feeding place of the young lions, where the lion, even the old lion, walked, and the lion's whelp, and none made them afraid?

12 The lion did tear in pieces enough for his whelps, and strangled for his lionesses, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with ravin.

13 Behold, I am against thee, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will burn her chariots in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions: and I will cut off thy prey from the earth, and the voice of thy messengers shall no more be heard.

^a infinite store, &c. — ^b Heb. vessels of desire. — ^c Isa. xlii. 7, 8. — ^d Dan. v. 6. — ^e Jer. xxx. 9. — ^f Joel ii. 6. — ^g Job. iv. 10, 11. Ezek. xix. 2-7. — ^h Ezek. xxix. 3. xxxviii. 8. xxxix. 1. Ch. iii. 5. — ⁱ 2 Kings xviii. 17, 19. xix. 9, 23.

the people shall flee in all directions; and though quarter is offered, and they are assured of safety if they remain, yet not one looketh back.

Verse 9. Take ye the spoil] Though the king burnt his treasures, vestments, &c., he could not totally destroy the silver and the gold.

Verse 10. She is empty, and void, and waste] The original is strongly emphatic; the words are of the same sound; and increase in their length as they point out great, greater, and greatest desolation:

Bukah, unebukah, umbullakah.

The faces of them all gather blackness.] This marks the diseased state into which the people had been brought by reason of famine.

Verse 11. Where is the dwelling of the lions] Nineveh, the habitation of bold, strong, and ferocious men.

The feeding place of the young lions] Whither her victorious and rapacious generals frequently returned to consume the produce of their success. Here they walked at large, and none made them afraid.

Verse 12. The lion did tear] This verse gives us a striking picture of the manner in which the Assyrian conquests and depredations were carried on.

Verse 13. Behold, I am against thee] Assyria, and Nineveh its capital. I will deal with you as you have dealt with others.

The voice of thy messengers] Announcing thy splendid victories, and the vast spoils taken—shall no more be heard—thou and thy riches, and ill-got spoils, shall perish together.

CHAPTER III.

The prophet denounces a woe against Nineveh for her perfidy and violence. He musters up before our eyes the number of her chariots and cavalry; points to her burnished arms, and to the great and unrelenting slaughter which she spreads around her, 1-3. Because Nineveh is a city wholly given up to the grossest superstition, and is an instructress of other nations in her abominable rites, therefore she shall come to a most ignominious and unpitied end, 3-7. Her final ruin shall be similar to that of No, a famous city of Egypt, 8-11. The prophet then beautifully describes the great ease with which the strongholds of Nineveh should be taken, 12, and her judicial pusillanimity during the siege, 13; declares that all her preparation, her numbers, opulence, and chieftains would be of no avail in the day of the Lord's vengeance, 14-17; and that her tributaries would desert her, 18. The whole concludes with stating the incurableness of her malady, and the dreadful destruction consequently awaiting her; and with introducing the nations which she had oppressed as exulting at her fall, 19.

WOE to the ^abloody ^bcity! it is all full of lies, and robbery; the prey departeth not; 2 The noise of a whip, and ^cthe noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the prancing horses, and of the jumping chariots.

3 The horseman lifteth up both ^dthe bright sword and the glittering spear: and there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcases; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses:

4 Because of the multitude of the whoredoms of the wellfavoured harlot, ^ethe mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms, and families through her witchcrafts.

5 'Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts; and ^fI will discover thy skirts upon thy face, ^gand I will shew the nations thy nakedness, and the kingdoms thy shame.

6 And I will cast abominable filth upon thee, and ^hmake thee vile, and will set thee as ⁱa gazing-stock.

7 And it shall come to pass, that all they that look upon thee ^kshall flee from thee, and say, Nineveh is laid waste: ^lwho will bemoan her? whence shall I seek comforters for thee?

8 ^mArt thou better than ⁿpopulous ^oNo, that was situate among the rivers, that had the waters round about it, whose rampart was the sea, and her wall was from the sea?

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and it was infinite; Put and Lubim were ^pthy helpers.

10 Yet was she carried away, she went into captivity: ^qher young children also were dashed in pieces ^rat the top of all the streets: and they ^scast lots for her honourable men, and all her great men were bound in chains.

11 Thou also shalt be ^tdrunken: thou shalt be hid, thou also shalt seek strength because of the enemy.

12 All thy strong holds shall be like ^ufig-trees with the firstripe figs: if they be shaken, they shall even fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Behold, ^vthy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be set wide open unto thine enemies: the fire shall devour thy ^wbars.

14 Draw thee waters for the siege, ^xfortify thy strong holds: go into clay, and tread the mortar, make strong the brick-kiln.

15 There shall the fire devour thee; the sword shall cut thee off; it shall eat thee up like ^ythe canker-worm: make thyself many as the canker-worm, make thyself many as the locusts.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven: the canker-worm ^zspoileth, and fleeth away.

17 ^{aa}Thy crowned are as the locusts, and thy captains as the great grasshoppers, which camp in the hedges in the cold day, but when the sun ariseth they flee away, and their place is not known where they are.

18 ^{ab}Thy shepherds slumber, O ^{ac}king of Assyria: thy ^{ad}nobles shall dwell in the dust: thy people is ^{ae}scattered upon the mountains, and no man gathereth them.

19 There is no ^{af}healing of thy bruise; ^{ag}thy wound is grievous: ^{ah}all that hear the bruit of thee shall clap the hands over thee: for upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed continually?

^a Heb. city of bloods.—^b Ezek. xxii. 2, 3. xxiv. 6, 9. Hab. ii. 12.—^c Jer. xvii. 8.—^d Heb. the flame of the sword, and the lightning of the spear.—^e Isa. xlvii. 8, 12. Rev. xviii. 2, 3.—^f Ch. ii. 13.—^g Isa. xlvii. 2, 3. Jer. xlii. 22, 26. Ezek. xlii. 37. Mic. i. 11.—^h Heb. ii. 16.—ⁱ Mal. ii. 9.—^j Heb. x. 33.—^k Rev. xviii. 10.—^l Jer. xv. 5.—^m Amos vi. 2.—ⁿ Or, nourishing.—^o Heb. No Ammon.—^p Jer. xlvii. 25, 26. Ezek. xxx. 14-16.—^q Heb. in thy help.—^r Ps. cxxxvii. 9.

Verse 1. Woe to the bloody city! Nineveh: the threatenings against which are continued in a strain of invective astonishing for its richness, variety, and energy.

Verse 4. Because of the multitude of the whoredoms! The Ninevites here are represented under the emblem of a beautiful harlot or public prostitute, enticing all men to her, inducing the nations to become idolatrous; and, by thus perverting them, rendering them also objects of the divine wrath.

Mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms! Using every means to excite to idolatry; and being, by menace or wiles, successful in all.

Verse 5. I will discover thy skirts upon thy face! It was an ancient, though not a laudable custom, to strip prostitutes naked, or throw their clothes over their heads, and expose them to public view, and public execration.

Verse 6. I will cast abominable filth upon thee! I will set thee as a gazing-stock. This was a punishment precisely like our pillory. They put such women in the pillory as a gazing-stock; and then, children and others threw mud, dirt, and filth of all kinds at them.

Verse 7. Who will bemoan her? In such cases, who pities the delinquent? She has been the occasion of ruin to multitudes, and now she is deservedly exposed and punished. And so it should be thought concerning Nineveh.

Verse 8. Art thou better than populous No? No-Ammon, or Diospolis, in the Delta, on one branch of the Nile.

The waters round about it! Being situated in the Delta, it had the fork of two branches of the Nile to defend it by land; and its barrier or wall, was the sea, the Mediterranean into which these branches emptied themselves: so that this city, and the place it stood on, were wholly surrounded by the waters.

Isa. xlii. 16. Hos. xiii. 16.—^s Lam. ii. 19.—^t Joel iii. 3. Obad. 11.—^u Jer. xxv. 17, 27. Ch. i. 10.—^v Rev. vi. 13.—^w Jer. i. 37. ii. 30.—^x Ps. cxlviii. 13. Jer. li. 30.—^y Ch. ii. 1.—^z Joel i. 4.—^{aa} Or, spreadeth himself.—^{ab} Rev. ix. 7.—^{ac} Ezek. xv. 16. Ps. lxxvi. 6.—^{ad} Jer. i. 18. Ezek. xxxi. 3, &c.—^{ae} Or, valiant ones.—^{af} 1 Kings xxii. 17.—^{ag} Heb. wrinking.—^{ah} Mic. i. 9.—^{ai} Lam. ii. 15. Zeph. ii. 15. See Isa. xiv. 8, &c.

Verse 9. Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength! The land of Cush, not far from Diospolis; for it was in Arabia, on the Red Sea.

Put and Lubim! A part of Africa and Libya, which were all within reach of forming alliances with No-Ammon or Diospolis.

Verse 10. They cast lots for her honourable men! This refers still to the city called populous No. And the custom of casting lots among the commanders, for the prisoners which they had taken, is here referred to.

Great men were bound in chains. Reserved to grace the triumph of the victor.

Verse 11. Thy people—are women! They lost all courage and made no resistance.

Verse 14. Draw thee waters for the siege! The Tigris ran near to Nineveh, and here they are exhorted to lay in plenty of fresh water, lest the siege should last long, and lest the enemy should cut off this supply.

Go into clay, and tread the mortar! This refers to the manner of forming bricks anciently in those countries; they digged up the clay, kneaded it properly by treading, mixed it with straw or coarse grass, moulded the bricks, and dried them in the sun.

Verse 15. Make thyself many as the canker-worm! On the locusts, and their operations in their various states, see the notes on Joel ii.

Verse 16. Thou hast multiplied thy merchants! Like Tyre, this city was a famous resort for merchants; but the multitudes which were there previously to the siege, like the locusts, took the alarm, and fled away.

Verse 17. Thy crowned are as the locusts! Thou hast numerous princes and numerous commanders.

Which camp in the hedges in the cold day! The locusts are said to lie in shelter about the hedges of fertile spots when the weather is cold, or during the night; but as soon as the sun shines out and is hot, they come out to their forage, or take to their wings.

CHAP. III.

Verse 18. Thy shepherds slumber] That is, the rulers and tributary princes, who, as Herodotus informs us, deserted Nineveh, in the day of her distress, and came not forward to her succour.

Verse 19. There is no healing of thy bruise] Thou shalt never be rebuilt.

All that hear the bruit of thee] The report or account.

Shall clap the hands] Shall exult in thy downfall.

For upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed] Thou hast been a universal oppressor, and therefore all nations rejoice at thy fall and utter desolation.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HABAKKUK.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet enters very abruptly on his subject, his spirit being greatly indignant at the rapid progress of vice and impiety, 1-4. Upon which God is introduced threatening very awful and sudden judgments to be inflicted by the ministry of the Chaldeans, 5-10. The Babylonians attribute their wonderful successes to their idols, 11. The prophet then, making a sudden transition, expostulates with God (probably personating the Jews) for permitting a nation much more wicked than themselves, as they supposed, to oppress and devour them as fishers and fowlers do their prey, 12-17.

THE burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry, ^b and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not save!

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance? for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention.

4 Therefore the law is slacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the ^c wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore ^d wrong judgment proceedeth.

^a Zech. ix. 1, xii. 1. Mal. i. 1.—^b Lam. iii. 8.—^c Job. xxi. 7. Ps. xclv. 3. &c. Jer. xii. 1.—^d Or, wreathed.—^e Isa. xxix. 14. Acts xlii. 41.—^f Deut. xxviii. 49, 50. Jer. v. 15.—^g Fulfilled 2 Chron.

We know little of this prophet; for what we find in the ancients concerning him is evidently fabulous, as well as that which appears in the Apocrypha. He was probably of the tribe of Simeon, and a native of Beth-sazar.^a It is very likely that he lived after the destruction of Nineveh, as he speaks of the Chaldeans, but makes no mention of the Assyrians.

As a poet, Habakkuk holds a high rank among the Hebrew prophets. The beautiful connexion between the parts of his prophecy, its diction, imagery, spirit, and sublimity, cannot be too much admired; and his hymn, chap. iii., is allowed by the best judges to be a masterpiece of its kind.

Verse 1. The burden.] The word signifies an oracle or revelation in general; but chiefly, one relative to future calamities.

Verse 2. O Lord, how long shall I cry.] The prophet feels himself strongly excited against the vice^b which he beheld; and which, it appears from this verse, he had often declaimed against, but in vain; the people continued in their vices, and God in his long suffering.

Verse 3. And cause me to behold grievance.] Amul, labour, toil, distress, misery, &c., the common fruits of sin.

Verse 4. The law is slacked.] That the utmost depravity prevailed in the land of Judah is evident from these verses; and can we wonder, then, that God poured out such signal judgments upon them? When judgment doth not proceed

5 Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvellously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe, though it be told you.

6 For, lo, I ^a raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, which shall march through the ^b breadth of the land, to possess the dwelling-places that are not theirs.

7 They are terrible and dreadful: ^c their judgment and their dignity shall proceed of themselves.

8 Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more ^d fierce than the ^e evening wolves: and their horsemen shall spread themselves, and xxxvi. 6.—^a Heb. breadths.—^b Or, from them shall proceed the judgment of these, and the captivity of these.—^c Heb. sharp.—^d Esek. xxii. 27. Jer. v. 6. Zeph. iii. 3.

from the seat of judgment upon earth, it will infallibly go forth from the throne of judgment in heaven.

Verse 5. I will work a work in your days.] As he is speaking of the desolation that should be produced by the Chaldeans, it follows that the Chaldeans invaded Judah whilst those were living whom the prophet addressed.

Which ye will not believe.] Nor did they, after all the declarations of various prophets. They still supposed that God would not give them up into the hands of their enemies, though they continued in their abominations!

Verse 6. That bitter and hasty nation.] Cruel and oppressive in their disposition; and prompt and speedy in their assaults and conquests.

Verse 7. Their judgment—shall proceed of themselves.] By revolting from the Assyrians, they have become a great nation. Thus, their judgment and excellence were the result of their own valour. Other meanings are given to this passage.

Verse 8. Their horses also are swifter than the leopards.] The Chaldean cavalry are proverbial for swiftness, courage, &c.

The leopard, of all quadrupeds, is allowed to be the swiftest.

• The evening wolves.] The wolf is remarkable for his quick sight. Some think that the hyæna is meant: it is a swift, cruel, and untameable animal.

their horsemen shall come from far: ^a they shall fly as the eagle that hasteth to eat.

9 They shall come all for violence: ^b their ^c faces shall sup up as the east wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the sand.

10 And they shall scoff at the kings, and the princes shall be a scorn unto them: they shall deride every stronghold; for they shall heap dust, and take it.

11 Then shall his mind change, and he shall pass over, and offend, ^d imputing this his power unto his god.

12 ^e Art thou not from everlasting, O LORD my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. O LORD, ^f thou hast ordained them for judgment; and, O ^g mighty God, thou hast ^h established them for correction.

^a Jer. iv. 13.—^b Or, the supping up of their faces, &c., or their faces shall look toward the east.—^c Heb. the opposition of their faces toward the east.—^d Dan. v. 4.—^e Ps. xc. 2. xciii. 2. Lam. v. 19.—^f 2 Kings xix. 26. Ps. xvii. 13. Isa. x. 5, 6, 7. Ezek. xxx. 26.

Verse 9. Their faces shall sup up as the east wind] This may be an allusion to the dry electrical winds which prevail in that country. [But the English version here does not express the original.]

Verse 10. They shall scoff at the kings] It will be only as pastime to them to take the strongest places. They will have no need to build formidable ramparts: by sweeping the dust together they shall make mounts sufficient to pass over the walls and take the city.

Verse 11. Then shall his mind change] This is thought to relate to the change which took place in Nebuchadnezzar, when "a beast's heart was given to him," and he was "driven from the dwellings of men." And this was because of his offending—his pride and arrogance; and his attributing all his success, &c., to his idols.

Verse 12. Art thou not from everlasting] The idols change, and their worshippers change and fail: but thou, Jehovah, art eternal; thou canst not change, and they who trust in thee are safe. Thou art infinite in thy mercy, therefore, "we shall not die," shall not be totally exterminated.

13 ⁱ Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on ^j iniquity: ^k wherefore lookest thou upon them that deal treacherously, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makest men as the fishes of the sea, as the ^l creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They ^m take up all of them with the angle, they catch them in their net, and gather them in their ⁿ drag: therefore they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore ^o they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag; because by them their portion ^p is fat, and their meat ^q plenteous.^a

17 Shall they therefore empty their net, and not spare continually to slay the nations?

^a Heb. rock. Deut. xxxii. 4.—^b Heb. founded.—^c Ps. v. 5.—Or, grievance.—^d Jer. xii. 2.—^e Or, moving.—^f Jer. xvi. 18. Amos iv. 2.—^g Or, Rue net.—^h Deut. viii. 17. Isa. x. 13. xxxvii. 24, 25.—ⁱ Or, daintily.—^j Heb. fat.

Thou hast ordained them for judgment] Thou hast raised up the Chaldeans to correct and punish us; but thou hast not given them a commission to destroy us totally.

Verse 13. Thou art of purer eyes] All such questions are easily solved by a consideration of God's ineffable mercy, which leads him to suffer long and be kind. He has no pleasure in the death of a sinner.

Verse 14. Makest men as the fishes of the sea] Nebuchadnezzar is here represented as a fisherman, who is constantly casting his nets into the sea, and enclosing multitudes of fishes; and, being always successful, he attributes all his conquests to his own power and prudence.

Verse 16. They sacrifice unto their net] He had no God; he cared for none; and worshipped only his armour and himself.

Verse 17. And not spare continually to slay the nations?] Like the fishermen, who throw cast after cast while any fish are to be caught, so Nebuchadnezzar is destroying one nation after another.

CHAPTER II.

The prophet, waiting for a return to his expostulation, is answered by God that the time for the destruction of the Jewish polity by the Chaldeans is not only fixed in the divine counsel, but is awfully near; and he is therefore commanded to write down the vision relative to this appalling subject in the most legible characters, and in the plainest language, that all who read it with attention (those just persons who exercise an unwavering faith in the declaration of God respecting the violent irruption of the merciless Babylonians), may flee from the impending vengeance, 1-4. The fall of the Chaldeans, and of their ambitious monarch, is then predicted, 5-10; and, by a strong and bold personification, the very stone and wood of those magnificent buildings, which the Babylonish king had raised by oppression and bloodshed, pronounce his woe, and in responsive taunts upbraid him, 11, 12. The prophet then beautifully sets forth the absolute impotence of every effort, however, well-conducted, which is not in concert with the divine counsel: for though the wicked rage, and threaten the utter extermination of the people of God; yet, when the set time to favour Zion is come, the destroyers of God's heritage shall themselves be destroyed, and "the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of God, as the waters cover the sea," 13, 14. See Ps. cii. 13-16. For the cup of idolatry, which Babylon has given to many nations, she will receive of the Lord's hand the cup of fury by the insurrection of mighty enemies (the Medes and Persians) rushing like wild beasts to destroy her, 15. In the midst of this distress the prophet very opportunely asks in what the Babylonians had profited by their idols, exposes the absurdity of trusting in them, and calls upon the whole world to stand in awe of the everlasting Jehovah, 16-19.

I WILL ^astand upon my watch, and set me upon the ^btower, ^cand will watch to see what he will say ^dunto me, and what I shall answer ^ewhen 'I am reproved.

2 And the LORD answered me, and said, ^fWrite the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

3 For ^hthe vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will ⁱsurely come, it will not tarry.

4 Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the ^jjust shall live by this faith.

5 ^kYea also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire ^las hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people:

6 Shall not all these ^mtake up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, ⁿWoe to him that increaseth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himself with thick clay!

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them?

^a Isa. xxi. 8. 11.—^b Heb. fenced place.—^c Ps. lxxxviii. 8.—^d Or, in me.—^e Or, when I am argued with.—^f Heb. upon my reproof, or arguing.—^g Isa. viii. 1. xxx. 8.—^h Dan. x. 14. xi. 27. 35.—ⁱ Heb. x. 37.—^j John iii. 36. Rom. i. 17. Gal. iii. 11. Heb. x. 38.—^k Or, How much more.—^l Prov. xxvii. 20. xxx. 16.—^m Mic. ii. 4.—ⁿ Or, Ho, ho.—^o Isa. xxxiii. 1.—^p Ver. 17.—^q Heb. bloods.—^r Jer. xxii. 13.—^s Or,

Verse 1. I will stand upon my watch] The prophets are always represented as watchmen, watching constantly for the comfort, safety, and welfare of the people; and watching also to receive information from the Lord: for the prophetic influence was not always with them, but was granted only at particular times, according to the will of God. When in doubtful cases, they wished to know what God was about to do with the country, they retired from society, and gave themselves to meditation and prayer, waiting thus upon God to hear what he would say in them.

What he will say unto me] In me—in my understanding and heart.

And what I shall answer when I am reproved.] What I shall say to God in behalf of the people; and what the Lord shall command me to say to the people.

Verse 2. That he may run that readeth it.] That he who attentively peruses it may speed to save his life from the irruption of the Chaldeans, by which so many shall be cut off. The prophet does not mean that the words are to be made so plain, that a man running by may easily read them, and catch their meaning. [The popular interpretation is probably correct.]

Verse 3. The vision is yet for an appointed time] The Chaldeans, who are to ruin Judea, shall afterwards be ruined themselves: but they must do this work before they receive their wages; therefore the vision is for an appointed time. But at the end it shall speak. When his work of devastation is done, his day of retribution shall take place.

Though it tarry] Though it appear to be long, do not be impatient; it will surely come; it will not tarry longer than the prescribed time, and this time is not far distant.

Verse 4. Behold, his soul which is lifted up] He that presumes on his safety without any special warrant from God, is a proud man; and whatever he may profess, or think of himself, his mind is not upright in him. But he that is just by faith shall live—he that believes what God hath said relative to the Chaldeans besieging Jerusalem, shall make his escape from the place, and consequently shall save his life. The words in the New Testament are accommodated to the salvation which believers in Christ shall possess.

Verse 5. Because he transgresseth by wine] Newcome translates, "Moreover, as a mighty man transgresseth through wine, he is proud, and remaineth not at rest." And cannot be satisfied.] When he has obtained all that 8 ^tBecause thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoil thee; ^ubecause of men's ^vblood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 Woe to him that ^wcoveteth ^xan evil covetousness to his house, that he may ^yset his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the ^zpower of evil!

10 Thou hast consulted shame to thy house by cutting off many people, and hast sinned against thy soul.

11 For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the ^{aa}beam out of the timber shall ^{ab}answer it.

12 Woe to him that buildeth a town with ^{ac}blood, and stablisheth a city by iniquity!

13 Behold, is it not of the LORD of hosts ^{ad}that the people shall labour in the very fire, and the people shall weary themselves ^{ae}for very vanity?

14 For the earth shall be filled ^{af}with the ^{ag}knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.

15 Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that putteth thy ^{ah}bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also, that thou mayest ^{ai}look on their nakedness.

16 Thou art filled ^{aj}with shame for glory: ^{ak}"drink thou also, and let thy foreskin be uncovered: the cup of the LORD's right hand shall be turned unto gaineth an evil gain.—^{al} Jer. xlii. 16. Obid. 4.—^{am} Heb. palm of the hand.—^{an} Or, piece, or fastening.—^{ao} Or, witness against it.—^{ap} Jer. xxii. 13. Ezek. xiv. 9. Mic. iii. 10. Nah. iii. 1.—^{aq} Heb. blood.—^{ar} Jer. li. 58.—^{as} Or, in vain.—^{at} Or, by knowing the glory of the LORD.—^{au} Isa. xi. 9.—^{av} Hos. vii. 5.—^{aw} Gen. xi. 22.—^{ax} Or, more with shame than with glory.—^{ay} Jer. xxv. 26, 27. li. 57.

is within his reach, he wishes for more; and becomes miserable, because any limits are opposed to his insatiable ambition.

Verse 6. Shall not all these take up a parable against him] His ambition, derangement, and the final destruction of his mighty empire by the Persians, shall form the foundation of many sententious sayings among the people.

Verse 7. Shall they not rise up suddenly] Does not this refer to the sudden and unexpected taking of Babylon by Cyrus.

Verse 8. For the violence of the land] Or, for the violence done to the land of Judea, and to the city of Jerusalem.

Verse 9. An evil covetousness to his house] Nebuchadnezzar wished to aggrandize his family, and make his empire permanent: but both family and empire were soon cut off by the death of his son Belshazzar, and the consequent destruction of the Chaldean empire.

Verse 11. The stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it.] This appears to refer to the ancient mode of building walls; two or three courses of stone, and then one course of timber. See 1 Kings vi. 86: thus was the palace of Solomon built. [The expression is proverbial.]

Verse 12. Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood] At the expense of much slaughter. That is the answer of the beam to the stone.

Verse 13. The people shall labour in the very fire] All these superb buildings shall be burnt down.

Shall weary themselves for very vanity?] For the gratification of the wishes of ambition, and the buildings which shall be brought to nought.

Verse 14. For the earth shall be filled] This is a singular and important verse. It may be first applied to Babylon. God's power and providence shall be widely displayed in the destruction of this city and empire, in the humiliation of Nebuchadnezzar, Dan iv. 87, and in the captivity and restoration of his people.

Secondly, It may be applied to the glorious days of the Messiah. The land of Judea should by his preaching, and that of his disciples, be filled with the knowledge of God. God's great design fully discovered, and the scheme of salvation amply explained.

Thirdly, It may be applied to the universal spread of the gospel over the habitable globe; when the fulness of the Gentiles should be brought in, and the Jew gathered in with thee, and shameful spewing shall be on thy glory.

17 For the violence of Lebanon shall cover thee, and the spoil of beasts, which made them afraid, 'because of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

18 ^b What profiteth the graven image that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, that fulness. The earth cannot perish till every continent, island and inhabitant is illuminated with the light of the gospel.

^a Ver. 8.—^b Isa. xlii. 9, 10. xlii. 2.—^c Jer. x. 8, 14. Zech. x. 2.—^d Heb. the fashioner of his fashion.—^e 1's. cxv. 5. 1 Cor. xii. 2.—

Verse 16. Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink] This has been considered as applying to Pharaoh'sophra, king of Egypt, who enticed his neighbours Jehoiachin and Zedekiah to rebel against Nebuchadnezzar, whereby the nakedness and imbecility of the poor Jews was soon discovered; for the Chaldeans soon took Jerusalem, and carried its kings, princes, and people into captivity.

Verse 16. The cup of the Lord's right hand] Among the ancients, all drank out of the same cup; it was passed from hand to hand, and each drank as much as he chose.

Verse 17. For the violence of Lebanon] Or, the violence done to Lebanon; to men, to cattle, to Judea, and to Jerusalem. This may be a threatening against Egypt, as the former was against Chaldaea.

Verse 18. What profiteth the graven image] This is against idolatry in general, and every species of it, as well as against those princes, priests, and people who practise it and encourage others to do the same.

Dumb idols f] "Dumb nothings." This is exactly agree-and a 'teacher of lies, that 'the maker of his work trusteth therein, to make 'dumb idols?

19 Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, 'and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

20 But 'the LORD is in his holy temple: 'let' all the earth keep silence before him.

^f Ps. cxxxv. 17.—^g Ps. xl. 4.—^h Heb. be silent all the earth before him.—ⁱ Zeph. ii. 7. Zech. ii. 13.

able to St. Paul. 1 Cor. viii. 4, who says, "An idol is nothing in the world."

Verse 19. Woe unto him] How foolish and contemptible to worship a thing formed by the hand of man out of wood, stone, gold, or silver! The meanest brute is superior to them all; it breathes and lives, but they have no breath in them.

Verse 20. The Lord is in his holy temple] Jehovah has his temple, the place where he is to be worshipped; but there there is no image. Oracles, however, are given forth; and every word of them is truth, and is fulfilled in its season. And this temple and its worship are holy; no abomination can be practised there, and every thing in it leads to holiness of heart and life.

Let all the earth keep silence before him.] When an Asiatic sovereign goes to the mosque on any of the eastern festivals, such as the Bairam, the deepest silence reigns among all his retinue, viziers, foreign ambassadors, &c. They all bow respectfully before him; but no word is spoken, no sound uttered. It is to this species of reverence that the prophet alludes, and with this he concludes the prophetic part of this book.

CHAPTER III.

The prophet, being apprised of the calamities which were to be brought on his country by the ministry of the Chaldeans, and the punishments which awaited the Chaldeans themselves, partly struck with terror, and partly revived with hope and confidence in the divine mercy, beseeches God to hasten the redemption of his people, 1, 2. Such a petition would naturally lead his thoughts to the astonishing deliverance which God vouchsafed to the same people of old; and the inference from it was obvious, that he could with the same ease deliver their posterity now. But, hurried on by the fire and impetuosity of his spirit, he disdains to wait the process of connecting these ideas, and bounds at once into the midst of his subject: "God came from Teman," &c., 3. He goes on to describe the majesty and might which God displayed in conducting his people to the land of promise; selecting the most remarkable circumstances, and clothing them in the most lofty language. As he goes along, his fancy becomes more glowing, till at length he is transported to the scene of action, and becomes an eye-witness of the wonders he describes. "I beheld the tents of Cushan in affliction," 4-6. After having touched on the principal circumstances of that deliverance which he celebrates, he returns to what passed before them in Egypt; his enthusiasm having led him to begin in the midst of his subject, 7-15. And at last he ends the hymn as he began it, with expressing his awe of the divine judgments, and his firm trust in the mercy and goodness of God while under them; and that in terms of such singular beauty, elegance, and sublimity, as to form a very proper conclusion to this admirable piece of divinely inspired composition, 16-19. It would seem from the title, and from the note appended at the end, that it was set to music, and sung in the service of the temple.

A PRAYER of Habakkuk the prophet 'upon^b Shigionoth.

2 O LORD, 'I have heard 'thy speech, and was afraid: O LORD, 'revive 'thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known: in wrath remember mercy.

^a Ps. vii. title.—^b Or, according to variable songs, or tunes, called in Hebrew, Shigionoth.—^c thy report or thy hearing.—^d Or, pressure

Verse 1. A prayer of Habakkuk—upon Shigionoth.] See the note on the title of Ps. vii, where the meaning of Shigionoth is given.

I suspect that the title here given is of a posterior date to the prophecy. It appears to interrupt the connexion between this and the termination of the preceding verse.

Verse 2. In the midst of the years] "As the years ap-

3 God came from 'Teman, 'and the Holy One from Mount Paran. Selah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise.

4 And his brightness was as the light; he had 'horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.

^{alies.}—^a Ps. lxxxv. 6.—^b Or, the south.—^c Deut. xxxiii. 2. Judg. v. 4. Ps. lxxviii. 7.—^d Or, bright beams out of his side, proach." The nearer the time, the clearer and fuller is the prediction; and the signs of the times show that the complete fulfilment is at hand. But as the judgments will be heavy (and they are not greater than we deserve), yet, Lord, in the midst of wrath—infliction of punishment, remember mercy, and spare the souls that return unto thee with humiliation and prayer.

5 * Before him went the pestilence, and ^b burning coals went forth at his feet.

6 He stood, and measured the earth: he beheld, and drove asunder the nations; ^d and the ^e everlasting mountains were scattered, the perpetual hills did bow: his ways are ^f everlasting.

7 I saw the tents of ^g Cushan ^h in affliction: and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the LORD displeased against the rivers? ⁱ was thine anger against the rivers? ^j was thy wrath against the sea, ^k that thou didst ride upon thine horses and ^l thy chariots of salvation?

9 Thy bow was made quite naked, according to the oaths of the tribes, ^m even ⁿ thy word. Selah. ^o Thou didst cleave the earth with rivers.

^a Nah. i. 8.—^b Or, burning diseases. Deut. xxvii. 24.—^c Ps. xviii. 8, 12. Isa. vi. 6. xlvii. 14.—^d Nah. i. 5.—^e Gen. xlix. 26.—^f Ps. cxxxix. 24.—^g Or, Æthiopia.—^h Or, under affliction, or ventry.—ⁱ Deut. xxxiii. 26, 27. Ps. lxxviii. 4. civ. 3. Ver. 15.—^j Or, thy chariots were salvation.—^k Or, Thou didst cleave the rivers of the earth.—^l Ps. lxxviii. 15, 16. cv. 41.—^m Exod. xix. 16, 18. Judg. v. 4, 5. Ps. lxxviii. 8.

Verse 3. God came from Teman] The prophet selects the most striking facts of the deliverance of the Israelites out of Egypt; and to decorate and render them impressive, brings forth all the powers of his genius, in all the strength and elegance of his language.

Teman] This was a city, the capital of a province of Idumea, to the south of the land of Canaan. Numb. xx. 21; Jer. xlix. 7.

Paran] Was a city which gave its name to a province in Arabia Petrea. Gen. xxi. 21; Deut. xxxiii. 2.

His glory covered the heavens] His glory when he descended on Mount Sinai, and in the pillar of fire by night.

The earth was full of his praise.] All the land was astonished at the magnificence of his work in behalf of his people. Instead of praise, some translate splendour. The whole land was illuminated by his glory.

Verse 4. He had horns coming out of his hand] Karnayim, rays. His hand—his power, was manifested in a particular place, by the sudden issuing out of pencils of rays, which diverged in coruscations of light, so as to illuminate the whole hemisphere. Yet "there was the hiding of his power." His Majesty could not be seen, nor any kind of image, because of the insufferable splendour. This may either refer to the lightnings on Mount Sinai; or to the brightness which occasionally proceeded from the shechinah or glory of God between the cherubim, over the mercy-seat.

Verse 5. Before him went the pestilence] This plague was several times inflicted on the disobedient Israelites in the wilderness; see Numb. xi. 33, xiv. 37, xvi. 46; and was always the proof that the just God was then manifesting his power among them.

Burning coals went forth at his feet.] The disobedient Israelites were consumed by a fire that went out from Jehovah; see Lev. x. 2; Numb. xi. 1, xvi. 35. And the burnt-offering was consumed by a fire which came out from Jehovah, Lev. xi. 24.

Verse 6. He stood, and measured the earth] Erets, the land; he divided the promised land among the twelve tribes. This is the allusion; and this the prophet had in his eye. God not only made a general assignment of the land to the Hebrews; but he even divided it into such portions as the different families required.

He beheld, and drove asunder the nations] The nations of Canaan, the Hittites, Hivites, Jebusites, &c. and all who opposed his people. Even his look dispersed them.

The everlasting mountains were scattered] Or, broken asunder. This may refer to the convulsions on Mount Sinai; and to the earthquake which announced the descent of the Most High. See Exod. xix. 18. The epithets eternal and everlasting, are applied to mountains and immense rocks, because no other parts of nature are less subject to decay or change, than these immense masses of earth and stone, and that almost indestructible stone, granite, out of which Sinai appears to be formed.

Verse 7. I saw the tents of Cushan in affliction] Cush is Arabia. The Arabians dwell in tents, hence they were called Scenite. When the Lord appeared on Mount Sinai, 10 ^a The mountains saw thee, and they trembled: the overflowing of the water passed by: the deep uttered his voice, and ^b lifted up his hands on high.

11 ^c The sun and moon stood still in their habitations; ^d at the light of thine ^e arrows they went, and at the shining of thy glittering spear.

12 Thou didst march through the land in indignation, ^f thou didst thresh the heathen in anger.

13 Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, even for salvation with thine anointed; ^g thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked, ^h by discovering the foundation unto the neck. Selah.

14 Thou didst strike through with his staves, the head of his villages: they ⁱ came out as a whirllxxvii. 18. cxiv. 4.—^a Exod. xiv. 22. Josh. iii. 16.—^b Josh. x. 12, 13.—^c Or, thine arrows walked in the light, &c.—^d Josh. x. 11. Ps. xviii. 14. lxxvii. 17, 18.—^e Jer. li. 33. Amos i. 8. Mic. iv. 13.—^f Josh. x. 24. xi. 8, 12. Ps. lxxviii. 21.—^g Heb. making naked.—^h Heb. were tempestuous.

the Arabs of the Red Sea abandoned their tents, being terror-struck; and the Midianites also were seized with fear. See the desolation wrought among this people by Phinehas, Numb. xxxi. 1, &c., on account of their having enticed the Israelites to idolatry, Numb. xxv. 1, &c.

Verse 8. Was the Lord displeased against the rivers?] Floods; here is a reference to the passage of the Red Sea. The Lord is represented as heading his troops, riding in his chariot, and commanding the sea to divide, that a free passage might be left for his army to pass over.

Verse 9. Thy bow was made quite naked] That is, it was drawn out of its case; as the arrows had their quiver, so the bows had their cases. It is not the drawing out, or making bare the arrow, that is mentioned here; but the taking the bow out of its case to prepare to shoot.

This verse appears to be an answer to the questions in the preceding: "Was the Lord displeased," &c. The answer is, All this was done "according to the oaths of the tribes;" the covenant of God, frequently repeated and renewed, which he made with the tribes, to give them the land of the Canaanites for their inheritance.

Thou didst cleave the earth with rivers.] Or, "Thou didst cleave the streams of the land." Or, "Thou cleavest the dry land into rivers." This may be a reference to the passage of Jordan, and transactions at Arnon and the brook Jabbok. See Numb. xxi. 13-15.

Verse 10. The mountains saw thee] These are figures highly poetic, to show with what ease God accomplished the most arduous tasks in behalf of his people. As soon as the mountains saw him they trembled, they were in pangs. When he appeared the sea fled to right and left, to give him a passage. "It uttered its voice." The separation of the waters occasioned a terrible noise. "And it lifted up its hands on high." Its waters, being separated, stood in heaps on the right hand and left. These heaps or waves are poetically represented here as the hands of the sea.

Verse 11. The sun and moon stood still] This was at the prayer of Joshua, when he fought against the Amorites. See Josh. x. 11, 12, and the notes there.

At the light of thine arrows they went] I think we should translate—

By their light, thine arrows went abroad;
By their brightness, the lightning of thy spear.

Verse 12. Thou didst march through the land] This refers to the conquest of Canaan. God is represented as going at the head of his people as general-in-chief; and leading them on from conquest to conquest—which was the fact.

Thou didst thresh the heathen in anger.] Thou didst tread them down as the oxen do the sheaves on the threshing-floor.

Verse 13. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people] Their deliverance would not have been effected but through thy interference.

For salvation with thine anointed] That is, with Joshua, whom God had anointed, or solemnly appointed to fill the place of Moses, and lead the people into the promised land. The sense is very far-fetched, when applied to Jesus Christ.

Thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked wind to scatter me: their rejoicing was as to devour the poor secretly.

15 'Thou didst walk through the sea with thine horses, through the ^b heap of great waters.

16 When I heard, 'my belly trembled; my lips quivered at the voice; rottenness entered into my bones, and I trembled in myself; that I might rest in the day of trouble: when he cometh up unto the people, he will 'invade them with his troops.

17 Although the fig-tree shall not blossom,

^a Ver. 8. Ps. lxxvii. 19.—^b Or, mud.—^c Ps. cxix. 120. Jer. xxiii. 9.—^d Or, cut them in pieces.—^e Heb. lxx.—^f Job. xlii. 15.—^g Isa. xli. 16. lxi. 10.—^h Ps. xxvii. 1.—ⁱ 2 Sam. xxii. 34. Ps.

This alludes to the slaying the first-born through all the land of Egypt. These were the heads of the houses or families.

By discovering the foundation unto the neck.] The general meaning of this clause is sufficiently plain: the government of these lands should be utterly subverted; the very foundations of it should be razed. But what means unto the neck, ad tsavvar? Several critics read, ad tsur, "Unto the rock," that on which the house is founded: and this very intelligible reading is obtained by the omission of a single letter, aleph. But is the conjecture necessary? I think not: read the verse as it ought to be read, and all will be plain.

Verse 14. Thou didst strike through] If we follow the common reading, it seems to intimate that the troops of Pharaoh, in their confusion (for God shone out upon them from the cloud) fell foul of each other; and with their staves, or weapons, slew one another; but the head of the villages or towns, i. e., Pharaoh, was drowned with his army in the Red Sea.

Verse 15. Thou didst walk through the sea] There was no occasion to hurry across; all was safe, for God had divided the waters: and his terrible cloud had removed from before, and stood behind them, so that it was between them and the Egyptians.

Verse 16. When I heard, my belly trembled] The prophet now returns to the desolate state of his countrymen, who are shortly to be led into captivity, and suffer the most grievous afflictions; and although he had a sure word of prophecy that they should be ultimately delivered, yet the thoughts of the evils they must previously endure filled his soul with terror and dismay; so that he wishes to be re-neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labour of the olive shall 'fail, and the fields shall yield no meat; the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls:

18 'Yet I will 'rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation.

19 The Lord God is ^b my strength, and he will make my feet like 'hinds' feet, and he will make me to 'walk upon mine high places. To the chief singer on my ^c stringed instruments.

xviii. 33.—^a Deut. xxxii. 13. xxxiii. 29.—^b Heb. neginoth. Ps. iv. title.

moved from earth before this tribulation should come, that his eyes might not behold the desolations of his country.

When he (Nebuchadnezzar) cometh up unto the people (the Jews), he will invade them (overpower and carry them away captive) with his troops.

Verse 17. Although the fig-tree shall not blossom] These two verses give the finest display of resignation and confidence that I have ever met with. He saw that evil was at hand, and unavoidable; he submitted to the dispensation of God, whose Spirit enabled him to paint it in all its calamitous circumstances. He knew that God was merciful and gracious. He trusted to his promise, though all appearances were against its fulfilment; for he knew that the word of Jehovah could not fail, and therefore his confidence is unshaken.

No paraphrase can add anything to this hymn, which is full of inexpressible dignity and elegance, leaving even its unparalleled piety out of the question.

Verse 19. The Lord God is my strength] This is an imitation, if not a quotation, from Ps. xviii. 32, 33, where see the notes,

Will make me to walk upon mine high places] This last verse is spoken in the person of the people, who seem to anticipate their restoration; and that they shall once more rejoice in the hills and mountains of Judea.

To the chief singer on my stringed instruments.] This line, which is evidently a superscription, leads me to suppose that when the prophet had completed his short ode, he folded it up, with the above direction to the master singer, or leader of the choir, to be sung in the temple service.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET ZEPHANIAH

CHAPTER I

This chapter begins with denouncing God's judgments against Judah and Jerusalem, 1-3. Idolaters, and sinners of several other denominations, are then particularly threatened; and their approaching visitation enlarged on by the enumeration of several circumstances which tend greatly to heighten its terrors, 4-18.

THE word of the LORD which came unto Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

2 * I will utterly consume all things from off ^b the land, saith the LORD.

3 * I will consume man and beast, I will consume the fowls of the heaven, and the fishes of the sea, and ^c the ^c stumbling-blocks with the wicked; and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the LORD.

4 I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and ^d I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place

^a Heb. By taking away I will make an end.—^b Heb. the face of the land.—^c Hos. iv. 3.—^d Ezek. vii. 19. xiv. 3, 4, 7. Matt. xiii. 41.—^e Or, idols.—^f Fulfilled, cir. 624. 2 Kings xxiii. 4, 5.—^g Hos. x. 5.—^h 2 Kings xxiii. 12. Jer. xix. 13.—ⁱ 1 Kings xviii. 21st 2 Kings xvii. 33, 41.—^j Isa. xlviii. 1. Hos. iv. 15.—^k Or, to the LORD.—

Verse 1. The word of the Lord which came unto Zephaniah] Though this prophet has given us so large a list of his ancestors, yet little concerning him is known, because we know nothing certain relative to the persons of the family whose names are here introduced. We have one chronological note which is of more value for the correct understanding of his prophecy than the other could have been, how circumstantially soever it had been delivered; viz., that he prophesied in the days of Josiah, son of Ammon, king of Judah; and from the description which he gives of the disorders which prevailed in Judea in his time, it is evident that he must have prophesied before the reformation made by Josiah, which was in the eighteenth year of his reign. And as he predicts the destruction of Nineveh, chap. ii. 13, which, as Calmet remarks, could not have taken place before the sixteenth of Josiah, allowing with Berosus twenty-one years for the reign of Nabopolassar over the Chaldeans; we must, therefore, place this prophecy about the beginning of the reign of Josiah, or from B. C. 640 to B. C. 609.

Verse 2. I will utterly consume all things] He speaks particularly of the idolaters.

Verse 3. I will consume man and beast] By war, and by pestilence. Even the waters shall be infected, and the fish destroyed; the air become contaminated, and the fowls dis-

Verse 4. I will cut off the remnant of Baal] I think he and the name of ^e the Chemarims with the priests;

5 And them ^b that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops: ^c and them that worship ^d and ^d that swear ^e by the LORD, and that swear ^f by Malcham:

6 And ^g them that are turned back from the LORD; and ^h those that ⁱ have not sought the LORD, nor inquired for him.

7 * Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord God: ^j for the day of the LORD is at hand: for ^k the LORD hath prepared a sacrifice, he hath ^l bid his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the LORD's sacrifice, that I will ^m punish ⁿ the princes, refers here, partly at least, to the reformation which Josiah was to bring about.

¹ Josh. xxiii. 7. 1 Kings xi. 33.—² Isa. i. 4. Jer. ii. 13, 17. xv. 6.—³ Hos. vii. 7.—⁴ Hab. ii. 20. Zech. ii. 13.—⁵ Isa. xiii. 6.—⁶ Isa. xxxiv. 6. Jer. lvi. 10. Ezek. xxxix. 17. Rev. xix. 17.—⁷ Heb. sanctified, or prepared.—⁸ Heb. visit upon.—⁹ Jer. xxxix. 6.

The Chemarims] The black-robed priests of different idols. See the note on 2 Kings xxiii. 5.

Verse 5. The host of heaven] See 2 Kings xxiii. 5, 12; Jer. xix. 13, xxii. 29.

That swear by the Lord, and that swear by Malcham] Associating the name of an idol with that of the Most High. For Malcham, see on Hos. iv. 15, and Amos v. 26.

Verse 6. Them that are turned back] Who have forsaken the true God, and become idolaters.

Verse 7. Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord God] Has, the same as hush, hie, among us. Remonstrances are now useless. You had time to acquaint yourselves with God; you would not: you cry now in vain; destruction is at the door.

The Lord hath prepared a sacrifice] A slaughter of the people.

He hath bid his guests] The Babylonians, to whom he has given a commission to destroy you.

Verse 8. Strange apparel] I think this refers more to their embracing idolatrous customs and heathen usages, than to their changing their dress.

Verse 9. That leap on the threshold] Or, that leap over the threshold. It is most probable that the Philistines are and the king's children, and all such as are clothed with strange apparel.

9 In the same day also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold, which fill their master's houses with violence and deceit.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that there shall be the noise of a cry from the fish gate, and a howling from the second, and the great crashing from the hills.

11 ^bHowl, ye inhabitants of Maktesh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear silver are cut off.

12 And it shall come to pass at that time, that I will search Jerusalem with candles, and punish the men that are settled on their lees: that say in their heart, The LORD will not do good, neither will he do evil.

13 Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation: they shall also build houses, but not inhabit them; and they shall

^a2 Chron. xxxiii. 14.—^bJames v. 1.—^cHeb. curded, or thickened.—^dJer. xlviii. 11. Amos vi. 1.—^ePs. xciv. 7.—^fDeut. xxviii. 30. 39. Amos v. 11.—^gMic. vi. 15.—^hJoel ii. 1, 11.—ⁱIsa. xxii. 6. Jer. xxx. 7. Joel ii. 2, 11. Amos v. 18. Ver. 18.—^jJer. iv. 19.—

here meant. After the time that Dagon fell before the ark, and his hands were broken off on the threshold of his temple, his worshippers would no more set a foot upon the threshold, but stepped or leaped over it when they entered into his temple. Some think that leaping on the threshold refers to the custom of the Arabs, who used to ride into people's houses, and take away whatever they could carry. [The view of Ewald and others is probably correct, that the reference here is to the violent and extortionate habits of the king's servants.]

Verse 10. A cry from the fish gate] This gate, which is mentioned, Neh. iii. 3, was opposite to Joppa; and perhaps the way in which the news came of the irruption of the Chaldean army, the great crashing from the hills.

The second.] Or second city, may here mean a part of Jerusalem, mentioned 2 Kings xxii. 14, 2 Chron. xxxiv. 22.

Verse 11. Maktesh] Calmet says this signifies a mortar, or a rock in form of a mortar, and was the name of a quarter of Jerusalem where they hulled rice, corn, &c., according to St. Jerome.

plant vineyards, but ^anot drink the wine thereof.

14 ^bThe great day of the LORD is near, it is near, and hasteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the LORD: the mighty man shall cry there bitterly.

15 ^cThat day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of wasteness and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness,

16 A day of ^dthe trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high towers.

17 And I will bring distress upon men, that they shall ^ewalk like blind men, because they have sinned against the LORD: and ^ftheir blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh ^gas the dung.

18 ^hNeither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the LORD's wrath; but the whole land shall be ⁱdevoured by the fire of his jealousy: for ^jhe shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

^kDeut. xxviii. 29. Isa. lix. 10.—^lPs. lxxix. 3.—^mPs. lxxxiii. 10. Jer. ix. 22. xvi. 4.—ⁿProv. xi. 4. Ezek. vii. 19.—^oCh. iii. 8.—^pVer. 2, 3.

They that bear silver] The merchants, money-changers, usurers, rich men.

Verse 12. I will search Jerusalem with candles] I will make a universal and thorough search.

That are settled on their lees] Those who are careless, satisfied with the goods of this life.

Verse 14. The great day of the Lord is near] It commenced with the death of the good king Josiah, who was slain by Pharaoh-necho at Megiddo, and continued to the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar.

Verse 15. That day is a day of wrath] See the parallel passages in the margin, and the notes there.

Verse 17. They shall walk like blind men] Be in the most perplexing doubt and uncertainty; and while in this state, have their blood poured out by the sword of their enemies, and their flesh trodden under foot.

Verse 18. Their silver nor their gold] In which they trusted, and from which they expected happiness; these shall not profit them in this awful day. And God will bring this about speedily; and a speedy riddance—a universal desolation, shall in a short time take place in every part of the land.

CHAPTER II.

The prophet having declared the judgments which were ready to fall on his people, earnestly exhorts them to repentance, that these judgments may be averted, 1-3. He then foretells the fate of other neighbouring and hostile nations: the Philistines, 4-7; Moabites and Ammonites, 8-11; Ethiopians, 12; and Assyrians, 13. In the close of the chapter we have a prophecy against Nineveh. These predictions were accomplished chiefly by the conquests of Nebuchadnezzar.

GATHER yourselves together, ye, gather together, O nation ^bnot desired; 2 Before the decree bring forth, before the day pass as the chaff, before the fierce ^aJoel ii. 16.—^bOr, not desirous.—^cJob. xxi. 18. Ps. i. 4. Isa. xlvii. 13. Hos. xiii. 3.

Verse 1. Gather yourselves] Others, sift yourselves. Separate the chaff from the wheat, before the judgments of God fall upon you. O nation not desired—unlovely, not delighted in; hated, because of your sin. The Israelites are addressed.

anger of the LORD come upon you, before the day of the LORD's anger come upon you.

3 ^aSeek ye the LORD, all ye meek of the earth, which have wrought his judgment, seek righteousness—

^b2 Kings xxiii. 26.—^cPs. cv. 4. Amos v. 6.—^dPs. lxxvi. 9.

Verse 3. Ye meek of the earth] Anavey, ye oppressed and humbled of the land.

It may be ye shall be hid] The sword has not a commission against you. Ask God, and he will be a refuge to you from the storm and from the tempest.

ness, seek meekness: * it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the LORD's anger.

4 For ^b Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon a desolation: they shall drive out Ashdod ^c at the noon day, and Ekron shall be rooted up.

5 Woe unto the inhabitants of ^d the sea coasts, the nation of the Cherethites; the word of the LORD is against you; O ^e Canaan, the land of the Philistines, I will even destroy thee, that there shall be no inhabitant.

6 And the sea coasts shall be dwellings and cottages for shepherds, ^f and folds for flocks.

7 And the coast shall be for ^g the remnant of the house of Judah; they shall feed thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lie down in the evening: ^h for the LORD their God shall ⁱ visit them, and ^j turn away their captivity.

8 ^k I have heard the reproach of Moab, and ^l the revilings of the children of Ammon, whereby they have reproached my people, and ^m magnified themselves against their border.

9 Therefore as I live, saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Surely ⁿ Moab shall be as Sodom, and ^o the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, ^p even the breeding of nettles, and salt-pits, and a perpetual desolation: ^q the residue of my people shall spoil them, and the remnant of my people shall possess them.

10 This shall they have ^r for their pride, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the people of the LORD of hosts.

11 The LORD will be terrible unto them: for he will ^s famish all the gods of the earth; ^t and men shall worship him, every one from his place, even all ^u the isles of the heathen.

12 ^v Ye Ethiopians also, ye shall be slain by ^w my sword.

13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north, and ^x destroy Assyria; and will make Nineveh a desolation, and dry like a wilderness.

14 And ^y flocks shall lie down in the midst of her all ^z the beasts of the nations: both the ^{aa} cormorant ^{bb} and the bittern shall lodge in the ^{cc} upper lintels of it; their voice shall sing in the windows: desolation shall be in the thresholds: ^{dd} for he shall uncover the ^{ee} cedar work.

15 This is the rejoicing city ^{ff} that dwelt carelessly ^{gg} that said in her heart, I am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desolation, a place for beasts to lie down in! every one that passeth by her ^{hh} shall hiss, and ⁱⁱ wag his hand.

* Joel ii. 14. Amos v. 15. Jonah iii. 9.—^b Jer. xlvii. 4, 5. Ezek. xxv. 15. Amos i. 6, 7, 8. Zech. ix. 5, 6.—^c Jer. vi. 4. xv. 8.—^d Ezek. xxv. 16.—^e Josh. xiii. 3.—^f See Isa. xvii. 2. Ver. 14.—^g Isa. xi. 11. Mic. iv. 7, 8. Hag. i. 12. ii. 2. Ver. 9.—^h Or, when, &c.—ⁱ Exod. iv. 31. Luke i. 68.—^j Ps. cxxvi. 1. Jer. xxix. 14. Ch. iii. 20.—^k Jer. xlviii. 27. Ezek. xxv. 8.—^l Ezek. xxv. 3, 6.—^m Jer. xlix. 1.—ⁿ Isa. xv. Jer. xlviii. Ezek. xxv. 9. Amos ii. 1.—^o Amos i. 13.—^p Gen. xix. 28. Deut.

xxix. 23. Isa. xlii. 19. xxxiv. 13. Jer. xlix. 18. i. 40.—^q Ver. 7.—^r Isa. xvi. 8. Jer. xlviii. 29.—^s Heb. makes lean.—^t Mal. i. 11. John iv. 21.—^u Gen. x. 5.—^v Isa. xviii. 1. xx. 4. Jer. xlii. 9. Ezek. xxx. 9.—^w Ps. xvii. 13.—^x Isa. x. 12. Ezek. xxxi. 8. Nah. i. 2. ii. 10. iii. 15, 18.—^y Ver. 6.—^z Isa. xlii. 21, 22.—^{aa} Or, pelican.—^{bb} Isa. xxxiv. 11, 14.—^{cc} Or, knops, or chapiters.—^{dd} Or, when he hath uncovered.—^{ee} Jer. xxii. 14.—^{ff} Isa. xlvii. 8.—^{gg} Rev. xviii. 7.—^{hh} Job. xxvii. 23. Lam. ii. 15. Ezek. xxvii. 38.—ⁱⁱ Nah. iii. 19.

Verse 4. Gaza shall be forsaken] This prophecy is against the Philistines.

Verse 5. The sea coasts, the nation of the Cherethites] The sea coasts mean all the country lying on the Mediterranean coast from Egypt to Joppa and Gaza. The Cherethites—the Cretans, who were probably a colony of the Phœnicians. See on 1 Sam. xxx. 14, and Amos ix. 7.

Verse 8. I have heard the reproach of Moab] God punished them for the cruel part they had taken in the persecutions of the Jews; for when they lay under the displeasure of God, these nations insulted them in the most provoking manner.

Verse 9. The breeding of nettles] That is, their land shall become desolate, and be a place for nettles, thorns, &c., to flourish in, for want of cultivation.

Verse 11. He will famish all the gods of the earth] They shall have no more sacrifices; their worship shall be entirely destroyed. Idolaters supposed that their gods actually fed on the fumes and spirituous exhalations that arose from the burnt-offerings which they made unto their idols.

Verse 14. And flocks shall lie down in the midst of her] Nineveh was so completely destroyed, that its situation is not at present even known. [But see the works of Layard, Rawlinson, and others.]

Their voice shall sing in the windows] The windows shall be all demolished; wild fowl shall build their nests in them, and shall be seen coming from their sills; and the fine cedar ceilings shall be exposed to the weather, and by and by crumble to dust.

Verse 15. This is the rejoicing city] The city in which mirth, jocularity, and pleasure reigned without interruption.

And wag his hand.] Will point her out as a mark and monument of divine displeasure.

CHAPTER III.

The prophet reproves Jerusalem, and all her guides and rulers, for their obstinate perseverance in impiety, notwithstanding all the warnings and corrections which they had received from God, 1-7. They are encouraged however, after they shall have been chastised for their idolatry, and cured of it, to look for mercy and restoration, 8-13; and excited to hymns of joy at the glorious prospect, 14-17. After which the prophet concludes with large promises of favour and prosperity in the days of the Messiah, 18-20. We take this extensive view of the concluding verses of this chapter, because an apostle has expressly assured us that in EVERY prophetic book of the Old Testament scriptures are contained predictions relative to the gospel dispensation. See Acts. iii. 24.

WOE to ^aher ^bthat is filthy and polluted, to the oppressing city!

2 She ^cobeyed not the voice; she ^dreceived not ^ecorrection; she trusted not in the LORD; she drew not near to her God.

3 ^fHer princes within her ^gare roaring lions; her judges ^hare ⁱevening wolves; they gnaw not the bones till the morrow.

4 Her ^jprophets ^kare light and treacherous persons: her priests have polluted the sanctuary; they have done ^lviolence to the law.

5 ^mThe just LORD ⁿis in the midst thereof; he will not do iniquity: ^oevery morning doth he bring his judgment to light, he faileth not: but ^pthe unjust knoweth no shame.

6 I have cut off the nations: their ^qtowers are desolate; I made their streets waste, that none passeth by: their cities are destroyed; so that there is no man, that there is none inhabitant.

7 ^rI said, Surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive instruction; so their dwelling should not be cut off, howsoever I punished them; but they rose early, and ^scorrupted all their doings.

8 Therefore ^twait ye upon me, saith the LORD, until the day that I rise up to the prey: for my determination ^uis to ^vgather the nations, that I may assemble the kingdoms, to pour upon them mine indignation, even all my fierce anger: for all the earth ^wshall be devoured with the fire of my jealousy.

^aOr, gluttonous.—^bHeb. craw.—^cJer. xxii. 21.—^dJer. v. 3.—^eOr, instruction.—^fEzek. xxii. 27. Mic. iii. 9, 10, 11.—^gHab. i. 8.—^hJer. xxiii. 11, 32. Lam. ii. 14. Hos. ix. 7.—ⁱEzek. xxii. 28.—^jDeut. xxxii. 4.—^kVer. 15, 17. See Mic. iii. 11.—^lHeb. morning by morning.—^mJer. iii. 3. vi. 15. viii. 12.—ⁿOr, corners.—^oSo Jer. viii. 6.—^pGen. vi. 12.—^qPs. xxvii. 14. xxxvii. 84. Prov. xx. 22.—^rJoel iii. 2.—^sCh. i. 18.—^tIsa. xix. 18.—^uHeb. ^vHeb. ^wHeb. shoulder.—^xPs. lxxviii. 31. Isa. xlviii. 1, 7. lx. 4, &c. Mal. i. 12. Acts Verse 1. Woe to her that is filthy] This is a denunciation of divine judgment against Jerusalem.

Verse 2. She obeyed not the voice] Of conscience, of God, and of his prophets.

She received not correction] Did not profit by his chastisements; was uneasy and ill-tempered under her afflictions, and derived no manner of good from these chastisements.

She trusted not in the Lord] Did not consider him as the Fountain whence all help and salvation should come; and rather sought for support from man and herself, than from God.

Verse 3. Her princes—are roaring lions] Tearing all to pieces without shadow of law, except their own despotic power.

Her judges are evening wolves] They practise their unjust dealings from evening to morning, and take the day to find their rest.

They gnaw not the bones till the morrow] They use all violence and predatory oppression, like wild beasts; they shun the light, and turn day into night by their revellings.

Verse 4. Her prophets are light and treacherous persons] They have no seriousness, no deep conviction of the awful nature of their office, no concern for the immortal souls of the people.

They have done violence to the law] They have forced wrong constructions on it in order to excuse themselves, and lull the people into spiritual slumber.

Verse 5. The just Lord is in the midst thereof] He sees, marks down, and will punish all these wickednesses.

Verse 7. Surely thou wilt fear me] After so many displays of my sovereign power and judgments.

But they rose early] They were diligent to find out times and places for their iniquity. This is the worst state of man.

Verse 8. Wait ye upon me] Expect the fulfilment of all my promises and threatenings: I am God and change not.

For all the earth] All the land of Judah.

Verse 9. Will I turn to the people] This promise must refer to the conversion of the Jews under the gospel.

That they may all call] That the whole nation may invoke

9 For then will I turn to the people ^aa pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD, to serve him with one ^bconsent.

10 ^cFrom beyond the rivers of Ethiopia my suppliants, even the daughter of my dispersed, shall bring mine offering.

11 In that day shalt thou not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee them that ^drejoice in thy pride, and thou shalt no more be haughty ^ebecause of my holy mountain.

12 I will also leave in the midst of thee ^fan afflicted and poor people, and they shall trust in the name of the LORD.

13 ^gThe remnant of Israel ^hshall not do iniquity, ⁱnor speak lies; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for ^jthey shall feed and lie down, and none shall make them afraid.

14 ^kSing, O daughter of Zion: shout, O Israel; be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem:

15 The LORD hath taken away thy judgments, he hath cast out thine enemy: ^lthe King of Israel, even the LORD, ^mis in the midst of thee: thou shalt not see evil any more.

16 In that day ⁿit shall be said to Jerusalem, Fear thou not: ^oand to Zion, ^pLet not thine hands be ^qslack.

17 The LORD thy God ^ris in the midst of thee is viii. 27.—^aJer. vii. 4. Mic. iii. 11. Matt. iii. 9.—^bHeb. in my holy.—^cIsa. xiv. 32. Zech. xi. 11. Matt. v. 8. 1 Cor. i. 27, 28. James ii. 5.—^dMic. iv. 7. Ch. ii. 7.—^eIsa. ix. 31.—^fIsa. lxiii. 8. Rev. xiv. 5.—^gEzek. xxiv. 28. Mic. iv. 4. vii. 14.—^hIsa. xli. 6. liv. 1. Zech. ii. 10. ix. 9.—ⁱJohn. i. 49.—^jVer. 5, 17. Ezek. xlviii. 35. Rev. vii. 15. xxi. 3, 4.—^kIsa. xxxv. 3, 4.—^lHeb. xii. 12.—^mOr, joint.—ⁿVer. 15.

God by Christ, and serve him with one consent; not one unbeliever being found among them.

The pure language, saphah berurah, may here mean the form of religious worship. They had been before idolaters: now God promises to restore his pure worship among them. See Isa. xix. 18; Hos. xiv. 3; and Joel ii. 28.

Verse 10. From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia] This may denote both Africa and the southern Arabia. [The rivers are the Nile and Astaboras.]

Verse 11. Shalt thou not be ashamed] Thy punishment shall cease, for God shall pardon thy sin.

For then I will take away out of the midst of thee] The wicked Jewish priests and scribes who blasphemed Christ, and would not come under his yoke.

Because of my holy mountain] Thou wilt no more boast in my temple.

Verse 12. An afflicted and poor people] In such a state will the Jews be found when they shall hear the universal call, and believe in Christ Jesus.

Verse 13. The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity] O what a change! And then, how different shall they be from their present selves! Only God can convert any man; and if there be a peculiar difficulty to convert any soul, that difficulty must lie in the conversion of the Jew.

Verse 14. Sing, O daughter of Zion] Here is not only a gracious prophetic promise of their restoration from captivity, but of their conversion to God through Christ.

Verse 15. The King of Israel, even the Lord, is in the midst of thee] They have never had a king since the death of Zedekiah, and never shall have one till they have the King Messiah to reign among them; and this promise refers to that event.

Verse 16. Fear thou not] Thou shalt have no more captivities nor national afflictions.

Let not thine hands be slack] This may refer, first, to the rebuilding of the temple of God, after the return from Babylon; and, secondly, to their diligence and zeal in the Christian Church.

Verse 17. The Lord thy God] The self-existent and mighty; he will save, ^ahe will rejoice over thee with joy; ^bhe will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing.

18 I will gather them that ^care sorrowful for the solemn assembly, who are of thee, to whom ^dthe reproach of it was a burden.

19 Behold, at that time I will undo all that afflict thee: and I will save her that ^ehalteth, and gather ^aDeut. xxx. 9. Isa. lxii. 5. lxx. 19. Jer. xxxii. 41.—^bHeb. he will be silent.—^cLam. ii. 6.—^dHeb. the burden upon it was reproach.—^eEzek. xxxiv. 16. Mic. iv. 6, 7.—^fHeb. I will set them for a eternal Being, who is in covenant with you;” the character of God in reference to the Jews when standing in the nearest relation to them.

Is mighty] Gibbor, is the prevailing One, the all-conquering Hero.

He will save] Deliver thee from all the power, from all the guilt, and from all the pollution of thy sins; and when thus saved, “he will rejoice over thee with joy,” with peculiar gladness. “He will rest in his love,”—he will renew his love. He will show the same love to you that he did of old to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

He will joy over thee with singing.] There will be more than ordinary joy in heaven when the Jews return to God through Christ. This event cannot be at a great distance; all things are now ready!

Verse 18. I will gather—sorrowful] This may refer to those who, during the captivity, mourned for their former religious assemblies; and who were reproached by their enemies, because they could not enjoy their religious solemnities.

Verse 19. I will undo all that afflict thee] This was the her that was driven out; and ‘I will get them praise and fame in every land’ where they have been put to shame.

20. At that time ^hwill I bring you again, even in the time that I gather you: for I will make you a name and a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, saith the LORD.

praise.—^gHeb. of their shame.—^hIsa. xi. 12. xxvii. 12. lvi. 8. Ezek. xxviii. 25. xxxiv. 13. xxxvii. 21. Amos ix. 14.

conduct of the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites, when the Jews were in adversity; and how severely did the Lord punish them for it! And he gave this as the reason for the severity of the punishment.

I will save her that halteth] See Micah iv. 6, where there is a parallel place.

And gather her that was driven out] By captivity. The reference may be to renewing the covenant with the Jews, who were considered as an unfaithful spouse divorced by her husband. I will bring her back to my house.

I will get them praise and fame in every land] They shall become a great, a good, and a useful people.

Verse 20. At that time] First, when the seventy years of the Babylonish captivity shall terminate. This restoration shall be a type of their redemption from sin and iniquity; and at this time, and at this only, will they have a name and praise among all the people of the earth, not only among the Jews, but the Gentiles.

On their conversion to Christianity, they shall become as eminent as they were in the most illustrious days of their history.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HAGGAI.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet reproves the people, and particularly their ruler and high-priest, for negligence and delay in rebuilding the temple; and tells them that their neglect was the cause of their having been visited with unfruitful seasons, and other marks of the divine displeasure, 1-11. He encourages them to set about the work, and on their doing so, promises that God will be with them, 12-15.

IN ^athe second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD ^bby Haggai the prophet unto ^cZerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, ^dgovernor of Judah, and to ^eJoshua the son of ^fJosedech, the high priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the LORD ^gby Haggai the prophet, saying,

4 ^hIs it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your ceiled houses, and this house lie waste? ⁱ

5 Now therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; ^jconsider ^kyour ways.

6 Ye have ^lsown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye ^mhave not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and ⁿhe that earneth wages ^oearneth wages to put it into a bag ^pwith holes.

^a Ezra iv. 24. v. 1. Zech. i. 1.—^b Heb. by the hand of.—^c Chron. iii. 17, 19. Ezra iii. 2. Matt. i. 12. Luke iii. 27.—^d Or, captain.—^e Ezra iii. 2. v. 2.—^f Chron. vi. 15.—^g Ezra v. 1.—^h 2 Sam. vii. 2. Ps. cxxx. 1, 3, &c.—ⁱ Set your heart on your ways.—^j Lam. iii. 40. Ver. 7.—^k Deut. xxviii. 38. Hos. iv. 10. Mic.

We know nothing of the parentage of Haggai. He was probably born in Babylon during the captivity, and appears to have been the first prophet sent to the Jews after their return to their own land. He was sent particularly to encourage the Jews to proceed with the building of the temple, at the time when Darius published his edict of permission for the Jews to rebuild the city and temple, which was in the second year of his reign, and the sixteenth of their return from Babylon.

Verse 1. Joshua the son of Josedech] And son of Seraiah, who was high-priest in the time of Zedekiah, and was carried into captivity by Nebuchadnezzar, 1 Chron. vi. 15. But Seraiah was slain at Riblah, by order of Nebuchadnezzar, 2 Kings xxv. 18-21.

Verse 2. The time is not come] They thought that the seventy years spoken of by Jeremiah were not yet completed, 7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Consider your ways.

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the LORD.

9 ^aYe looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, ^bI did ^cblow upon it. Why? saith the LORD of hosts. Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore ^dthe heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I ^ecalled for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and ^fupon all the labour of the hands.

12 ^gThen Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and ^hJoshua the son of Josedech, the high-priest, with

vi. 14, 15. Ch. ii. 16.—ⁱ Zech. viii. 10.—^j Heb. pierced through.—^k Ch. ii. 16.—^l Ch. ii. 17.—^m Or, blow it away.—ⁿ Lev. xxvi. 19. Deut. xxviii. 23. 1 Kings viii. 35.—^o 1 Kings xvii. 1. 2 Kings viii. 1.—^p Ch. ii. 17.—^q Ezra. v. 2.

and it would be useless to attempt to rebuild until that period had arrived.

Verse 4. Is it time for you] If the time be not come to rebuild the temple, it cannot be come for you to build yourselves comfortable houses: but ye are rebuilding your houses; why then do ye not rebuild the house of the Lord?

Verse 6. Ye have sown much] This verse contains a series of proverbs; no less than five in the compass of a few lines.

Verse 8. Go up to the mountain, and bring wood] Go to Lebanon, and get timber.

Verse 9. Ye looked for much] Ye made great pretensions at first; but they are come to nothing.

Ye run every man unto his own house] To rebuild and adorn it; and God's house is neglected.

Verse 10. Therefore the heaven over you is stayed from all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him, and the people did fear before the LORD.

13 Then spake Haggai the LORD's messenger in the LORD's message unto the people, saying, "I am with you, saith the LORD."

14 And ^bthe LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerub-

* Matt. xxviii. 20. Rom. viii. 31.—^b 2 Chron. xxxvi. 22. Ezra. i. 1.

dew] It appears from the following verse that God had sent a drought upon the land, which threatened them with scarcity and famine.

Verse 12. Then Zerubbabel] The threatening of Haggai had its proper effect. When the authority of God is acknowledged, his words will be carefully obeyed.

Verse 13. Then spake Haggai] He was the LORD's messenger, and he came with the LORD's message, and consequently he came with authority.

I am with you, saith the LORD.] Here was high encouragement. What may not a man do when God is his helper?

babel the son of Shealtiel, ^cgovernor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high-priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people: ^dand they came and did work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 In the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

* Ch. ii. 21.—^d Ezra v. 2, 8.

Verse 14. And the LORD stirred up the spirit] It is not only necessary that the judgment should be enlightened, but the soul must be invigorated by the Spirit of God, before any good work can be effectually done.

Verse 15. In the four and twentieth day] Haggai received his commission on the first day of this month; and by the twenty-fourth day he had so completely succeeded that he had the satisfaction to see the whole people engaged heartily in the LORD's work; they left their own houses to build that of the LORD.

CHAPTER II.

When this prophecy was uttered, about four years before the temple was finished, and sixty-eight after the former one was destroyed, it appears that some old men among the Jews were greatly dispirited on account of its being so much inferior in magnificence to that of Solomon. Compare Ezra iii. 12. To raise the spirits of the people, and encourage them to proceed with the work, the prophet assures them that the glory of the second temple should be greater than that of the first, alluding perhaps to the glorious doctrines which should be preached in it by Jesus Christ and his Apostles, 1-9. He then shows the people that the oblations brought by their priests could not sanctify them, while they were unclean by their neglect of the temple; and, to convince them that the difficult times they had experienced during that neglect proceeded from this cause, he promises fruitful seasons from that day forward, 10-19. The concluding verses contain a prediction of the mighty revolutions that should take place by the setting up of the kingdom of Christ, under the type of Zerubbabel, 20-23. As the time which elapsed between the date of the prophecy and the dreadful convulsion of the nations is termed, in ver. 6, A LITTLE WHILE, the words may likewise have reference to some temporal revolutions then near, such as the commotions of Babylon in the reign of Darius, the Macedonian conquests in Persia, and the wars between the successors of Alexander; but the aspect of the prophecy is more directly to the amazing victories of the Romans, who, in the time of Haggai and Zechariah, were on the VERY EVE of their successful career, and in the lapse of a few centuries subjugated the whole habitable globe; and therefore, in a very good sense, God may be said by these people to have shaken "the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land;" and thus to have prepared the way for the opening of the gospel dispensation. See Heb. xii. 25-29. Others have referred this prophecy to the period of our Lord's second advent, to which there is no doubt it is also applicable; and when it will be in the most signal manner fulfilled. That the convulsion of the nations introducing this most stupendous event will be very great and terrible, is sufficiently plain from Isaiah xxxiv., xxxv., as well as from many other passages of holy writ.

IN the seventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the LORD ^aby the prophet Haggai, saying,

2 Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech, the high-priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

3 ^bWho is left among you that saw this house in

* Heb. by the hand of.—^b Ezra iii. 12.

Verse 1. In the seventh month] This was a new message, and intended to prevent discouragement, and excite them to greater diligence in their work.

Verse 3. Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory?] The foundation of the present house had been laid about fifty-three years after the destruction of the temple built by Solomon; and though this prophecy was uttered fifteen years after the foundation of this second temple, yet there might still survive some of those who had seen the Temple of Solomon.

Verse 4. Yet now be strong] Do not let this discourage her first glory? and how do you see it now? ^cis it not in your eyes in comparison of it as nothing?

4 Yet now, ^dbe strong, O Zerubbabel, saith the LORD; and be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedech, the high-priest; and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the LORD, and work: for I am with you, saith the LORD of hosts.

* Zech. iv. 10.—^d Zech. viii. 9.

you. The chief glory of the temple is not its splendid building, but my presence. What is the most splendid cathedral, if God be not in it, influencing all by his presence and Spirit?

Verse 7. And the desire of all nations shall come] This is a difficult place if understood of a person: for chemdath, desire, cannot well agree with bau, they shall come. It is true that some learned men suppose that chamdoth, desirable things, may have been the original reading; but this is supported by no MS., nor is bau found in the singular number in any. It is generally understood of the desirable or 5 According to the word that I covenanted with you when ye came out of Egypt, so ^b my Spirit remaineth among you: ^c fear ye not.

6 For thus saith the LORD of hosts: 'Yet once, it is a little while, and ^d I will shake the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land;

7 And I will shake all nations, 'and the desire of all nations shall come; and I will fill this house with glory, saith the LORD of hosts.

8 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 'The glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former, saith the LORD of hosts: and in this place will I give ^e peace, saith the LORD of hosts.

10 In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD by Haggai the prophet, saying,

11 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; 'Ask now the priests concerning the law, saying,

12 If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the priests answered and said, No.

13 Then said Haggai, If one that is ^f unclean by a dead body touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the priests answered and said, It shall be unclean.

14 Then answered Haggai, and said, ^g So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the LORD; and so is every work of their hands; and that which they offer there is unclean.

15 And now, I pray you, ^h consider from this

^a Exod. xlix. 45, 46.—^b Neh. ix. 20. Isa. lxiii. 11.—^c Isa. vii. 4.—^d Jer. v. 3. Heb. xii. 28.—^e Joel iii. 18.—^f Gen. xlix. 10. Mal. iii. 1.—^g John i. 14.—^h Ps. lxxxv. 8, 9. Luke ii. 14. Eph. ii. 14.—ⁱ Lev. x. 10, 11. Deut. xxxiii. 10. Mal. ii. 7.—^j Num. xix. 11.—^k Titus i. 15.—^l Ch. i. 5.—^m Ch. i. 6, 9. Zech. viii. 10.—

valuable things which the different nations should bring into the temple; and it is certain that many rich presents were brought into this temple. But the principle difficulty lies in the verb ubaw, they shall come. If we found ubaw chemdath in the singular, then it would read as in our text, And the desire of all nations shall come: but no such reading appears in any MS. In ver. 7 God says he will shake or stir up all nations; that these nations shall bring their desirable things; that the house shall be filled with God's glory; that the silver and gold, which these nations are represented as bringing by way of gifts, are the Lord's; and that the glory of this latter house shall exceed the former. I cannot see how the words can apply to Jesus Christ, even if the construction were less embarrassed than it is; because I cannot see how he could be called the DESIRE OF ALL NATIONS. The whole seems to be a metaphorical description of the Church of Christ, and of his filling it with all the excellencies of the Gentile world, when the fullness of the Gentiles shall be brought in.

Verse 9. And in this place will I give peace] Shalom, a peace-offering, as well as peace itself; or Jesus Christ, who is called the Prince of peace.

But it is said that the glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former. Now this cannot be said because Jesus Christ made his personal appearance in that temple, or rather in that built by Herod; for the first temple was the dwelling-place of God; here he manifested his glory between the cherubim, and it was his constant residence for more than four hundred years. But the glory of this latter house was greater because that under it the grand scheme of human salvation was exhibited, and the redemption price paid down for a lost world. As all probably applies to the Christian Church, the real house of God, its glory was most certainly greater than any glory which was ever possessed by that of the Jews.

Verse 14. Then answered Haggai—So is this people] As an unclean man communicates his uncleanness to every thing he touches, so are ye unclean; and whatever ye have hitherto done is polluted in the sight of God. For your day and upward, from before a stone was laid upon a stone in the temple of the LORD:

16 Since those days were, ⁱ when one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the press-fat for to draw out fifty vessels out of the press, there were but twenty.

17 'I smote you with blasting and with mildew and with hail ^j in all the labours of your hands; ^k yet ye turned not to me, saith the LORD.

18 Consider now from this day and upward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from ^l the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid, consider it.

19 'Is the seed yet in the barn? yea, as yet the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree, hath not brought forth: from this day will I bless you.

20 And again the word of the LORD came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying,

21 Speak to Zerubbabel, ^m governor of Judah, saying, 'I will shake the heavens and the earth;

22 And ⁿ I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen; and ^o I will overthrow the chariots, and those that ride in them; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

23 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel, my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the LORD, ^p and will make thee as a signet: for ^q I have chosen thee, saith the LORD of hosts.

^a Deut. xxviii. 22. 1 Kings viii. 37. Ch. i. 9. Amos iv. 9.—^b Ch. i. 11.—^c Jer. v. 3. Amos iv. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.—^d Zech. viii. 9.—^e Zech. viii. 12.—^f Ch. i. 14.—^g Ver. 6, 7. Heb. xii. 28.—^h Dan. ii. 44. Matt. xxiv. 7.—ⁱ Mic. v. 10. Zech. iv. 6. ix. 10.—^j Cant. viii. 6. Jer. xxii. 24. Eccles. xiii. 11.—^k Isa. xlii. 1. xliii. 10.

neglect of my temple has made you unclean, as if you had contracted legal pollution by touching a dead body.

Verse 16. Since those days were] I have shown my displeasure against you, by sending blasting and mildew; and so poor have been your crops, that a heap of corn which should have produced twenty measures produced only ten; and that quantity of grapes which in other years would have produced fifty measures, through their poverty, smallness, &c., produced only twenty. And this has been the case ever since the first stone was laid in this temple; for your hearts were not right with me, and therefore I blasted you in all the labours of your hands; and yet ye have not turned to me, verse 17.

Verse 18. Consider now from this day] I will now change my conduct towards you: from this day that ye have begun heartily to rebuild my temple, and restore my worship, I will bless you. Whatever you sow, whatever you plant, shall be blessed; your land shall be fruitful, and ye shall have abundant crops of all sorts.

Verse 20. Again the word of the Lord came] This was a second communication in the same day.

Verse 21. I will shake the heavens and the earth] Bp. Newcome says we may well understand this and the twenty-second verse of the calamity undergone by Babylon in the reign of Darius; of the Macedonian conquests in Persia; and of the wars which the successors of Alexander waged against each other: others understand it of the Romans.

Verse 23. In that day saith the Lord] Some think, says this same learned writer, that Zerubbabel is put here for his people and posterity: but it may well be said that the commotions foretold began in the rebellion of Babylon, which Darius besieged and took; and exercised great cruelties upon its inhabitants.

And will make thee as a signet] I will exalt thee to high dignity, power, and trust, of which the seal was the instrument or sign in those days.

For I have chosen thee] He had an important and difficult work to do, and it was necessary that he should be assured of God's especial care and protection during the whole.

INTRODUCTION TO THE BOOK

P R O P H E T Z E C H A R I A H

ZECHARIAH, the eleventh of the twelve minor prophets, was son of Berechiah, and grandson of Iddo. He returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel; and began to prophesy in the second year of the reign of Darius, son of Hystaspes, two months after Haggai had begun to prophesy.

These two prophets, with united zeal, encouraged at the same time the people to go on with the work of the temple, which had been discontinued for some years.

The time and place of the birth of Zechariah are unknown. Some will have him to have been born at Babylon during the captivity; others think he was born at Jerusalem before the tribes of Judah and Benjamin were carried away. Some maintain that he was a priest; but others affirm that he was no priest. Many say he was the immediate son of Iddo; others believe, with much more reason, that he was son of Berechiah, and grandson of Iddo.

He has been confounded with one Zechariah, the son of Barachiah, who lived in the time of Isaiah; and with Zachariah, the father of John the Baptist; which opinion is plainly incongruous. Lastly, he has been thought to be Zechariah the son of Barachiah, whom our Saviour mentions, and says he was killed between the temple and the altar; though no such thing is anywhere said of our prophet. A tomb is shown to this day at the foot of the Mount of Olives, which, it is pretended, belongs to the prophet Zechariah. Dorotheus maintains that he was buried in a place called Bethariah, one hundred and fifty furlongs from Jerusalem.

Zechariah is the longest and the most obscure^d of all the twelve minor prophets. His style is interrupted, and without connexion. •His prophecies concerning the Messiah are more particular and express than those of the other prophets.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET ZECHARIAH.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet earnestly exhorts the people to repentance, that they may escape such punishments as had been inflicted on their fathers, 1-6. The vision of the horses, with the signification, 7-11. The angel of the Lord successfully intercedes in behalf of Jerusalem, 12-17. The vision of the four horns, and of the four carpenters, 18-21.

IN the eighth month, * in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD ^b unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

2 The LORD hath been ^c sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts: Turn ^d ye unto me, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, ^e unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; 'Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the LORD.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

6 But ^f my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not

^g take hold of your fathers? and they returned and said, 'Like as the LORD of hosts thought to do unto us, according to our ways, and according to our doings, so hath he dealt with us.

7 Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which ^h is the month Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and behold ⁱ a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that ^j were in the bottom; and behind him ^k were there ^l red horses, ^m speckled and white.

9 Then said I, O my lord, what are these? And the angel that talked with me said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle trees, answered and said, ⁿ These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk to and fro through the earth.

* Ezra iv. 24. Hag. i. 1.—^b Ezra v. 1. Matt. xxiii. 35.—^c Heb. with displeasure.—^d Jer. xxv. 5. xxxv. 15. Mic. vii. 19. ^e Mal. iii. 7. Luke xv. 20. James iv. 8.—^f 2 Chron. xxxvi. 15, 16.—^g Isa. xxi. 6.

Jer. iii. 12. xviii. 11. Ezek. xlviii. 30. Hos. xiv. 1.—^h Isa. lv. 1.—ⁱ Or, overtake.—^j Lam. i. 18. ii. 17.—^k Josh. v. 13. Rev. vi. 4.—^l Ch. vi. 2-7.—^m Or, bay.—ⁿ Heb. i. 14.

Verse 1. In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius] This was Darius Hystaspes; and from this date we find that Zechariah began to prophesy just two months after Haggai.

Verse 2. The Lord hath been sore displeased with your fathers.] For their ingratitude, idolatry, iniquity, and general rebellion.

Verse 3. Turn ye unto me] This shows that they had power to return, if they would but use it.

And I will turn unto you] I will show you mercy and grant you salvation, if you will use the grace I have already given you. Men are lost, because they turn not unto God: but no man is lost because he had not power to return.

Verse 5. Your fathers, where are they?] Israel has been destroyed and ruined in the bloody wars with the Assyrians; and Judah, in those with the Chaldeans.

The prophets, do they live for ever?] They also, who spoke unto your fathers, are dead; but their predictions remain; and the events, which have taken place according to those predictions, prove that God sent them.

Verse 6. Did they not take hold of your fathers?] Every thing happened according to the predictions, and they were obliged to acknowledge this; and yet they would not turn from their evil way.

Verse 8. I saw by night] The time was emblematical of the affliction under which the Jews groaned.

A man] An angel in the form of a man: supposed to have been the Lord Jesus; who seems to have appeared often in this way, as a prelude to his incarnation; see Josh. v. 13; Ezek. i. 26; Dan. vii. 13, and x. 5. The same, probably, that appeared to Joshua with a drawn sword, as the captain of the Lord's host. Josh. v. 13-15. [But though this is the general opinion of commentators, the view of Keil, who supposes that this "man riding upon a red horse," and the man among the myrtle trees" are not identical, the latter being the angel of Jehovah, has much to commend it.]

A red horse] An emblem of war and bloodshed.

Among the myrtle trees] This tree was an emblem of peace; intimating that all war was shortly to end. But some think these trees are emblematical of the true followers of Christ.

And behind him were there red horses] Probably pointing out the different orders of angels in the heavenly host, which 11 And they answered the angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle-trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and behold all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 Then the angel of the LORD answered and said, ^bO LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem, and on the cities of Judah, against which thou hast had indignation ^cthese threescore and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the angel that talked with me with ^agood words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am ^ajealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the heathen that are at ease: for ^aI was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; ^aI am returned to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and ^aa line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; my cities through ^aprosperity shall yet be spread abroad; ^aand the LORD shall yet comfort Zion, and ^ashall yet choose Jerusalem.

18 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, ^aThese are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the LORD shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which ^alifted up their horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.

^aPs. ciii. 20, 21.—^bPs. cii. 13. Rev. vi. 10.—^cJer. xxv. 11, 12. Dan. ix. 2. Ch. vii. 5.—^aJer. xxix. 10.—^aJoel viii. 13. Ch. viii. 2.—^aIsa. xlvii. 6.—^aIsa. xii. 1. Ch. ii. 10. viii. 3.—^aCh. ii. 1, 2.—

^aHeb. good.—^aIsa. ii. 3.—^aIsa. xvi. 1.—Ch. ii. 12. iii. 2.—^aEzra iv. 1, 4, 7. v. 3.—^aPs. lxxx. 4, 5.

are employed by Christ in the defence of his church. The different colours may point out the gradations in power, authority, and excellence, of the angelic natures which are employed between Christ and men. [Or rather the character of the mission assigned to them.]

Verse 9. O my lord, what are these? The angel here mentioned was distinct from those mentioned in the eighth verse; he who talked with the prophet, ver. 13.

Verse 10. The man that stood among the myrtle-trees] The Angel of the Covenant, as above, ver. 11.

Verse 11. All the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.] There is general peace through the Persian empire, and other states connected with Judea; but the Jews are still in affliction; their city is not yet restored, nor their temple built.

Verse 12. Then the angel of the Lord] He who was among the myrtles,—the Lord Jesus.

O Lord of hosts, how long] Jesus Christ was not only the "Lamb slain from the foundation of the world," but was always the sole Mediator, and Intercessor between God and man.

These threescore and ten years?] This must mean simply the time that had elapsed from the destruction of the temple to the time in which the angel spoke.

Verse 14. I am jealous for Jerusalem] I have for them a strong affection; and indignation against their enemies.

Verse 15. I was but a little displeased] I was justly displeased with my people, and I gave their enemies a commission against them; but they carried this far beyond my design by oppression and cruelty; and now they shall suffer in their turn.

Verse 16. I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies] Before, he came to them in judgments; and the principal mercy is, the house of the Lord shall be rebuilt, and the ordinances of the Lord re-established.

And a line shall be stretched forth] The circuit shall be determined, and the city shall be built according to the line marked out.

Verse 17. My cities—shall yet be spread abroad] The whole land of Judea shall be inhabited, and the ruined cities restored.

Verse 18. And behold four horns.] Denoting four powers by which the Jews had been oppressed; the Assyrians, Persians, Chaldeans, and Egyptians. Or these enemies may be termed four, in reference to the four cardinal points of the heavens, whence they came.

Verse 20. Four carpenters.] Four other powers, who should defeat the powers intended by the horns. These are the same as the four chariots mentioned chap. vi. 1, 2, 3, 6, 7.

Verse 21. These are come to fray them.] To break, pound, and reduce them to powder. Fray, from the French, frayer, to rub. Charashim signifies either carpenters or smiths; probably the latter are here intended, who came with hammers, files, and such like, to destroy these horns, which no doubt seemed to be of iron.

CHAPTER II.

The vision with which this chapter opens portended great increase and prosperity to Jerusalem. Accordingly Josephus tells us (Wars V. iv. 2), that "the city, overflowing with inhabitants, extended beyond its walls," as predicted in the fourth verse, and acquired much glory during the time of the Maccabees; although these promises, and particularly the sublime image in the fifth verse, has certainly a still more pointed reference to the glory and prosperity of the Christian Church in the latter days, 1-5. See Rev. xxi., xxii. In consequence of these promises, the Jews, still inhabiting Babylon and the regions round about, are called upon to hasten home, that they might not be involved in the fate of their enemies, who were destined to fall a prey to the nations which they had formerly subdued; God's great love and zeal for his people moving him to glorify them by humbling all their adversaries, 6-9. The most gracious promises of God's presence with his church, and her consequent increase and prosperity, set forth in the remaining verses, 10-13, were to a certain extent fulfilled in the great number of proselytes made to Judaism after the return from the captivity; but shall be more fully accomplished after the restoration of the Jews to the favour of God under the gospel. "For if the casting away of the natural Israel be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be but life from the dead?"

I LIFTED up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold ^a a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, whither goest thou? And he said unto me, ^b to measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, ^c Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein :

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her ^d a wall of fire round about, ^e and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 Ho, ho, come forth, and flee ^f from the land of the north, saith the LORD : for I have ^g spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

7 ^h Deliver thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

^a Ezek. xl. 3.—^b Rev. xl. 1. xxi. 15, 16.—^c Jer. xxxi. 27. Ezek. xxxvi. 10, 11.—^d Isa. xxvi. 1. Ch. ix. 8.—^e Isa. lx. 19. Rev. xxi. 23.—^f Isa. xlviii. 20, lii. 11. Jer. i. 14. l. 8. li. 6, 45.—^g Deut. xxxiii. 64. Ezek. xvii. 21.—^h Rev. xviii. 4.—ⁱ Deut. xxxiii. 10. Ps. xlvii. 8. 2 Tues. i. 6.—^j Isa. xl. 15. xix. 16.—^k Ch. iv. 9.—^l Ps. xlv. 6. liv. 1. Zeph. iii. 14.—^m Lev. xxvi. 12. Ezek. xxxvii. 27.

Verse 1. A man with a measuring line in his hand.] Probably a representation of Nehemiah, who got a commission from Artaxerxes Longimanus to build up the walls of Jerusalem : for hitherto it had remained without being enclosed. [Keil thinks that this was the Angel of Jehovah.]

Verse 4. As towns without walls] It shall be so numerously inhabited as not to be contained within its ancient limits.

Verse 5. I—will be unto her a wall of fire] I shall be as fire round about her; no adversary shall be permitted to touch her. Much of this must refer to the New Jerusalem.

Verse 6. Flee from the land of the north] From Chaldaea, Persia, and Babylon, where several of the Jews still remained.

Verse 8. After the glory] After your glorious deliverance from the different places of your dispersion; He hath sent me unto the nations which spoiled you, that they may fall under grievous calamities, and be punished in their turn.

Toucheth the apple of his eye.] Any person, by looking into the eye of another, will see his own image perfectly expressed, though in extreme miniature, in the pupil. And 8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you : for he that ⁱ toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will ^j shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants : and ^k ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

10 ^l Sing, and rejoice, O daughter of Zion : for, lo, I come, and I ^m will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 ⁿ And many nations shall be joined to the LORD ^o in that day, and shall be ^p my people : and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and ^q thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the LORD shall ^r inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and ^s shall choose Jerusalem again.

13 ^t Be silent, O all flesh, before the LORD : for he is raised up ^u out of ^v his holy habitation.

Ch. viii. 3. John i. 14. 2 Cor. vi. 16.—^w Isa. ii. 2, 3. xlix. 23. lx. 3. &c. Ch. viii. 22, 23.—^x Ch. iii. 10.—^y Exod. xli. 49.—^z Ezek. xxxiii. 33. Ver. 9.—^a Deut. xxxiii. 9.—^b Ch. i. 17.—^c Hab. ii. 20. Zeph. i. 7.—^d Ps. lxxviii. 5. Isa. lvii. 15.—^e Heb. the habitation of his holiness. Dent. xxvi. 15. Isa. lxviii. 15.

does not the expression mean that the eye of God is ever on his follower, and that his person is ever impressed on the eye, the notice, attention, providence, and mercy of God?

Verse 9. I will shake mine hand upon them] I will threaten first, and then stretch out my hand of judgment against them.

Verse 10. I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord] This must chiefly refer to the Christian Church, in which God ever dwells by the power of his Spirit, as he had done by the symbol of his presence in the first Jewish temple.

Verse 11. Many nations shall be joined to the Lord] No nation or people ever became converts to the Jewish religion; but whole nations have embraced the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Verse 12. The Lord shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land] This is a promise of the final restoration of the Jews, and that they should be God's portion in their own land.

Verse 13. Be silent, O all flesh] Let all the nations of the world be astonished at this.

CHAPTER III.

While the Jews were rebuilding their temple, their adversaries endeavoured to stop the work, Ezra. v. This vision is therefore calculated to give them the strongest encouragement that God, after plucking them as brands out of the fire (or captivity of Babylon), would not now give them up, but would continue to prosper and favour them; and that, notwithstanding the interruptions they should meet with, the work should be finished under the gracious superintendence of Providence; and their high-priest, clothed in his pontifical robes, would soon officiate in the holy of holies, 1-7. The subject is then, by an easy transition, applied to a much greater future deliverance and restoration, of which Joshua and his companions, delivered now, are declared to be figures or types; for that the Messiah or Branch, the great high-priest typified by Joshua, would be manifested; and, like the principal stone represented in the vision, become the chief corner-stone of his church; that the all-seeing eye of God would constantly guard it; and that by his atonement he would procure for it peace and pardon, 8-10.

AND he shewed me ^aJoshua the high-priest standing before the angel of the LORD, and ^bSatan ^cstanding at his right hand ^dto resist him.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, ^eThe LORD rebuke thee, O Satan; even the LORD that ^fhath chosen Jerusalem, rebuke thee: ^gis not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

3 Now Joshua was clothed with ^hfilthy garments, and stood before the angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, ⁱand I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair ^jmitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD stood by.

^aHag. i. 1.—^bPs. cix. 6. Rev. xii. 10.—^cThat is, an adversary.—^dHeb. to be his adversary.—^eJude 9.—^fCh. i. 17. Rom. viii. 33.—^gAmos iv. 11. Rom. xi. 5. Jude 23.—^hIsa. lxiv. 6.—ⁱIsa. lxi. 10. Rev. xix. 8. Luke xv. 22.—^jExod. xxix. 6. Ch. vi. 11.—^kLev. viii. 35. 1 Kings ii. 3. Ezek. xlv. 18.—^lOr, ordinance.—^mDeut. xvii. 9. Mal. ii. 7.—ⁿHeb. walks.—^oCh. iv. 14. vi. 5.—^pPs. lxxi. 7. Isa. viii. 18. xx. 3.—^qHeb. men of wonder, or sign as Ezek. xii. 11.

Verse 1. And he shewed me Joshua the high-priest] The Angel of the Lord is the Messiah, as we have seen before; Joshua, the high-priest, may here represent the whole Jewish people; and Satan, the grand accuser of the brethren. What the subject of dispute was, we perhaps learn from Jude 9. [This is not likely.]

Satan standing at his right hand to resist him.] Satan signifies an adversary.

Verse 2. Is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?] The Jews were nearly destroyed because of their sins; a remnant of them is yet left, and God is determined to preserve them: wouldst thou have them destroyed? The Lord rebuke thee! God confound thee for what thou hast done, and for what thou desirest further to do! See the notes on Jude 9, where the subject is largely considered.

Verse 4. Take away the filthy garments] The Jews wore sackcloth in times of public calamity; probably the filthy garments refer to this. Let their clothing be changed. I have turned again their captivity; I will fully restore them, and blot out all their iniquities.

Verse 5. A fair mitre upon his head] To signify that he had renewed to him the office of the high-priesthood, which had been defiled and profaned before. See Exod. xxviii. 4, &c. Clothed him with garments.] Referring to the vestments of the high-priest.

Verse 7. If thou wilt walk in my ways] If ye, Israelites, priests and people, now restored to your own land, will walk in my ways, &c., ye shall be a part of my family; and have places—mansions in eternal glory, with all them that are sanctified

6 And the angel of the LORD protested unto Joshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and if thou wilt ^kkeep my ^lcharge, then thou shalt also ^mjudge my house, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee ⁿplaces to walk among these that ^ostand by.

8 Hear now, O Joshua the high-priest, thou and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are ^pmen ^qwondered at: for, behold, I will bring forth ^rmy servant the ^sBRANCH.

9 For behold the stone that I have laid before Joshua; ^tupon one stone shall be ^useven eyes: behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, saith the LORD of hosts, and ^vI will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 ^wIn that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour ^xunder the vine and under the fig-tree.

xxiv. 24.—Isa. xlii. 1. xlix. 3, 5, iii. 13. liii. 11. Ezek. xxxiv. 27, 24.—Isa. iv. 2. xi. 1. Jer. xxxii. 5. xxxiii. 15. Ch. vi. 12. Luke i. 78.—^aPs. cxviii. 23. Isa. xxxviii. 16.—^bCh. iv. 10. Rev. v. 6.—^cJer. xxxi. 34. 1. 20. Mic. vii. 18, 19. Ch. xiii. 1.—^dCh. ii. 11. Isa. ii. 11. xxvi. 1. xxix. 28. liii. 6.—^e1 Kings iv. 25. Isa. xxxvi. 16. Mic. iv. 4.

Verse 8. O Joshua—thou, and thy fellows] Thy countrymen, who have now returned from your captivity in a very wonderful manner. Anshey mopheth, figurative men, men whose office and ministration prefigured the Lord Jesus Christ; and therefore it is immediately added: “I will bring forth my servant the BRANCH.”

Verse 9. For behold the stone that I have laid] Alluding no doubt to the foundation stone of the temple: but this represented Christ Jesus.

Upon one stone shall be seven eyes] This is supposed to mean the providence of God, as under it all the work should be completed.

There may be an allusion to the seven counsellors, which stood always about the persons of the Asiatic sovereigns; and those who were the governors of the provinces were termed the eyes of the king. To this there is an allusion in Rev. i. 4.

I will engrave the graving thereof] But what was this engraving? Was it not the following words? “I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day;” and was not this done when Jesus Christ expired upon the cross? This was the grand, the only atonement, satisfaction, and sacrifice, for the sins of the whole world. Does not our Lord refer to this place, John vi. 27. Him hath God the Father sealed; and the inscription thereon was, “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.”

Verse 10. Shall ye call every man his neighbour] Every one shall be inviting and encouraging another to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ; and thus taste and see that God is good.

CHAPTER IV.

The prophet, overpowered by his last vision, is roused by the angel to behold another, 1: intended also to assure the Jews of the success of Joshua and Zerubbabel in building the temple, and surmounting every obstacle in the way; till at length, by the good providence of God, it should be finished, amidst the joyful acclamations of the spectators, 2-10. The angel's explanation of the golden candlestick, and of the two olive trees, 11-14.

AND ^athe angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, ^bas a man that is wakened out of his sleep,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold ^aa candlestick all of gold, ^dwith a bowl upon the top of it, ^eand his seven lamps thereon, and ^fseven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof.

3 ^gAnd two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, ^hNot by ⁱmight, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Who art thou, ^jO great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring forth ^kthe headstone thereof ^lwith shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

^aCh. ii. 3.—^bDan. viii. 18.—^cExod. xxv. 31. Rev. i. 12. Heb. with her bowl.—^dExod. xxv. 37. Rev. iv. 5.—^eOr, seven several pipes to the lamps, &c.—^fVer. 11, 12. Rev. xi. 4.—^gHos. i. 7.—^hOr, army.—ⁱJer. li. 25. Matt. xxi. 21.—^jPs. cxviii. 22.—^kEzra. iii. 11, 13.—^lEzra. iii. 10.—^mEzra. vi. 15.—ⁿCh. ii. 9, 11, vi. 15.—^oIsa. xlvi. 15. Ch. ii. 8.—^pHag. ii. 3.—^qOr, since the seven eyes

Verse 1. The angel—came again, and waked me] After some interval the prophet, overpowered with the vision which had been presented to him, was awakened from his prophetic trance as from a sleep.

Verse 2. A candlestick all of gold] This candlestick is formed in some measure after that of the sanctuary, Exod. xxv. 31, 32: but in that of the sanctuary there was no bowl, nor seven pipes, nor seven lamps, nor the two olive trees. In general, the candlestick, its bowl, pipes, lamps, and olive trees, are emblems of the pure service of God, and the grace and salvation to be enjoyed by his true worshippers. The candlestick may, however, represent the whole Jewish state, ecclesiastical and civil; the oil, producing the light, the grace and mercy of God; and the two olive trees, the source of infinite love, whence that grace proceeds. The pipes may signify all means of grace; and the seven lamps, the perfection and abundance of the light and salvation provided.

Verse 6. This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel] This prince was in a trying situation, and he needed especial encouragement from God.

Not by might (of thy own), nor by power (authority from others), but by my Spirit—the providence, authority, power, and energy of the Most High. In this way shall my temple be built; in this way shall my church be raised and preserved. No secular arm, no human prudence, no earthly

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel ^ahave laid the foundation of this house: his hands ^bshall also finish it; and ^cthou shalt know that the ^dLORD of hosts hath sent me unto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of ^esmall things? ^ffor they shall rejoice, and shall see the ^gplummet in the hand of Zerubbabel ^hwith those seven; ⁱthey are the eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these ^jtwo olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said unto him, What be ^kthese two olive branches which ^lthrough the two golden pipes ^mempty ⁿthe golden oil out of themselves.

13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

14 Then said he, ^oThese are the two ^panointed ones, ^qthat stand by ^rthe LORD of the whole earth.

of the LORD shall rejoice.—^aHeb. stone of tin.—^b2 Chron. xvi. 9. Prov. xv. 3. Ch. iii. 9.—^cVer. 3.—^dHeb. by the hand.—^eOr empty out of themselves oil into the gold.—^fHeb. the gold.—^gRev. xi. 4.—^hHeb. sons of oil.—ⁱCh. iii. 7. Luke i. 19.—^jSee Josh. iii. 11, 13. Ch. vi. 5.

policy, no suits at law, shall ever be used for the founding, extension, and preservation of my church.

Verse 7. O great mountain?] The hindrances which were thrown in the way; the regal prohibition to discontinue the building of the temple.

Before Zerubbabel—a plain] The sovereign power of God shall remove them.

He shall bring forth the headstone] As he has begun the building, so shall he finish it!

Grace, grace unto it.] How beautiful is this structure! May the favour of God ever rest upon it, and be manifested in it!

Verse 10. Who hath despised the day of small things?] The poverty, weakness, and unbefriended state of the Jews.

And shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel] He is master builder under God, the grand architect.

Those seven—are the eyes of the Lord] Either referring to his particular and especial providence; or to those ministering spirits, whom he had employed in behalf of the Jews, to dispense the blessings of that providence.

Verse 14. These are the two anointed ones] Joshua the high-priest; and Zerubbabel the governor. These are anointed—appointed by the Lord; and stand by him, the one to minister in the ecclesiastical, the other in the civil state.

CHAPTER V.

The vision of the large flying scroll, with the angel's explanation, 1-4. The vision of the ephah, and of the woman sitting on it, with the signification, 5-11.

THEN I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying ^a roll.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the ^b curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for every one that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of ^c him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof.

5 Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

^a Ezek. ii. 9.—^b Mal. iv. 6.—^c Or, every one of this people that stealeth holdeth himself guiltless, as it doth.—^d Lev. xix. 12. Ch

Verse 1. Behold a flying roll.] This was twenty cubits long, and ten cubits broad; the prophet saw it expanded, and flying. It was the catalogue of the crimes of the people, and the punishment threatened by the Lord. Some think the crimes were those of the Jews; others, those of the Chaldeans. The roll is mentioned in allusion to those large rolls on which the Jews write the Pentateuch.

Verse 3. Every one that stealeth—and every one that sweareth.] It seems that the roll was written both on the front and back: stealing and swearing are supposed to be two general heads of crimes; the former, comprising sins against men; the latter, sins against God.

Verse 4. Into the house of him.] Babylon, the house or city of Nebuchadnezzar, who was a public plunderer, and a most glaring idolater.

Verse 6. This is an ephah that goeth forth.] This, among the Jews, was the ordinary measure of grain. The woman in the ephah is supposed to represent Judea, which shall be visited for its sins; the talent of lead on the ephah, within which the woman was inclosed, the wrath of God, bending down this culprit nation in the measure of its sins; for the angel said, "This is wickedness;" that is, the woman represents the mass of iniquity of this nation.

Verse 9. There came out two women.] These may mean

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the earth.

7 And, behold, there was lifted up a talent of lead; and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a stork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, To build it an house in the land of Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base.

viii. 17. Mal. iii. 5.—^a See Lev. xiv. 45.—^b Or, weighty piece.—^c Jer. xxix. 5, 28.—^d Gen. x. 10.

the desperate UNBELIEF of the Jews in rejecting the Messiah, and that IMPIETY, or universal corruption of manners, which was the consequence of their unbelief, and brought down the wrath of God upon them. The strong wings, like those of a stork, may point out the power and swiftness with which Judea was carried on to fill up the measure of her iniquity, and to meet the punishment which she deserved.

Or the Babylonians and Romans may be intended by the two women who carried the Jewish ephah to its final punishment. [The latter interpretation is more probable.]

Verse 11. To build it an house in the land of Shinar.] The land of Shinar means Babylon; and Babel means Rome, in the Apocalypse. The building the house for the woman imprisoned in the ephah may signify, that there should be a long captivity under the Romans, as there was under that of Shinar or Babylon, by which Rome may here be represented. That house remains to the present day: the Jewish woman is still in the ephah; it is set on its own base—continues still as a distinct nation; and the talent of lead—God's displeasure, is still on the top. [It is not likely that a fresh exile is here predicted. Shinar (see Gen. x. 10. and xi. 2), may symbolize the sphere of the power that is hostile to God. The woman of sin is to be separated from the congregation of the holy. This is Keil's view.]

CHAPTER VI.

The vision of the four chariots drawn by several sorts of horses, 1-8. The other vision in this chapter may refer in its primary sense to the establishment of the civil and religious polity of the Jews under Joshua and Zerubbabel; but relates, in a fuller sense, to the Messiah, and to that spiritual kingdom of which he was to be both king and high-priest. In him all these types and figures were verified; in him all the promises are yea and amen, 9-15.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass.

^a Ch. i. 8. Rev. vi. 4.—^b Rev. vi. 5.

Verse 1. There came four chariots.] Four monarchies or empires. This is supposed to mean the same with the vision of the four horns, in chap. i.

Mountains of brass.] The strong barriers of God's purposes, which restrained those powers within the times and limits appointed by Jehovah.

2 In the first chariot were ^a red horses; and in the second chariot ^b black horses;

3 And in the third chariot ^c white horses; and in the fourth chariot ^d bay horses.

^a Rev. vi. 2.—^b Or, strong.

Verse 2. In the first chariot were red horses.] The empire of the Chaldeans, which overthrew the empire of the Assyrians.

The second chariot black horses.] The empire of the Persians, founded by Cyrus, which destroyed the empire of the Chaldeans.

4 Then I answered * and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the angel answered and said unto me, These are the four * spirits of the heavens, which go forth from * standing before the LORD of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are therein go forth into * the north country; and the white go forth after them; and the grisled go forth toward the south country.

7 And the bay went forth, and sought to go that they might * walk to and fro through the earth: and he said, Get you hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my * spirit in the north country.

9 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobijah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou the same day, and go

* Ch. v. 10.—^b Ps. civ. 4. Heb. i. 7, 14.—^c Or, winds.—^d 1 Kings xxii. 19. Dan. vii. 10 Ch. iv. 14. Luke i. 19.—^e Jer. i. 14.—^f Gen. xiii. 17. Ch. i. 10.—^g Judg. viii. 3. Eccles. x. 4.—^h Exod. xxii. 30. xxix. 6. Lev. viii. 9. Ch. iii. 5.—ⁱ See Luke i. 78.

Verse 3. The third chariot white horses] The empire of the Greeks, founded by Alexander the Great, which destroyed the empire of the Persians.

The fourth chariot grisled and bay horses.] That is, parti-coloured horses; or with horses, some grisled and some bay. The empire of the Romans or the Greeks. [This interpretation cannot be sustained. The colours of the horses, as in chap. i. 8, refer to the various missions of God's avenging ministers.]

Verse 5. The four spirits of the heavens] Ministers of God's wrath against the sinful nations of the world.

Verse 8. Have quieted my spirit in the north country.] They have fulfilled my judgments on Assyria and Chaldea. Nabopolassar and Cyrus, first, against the Assyrians and Chaldeans; and Alexander next, against the Persians.

Verse 10. Take of them of the captivity] The names that follow were probably those to whom the silver and golden vessels of the temple were intrusted; and who might have had bullion of silver and gold for particular purposes, about the ornaments of the temple.

The house of Josiah] Probably an artificer in silver, gold, &c.

Verse 11. Make crowns] As Joshua the high-priest is alone concerned here, I think one crown only is intended.

Verse 12. Behold the man whose name is The BRANCH] I cannot think that Zerubbabel is here intended; indeed, he is not so much as mentioned in chap. iii. 8. The Chaldee has, "whose name is my MESSIAH," or CHRIST.

And he shall grow up out of his place] That is, out of David's root, tribe, and family.

And he shall build the temple of the Lord.] This cannot refer to the building of the temple then in hand, for Zerubbabel into the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah; 11 Then take silver and gold, and make * crowns, and set them upon the head of Joshua the son of Josedech the high-priest;

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold, * the man whose name is The BRANCH; and he shall * grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD.

13 Even he shall build the temple of the LORD; and he * shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and * he shall be a priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, * for a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And * they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and * ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

John i. 45.—¹ Ch. iii. 8.—² Or, branch up from under him.—³ Ch. iv. 9. Matt. xvi. 18. Eph. ii. 20, 21, 22. Heb. iii. 3.—⁴ Isa. xxii. 24.—⁵ Ps. ex. 4. Heb. iii. 1.—⁶ Exod. xii. 14. Mark xiv. 9.—⁷ Isa. lvii. 19. lx. 10. Eph. ii. 13, 19.—⁸ Ch. ii. 9. iv. 9.

babel was its builder: but to that temple, the Christian Church, that was typified by it.

Verse 13. Even he shall build the temple] Joshua, not Zerubbabel.

He shall bear the glory] Have all the honour of it; for none can do this but himself. The Messiah is still intended.

And shall sit and rule upon his throne] For the government of the church shall be upon his shoulder.

And he shall be a priest upon his throne] He shall, as the great high-priest, offer the only available offering and atonement; and so he shall be both king and priest, a royal king and a royal priest; for even the priest is here stated to sit upon his throne.

And the counsel of peace shall be between them both.] The counsel of peace—the purpose to establish peace between heaven and earth, must be between the Father and the Son.

Verse 14. And the crowns shall be] The meaning appears to be this, that the crown made for Joshua should be delivered to the persons mentioned here and in ver. 10, to be laid up in the temple of the Lord, as a memorial of this typical transaction.

Verse 15. And they that are far off shall come] The Gentiles shall come to the Saviour of the world; and build—become a part of this new temple; for they, as living stones, shall become a holy temple, a habitation of God through the Spirit.

Ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me] These predictions, relative to the regal and sacerdotal offices of the Messiah, shall be so circumstantially fulfilled, that ye, Jews, shall be obliged to acknowledge that the Lord of hosts hath sent me with this message.

CHAPTER VII.

Some Jews being sent from those who remained at Babylon to inquire of the priests and prophets at Jerusalem whether they were still bound to observe those fasts which had been appointed on occasion of the destruction of Jerusalem, and kept during the captivity, the prophet is commanded to take this opportunity of enforcing upon them the weightier matters of the law, judgment and mercy, that they might not incur such calamities as befell their fathers. He also intimates that in their former fasts they had regarded themselves more than God; and that they had rested too much on the performance of external rites, although the former prophets had largely insisted on the superior excellence of moral duties, 1-14.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chisleu;

2 When they had sent unto the house of God Sherezer and Regem-melech, and their men, * to pray before the LORD,

3 And to ^b speak unto the priests which were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in * the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

4 Then came the word of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye ^a fasted and mourned in the fifth * and seventh month, ^a even those seventy years, did ye at all fast * unto me, even to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, ^a did not ye eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 ^a Should ye not hear the words which the LORD hath cried ^b by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited * the south and the plain?

^a Heb. to entreat the face of the LORD. 1 Sam. xiii. 12. Ch. viii. 21.—^b Deut. xvii. 9, 10, 11. xxxiii. 10. Mal. ii. 7.—^c Jer. lii. 12. Ch. viii. 19.—^d Isa. lviii. 5.—^e Jer. iv. 1. Ch. viii. 19.—^f Ch. i. 12.—^g See Rom. xiv. 6.—^h Or, be not ye they that, &c.—ⁱ Or, Are not these the words.—^j Heb. by the hand of, &c.—^k Jer. xvii. 26.—^l Isa. lviii. 6, 7. Jer. vii. 23. Mic. vi. 8. Ch. viii. 16. Matt. xxiii. 23.—^m Heb. Judge judgment of truth.—ⁿ Exod. xxii. 21, 22. Deut. xxiv. 17. Isa. i. 17. Jer. v. 28.—^o Ps. xxxvi. 4. Mic. ii. 1.

Verse 1. The fourth year of king Darius] Two years after they began to rebuild the temple, see chap. i. 1.

The ninth month, even in Chisleu] The names of the months appear only under and after the captivity.

Verse 5. When ye fasted and mourned in the fifth—month] See Jer. xli. 1, and 2 Kings xxv. 25.

Verse 6. And when ye did eat] They had not observed those fasts as they should have done. They deplored the loss of their temple, and its riches, &c.; but they did not humble themselves because of those iniquities which had brought the displeasure of God upon them, their temple, and their city.

Verse 7. The words which the Lord hath cried by the former prophets] Nebim harishonim is the title which the Jews give to Joshua, Judges, the two books of Samuel, and

8 And the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, ^a Execute * true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:

10 And ^a oppress not the widow nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor, * and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and ^a pulled ^a away the shoulder, and ^a stopped ^a their ears, that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their ^a hearts as an adamant stone, ^a lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his ^a Spirit by the former prophets: * therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass that as he cried, and they would not hear; so * they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts.

14 But ^a I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations * whom they knew not. Thus ^a the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid ^{bb} the ^{cc} pleasant land desolate.

Ch. viii. 17.—^a Neh. ix. 29. Jer. vii. 24. Hos. iv. 16.—^b Heb. they gave a backsliding shoulder.—^c Heb. made heavy.—^d Acts vii. 57.—^e Ezek. xi. 19. xxxvi. 26.—^f Neh. ix. 29, 30.—^g Heb. by the hand of.—^h 2 Chron. xxxvi. 16. Dan. ix. 11.—ⁱ Prov. i. 24-28. Isa. i. 15. Jer. xi. 11. xiv. 12. Mic. iii. 4.—^j Deut. iv. 27. xxviii. 64. Ezek. xxxvi. 19. Ch. ii. 6.—^k Deut. xxviii. 33.—^l Lev. xxvi. 22.—^m Dan. viii. 9.—ⁿ Heb. land of desire.

the two books of Kings. But the above words seem to apply to Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel.

The south and the plain] The south was the wilderness and mountainous part of Judea; and the plain, the plains of Jericho.

Verse 11. Pulled away the shoulder] From under the yoke of the law, like an unbroken or restive bullock in the plough.

Verse 12. Made their hearts as an adamant stone] Shamir may mean the granite. This is the hardest stone with which the common people could be acquainted.

Verse 14. I scattered them with a whirlwind] This refers to the swift victories and cruel conduct of the Chaldeans towards the Jews; they came upon them like a whirlwind; they were tossed to and fro, and up and down, everywhere scattered and confounded.

CHAPTER VIII.

In this chapter God promises the continuance of his favour to those who are returned from the captivity; so that upon the removal of his judgments, the fasts they had observed during the captivity may now be converted to so many occasions of rejoicing. He likewise promises in due time a general restoration of his people, and the enlargement of the church by the accession of the Gentiles, 1-20. The conclusion of the chapter intimates further that the Jews, after their restoration, will be instrumental in converting many other nations, 21-24. Compare Rom. xi. 15, 16.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; * I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.

^a Nah. i. 2. Ch. i. 14.—^b Ch. i. 16.—^c Ch. ii. 10.

Verse 2. I was jealous] Some refer this to the Jews themselves. They were as the spouse of Jehovah: but they were unfaithful, and God punished them as an injured husband

3 Thus saith the LORD: ^b I am returned unto Zion, and ^c will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem ^d shall be called a city of truth: and * the mountain of the LORD of hosts, ^e the holy mountain.

^a Isa. i. 21, 26.—^b Isa. ii. 2, 3.—^c Jer. xxxi. 23.

might be expected to punish an unfaithful wife. Others apply it to the enemies of the Jews.

Verse 3. I am returned unto Zion] The temple shall be 4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts : * There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand ^b for very age.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; If it be ^c marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, ^d should it also be marvellous in mine eyes ? saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; Behold, * I will save my people from the east country, and from ^e the west country ;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem : * and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, ^f in truth and in righteousness.

9 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; ^g Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of ^h the prophets, which were in * the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days ⁱ there was no ^m hire for man, nor any hire for beast ; ⁿ neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction : for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 * For the seed shall be ^p prosperous ; the vine shall give her fruit, and ^q the ground shall give her increase, and ^r the heavens shall give their dew ; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were * a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel ; so will I save you, and * ye shall be a blessing : fear not, but let * your hands be strong.

^a See 1 Sam. ii. 31. Isa. lxxv. 20, 22. Lam. ii. 20, &c. v. 11-14.—^b Heb. for multitude of days.—^c Or, hard, or difficult.—^d Gen. xlviii. 14. Luke i. 37. xlviii. 27. Rom. iv. 21.—^e Isa. xi. 11, 12. xlii. 5, 6. Ezek. xxxvii. 21. Amos ix. 14, 15.—^f Heb. the country of the going down of the sun. See Ps. l. 1, cxiii. 8. Mal. i. 11.—^g Jer. xxx. 22. xxxi. 1, 83. Ch. xlii. 9.—^h Jer. iv. 2.—ⁱ Hag. ii. 4. Ver. 18.—^j Ezra v. 1, 2.—^k Hag. ii. 18.—^l Or, the hire of man became nothing &c.—^m Hag. i. 6, 9, 10. ii. 16.—ⁿ 2 Chron. xv. 5.—^o Hos. ii. 21, 22. Joel ii. 19.—^p Heb. of peace.—^q Ps. lxxvii. 6. ii. See Hag. i. 10.—^r Jer. xlii. 18.—^s Gen. xli. 2. Ruth iv. 11, 12.

rebuilt, and so shall Jerusalem ; and instead of being false, unholy, and profligate, it shall be the city of truth, and my holy mountain. TRUTH shall dwell in it.

Verse 4. There shall yet old men and old women] In those happy times the followers of God shall live out all their days, and the hoary head be always found in the way of righteousness.

Verse 5. The streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls] The progeny shall be numerous, healthy, and happy.

Verse 6. If it be marvellous] Suppose it be impossible in your eyes, should it be so in mine ? saith the Lord of hosts.

Verse 7. I will save my people from the east country, and from the west] From every land in which any of them may be found.

Verse 9. By the mouth of the prophets] The day or time of the foundation was about two years before, as this discourse of the prophet was in the fourth year of Darius. After this God raised up prophets among them.

Verse 10. For before these days there was no hire for man] Previously to this, ye had no prosperity ; ye had nothing but civil divisions and domestic broils.

Verse 13. As ye were a curse] * All these promises we may expect to be completely fulfilled when the Jews acknowledge their Messiah.

O house of Judah, and house of Israel] The restoration shall be complete, when both Israel and Judah are brought back.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts ; * As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, * and I repented not :

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jerusalem and to the house of Judah : fear ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall do : * Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour ; * execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates :

17 * And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour ; and * love no false oath : for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD.

18 And the word of the LORD of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; ^{bb} The fast of the fourth month, ^{cc} and the fast of the fifth, ^{dd} and the fast of the seventh, ^{ee} and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah ^{ff} joy and gladness, and cheerful ^{gg} feasts ; ^{hh} therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; It shall yet come to pass, that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities :

21 And the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, " Let us go " ^{kk} speedily " to pray before the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts : I will go also.

22 Yea, ^{mm} many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts ; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall ⁿⁿ take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you : for we have heard ^{oo} that God is with you.

Isa. xix. 24, 25. Zeph. iii. 20. Hag. ii. 19.—^a Ver. 9.—^b Jer. xxxi. 28.—^c 2 Chron. xxxvi. 16. Ch. i. 6.—^d Ch. vii. 9. Ver. 19. Eph. iv. 25.—^e Heb. judge truth, and the judgment of peace.—^f Prov. iii. 29. Ch. vii. 10.—^g Ch. v. 8, 4.—^h Jer. lii. 6, 7.—ⁱ Jer. lii. 12, 13. Ch. vii. 3, 5.—^j 2 Kings xxv. 25. Jer. xli. 1, 2.—^k Jer. lii. 4.—^l Esth. viii. 17. Isa. xxxv. 10.—^m Or, solemn or set times.—ⁿ Ver. 16.—^o Isa. ii. 8. Mic. iv. 1, 2.—^p Or, continually.—^q Heb. going.—^r Heb. to entreat the face of the LORD, ch. vii. 2.—^s Isa. lx. 3, &c. lxxvi. 23.—^t Isa. iii. 6. Iv. 1.—^u 1 Cor. xiv. 25.

Verse 19. The fast of the fourth month] To commemorate the taking of Jerusalem ; 2 Kings xxv. 3 ; Jer. xxxix. 2, and lii. 6, 7.

• The fast of the fifth] In memory of the ruin of the temple, 2 Kings xxv. 8 ; Jer. lii. 12, 13.

The fast of the seventh] For the murder of Gedaliah, Jer. xli. 1-17.

The fast of the tenth] In commemoration of the siege of Jerusalem, which began on the tenth day of the tenth month ; 2 Kings xxv. 1 ; Jer. lii. 4 ; Ezek. xxiv. 1, 2 ; and see on chap. vii. 3, 5.

Verse 20. There shall come people] Many Gentiles, as well as Jews, will then be found devoting themselves to the Lord.

Verse 21. I will go also] This is the answer of the person invited.

Verse 22. And strong nations] This may refer to the conversion of the Mohammedan tribes ; especially to those in the vicinity of Palestine.

Verse 23. Ten men—shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew] The converts from among the Gentiles shall be to the Jews as ten to one. But ten may here signify a great number, without comparison. And from this scripture it appears as if the Jews, converted to God, should be the instruments of converting many Gentiles. Catching hold of the skirt is a gesture naturally used to entreat assistance and protection.

CHAPTER IX.

Syria, Phœnicia, and Palestine, were conquered by Nebuchadnezzar, and afterwards by Alexander. Some apply the beginning of this chapter (1-7) to the one event, and some to the other. The close of the seventh verse relates to the number of Philistines that should become proselytes to Judaism (see Joseph. Antiq. xiv. 15. 4); and the eighth, to the watchful providence of God over his temple in these troublesome times. From this the prophet passes on to that most eminent instance of God's goodness to his church and people, the sending of the Messiah, with an account of the peaceable tendency and great extent of his kingdom, 9, 10. God then declares that he has ratified his covenant with his people, delivered them from their captivity, and restored them to favour, 11, 12. In consequence of this, victory over their enemies is promised them in large and lofty terms, with every other kind of prosperity, 13-17. Judas Maccabrus gained several advantages over the troops of Antiochus, who was of Grecian or Macedonian descent. But without excluding these events, it must be allowed that the terms of this prophecy are much too strong to be confined to them; their ultimate fulfilment must therefore be referred to gospel times.

THE burden of the word of the LORD in the land of Hadrach, and Damascus shall be the rest thereof: when the eyes of man, as of all the tribes of Israel, shall be toward the LORD.

2 And Hamath also shall border thereby; Tyrus, and Zidon, though it be very wise.

3 And Tyrus did build herself a stronghold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and fine gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the LORD will cast her out, and he will smite her power in the sea; and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and fear; Gaza also shall see it, and be very sorrowful, and Ekron; for her expectation shall be ashamed; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a bastard shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

* Jer. xxiii. 33. — b Amos i. 3. — c 2 Chron. xx. 12. Ps. cxlv. 15. — d Jer. xlix. 23. — e Isa. xxvii. 1. — f Ezek. xxvii. 21. — g Obad. 20. — h Ezek. xxviii. 3. — i Job. xvii. 16. — j Ezek. xxviii. 4. — k Isa. xlii. 1. — l Ezek. xlii. 17. — m Jer. xlvii. 1. — n Zeph. ii. 4. — o Amos i. 8. —

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the Lord] The oracle contained in the word which Jehovah now speaks.

The land of Hadrach] The valley of Damascus, or a place near to Damascus. Alexander the Great gained possession of Damascus, and took all its treasures; but it was without blood; the city was betrayed to him.

Damascus shall be the rest thereof] The principal part of this calamity shall fall on this city. God's anger rests on those whom he punishes, Ezek. v. 13, xvi. 42, xxiv. 13. And his rod, or his arm, rests upon his enemies, Ps. cxxv. 8; Isa. xxx. 23. See Newcome.

Verse 2. And Hamath also shall border thereby] Hamath on the river Orontes; and Tyre and Zidon, notwithstanding their political wisdom, address, and cunning, shall have a part in the punishment.

These prophecies are more suitable to the days of Jeremiah than to those of Zechariah; for there is no evidence—although Alexander did take Damascus, but without bloodshed—that it was destroyed from the times of Zechariah to the advent of our Lord. And as Tyre and Zidon were lately destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, it is not likely that they could soon undergo another devastation.

Verse 3. And Tyrus did build herself] The rock on which Tyre was built was strongly fortified; and that she had abundance of riches has been already seen, Ezek. xxviii. 1, &c.

Verse 4. Will smite her power in the sea] See Ezek. xxvi. 17. Though Alexander did take Tyre, Zidon, Gaza, &c.; yet it seems that the prediction relative to their destruction was fulfilled by Nebuchadnezzar. See Amos i. 6-8; Zeph. ii. 4, 7.

Verse 5. Ashkelon shall see it, and fear] All these prophecies seem to have been fulfilled before the days of Zechariah; another evidence that these last chapters were not written by him.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he shall be for our God, and he shall be as a governor in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebusite.

8 And I will encamp about mine house because of the army, because of him that passeth by, and because of him that returneth: and no oppressor shall pass through them any more: for now have I seen with mine eyes.

9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.

10 And I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem, and the battle bow shall be cut off: and he shall speak peace unto the heathen: and his dominion shall be from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the ends of the earth.

= Heb. bloods. — a Ps. xxxiv. 7. Ch. ii. 5. — b Isa. lx. 18. Ezek. xxviii. 24. — c Exod. iii. 7. — d Isa. lxii. 11. Ch. ii. 10. Matt. xxi. 8. John xii. 15. — e Jer. xxiii. 5. xxx. 9. John. i. 49. Luke xix. 28. — f Or, saving himself. — g 110s. i. 7. ii. 18. Mic. v. 10. Hag. ii. 22. — h Eph. ii. 14, 17. — i Ps. lxii. 8.

Her expectation shall be ashamed] The expectation of being succoured by Tyre.

Verse 6. A bastard shall dwell in Ashdod] This character would suit Alexander very well, who most certainly was a bastard.

Verse 7, I will take away his blood out of his mouth] The Philistines, when incorporated with the Israelites, shall abstain from blood, and every thing that is abominable.

And Ekron as a Jebusite.] As an inhabitant of Jerusalem.

Verse 8. I will encamp about mine house] Bishop Newcome translates:—"I will encamp about my house with an army, so that none shall pass through or return."

Verse 9. Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion] See this prophecy explained on Matt. xxi. 5.

Behold, thy King cometh] Not Zerubbabel, for he was never king; nor have they had a king, except Jesus the Christ, from the days of Zedekiah to the present time.

He is just] The righteous One, and the Fountain of righteousness.

Lowly] Without worldly pomp or splendour; for neither his kingdom nor that of his followers, is of this world.

Riding upon an ass] God had commanded the kings of Israel not to multiply horses. Jesus came to fulfil the law. Had he in his title of king rode upon a horse, it would have been a breach of a positive command of God; therefore, he rode upon an ass, and thus fulfilled the prophecy, and kept the precept unbroken.

Verse 10. I will cut off thy chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem] No wars shall be employed to spread the kingdom of the Messiah.

Verse 11. As for thee also (Jerusalem) by the blood of thy covenant] The covenant made with Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and the Israelites in general, and ratified by the blood of many victims; until the time should come in which the 11 As for thee also, * by the blood of thy covenant I have sent forth thy ^b prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turn you to the stronghold, ^c ye prisoners of hope: even to-day do I declare that ^d I will render double unto thee;

13 When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man.

14 And the LORD shall be seen over them, and ^e his arrow shall go forth as the lightning: and the LORD God shall blow the trumpet,

* Or, whose covenant is by blood. Exod. xxiv. 8. Heb. x. 29. xiii. 20.—Isa. xlii. 7. li. 14. lxi. 1.—Isa. xlix. 9.—Isa. lxi. 7.—Ps. xviii. 14. lxxvii. 17. cxlvi. 6.—Isa. xxi. 1.—Or, subdue Messiah should shed his blood, as typified by the ancient sacrifices.

I have sent forth thy prisoners] Those who were under the arrest of God's judgments; the human race, fast bound in sin and misery, and who by the pitifulness of his tender mercy were loosed, he dying in their stead.

Verse 12. Turn you to the strong hold] Ye who feel your sins, and are shut up, under a sense of your guilt, look up to him who was delivered for your offences, and rose again for your justification. Ye have hope: let that hope lead you to faith, and that faith to the blood of the covenant: and, through that blood, to God, the father of all.

I will render double unto thee] Give thee an abundance of peace and salvation.

Verse 18. When I have bent Judah] Judah is the bow, and Ephraim is the arrows; and these are to be shot against the Greeks. It is probable that these prophecies remain to be fulfilled against the present possessors of Javan or Greece, Macedonia, and a part of Asia Minor.

His arrow shall go forth as the lightning] They shall be conquered in a way that will show that God fights for his followers.

Verse 15. The Lord of hosts shall defend them] He alone is the sure trust of his church.

They shall drink] After the victory gained as above, thy people shall hold a feast, and drink and be filled with wine. There is no intimation here that they shall drink the blood and shall go ^f with whirlwinds of the south.

15 The LORD of hosts shall defend them; and they shall devour, and ^g subdue with sling stones; and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine; and they ^h shall be filled like bowls, and as ⁱ the corners of the altar.

16 And the LORD their God shall save them in that day as the flock of his people: for ^j they shall be as the stones of a crown, ^k lifted up as an ensign upon his land.

17 For ^l how great is his goodness, and how great ^m is his beauty! ⁿ corn shall make the young men cheerful, and new wine the maids.

the stones of the sling.—Or, shall fill both the bowls, &c.—Lev. iv. 18. 24. Deut. xii. 27.—Isa. xlii. 3. Mal. iii. 17.—Isa. xl. 12.—Ps. xxxi. 19.—Joel iii. 18. Amos ix. 14.—Or, grow, or speak.

of their enemies, as some barbarous nations were accustomed to do.

As the corners of the altar.] They shall pour out libations of wine at the foot of the altar, as the priests were accustomed to pour out the blood of the victims.

Verse 16. Shall save them in that day] They are his flock, and he is their Shepherd; and, as his own, he shall save and defend them.

As the stones of a crown] Abney never with stones, "crowned stones erecting themselves," i. e., being set up by themselves, as monuments of some deliverance, they seem to be lifting themselves up: offering themselves to the attention of every passenger. It may however refer to stones anointed with oil; a sort of temporary altars set up to the Lord for a victory gained. The same word is used, Lev. xxi. 12. [In the Hebrew the sense of lifting up does not appear.]

Verse 17. How great is his goodness] In himself and towards them.

And how great is his beauty!] His comeliness, holiness, and purity, put in and upon them.

Corn shall make the young men cheerful] They shall be gladdened and strengthened by plenty of food; and they shall speak aloud of God's mercies in their harvest home.

And new wine the maids.] Who shall prepare the wine from an abundant vintage.

CHAPTER X.

The promise of prosperity and plenty in the close of the preceding chapter leads the prophet to suggest, next, the means of obtaining them; supplication to Jehovah, and not to idols, whose worship had already proved a fertile source of calamities, 1-3. The rest of the chapter (like the preceding) promises to the Jews a restoration to their own land under rulers and governors, victory over their enemies, and much increase and prosperity; and this in a manner so miraculous, that it is described, 4-12, by allusions to the deliverance from Egypt.

ASK ye ^a of the LORD ^b rain ^c in the time of the latter rain; so the LORD shall make ^d bright clouds, and give them showers of rain, to every one grass in the field.

2 For the ^e idols ^f have spoken vanity, and the

* Jer. xiv. 22.—Deut. xi. 14.—Job. xxix. 28. Joel ii. 28.—Or, lightnings. Jer. x. 13.—Jer. x. 8. Hab. ii. 18.—Heb. terephim.

Verse 1. Ask ye of the Lord rain] Rain in the due seasons, was so essential to the fertility of the land, and the well-being of the people, that it stands well among the chief of God's mercies; and the promise of it here shows that God designs to insure the prosperity promised, by using those means by which it is promoted.

Verse 2. The idols have spoken vanity] This is spoken of the Jews, and must refer to the idolatry practised before the captivity, for there were no idols after.

Therefore they went their way] They were like a flock diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they ^g comfort in vain: therefore they went their way as a flock, they ^h were troubled, ⁱ because there was no shepherd.

3 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds,

Judg. xvii. 5.—Job. xlii. 4.—Or, answered that, &c.—Ezek xxxiv. 5.

that had no shepherd, shifting from place to place, and wandering about in the wilderness, seeking for pasture, wherever they might find it.

Verse 3. Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds] Bad kings and bad priests. I will punish the goats; these were the wicked priests, who were shepherds by their office, and goats by the impurity of their lives.

As his goodly horse in the battle.] The honourable war horse, or the horse that carried the general's equipage.

Verse 4. Out of him came forth the corner] This is *and I^b punished the goats: for the Lord of hosts hath visited his flock the house of Judah, and ^dhath made them as his goodly horse in the battle.

4 Out of him came forth * the corner, out of him the 'nail, out of him the battle bow, out of him every oppressor together.

5 And they shall be as mighty men, which * tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and ^bthe riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and ⁱI will bring them again to place them; for I ^jhave mercy upon them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and ^kwill hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be like a mighty man, and their ⁱheart shall rejoice as through wine: yea,

*Ezek. xxxiv. 16.—^b Heb. visited upon.—^c Luke i. 68.—^d Cant. i. 9.—^e Num. xxiv. 17. 1 Sam. xiv. 38. Isa. xix. 13.—^f Isa. xxii. 23.—^g Ps. xviii. 42.—^h Or, they shall make the riders or horses ashamed.—ⁱ Jer. iii. 18. Ezek. xxxvii. 21.—^j Hos. i. 7.—^k Ch.

spoken of the tribe of Judah; all strength, counsel, and excellence came from that tribe. The corner stone, the ornament and completion of the building; the nail by which the tents were fastened, and on which they hung their clothes, armour, &c.; the battle bow, the choicest archers.

Every oppressor together.] Those heroes and generals, by whom, under God, their foes should be totally routed. Newcome translates, "Every ruler together."

Verse 5. They shall be as mighty men] The Macabees and their successors.

Riders on horses.] The Macedonians, who opposed the Macabees, and had much cavalry; whereas the Jews had none, and even few weapons of war; yet they overcame these horsemen.

Verse 6. I will strengthen the house of Judah] I doubt whether the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth verses are not to be understood of the future ingathering of the Jews in the times of the gospel.

Verse 7. Ephraim shall be like a mighty man] This tribe was always distinguished for its valour.

Verse 8. I will hiss for them] "I will shriek for them;" call them with such a shrill strong voice, that they shall hear me, and find that it is the voice of their redemption.

their children shall see it, and be glad; their heart shall rejoice in the Lord.

8 I will * hiss for them, and gather them; for I have redeemed them: * and they shall increase as they have increased.

9 And * I will sow them among the people: and they shall * remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again.

10 * I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assyria; and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon; and * place shall not be found for them.

11 * And he shall pass through the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deeps of the river shall dry up: and * the pride of Assyria shall be brought down, and * the sceptre of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the Lord: and * they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the Lord.

xiii. 9.—¹ Ps. civ. 15. Ch. ix. 15.—² Isa. v. 26.—³ Isa. xlix. 19. Ezek. xxxvi. 37.—⁴ Hos. ii. 21.—⁵ Deut. xxx. 1.—⁶ Isa. xl. 11, 16. Hos. xi. 11.—⁷ Isa. xlix. 20.—⁸ Isa. xl. 15, 16.—⁹ Isa. xiv. 25.—¹⁰ Ezek. xxx. 18.—¹¹ Mic. iv. 5.

Verse 9. I will sow them among the people] Wherever they have been dispersed, my voice in the preaching of the gospel shall reach them.

Verse 10. Out of the land of Egypt] I will bring them out of all the countries where they have been dispersed, and bring them back to their own land; and they shall be so numerous that they shall scarcely find there, in all its length and breadth, a sufficiency of room.

Verse 11. And he shall pass through the sea] Here is an allusion to the passage of the Red Sea, on their coming out of Egypt, and to their crossing Jordan, when they went into the promised land; the waves or waters of both were dried up, thrown from side to side, till all the people passed safely through.

Verse 12. I will strengthen them in the Lord] I, the God of Israel, will strengthen them in the Lord—Jesus, the Messiah.

They shall walk up and down in his name] In the name of the Messiah. The Jews shall have complete liberty; they shall appear everywhere as a part of the flock of Christ, and no difference be made between them and the converted Gentiles. They shall be all one fold, under one Shepherd and Bishop of all souls.

CHAPTER XI.

The commencement of this chapter relates to the destruction of Jerusalem and the Jewish polity, probably by the Babylonians; at least in the first instance, as the fourth verse speaks of the people thus threatened as the prophet's charge, 1-6. The prophet then gives an account of the manner in which he discharged his office, and the little value that was put on his labours. And this he does by symbolical actions, a common mode of instruction with the ancient prophets, 7-14. After the prophet, on account of the unsuccessfulness of his labours, had broken the crooks which were the true badges of his pastoral office (to denote the annulling of God's covenant with them, and their consequent divisions and dispersions), he is directed to take instruments calculated to hurt and destroy, perhaps an iron crook, scrip, and stones, to express by these symbols the judgments which God was about to inflict on them by wicked rulers and guides, who should first destroy the flock, and in the end be destroyed themselves, 15-17. Let us now view this prophecy in another light, as we are authorized to do by Scripture (Matt. xxvii. 7). In this view the prophet, in the person of the Messiah, sets forth the ungrateful returns made to him by the Jews, when he undertook the office of a shepherd in guiding and governing them; how they rejected him, and valued him and his labours at the mean and contemptible price of thirty pieces of silver, the paltry sum for which Judas betrayed him. Upon which he threatens to destroy their city and temple; and to give them up to the hands of such guides and governors as should have no regard to their welfare.

OPEN thy doors, O Lebanon, that the fire may devour thy cedars.

2 Howl, fir tree; for the cedar is fallen; because the ^b mighty is spoiled: howl, O ye oaks of Bashan; ^c for ^d the forest of the vintage is come down.

3 There is a voice of the howling of the shepherds; for their glory is spoiled: a voice of the roaring of young lions; for the pride of Jordan is spoiled.

4 Thus saith the LORD my God; ^e Feed the flock of the slaughter.

5 Whose possessors slay them, and ^f hold themselves not guilty: and they that sell them ^g say, Blessed be the LORD; for I am rich: and their own shepherds pity them not.

6 For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but lo, I will ^h deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

7 And I will ⁱ feed the flock of slaughter, ^j even you, ^k O poor of the flock. And I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, the other I called ^l Bands; and I fed the flock.

8 Three shepherds also I cut off ^m in one month; and my soul ⁿ loathed them, and their soul also abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feed you: ^o that that dieth, let it die: and that that is to be cut off, let it be cut off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh ^p of another.

10 And I took my staff, ^q even Beauty, and cut it asunder, that I might break my covenant which I had made with all the people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and ^r so ^s the poor of the flock that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the LORD.

12 And I said unto them, ^t If ye think good, give me my price, and if not, forbear. So they ^u weighed for my price thirty ^v pieces of silver.

13 And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the ^w potter: a goodly price that I was prized at of them. And I took the thirty ^x pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD.

14 Then I cut asunder mine other staff, ^y even Bands, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 And the LORD said unto me, ^z Take unto thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For, lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, ^{aa} which shall not visit those that be ^{ab} cut off, neither shall seek the young one, nor heal that that is broken, nor ^{ac} feed that that standeth still: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

17 ^{ad} Woe to the idol shepherd that leaveth the flock! the sword shall be upon his arm, and upon his right eye: his ^{ae} arm shall be clean dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

^a Ch. x. 10.—^b Or, gallants.—^c Isa. xxxii. 12.—^d Or, the defended forest.—^e Ver. 7.—^f Jer. li. 3. l. 7.—^g Deut. xxix. 19. Hos. xii. 8.—^h Heb. make to be found.—ⁱ Ver. 4.—^j Or, verily the poor.—^k Zeph. iii. 12. Matt. xi. 5.—^l Or, Binders.—^m Hos. v. 7.—ⁿ Heb. was straitened for them.—^o Jer. xv. 2. xlii. 11.—^p Heb. of his fellow, or neighbour.—^q Or, the poor of the flock, &c., certainly knew.—^r Zeph. iii. 12. Ver. 7.—^s If it be good in your eyes.—^t Matt. xxvi. 15. See Exod. xxi. 32.—^u Matt. xxvii. 9, 12.—^v Or, Binders.—^w Ezek. xxxiv. 2, 3, 4.—^x Or, hidden.—^y Or, bear.—^z Jer. xxiii. 1. Ezek. xxxiv. 2. John x. 12, 13.—^{aa} Ps. x. 5.

Verse 1. Open thy doors, O Lebanon] Lebanon signifies the temple, because built of materials principally brought from that place.

Verse 2. Howl, fir tree] This means to point out the fall and destruction of all the mighty men.

Verse 3. Young lions] Princes and rulers. By shepherds, kings or priests may be intended.

Verse 4. Feed the flock of the slaughter.] This people resemble a flock of sheep fattened for the shambles; feed—instruct, this people who are about to be slaughtered.

Verse 5. Whose possessors] Governors and false prophets, slay them, by leading them to those things that will bring them to destruction.

And they that sell them] Give them up to Molatry; and bless God, strange to tell, that they get secular advantage by the establishment of this false religion.

Verse 6. For I will no more pity] I have determined to deliver them into the hands of the Chaldeans.

Verse 7. And I will feed the flock of slaughter] I showed them what God had revealed to me relative to the evils coming upon the land; and I did this the more especially for the sake of the poor of the flock.

Two staves] Two shepherd's crooks. One I called Beauty—that probably by which they marked the sheep; dipping the end into vermilion, or some red liquid.

The other I called Bands] Probably that with the hook or crook at the head of it, by which the shepherd was wont to catch the sheep by the horns or legs, when he wished to bring any to hand.

And I fed the flock.] These two rods show the beauty and union of the people, while under God as their Shepherd.

Verse 8. Three shepherds also I cut off in one month] Some think the three shepherds mean the three Maccabees, Judas, Jonathan, and Simon; others, the three last princes of the Amonean race, Alexander, Hyrcanus, and Antigonus.

Perhaps three orders may be intended: 1. The priesthood. 2. The dictatorship, including the Scribes, Pharisees, &c. 3. The magistracy, the great sanhedrin, and the smaller councils. These were all annihilated by the Roman conquest.

Verse 9. I will not feed you] I shall instruct you no longer; some of you are appointed to death by famine; others, to be cut off by the sword; and others of you, to such desperation that ye shall destroy one another.

Verse 10. I took my staff—Beauty, and cut it asunder] And thus I showed that I determined no longer to preserve them in their free and glorious state. And thus I broke my covenant with them, which they had broken on their part already.

Verse 11. So the poor of the flock] The pious, who attended to my teaching, saw that this was the word—the design, of God.

Verse 12. If ye think good, give me my price] "Give me my hire." Thirty pieces of silver were the price of a slave Exod. xxi. 32.

Verse 13. And the Lord said unto me, Cast it unto the potter] Jehovah calls the price of his prophet his own price; and commands that it should not be accepted, but given to a potter, to foreshadow the transaction related. Matt. xxvii. 7.

See notes on Matt. xxvii. 9, where I have examined the evidence for the reading of "Zechariah the prophet," instead of "Jeremiah."

Verse 15. The instruments of a foolish shepherd.] Such as a bag without bread, a scrip without measure, and a staff without a hook, &c.; things that were needless or of no use; to point out the Jewish pastors, who took no care of the flock, but devoured them, or ruled them with force and with cruelty.

Verse 16. I will raise up a shepherd in the land] Some wicked king; and Newcome supposes Hoshea may be meant.

Verse 17. Woe to the idol shepherd] The shepherd in name and office, but not performing the work of one. "The worthless shepherd."

The sword shall be upon his arm] Punishment shall be executed upon the wicked Jews, and especially their wicked kings and priests.

Arm—the secular power; right eye—the ecclesiastical state.
His arm shall be clean dried up] The secular power shall be broken, and become utterly inefficient.

His right eye shall be utterly darkened.] Prophecy shall be restrained; and the whole state, ecclesiastical and civil, shall be so completely eclipsed, that none of their functions shall be performed.

CHAPTER XII.

The first part of this chapter, with several passages in chap. xiv., relates to an invasion that shall be made on the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem in the latter ages of the world, some time after the restoration and settlement of the Jews in their own land. It also describes, in very magnificent terms, the signal interposition of God in their favour. From this the prophet proceeds in the latter part of the chapter, 10-14, to describe the spiritual mercies of God in converting his people; and gives a very pathetic and affecting account of the deep sorrow of that people, when brought to a sense of their great sin in crucifying the Messiah, comparing it to the sorrow of a parent for his first-born and only son, or to the lamentations made for Josiah in the valley of Megiddon (2 Chron. xxxv. 24, 25). A deep retired sorrow, which will render the mourners for a season insensible to all the comforts and enjoyments of the most endearing society.

THE burden of the word of the LORD for Israel, saith the LORD, "which stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and formeth the spirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jerusalem "a cup of "trembling unto all the people round about, "when they shall be in the siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem.

3 "And in that day will I make Jerusalem "a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the LORD, "I will smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, "The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts their God.

6 In that day will I make the governors of Judah "like a hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf; and they shall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The LORD also shall save the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem do not magnify themselves against Judah.

8 In that day shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and "he that is "feeble among them at that day shall be as David; and the house of David shall be as God, as the angel of the LORD before them.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to "destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 "And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and supplications: and they shall "look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourn for him, "as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him, as one that is in bitterness for his first-born.

11 In that day shall there be a great "mourning in Jerusalem, "as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

* Isa. xlii. 5. xlii. 24. xlv. 12, 18. xlviii. 13.—Num. xvi. 22. Eccles. xii. 7. Isa. lvii. 16. Heb. xii. 9.—Isa. li. 17, 22, 23.—^a Or, slumber, or poison.—^b Or, and also against Judah shall be which shall be in "siege against Jerusalem.—^c Ver. 4, 6, 8, 9, 11. Ch. xiii. 1. xiv. 4, 6, 8, 9, 13.—^d Matt. xxi. 44.—^e Ps. lxxvi. 6.

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the Lord] This is a new prophecy. It is directed both to Israel and Judah, though Israel alone is mentioned in this verse.

Verse 2. Jerusalem a cup of trembling] The Babylonians, who captivated and ruined the Jews, shall in their turn be ruined.

Shall be in the siege] This may refer to some war against the Church of Christ, such as that mentioned, Rev. xx. 9.

Verse 3. A burdensome stone] Probably referring to that stone which was thrown on the breast of a culprit adjudged to lose his life by stoning, by which the whole region of the thorax, heart, lungs, liver, &c., was broken to pieces.

Verse 4. I will smite every horse] A prophecy not yet accomplished. The terms are too strong for such petty and evanescent victories as those of the Maccabees.

Verse 5. The governors of Judah] This supposes a union between the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

Verse 6. Jerusalem shall be inhabited again] This seems to refer to the future conversion of the Jews, and their "return to their own land."

Ezek. xxxviii. 4.—¹ Or, There is strength to me and to the inhabitants &c. Joel iii. 16.—² Obed. 18.—³ Joel iii. 10.—⁴ Or, abject.—⁵ Heb. fallen.—⁶ Hag. ii. 22. Ver. 3.—⁷ Jer. xxxi. 9. 1. 4. Ezek. xxxix. 29. Joel. ii. 28.—⁸ John xix. 34, 37. Rev. i. 7.—⁹ Jer. vi. 26. Amos viii. 10.—¹⁰ Acts. ii. 37.—¹¹ 2 Kings xxiii. 29. 2 Chron. xxxv. 24.

Verse 7. The Lord also shall save the tents of Judah first] The gospel of Christ shall go from the least to the greatest. Eminent men are not the first that are called; the poor have the gospel preached to them. And this is done in the wise providence of God, that the "glory of the house of David," &c., that secular influence, may appear to have no hand in the matter.

Verse 8. He that is feeble among them—shall be as David] So clear, full, and efficient shall be the salvation of believers under the gospel, that the feeblest among them shall be as strong, as full of courage, and as successful as David when he went against Goliath. The least in the kingdom of heaven was greater than John the Baptist.

And the house of David—as the angel of the Lord] The family, the church of the true David, the Lord Jesus, shall be as the angel of the Lord; shall stand in the divine presence like Gabriel; for Christ hath said, "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

Verse 9. I will seek to destroy all the nations] This seems to belong to a period yet very remote.

Verse 10. I will pour upon the house of David] This is 12 *And the land shall mourn, ^b every family apart; the family of the house of David apart, and their wives apart; the family of the house of ^c Nathan apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the house of Levi apart, and the way in which the Jews themselves shall be brought into the Christian Church.

*Matt. xxiv. 80. Rev. i. 7.—^b Heb. families, families.

Verse 11. A great mourning] A universal repentance. As the mourning of Hadadrimmon] They shall mourn as deeply for the crucified Christ as their forefathers did for the death of Josiah, who was slain at Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddo. See 2 Chron. xxxv. 24, 25.

their wives apart; the family ^d of Shimei apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

*2 Sam. v. 14. Luke iii. 31.—^d Or, of Simeon, as LXX.

Verse 12. Every family apart] Their sorrow shall be so deep and distressing, that every one will endeavour to avoid another, and vent his grief and distress of soul in private. And even husbands and wives shall separate from each other in this general mourning, as they were obliged to do by law in certain circumstances. See 1 Cor. vii. 5, and the note there.

CHAPTER XIII.

After the humiliation and conversion of the Jews, foretold in the preceding chapter, they are here promised the full pardon of their sins, and a deliverance from idolatry and false prophets, 1-6. Prophecy concerning the death of the Messiah, and the persecution of his disciples, 7. The remaining verses may refer to those Jewish converts to Christianity who survived the calamities which their country suffered from the Romans, 8, 9.

IN *that day there shall be ^b a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for ^c uncleanness.

2 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will ^d cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause ^e the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him ^f shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that ^g the

*Ch. xii. 8.—^b Heb. ix. 14. 1 Pet. i. 19. Rev. i. 5.—^c Heb. separation for uncleanness.—^d Exod. xxiii. 13. Josh. xxiii. 7. 1's. xvi. 4. Ezek. xxx. 13. Hos. ii. 17. Mic. v. 12, 13.—^e 2 Pet. ii. 1.—^f Deut. xlii. 6, 8. xviii. 20.—^g Mic. iii. 6, 7.—^h 2 Kings i. 8. Isa.

Verse 1. In that day there shall be a fountain opened] This chapter is a continuation of the preceding, and should not have been separated from it.

A fountain] The source of mercy in Christ Jesus; perhaps referring to the death he should die, and the piercing of his side, when blood and water issued out.

To the house of David] To David's family, and such like persons as it included.

Inhabitants of Jerusalem] These were the worst of the human race; and if he died for them, none need despair. They rejected, betrayed, crucified, slew, and blasphemed Christ, and afterwards persecuted his followers. For these he died! Yes; and he tasted death for EVERY MAN.

For sin and for uncleanness.] For the removal of the guilt of sin, and for the purification of the soul from the uncleanness or pollution of sin.

Verse 2. I will cut off the names of the idols] There shall not only be no idolatry, but the very names of the idols shall be forgotten, or be held in such abhorrence that no person shall mention them.

I will cause the prophets] All false teachers.

And the unclean spirit] That which leads to impurity, the spirit of divination; the lust of the flesh, and of the eye, and the pride of life.

Verse 3. When any shall yet prophesy] Falsely; such shall be the horror of such an evil, that there shall be no toleration of it.

Verse 4. Neither shall they wear a rough garment] A rough garment made of goats' hair, coarse wool, or the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither shall they wear ^a a rough garment ^b to deceive:

5 ^c But he shall say, I am no prophet, I am an husbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

6 And ^d one shall say unto him, What are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends.

7 Awake, O sword, against ^e my Shepherd, and against the man ^f that is my Fellow, saith the LORD of hosts: ^g smite the Shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon ^h the little ones.

xx. 2. Matt. iii. 4.—^a Heb. a garment of hair.—^b Heb. to lie.—^c Amos vii. 14.—^d Isa. xl. 11. Ezek. xxxiv. 23.—^e John x. 30. xiv. 10, 11. Phil. ii. 6.—^f Matt. xxvi. 31. Mark xiv. 27.—^g Matt. xviii. 10, 14. Luke xii. 32.

coarse pile of the camel, was the ordinary garb of God's prophets. John Baptist had a garment of this kind.

Verse 5. But he shall say, I am no prophet] This must be the case of a false prophet or diviner, who had been obliged to give up his infamous practice, and become even a labourer in the land.

Verse 6. What are these wounds in thine hands?] Marks which he had received in honour of his idols. But he shall excuse himself by stating that he had received these marks in his own family; when, most probably, they had been dedicated to some of those idols. I do not think that these words are spoken at all concerning Jesus Christ. I have heard them quoted in this way; but I cannot hear such an application of them without horror.

Verse 7. Awake, O sword, against my Shepherd] This is generally understood of Jesus Christ. The sword is that of divine justice, which seemed to have been long asleep, and should long ago have struck either MAN or his SUBSTITUTE the Messiah. Jesus is here called God's Shepherd, because he had appointed him to feed and govern, as well as to save the whole lost world.

The man that is my Fellow] Veal geber amithi, "upon the strong man," or, "the hero that is with me:" my neighbour. "The Word was God, and the Word was with God;" John i. 1. "I and my Father are ONE;" John x. 30.

Smite the Shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered ^h this is quoted by one Lord Matt. xxi. 46.

And I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.] And so

8 And it shall come to pass, *that in all the land, saith the LORD, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; * but the third shall be left therein.*

9 And I will bring the third part ^bthrough the fire, and will ^crefine them as silver is refined,

* Rom. xi. 5.—^b Isa. xlviii. 10.—^c 1 Pet. i. 6, 7.—^d Ps. l. 15. xci. 15. Ch. x. 6.

this little flock was most wondrously preserved, and has been increasing from year to year from that time to the present day.

Verse 8. Two parts therein shall be cut off] In the war with the Romans.

But the third shall be left] Those who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ shall be preserved alive; and not one of these perished in the siege, or afterwards, by those wars.

Verse 9. I will bring the third part through the fire] The and will try them as gold is tried: * they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: * I will say, It is my people; and they shall say, The LORD is my God.

* Ps. cxliv. 15. Jer. xxx. 22. Ezek. xi. 20. Hos. ii. 23. Ch. viii. 8.

Christian Church shall endure a great fight of affliction, by which they shall be refined—not consumed.

They shall call on my name] In this way shall they offer all their prayers and supplications to God.

I will say, It is my people] The church that I have chosen in the place of the Jews who have filled up the measure of their iniquity.

And they shall say, The Lord is my God.] And this communion shall be established between me and them for ever.

CHAPTER XIV.

The commencement of this chapter relates to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, and to the calamities consequent on that event. From this great Jewish tragedy the prophet immediately passes to the utter extermination of the enemies of Christianity in the latter days. God will display his power in behalf of his people in a manner so astonishing and miraculous that even they themselves, and much more their enemies, shall be struck with terror, 4, 5. The national prosperity of the Jews shall then be permanent and unmixed, 6, 7; and these people shall be made the instruments of converting many to the faith of the Messiah, 8, 9. The great increase and prosperity of the Christian church, the New Jerusalem, is then described in terms accommodated to Jewish ideas; and the most signal vengeance denounced against all her enemies, 10-19. From that happy period God's name will be honoured in every thing, and his worship every where most reverently observed, 20, 21.

BEHOLD, * the day of the LORD cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 For ^bI will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and ^cthe houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the LORD go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

4 And his feet shall stand in that day ^dupon the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, * and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and halt of it toward the south.

5 And ye shall flee to the valley of 'the mountains; * for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from before the ^bearthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the LORD my God shall come, and ^call the saints with thee.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, ^ethat the light shall not be ^fclear, nor ^gdark:

7 But ^hit shall be ⁱone day ^jwhich shall be known to the LORD, not day, nor night: but it shall come to pass, that at ^kevening time it shall be light.

8 And it shall be in that day, that living ^lwaters

* Isa. xlii. 9. Joel ii. 31. Acts ii. 20.—^b Joel iii. 2.—^c Isa. xlii. 16.

—^d See Ezek. xl. 23.—^e Joel iii. 12, 14.—^f Or, my mountains.—^g Or, when he shall touch the valley of the mountains to the place he separated.—^h Amos i. 1.—ⁱ Matt. xvi. 27. xxiv. 30, 31. xxv. 31. Jude 14.—^j Joel iii. 11.—^k That is, it shall not be clear in some places, and dark in other places of the world.—^l Heb. precious.—^m Heb. thick-ness.—ⁿ Or, the day shall be one.—^o Rev. xxii. 5.—^p Matt. xxiv. 36.—^q Isa. xxx. 26. lx. 19, 20. Rev. xxi. 23.—^r Ezek. xlvii. 1. Joel iii. 18. Rev. xlii. 1.

Verse 1. Behold, the day of the Lord cometh] This appears to be a prediction of that war in which Jerusalem was finally destroyed, and the Jews scattered all over the face of the earth; and of the effects produced by it.

Verse 2. I will gather all nations] The Romans, whose armies were composed of all the nations of the world.

The residue of the people shall not be cut off] Many were preserved for slaves, and for exhibition in the provincial theatres.

Verse 3. Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations] Against the Romans, by means of the northern nations; who shall destroy the whole empire of this once mistress of the world. But this is an obscure place.

Verse 4. And his feet shall stand] He shall appear in full possession of the place, as a mighty conqueror.

And the Mount of Olives shall cleave] Some refer this to the destruction of the city by the Romans. It was on the Mount of Olives that Titus posted his army to batter Jerusalem. It was from this mountain that our Lord beheld Jerusalem, and predicted its future destruction, Luke xix. 41, with Matt. xxiv. 28; and it was from this mountain that he ascended to heaven (Acts i. 12), utterly leaving an ungrateful and condemned city.

And half of the mountain shall remove] I think that these words refer to the lines of circumvallation, to intrenchments, redoubts, &c., which the Romans made while carrying on the siege of this city; and particularly the lines or trenches which the army made on Mount Olivet itself.

Azal] This, as a place, is not known. If a place, it was most probably near to Jerusalem: and had its name from that circumstance.

Verse 6. The light shall not be clear, nor dark] Metaphorically, there will be a mixture of justice and mercy in all this; or a bright light and darkness. Mercy shall triumph over judgment.

shall go out from Jerusalem: half of them toward the ^a former sea, and half of them toward the hinder sea: in summer and in winter shall it be.

9 And the LORD shall be ^b King over all the earth: in that day shall there be ^c one LORD, and his name one.

10 All the land shall be ^d turned ^e as a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem; and it shall be lifted up, and ^f inhabited ^g in her place, from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, ^h and from the tower of Hananeel, unto the king's wine-presses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be ⁱ no more utter destruction; ^j but Jerusalem ^k shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all the people that have fought against Jerusalem; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that ^l a great tumult from the LORD shall be among them; and they shall lay hold every one on the hand of his neighbour, and ^m his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And ⁿ Judah also shall fight ^o at Jerusalem; ^p and the wealth of all the heathen round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance.

^a Or, eastern. Joel ii. 20.—^b Dan. ii. 44. Rev. xi. 15.—^c Eph. iv. 5, 6.—^d Or, compassed.—^e Isa. xl. 4.—^f Ch. xii. 6.—^g Or, shall abide.—^h Neh. iii. 1. xii. 31. Jer. xxxi. 38.—ⁱ Jer. xxxi. 40.—^j Jer. xxxi. 6.—^k Or, shall abide.—^l Sam. xiv. 15, 20.—^m Judg. vii. 22.—ⁿ Chron. xx. 23. Ezek. xxxviii. 21.—^o Or, thou also, O Judah, shalt.—^p Or, against.—^q Ezek. xxxix. 10, 17, &c.—^r Ver. 12.—^s Isa. lx.

Verse 7. At evening time it shall be light] At the close of this awful visitation, there shall be light. The light of the glorious gospel shall go forth from Jerusalem; and next, from the Roman empire to every part of the earth.

Verse 8. Living waters shall go out] There shall be a wide diffusion of divine knowledge, and of the plan of human salvation.

The former sea, and—the hinder sea] The Dead Sea and the Mediterranean; see on Joel ii. 20.

In summer] In time of drought; or in the countries where there was no knowledge of God; there shall those waters flow. The stream shall never cease; it shall run in summer as well as winter.

Verse 9. And the Lord shall be King] When this universal diffusion of divine knowledge shall take place.

One Lord, and his name one] There shall be in those blessed days only one religion, and one form of religion. There shall not be gods many, and lords many.

Verse 10. All the land shall be turned as a plain] Or rather, "He shall encompass the whole land as a plain." He shall cast his defence all around it; from Geba, in Benjamin, north of Jerusalem (Josh. xxi. 17); to Rimmon in Judah, to the south of Jerusalem, Josh. xv. 32.

And inhabited in her place] Jerusalem shall be rebuilt in the very place in which it originally stood.

Verse 11. There shall be no more utter destruction] After this final restoration of Jerusalem it shall never more be destroyed; but as this was the first city of the living God upon earth, so shall it be the last; it shall be safely inhabited. It shall see war no more.

Verse 12. And this shall be the plague] All her enemies shall be destroyed.

Verse 13. A great tumult from the Lord] Among those enemies of his church, who shall engage and destroy each other.

Verse 14. And Judah also shall fight] They shall have 15 And ^q so shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts that shall be in these tents, as this plague.

16 And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even ^r go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep ^s the feast of tabernacles.

17 And it shall be, that whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, ^t that ^u have no rain; there shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite the heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

19 This shall be the ^v punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all nations that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there be upon the ^w bells of the horses, ^x HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD; and the pots in the LORD's house shall be like the bowls before the altar.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be holiness unto the LORD of hosts: and all they that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shall be no more the ^y Canaanite in ^z the house of the LORD of hosts.

6, 7, 9. lxvi. 23.—^a Lev. xxiii. 34, 43. Deut. xvi. 13, 16. Neh. viii. 14. Hos. xii. 9. John vii. 2.—^b Isa. lx. 12.—^c Heb. upon whom there is not.—^d Deut. xi. 10.—^e Or, sun.—^f Or, bridles.—^g Isa. xxiii. 18.—^h Isa. xxxv. 8. Joel iii. 17. Rev. xxi. 27. xxii. 15.—ⁱ Eph. ii. 19, 20, 21, 22.

little else to do than take the spoil, the wealth of all the heathen round about; gold, silver, and apparel.

Verse 15. So shall be the plague of the horse, o' the mule] There shall be plagues on the substance of the enemies of the church, as there were on the cattle and goods of the Egyptians.

Verse 17. Upon them shall be no rain] Those who do not worship God shall not have his blessing; and those who do not attend divine ordinances cannot have the graces and blessings which God usually dispenses by them. On such slothful, idle Christians, there shall be no rain!

Verse 18. If the family of Egypt] This may allude to those Jews who, flying from the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, settled in Egypt, and built a temple at Heliopolis, under the direction of Onias, son of the high-priest.

Verse 19. This shall be the punishment—of all nations that come not up] God will have his public worship established everywhere, and those who do not worship him shall lie under his curse.

Verse 20. Upon the bells of the horses] They appear formerly to have had bells on horses, camels, &c., as we have now, to amuse the animals, and encourage them in their work. The margin reads bridles.

HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD] As the gospel is a holy system, preaching holiness and producing holiness in those who believe, so all without, as well as within, shall bear this impress; and even a man's labour shall be begun, and continued, and ended in the Lord; yea, and the animals he uses, and the instruments he works with, shall be all consecrated to God through Christ.

Verse 21. Yea, every pot in Jerusalem] The utensils of the Jews shall be treated as holy, and the worshippers shall use them reverently. The Canaanite is the mercant; and where such are tolerated in a place dedicated to divine worship, that is not the house of the Lord of hosts.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET MALACHI.

CHAPTER I.

This chapter begins with showing the great and free favour which God had manifested to the Israelites, above what he had done to the Edomites, who are threatened with further marks of the divine displeasure; alluding, perhaps, to the calamities which they suffered from Judas Maccabeus and John Hyrcanus (see 1 Macc. v. 65, and Joseph. Antiq. xiii. 9), 1-5. God then reproaches his people, and especially their priests, for their ungrateful returns to his distinguished goodness, 6. They are particularly charged with sacrificing the refuse of beasts, 7-9, for which God threatens to reject them, 10, and choose other nations who will show more reverence to his name and worship, 11-14.

THE burden of the word of the LORD to Israel
^a by Malachi.

2 ^b I have loved you, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? saith the LORD: yet ^c I loved Jacob,

3 And I hated Esau, and ^d laid his mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

4 Whereas Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, ^e The LORD will be magnified ^f from ^g the border of Israel.

6 A son ^h honoureth his father, and a servant his master: ⁱ if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear? saith the LORD of hosts unto you, O priests, that despise my name. ^j And ye say, Wherein have we despised thy name?

7 ^k Ye offer ^l polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, ^m The table of the LORD is contemptible.

8 And ⁿ if ye offer the blind ^o for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor; will he be pleased with thee, or ^p accept thy person? saith the LORD of hosts.

9 And now, I pray you, beseech ^q God that he will be gracious unto us: ^r this hath been ^s by your means: will he regard your persons? saith the LORD of hosts.

^a Heb. by the hand of Malachi.—^b Dent. vii. 8. x. 15.—^c Rom. ix. 13.—^d Jer. xlix. 18. Ezek. xxxv. 3, 4, 7, 9, 14, 15. Obad. 10, &c.—^e Ps. xxxv. 27.—^f Or, upon.—^g Heb. from upon.—^h Exod. xx. 12.—ⁱ Luke vi. 46.—^j Ch. ii. 14, 17. iii. 7, 8, 13.—^k Or, Bring unto, &c.—

^l Dent. xv. 21.—^m Ezek. xli. 22. Ver. 12.—ⁿ Lev. xxii. 22. Dent. xv. 21. Ver. 14.—^o Heb. to sacrifice.—^p Job xlii. 8.—^q Heb. the face of God.—^r Hos. xiii. 9.—^s Heb. from your hand.

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by Malachi. This prophet is undoubtedly the last of the Jewish prophets. He lived after Zechariah and Haggai; for we find that the temple, which was begun in their time, was standing complete in his. See chap. iii. 10. Some have thought that he was contemporary with Nehemiah; indeed, several have supposed that Malachi is no other than Ezra under the feigned name of angel of the Lord, or my angel. John the Baptist was the link that connected Malachi with Christ. Both the Hebrew language and poetry had declined in his days.

Israel.—Here means the Jewish people in general.

Verse 2. Was not Esau Jacob's brother? Have I not shown a greater partiality to the Israelites than I have to the Edomites?

I loved Jacob. My love to Jacob has been proved by giving him greater privileges and a better inheritance than what I have given to Esau.

Verse 3. And I hated Esau. I have shown him less love; Gen. xxix. 30, 31. I comparatively hated him by giving him an inferior lot. On the subject of loving Jacob and hating Esau, see the notes on Gen. xxvii., and Rom. ix. 18.

Verse 4. They shall build, but I will throw down. We have already seen enough of the wickedness of the Edomites to justify the utmost severity of divine justice against them.

They shall call them, The border of wickedness. Among this people, scarcely any trace of good could ever be noted.

Verse 6. A son honoureth his father. I am your Father—where then, is my honour? Where your filial obedience? If I be a master where is my fear? The respect due to me.

Verse 7. Ye offer polluted bread. The priests, probably to ingratiate themselves with the people, took the refuse beasts &c., and offered them to God; and thus the sacrificial ordinances were rendered contemptible.

Verse 8. Offer it now unto thy governor. Pechath, a word

10 Who is there even among you that would shut the doors for nought? * neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought. I have no pleasure in you, saith the LORD of hosts, * neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For *from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great * among the Gentiles; * and in every place * incense shall be offered unto my name, and a pure-offering; * for my name shall be great among the heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 But ye have profaned it, in that ye say, * The

* 1 Cor. ix. 13.—* Isa. i. 11. Jer. vi. 20. Amos v. 21.—* Ps. cxlii. 8. Isa. lix. 19.—* Isa. lx. 3, 5.—* John iv. 21, 23. 1 Tim. ii. 8.—* Rev. viii. 3.—* Isa. lxi. 19, 20.—* Ver. 7.—* Or, whereas ye might signifying a lieutenant, or viceroy, among the Chaldeans, Syrians, and Persians; for neither at this time, nor ever after, was there a king in Israel.

Verse 10. Who is—among you] From this we learn that there was not one sincere or honest priest among them.

Verse 11. From the rising of the sun] The total abolition of the Mosaic sacrifices, and the establishment of a spiritual worship over the whole earth, is here foretold.

Verse 12. Ye have profaned it] Ye have desecrated God's worship; is it any wonder that God should cast you off, and follow you with his judgments?

table of the LORD is polluted; and the fruit thereof, even his meat, is contemptible.

13 Ye said also, Behold, what a weariness is it! * and ye have snuffed at it, saith the LORD of hosts; and ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick; thus ye brought an offering: * should I accept this of your hand? saith the LORD.

14 But cursed be * the deceiver, * which hath in his flock a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth unto the LORD a corrupt thing: for * I am a great King, saith the LORD of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

have blown it away.—* Lev. xxii. 20, &c.—* Ver. 8.—* Or, in whose flock is.—* Ps. xlvii. 2. 1 Tim. vi. 15.

Verse 13. Ye have snuffed at it] A metaphor taken from cattle which do not like their fodder.

Ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick] What was of no worth in itself, and what could not be used by its owner, was brought to God's altar, and offered for sacrifice? Was not the punishment of these wretches less than their crimes?

Verse 14. Cursed be the deceiver] Those who act thus, as they cannot elude God's notice, so neither shall they escape his curse.

CHAPTER II.

The priests reprov'd for their unfaithfulness in their office, for which they are threatened to be deprived of their share of the sacrifice (the shoulder), and rewarded only with ignominy and ordure, 1-3. The degeneracy of the order is then complained of, and they are again threatened, 4-9. The rest of the chapter reprov's the people for marrying strange and idolatrous women; and multiplying divorces, with all their consequent distress, in order to make way for such illicit alliances, 10-17. See Neh. x. 30, and xiii. 33, &c.

AN now, O ye priests, this commandment is for you.

2 * If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart to give glory unto my name, saith the LORD of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and I will curse your blessings: yea, I have * cursed them already, because ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will * corrupt your seed, and * spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and * one shall * take you away with it.

4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

* Lev. xxvi. 14, &c. Deut. xxviii. 15, &c.—* 2 Pet. ii. 14.—* Or, reproves.—* Heb. scatter.—* Or, it shall take you away to it.—* 1 Kings xiv. 10.—* Num. xxv. 19. Ezek. xxiv. 25. xxxvii. 26.—* Deut. xxxiii. 8, 9.—* Deut. xxxiii. 10.—* Jer. xxiii. 23. James v. 20.—

Verse 2. I will curse your blessings] Even that which ye have already shall not profit you. When temporal blessings are not the means of leading us to God and heaven, they will infallibly lead us to hell.

Verse 3. Behold, I will corrupt your seed] So as to render it unfruitful.

Spread dung upon your faces] Here God shows his contempt for them and their offerings.

Verse 4. This commandment] That in the first verse; to drive such priests from his presence and his service.

That my covenant might be with Levi] I gave the priesthood and the service of my altar to that tribe.

5 * My covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him * for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 * The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did * turn many away from iniquity.

7 * For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: * for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye * have caused many to * stumble at the law; * ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 Therefore * have I also made you contemptible

* Deut. xxi. 9, 10. xxiv. 8. Lev. x. 11. Ezra vii. 10. Jer. xxviii. 18. Hag. ii. 11, 12.—* Gal. iv. 14.—* 1 Sam. ii. 17. Jer. xviii. 15.—* Or, fall in the law.—* Neh. xiii. 29.—* 1 Sam. ii. 30.

Verse 5. My covenant was with him of life and peace] These are the two grand blessings given to men by the New Covenant, which was shadowed by the Old.

Verse 6. The law of truth was in his mouth] This character suits every genuine minister of God. And as the priest's lips should preserve knowledge, so the people should seek * the law at his mouth; * for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts, ver. 7.

Verse 8. But ye are departed out of the way] Ye are become impure yourselves, and ye have led others into iniquity.

Verse 9. Therefore have I also made you contemptible] and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but ^a have ^b been partial in the law.

10 ^c Have we not all one Father? ^d hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

11 Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he ^e loved, ^f and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, ^g the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, ^h and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

^a Or, lifted up the face against.—^b Heb. accepted faces.—^c 1 Cor. vii. 6. Eph. iv. 6.—^d Gen. i. 27. Deut. iv. 32. Job. xxxi. 15.—^e Or, ought to love.—^f Ezra ix. 1. x. 2. Neh. xiii. 23.—^g Or, him that walketh and him that answereth.—^h Neh. xiii. 28, 29.—ⁱ Prov. v. 18.—^j Prov.

The people despised you because they saw that you acted contrary to your functions. This has happened repeatedly since, to several classes of priests.

Verse 10. Have we not all one Father? The prophet censures the marriages of Israelites with strange women which the law had forbidden, Deut. vii. 8. And also divorces which seem to have been multiplied for the purpose of contracting these prohibited marriages.

Why do we deal treacherously? Gain the affections of the daughter of a brother Jew, and then profane the covenant of marriage, held sacred among our fathers, by putting away this same wife and daughter!

Verse 11. Daughter of a strange god. Of a man who worships an idol.

Verse 12. The master and the scholar. He who teaches such doctrine, and he who follows this teaching, the LORD will cut off both the one and the other.

Verse 13. Covering the altar of the LORD with tears. Of the poor women who, being divorced by cruel husbands, come to the priests and make an appeal to God at the altar; and ye do not speak against this glaring injustice.

Verse 14. Ye say, Wherefore? Is the Lord angry with us? Because when the lawless husband divorced his wife, he did not execute on him the discipline of the law. They kept their wives till they had passed their youth, and then put them 14 Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been Witness between thee and ^a the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: ^b yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And ^c did not he make one? Yet had he the ^d residue of the Spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek ^e a ^f godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal ^g treacherously against the wife of his youth.

16 For ^h the LORD, the God of Israel, saith ⁱ that he hateth ^j putting away: for ^k one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

17 ^l Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment.

ii. 17.—^a Matt. xix. 4, 5.—^b Or, excellency.—^c Heb. a seed of God.—^d Ezra ix. 2. 1 Cor. vii. 14.—^e Or, unfaithfully.—^f Deut. xxiv. 1. Matt. v. 32. xix. 8.—^g Or, ye hate her, put her away.—^h Heb to put away.—ⁱ Isa. xlii. 24. Amos ii. 13. Ch. iii. 13, 14, 15.

away, that they might get young ones in their place.

Verse 15. And did not he make one? One of each kind, Adam and Eve. Yet had he the residue of the Spirit; he could have made millions of pairs, and inspired them all with living souls. Then wherefore one? He made one pair from whom all the rest might proceed, that he might have a holy offspring; that children being a marked property of one man and one woman, proper care might be taken that they should be brought up in the discipline of the Lord. [The interpretation of this obscure passage is very various. Keil thinks that the "remnant of spirits" refers to man, and he regards the passage as relating to the case of Abraham and Hagar.]

Take heed to your spirit. Scrutinise the motives which induce you to put away your wives.

Verse 16. For the Lord—hateth putting away. He abominates all such divorces, and him that makes them.

Verse 17. Ye have wearied the Lord. He has borne with you so long, and has been provoked so often, that he will bear it no longer.

Every one that doeth evil. All these things show that this people were horribly corrupt. The priests were bad; the prophets were bad, the Levites were bad; and no wonder that the people were irreligious, profane, profligate and cruel.

CHAPTER III.

In allusion to the custom of sending pioneers to prepare the way for the march of an eastern monarch, the coming of Christ's forerunner is described, and then the coming of Christ himself, 1; with the terrible judgments which were to accompany that event, in order to refine and purify his people and his priests, 2-6. The following verses reprehend them for withholding the legal tithes and offerings, with large promises in case of their repentance and amendment, 7-12. The prophet expostulates with the people for their hard and profane speeches against the conduct of Providence, and declares God will one day make a fearful and final distinction between the righteous and the wicked, whose different characters are in the meantime carefully recorded, 13-18.

BEHOLD, ^a I will send my messenger, and he shall ^b prepare the way before me: and the LORD, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, ^c even, the ^a Matt. xi. 10. Mark i. 2. Luke i. 76. vii. 27.—^b Isa. xl. 3.

Verse 1. Behold, I will send my messenger. Malachi, the very name of the prophet. But this speaks of John the Baptist.

Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, ^d he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abide ^e the day of his coming? and ^f who shall stand when he appeareth? for ^a Isa. lxiii. 9.—^b Hag. ii. 7.—^c Ch. iv. 1.—^d Rev. vi. 17.

He shall prepare the way. Be as a pioneer before me; a corrector of civil abuses, and a preacher of righteousness.

And the Lord, whom ye seek. The Messiah, whom ye

*he is like a refiner's fire, and like fuller's soap.

3 And ^bhe shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may ^coffer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

4 Then ^dshall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in ^eformer years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift Witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, ^fand against false swearers, and against those that ^goppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

6 For I am the LORD, ^hI change not; ⁱtherefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.

7 Even from the days of ^jyour fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances and have not kept them. ^kReturn unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the LORD of hosts. ^lBut ye said, Wherein shall we return?

8 Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? ^mIn tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.

10 ⁿBring ye all the tithes into ^othe storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the ^pwindows of heaven, and ^qpour ^r

*See Isa. iv. 4. Matt. iii. 10, 12.—^sIsa. i. 25. Zech. xiii. 9.—^t1 Pet. ii. 5.—^uCh. i. 11.—^vOr, ancient.—^wZech. v. 4. James v. 4, 12.—^xOr, defraud.—^yNum. xxiii. 19. Rom. xi. 29. James i. 17.—^zLam. iii. 22.—^{aa}Acts vii. 51.—^{ab}Zech. i. 3.—^{ac}Ch. i. 6.—^{ad}Neh. xiii. 10, 12.—^{ae}Prov. iii. 9, 10.—^{af}1 Chron. xxxvi. 20. 2 Chron. xxxi. 11. Neh. x. 38. xvi. 12.—^{ag}Gen. vii. 11. 2 Kings vii. 2.—^{ah}Heb. empty out.—^{ai}2 Chron. xxxi. 10.—^{aj}Amos iv. 9.—^{ak}Heb.

expect, from the account given by the prophet Daniel, in his seventy weeks, chap. ix. 24.

Shall suddenly come to his temple] Shall soon be presented before the Lord in this temple; cleanse it from its defilement, and fill it with his teaching and his glory.

Verses 2. But who may abide the day of his coming?] Only they who shall believe on his name; for they that will not, shall be blinded, and the unbelieving nations shall be destroyed by the Romans.

Like fuller's soap.] Kiborith, from barar, to cleanse, any thing that deterges. Kali, or fern ashes, or such things. I doubt whether the composition which we call soap, was known in ancient times.

Verses 3. He shall sit as a refiner] Alluding to the case of a refiner of metals, sitting at his fire.

The sons of Levi] Those who minister in their stead under the N. W. covenant, for the OLD Levitical institutions shall be abolished; yet, under the preaching of our Lord, a great number of the priests became obedient to the faith, Acts vi. 7.

Verses 5. I will come near to you to judgment] And what fearful cases does he get to judge!

Verses 6. I am the LORD, I change not] The new dispensation of grace and goodness, which is now about to be introduced, is not the effect of any change in my counsels; it is, on the contrary, the fulfilment of my everlasting purposes; as is also the throwing aside of the Mosaic ritual, which was only intended to introduce the great and glorious gospel of my Son.

Verses 7. Gone away from mine ordinances] Never acting according to their spirit and design.

Wherein shall we return?] Their consciences were seared, and they knew not that they were sinners.

Verses 8. Will a man rob God?] Here is one point on which ye are guilty; ye withhold the tithes and offerings from the temple of God, so that the divine worship is neglected.

Verses 10. Bring ye all the tithes] They had so withheld these that the priests had not food enough to support life, and the sacred service was interrupted. See Neh. xiii. 10.

you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.

11 And I will rebuke ^athe devourer for your sakes, and he shall not ^bdestroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be ^ca delightful land, saith the LORD of hosts.

13 ^dYour words have been stout against me, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, What have we spoken so much against thee?

14 ^eYe have said, It is vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept ^fhis ordinance, and that we have walked ^gmournfully before the LORD of hosts?

15 And now ^hwe call the proud happy; yea, they that work wickedness ⁱare set up; yea, they that ^jtempt God are even delivered.

16 Then they ^kthat feared the LORD ^lspake often one to another: and the LORD hearkened, and heard it, and ^ma book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the LORD, and that thought upon his name.

17 And ⁿthey shall be mine, saith the LORD of hosts, in that day when I make up my ^ojewels ^p; and ^qI will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.

18 ^rThen shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not.

corrupt.—^aDan. viii. 9.—^bCh. ii. 17.—^cJob xxi. 14, 15. xxii. 17. Ps. lxxiii. 12. Zeph. i. 12.—^dHeb. his observation.—^eHeb. in black.—^fPs. lxxiii. 12. Ch. ii. 17.—^gHeb. are built.—^hPs. xcv. 9.—ⁱPs. lxxvi. 16. Ch. iv. 2.—^jHeb. iii. 13.—^kPs. lvi. 8. 1sa. lxxv. 6. Rev. xx. 12.—^lExod. xix. 5. Deut. vii. 6. Ps. cxxxv. 4. Tit. ii. 14. 1 Pet. ii. 9.—^mOr, special treasures.—ⁿIsa. lxix. 3.—^oPs. ciii. 13.—^pPs. lvi. 11.

And prove me now herewith] What ye give to God shall never lessen your store.

Verses 11. I will rebuke the devourer] The locusts, &c., shall not come on your crops; and those that are in the country I will disperse and destroy.

Verses 12. All nations shall call you blessed] They shall see that a peculiar blessing of God rests upon you, and your land shall be delightful: like Paradise, the garden of the Lord.

Verses 13. Your words have been stout against me] He speaks here to open idols and revilers.

What have we spoken] They are ready either to deny the whole, or impudently to maintain and defend what they had spoken!

Verses 14. Ye have said, It is vain to serve God] This was their teaching to the people.

Walked mournfully] Even repentance they have declared to be useless.

Verses 15. And now we call the proud happy] Proud and insolent men are the only happy people, for they domineer every where, and none dares to resist them.

They that tempt God are even delivered.] Even those who despise God, and insult his justice and providence, are preserved in and from dangers; while the righteous fall by them.

Verses 16. They that feared the LORD] There were a few godly in the land, who, hearing the language, and seeing the profligacy of the rebels above concluded that some signal marks of God's vengeance must fall upon them; they therefore, as the corruption increased, cleaved the closer to their Maker. Here is an allusion to records kept by kings, Esth. i. 1, of such as had performed signal services, and who should be the first to be rewarded.

Verses 17. They shall be mine] I will acknowledge them as my subjects and followers; in the day especially when I come to punish the wicked and reward the righteous.

When I make up my jewels] Squallah, my peculium, my proper treasure; that which is a man's own, and most prized by him. Not jewels; for in no part of the Bible does the word mean a gem or precious stone of any kind.

Verse 18. Then shall ye return] To your senses, when perhaps too late; and discern—see the difference which God makes between the righteous and the wicked, which will be most marked and awful.

In the great day of the Lord, at least, if not long before, it will be fully discovered who have been the truly wise people; those who took up their cross and followed Christ; or those who satisfied the flesh, with its affections and desires, following a multitude to do evil.

CHAPTER IV.

God's awful judgments on the wicked, 1. Great blessedness of the righteous, 2, 3. The prophet then, with a solemnity becoming the last of the prophets, closes the Sacred Canon with enjoining the strict observance of the law till the forerunner already promised should appear, in the spirit of Elijah, to introduce the Messiah, and begin a new and everlasting dispensation, 4-6.

FOR, behold, ^athe day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all ^bthe proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be ^cstubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall ^dleave them neither root nor branch.

2 But unto you that ^efear my name shall the ^fSon of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 ^gAnd ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the

^a Joel ii. 31. Ch. iii. 2. 2 Pet. iii. 7.—^b Ch. iii. 18.—^c Obad. 18.—^d Amos ii. 9.—^e Ch. iii. 16.—^f Luke i. 78. Eph. v. 14. 2 Pet. i. 19. Rev. ii. 28.—^g 2 Sam. xxviii. 43. Mic. vii. 10. Zech. x. 5.—

Verse 1. Behold, the day cometh that shall burn as an oven] The destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans.

It shall leave them neither root nor branch.] A proverbial expression for total destruction.

Verse 2. You that fear my name] The persons mentioned in the sixteenth verse of the preceding chapter; ye that look for redemption through the Messiah.

The Sun of righteousness] The Lord Jesus, the promised Messiah; the Hope of Israel.

With healing in his wings] His wings or rays shall diffuse blessings from one end of heaven to another, every where invigorating the seeds of righteousness, and withering and drying up the seeds of sin. The rays of this Sun are the truths of his Gospel, and the influences of his Spirit. And at present these are universally diffused.

And ye shall go forth] Ye who believe on his name shall go forth out of Jerusalem when the Romans shall come up against it.

But these words are of more general application and meaning, “ye shall go forth” in all the occupations of life, but particularly in the means of grace; and—

Grow up as calves of the stall.] Full of health, of life, and spirits; satisfied and happy.

day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 Remember ye the ^hlaw of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him ⁱin Horeb for all Israel, with ^jthe statutes and judgments.

5 Behold, I will send you ^kElijah the prophet ^lbefore the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord:

6 And ^mhe shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and ⁿsmite the earth with ^oa curse.

^h Exod. xx. 3, &c.—ⁱ Deut. vi. 10.—^j Ps. cxlviii. 19.—^k Matt. xi. 14. xvii. 11. Mark ix. 11. Luke i. 17.—^l Joel ii. 31.—^m Eccles. xlviii. 10.—ⁿ Zech. xiv. 12.—^o Zech. v. 3.

Verse 8. Ye shall tread down] This may be the commission given to the Romans: Tread down the wicked people, tread down the wicked place: set it on fire, and let the ashes be trodden down under your feet.

Verse 4. Remember ye the law of Moses] Where all these things are predicted.

Verse 5. Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet] This is meant alone of John the Baptist, as we learn from Luke i. 17. (where see the note), in whose spirit and power he came.

Verse 6. And he shall turn (convert) the heart of the fathers (al, WITH) the children] Or, together with the children; both old and young. Lest I come, and, finding them unconverted, smite the land with a curse, chorem, utter extinction. So we find that, had the Jews turned to God, and received the Messiah at the preaching of John the Baptist and that of Christ and his apostles, the awful chorem of final excision and execration would not have been executed upon them. However, they filled up the cup of their iniquity, and were reprobated, and the Gentiles elected in their stead. Thus, the last was first, and the first was last. Glory to God for his unspeakable gift!

END OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

